GAYS OFFICIALLY RECOGNIZED

HOUSTON — "It was the result of a lot of work and an open attitude in the Democratic Party leadership; it was an exciting moment for those of us there," were the first comments from a jubilant Lee Harrington concerning Democratic Party action at its February 1983 winter meeting in Washington, D.C. The action gave official status to a gay caucus, Harrington, local gay activist and immediate past president of the Houston Gay Political Caucus (GPC), explained to TWT NEWS. Harrington had lobbied for and witnessed the official sanctioning at the meeting.

While noting that 10% of Democratic National Committee (DNC) members must agree before a new caucus can be considered, Harrington stated, "After we had 20%, from 23 states, we stopped. I was particularly pleased that in numbers of signatures, my home state of Texas produced the second highest," he said. "California had one more, but their percentage of possible signatures was much lower.

"Al Calkin of Dallas and Scottie Scott of Austin really helped in Texas," he added.

We have cornered, at one time or another over the last two years, nearly every member of the DNC, from chairman Manatt on down," he summarized.

NEWS

The tone was set when, in the DNC's keynote address, Senator Edward Kennedy declared, "We can not and we will not, in this country, allow discrimination because of a person's race or their religion or their age . . . or their sexual orientation."

"The benefits from official Party recognition are many," Harrington continued. "The prestige and political clout—everything from inclusion on hotel and convention center Democratic Party function lists, to committee positions—all that comes with it is important, but the more practical benefits are inclusion in and access to the entire Party communications network.

"The DNC office in Washington will perform almost as our GPC office, providing everything from limited secretarial service to direct mail service. The power structure of 374 DNC members and almost four thousand 1984 convention delegates will now get routine notice of our activities," he related.

"In essence, they will be hearing, officially and regularly, that we're here to stay, and now they'll even be paying for the postage to hear it," Harrington concluded.

AUSTIN BANS GAY DONORS

AUSTIN — Two private plasma centers in the Capitol City have joined several Houston and Dallas blood plasma centers in banning gay blood donors. The temporary ban has surfaced to guard against the spread of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS), which is believed to be transmitted through human blood.

After several cases of AIDS were reported among hemophiliacs who required regular blood transfusions, the National Hemophilia Foundation called for a ban on blood donations from gay men, who have been found highly susceptible to AIDS.

TWT NEWS first learned of a temporary ban on gay blood donors in December 1982 when several Houston centers restricted gays from donating blood. The following month, several Dallas plasma centers followed suit.

The Austin Plasma Center at 2800 Guadalupe and the Austin Blood Components, 510 W. 29th, said they had been requested by the companies they sell plasma to, to enact new donor screening policies.

The Texas Regional Blood Center, 4300 North Lamar, said, however, they will "take a wait-and-see attitude until more medical research is completed on the connection between homosexuals director Janice Atkinson told the Austin American Statesman.

Austin's gay activist, Troy Stokes, said the new procedures won't guarantee that all gays won't be barred from selling their blood to the centers.

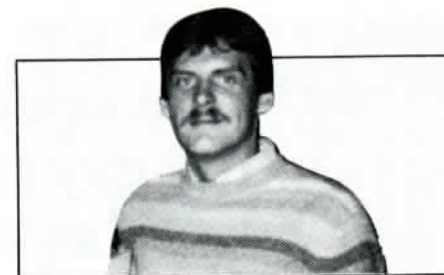

"I don't see what compels anyone to be truthful in those declarations," Stokes said. "From what I can see, the people who hang around 29th and Guadalupe are pretty desperate people."

"DON'T GET BLOOD ON MY AMBULANCE"

HOUSTON — The ending to this true story is unbelievable. It is one that Marvin "Chicken Ranch" Zindler of KTRK-TV in this city has already started to investigate, TWT NEWS has learned.

At about 1:00am Saturday, February 12, Daniel Cornelison, early 20s, of Southwest Houston, was leaving a Westheimer club. After walking north on Mason past Avondale to return to his parked car, he was rushed from behind by two hispanics while opening the car door. He was shoved into the car and stabbed in the calf of his left leg, severing a nerve.

His assailants then robbed him of a gold ring, gold chain, Seiko watch and $25. Startled and trying to fight back, Cornelison was then stabbed above the forehead. His assailants then stabbed for his throat but missed, knocking out a tooth and cutting his lip.

Screaming for help, Cornelison fell to the street as his attackers fled. Fortunately, an employee of Dirty Sally's found him after about five minutes, bandaged him and called for an ambulance.

When ambulance R-60 arrived on the scene, and Cornelison was placed inside, one of the paramedics shouted, "You're getting blood all over our ambulance!"

The victim tried to explain that he couldn't help it, that he was bleeding from his head, mouth and leg. His plea went unanswered as he was removed from the ambulance.

Much to the shock of witnesses, the ambulance then drove off without Cornelison.

Zindler's initial investigation revealed that the ambulance driver had denied the charge, explaining that Cornelison was in such a state of shock that he was unmanageable. Cornelison, however, said he was "sticking to my story for Marvin."

Cornelison was last in Twelve Oaks Hospital in guarded condition awaiting plastic surgery, David Gary of TWT NEWS reported.

BLAIR VERSUS BILLINGSLEY

DENTON, Texas — Dr. Ralph Blair of New York, founder of Evangelicals Concerned, and this city's University Church of Christ evangelist, Dan Billingsley, will meet in a debate, to be televised by PBS-TV, on the topic "that homosexual practice is consistent with

An open letter to the gay community on hepatitis B

Hepatitis B, a serious disease, may be sexually transmitted

Sexually transmitted diseases among the gay community are epidemic. Herpes has recently received a lot of attention; gonorrhea and syphilis are well known; but the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) recently issued a major recommendation for the prevention of another sexually transmitted disease: Hepatitis B. In their Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report, the CDC stated: "Susceptible homosexually active males should be vaccinated [against hepatitis B] regardless of their age or duration of their homosexual practices."

Gay men are at a high risk of contracting hepatitis B

In one study, from 51% to 76% of 3,816 gay men seen in five sexually transmitted disease clinics had evidence of past or present hepatitis B infection. Once infected, there's a 6% to 10% chance of becoming a carrier—capable of passing on the virus. The CDC estimated there are nearly 1 million carriers in the United States and that 100,000 of these carriers are gay men.

The hepatitis B virus can be passed on by contact with contaminated body fluids

such as saliva, urine, semen, and blood. The hepatitis B virus can be transmitted through tiny breaks in the skin or contact with mucous membranes. This can occur during intimate sexual contact and can lead to hepatitis B for the partner of an infected person. Although most patients recover and over half contracting hepatitis B do not get symptoms, there is no specific treatment and no known cure for hepatitis B infections.

Hepatitis B may lead to even more serious complications

For those who do get symptoms of hepatitis B, a mild or severe "flu-like" sickness may continue for weeks or months. Ten percent of all infections become long lasting (chronic) with potential complications that are sometimes more serious than those of other sexually transmitted diseases. The serious complications include the chronic carrier state, chronic active hepatitis, chronic persistent hepatitis, cirrhosis, and even cancer of the liver. Every year almost 4,000 carriers die of cirrhosis. In addition, carriers have a risk 273 times greater than that of the general population of contracting a usually fatal form of liver cancer.

Now this serious sexually transmitted disease is usually preventable by vaccination with the new hepatitis B vaccine

After more than a decade of research and development, a new vaccine is available for prevention, not treatment, of hepatitis B. In clinical studies, the vaccine was highly effective in preventing hepatitis B infection and was generally well tolerated. No serious adverse reactions occurred in these studies.

The vaccination regimen consists of a series of three injections, the first two a month apart and the third, six months after the first. To be effective, the vaccine must be given before a person gets hepatitis B. The vaccine helps prevent the disease: It is not effective as a treatment. We suggest that you consult your doctor to determine if you should be vaccinated.

For more information about hepatitis B and the vaccine to prevent it, contact your doctor, clinic, or the American Liver Foundation, 998 Pompton Avenue, Cedar Grove, NJ 07009 (201) 857-2626.

This message is brought to you as a public service by
The American Liver Foundation

Why you should consult your doctor or clinic

The vaccine helps protect against infection caused by hepatitis B virus. This virus is an important cause of viral hepatitis, a disease mainly of the liver. Even mild forms of this disease may lead to serious complications and aftereffects, including liver cancer. There is no specific treatment for viral hepatitis.

Vaccination is recommended for persons who have a higher risk of becoming infected with hepatitis B virus because of frequent, close contact with infected people or exposure to body fluids from such people. It will not protect against hepatitis caused by viruses other than hepatitis B virus.

No serious adverse reactions were reported in over 6,000 individuals receiving the vaccine in clinical trials. The most frequent reaction was soreness at the point of injection; less common local reactions included redness, swelling, warmth, or formation of a hard, lumplike spot. The local effects were usually mild and lasted no more than 2 days after vaccination. Occasionally, low-grade fever (less than 101 °F) occurred. When it did, it usually lasted no longer than 48 hours following vaccination. In rare cases, fever over 102 °F was reported.

More generalized complaints including malaise, fatigue, headache, nausea, dizziness, muscle pain, and joint pain were reported infrequently. Rash was reported rarely. As with any vaccine, broad use may reveal additional adverse reactions.

Your doctor or clinic knows what special care must be taken when administering the vaccine and in determining who should receive the vaccine. The vaccine is not intended for persons who are allergic to any of its components.

a Christian lifestyle." The debate is scheduled for this Saturday, February 26 at 7:30pm, at the Main Auditorium, North Texas State University (NTSU) in Denton.

The moderator will be Dr. Pete Gunter of the NTSU Philosophy Department, which is sponsoring the debate.

Tom Cain, chair of the Texas Gay/Lesbian Task Force (TGLTF), explained to TWT NEWS that "the debate was occasioned by Blair's pamphlet, What Jesus Christ Said About Homosexuality, which opens to reveal a blank interior."

Having seen the pamphlet, Billingsley challenged TGLTF to this Saturday's public forum. Arrangements for Blair's appearance and the sponsorship by NTSU were then arranged by TGLTF.

Billingsley has used such phrases as "a growing menace" in describing gays, calling homosexuality "a blatant and sinful lifestyle and philosophy."

The forum is free and open to the public. For further information, call (817) 387-8216.

D/FW LUTHERANS FORM CHAPTER

DALLAS/FT. WORTH — A new chapter of Lutherans Concerned is to meet later this month, hopefully to form a local chapter in the metroplex. The meeting is scheduled for 3:00pm, Sunday, February 27 at Denny's Restaurant, Hwy. 157 and Airport Fwy. in Euless.

If you are a concerned Lutheran, call Michael in Dallas, (214) 526-2553. In Fort Worth, call Dean, (817) 595-2440, TWT NEWS was told.

GAY DALLAS POLICE

DALLAS — The debate goes on in this city as to whether the police department should hire gays or not. The debate goes on in the streets, on WFAA talk radio and in the newspapers.

Writing in the Dallas Times Herald, Molly Ivins quipped, "The question becomes not whether we want to let gays into DPD but whether we want to do anything about the gays who are already on the force."

It seems probable that there are already gays on the police force in Dallas, TWT NEWS has opined, since being told repeatedly that there are 25-30 gays on the Houston police force.

Have gays ever been hired by DPD? "There are 2,006 people in DPD (should be more) and it requires suspension of the laws of probability to imagine that not one is gay," Ivins detailed.

"According to Kinsey, about 10 percent of the population is homosexual or lesbian. Being grown-ups, we are all beyond the stereotype of the limp-wristed flit. We know there are gays who are professional football players, Dallas Republicans, U.S. Marines, mothers, fathers, members of motorcycle gangs and leaders of the New Right, so who are we to assume that the DPD has somehow escaped statistical probability," Ivins deduced.

The last person DPD fired for being gay was a lieutenant a number of years ago. "I assume the reason they haven't booted anyone since," Ivins said, "is because the gay cops are (a) discreet and (b) good cops."

THRF TO FILE BRIEF FOR GSS

COLLEGE STATION — M. Robert Schwab, president of the Texas Human Rights Foundation (THRF) has informed TWT NEWS that the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans has given leave for THRF to file a friend of the court brief on behalf of Gay Student Services (GSS) of Texas A&M University, who are appealing an adverse finding by Federal District Court Judge Ross Sterling that their school was not required to extend campus recognition to GSS.

"This case is of critical importance," Schwab said, "in that denial of equal access to University facilities for gay students is unconscionable as measured by either legal or equitable standards. The issue has been widely addressed by other Circuit Courts of Appeal with generally favorable outcome. In light of Baker vs Wade, which found Penal Code Section 21.06 to be unconstitutional, I am optimistic about the ruling of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. I applaud the courage of the members of GSS in pursuing this matter and urge them to have the patience required to see the case to its conclusion," he continued.

"This marks the first time THRF has filed an amicus curiae brief in an action," Schwab noted. "Previously, THRF has underwritten legal fees or other costs incurred in a case. In the last year, a number of attorneys have become active in our foundation who are willing to donate their time for research and other legal activities," he explained, adding that it had allowed THRF "to significantly expand the scope of our activities.

"Special thanks to Houston attorney Tom Coleman, who prepared the amicus brief to be filed by THRF on behalf of GSS," Schwab concluded.

NEW DALLAS GAY PRIDE THEME

DALLAS — "Out of Obscurity . . . Into the Dream" is the official theme slogan of this year's Gay Pride Week (GPW) as selected at a February 10 meeting of the Dallas Gay Pride Association (DGPA). The phrase "Marching Defiantly" prefaced the original slogan, but was dropped from the theme last Sunday after further considerations. The original artwork accompanying the 1983 theme featured a closed fist holding a metallic Lambda emblem. That artwork was also changed and now features an open hand holding the Lambda emblem with a starburst, along with the original symbolic pink triangle.

The winning theme was submitted by Jad after having been inspired by the 21.06 decision, which freed 700,000 gay Texans, TWT NEWS learned.

GPW will begin on June 17 and conclude June 25—not Sunday as reported elsewhere, with the annual parade

HOUSTON GAY PRIDE THEME DEADLINE

HOUSTON — The deadline for submitting your theme for this year's Gay Pride Week (GPW) celebration is fast approaching.

Selection of this year's slogan will be held Sunday, March 6 at Kindred Spirits at a GPW meeting beginning at 2:30pm, Larry Bagneris, Jr. explained to TWT NEWS. The meeting is open to the public.

Themes may either be brought to the meeting or mailed to 2001 Branard #8, Houston 77098. Accompanying artwork may be included as in past years.

The chair of GPW and the chairs of the various days will also be selected during the meeting.

A large turnout is encouraged so that considerable community input might be fed in the direction of this year's GPW which begins on June 17.

GPC CELEBRATION AT SUMMIT

HOUSTON — This year's Gay Pride rally will most likely be moved from its past home of Spotts Park to the Summit, it was announced to TWT NEWS by the GPC, sponsor of the annual event.

It is hoped a "star" entertainer will highlight the celebration on the last Sunday of June after the annual parade. Political dignitaries are also to be invited.

At the February 2 meeting of GPC, the membership overwhelmingly voted to look into the feasibility of moving the rally to a more prestigious location, such as the Summit. wf

My Brother Has AIDS

Dear TWT:

Recently, I was both shocked and distressed to learn that my brother joined the rapidly growing number of gay men (along with other diverse groups) being diagnosed as having AIDS. . . .

After a nasty seven-week scuffle with infectious mononucleosis (including a relapse and 10-day hospital stay), "Jim" developed pneumocystic pneumonia, one of the quickest killers of all the opportunistic infections. Jim was put back into the hospital for another seven days, after having been out for only five. Seeing that this was getting serious, I took two weeks off from work to take care of him in his home. . . .

Incidentally, blood tests showed that somewhere along the line, Jim had experienced a CMV (cytomegalovirus) infection. CMV is invariably found in conjunction with AIDS and Kaposi's Sarcoma.

My brother and I are both gay, and, of course, have heard of Kaposi's Sarcoma, AIDS and other "gay-related" diseases. . . . But frankly, up until several weeks ago, it was all Greek to me. . . . Now, Jim and I feel that we have both taken crash courses in gay medicine.

We have both taken new looks at our lives. . . . My life could be closely compared to that of a Jack Wrangler movie. . . . Jim, on the other hand, is the proverbial "goody-two-shoes." . . .

You'll meet very few people as health-conscious and active. Not only was Jim opposed to recreational drug use, he seldom drank, and up until six months ago, had been involved in a lover-relationship of several years. Their relationship was nearly completely monogamous (nobody's perfect). In addition, Jim had never contracted any kind of social disease that would have resulted in megadoses of antibiotics—a known link to AIDS.

Many of the factors commonly or directly associated with AIDS have never even been a part of Jim's life. So what went wrong?

Probably two very important things.

Jim had two jobs for the past three years to save money to make a down payment on a house. A definite strain on the mental as well as physical aspects of anyone, no matter how healthy. (Also, his schedule most likely did not allow for decent eating habits—another "x".) . . .

The other factor, and apparently the major one, could have been the most easily avoided. Ample rest from the time Jim first contracted mononucleosis most certainly would have done away with any chance of a relapse—apparently, the straw that broke his immune system's back. This series of events, plus other factors we probably know nothing about, all add up to one thing: How do you spell serious illness? AIDS.

What I'm trying to do is make a point. Is "stereotypical" gay lifestyle a prime breeding ground for AIDS and resulting opportunistic infection? One of the best! But it's certainly not exclusive, as in my brother's case. . . .

I do realize that my brother has not been given a death sentence by any means—but he has been put on probation, so to speak. Even though he's gone back to work full-time, lymph node and upper respiratory infections plague him almost weekly. He has gained part of his weight back, and his attitude has never been anything but great (98½% of the time).

They say something good comes out of something bad. A very kind man already afflicted with Kaposi's Sarcoma has sort of taken my brother (and myself) under his wing. Even though he barely knew either of us, he found time during the day to check on Jim when I had to return to work. We are very lucky to have met him, and don't know what we would have done without his strength and caring, and we love him for it (you know who you are). What this man lacks in immunity is made up for in patience. Get well!!!!

Austin Door Policy

Dear TWT:

This isn't an easy letter to write. After reading the letter "Austin Door Policy" January 14-20, 1983, I thought of the night of October 21, 1977.

I had been invited to a party at the Driskill Hotel's disco, the Cabaret. After visiting with two friends for a while, we went into the dance area and started dancing together (2 men and 1 woman). A very nasty scene ensued and we were bodily thrown out and the shouts of faggots still ring in my ears.

I filed a complaint with the city Human Relations Commission. My two friends would not bear witness to the incident because of where they worked. Gay Community Services attorney and five gay men and women went dancing there. Everyone was immediately thrown out and we proceeded with a lawsuit. Many months later we won that case on the grounds that the Driskill Hotel did not adhere to the provisions of our city's Public Accommodations Law. That law states: No person shall be denied access to an establishment that is a public accommodation (bar, hotel, dance hall, restaurant, etc.) on the grounds of race, religion, color, age, national origin, sexual preference or sex.

I find myself in a rather unusual situation again, but in reverse. Waiting for a friend at the Back Street Basics produced a very sad and embarrassing scene. Four gay men and a woman came in and were halted at the entrance. The woman was told that the cover for her was $25 and that she needed to produce three photo ID's also. Believe me, the look on their faces was shock, but the look she gave me before they left made me feel a part of this orchestrated ploy. I have been a hypocrite, for I returned four times since that embarrassing night. My complacency has been shattered by the response letter of the Back Street Basics management. Mr. Christoff stated, "Why would anyone want to go where they would not feel comfortable?" And to top it off he chided, "In a free society such as the United States, the Constitution allows persons to run their own business the way they want to."

The first quote I once heard from the Cabaret management, the second I heard from Dr. Steven Hotze, founder of the Austin Citizens for Decency. Remember them? They were out to make sure that discrimination in housing would be legalized on the grounds of sexual preference. We are not talking dress codes, nor private clubs. The Back Street is not a private club, it is open to the public except for women. How can we justify such behavior? Would we not be outraged if this bar excluded blacks, orientals, hispanics, etc. My straight friends who fought so hard to protect my rights in fair housing are wondering why this is happening. Were these people who own this bar on the opposite side in our struggles? The most important word of "Gay Pride" is Pride. Without it we are nothing. Searching one's heart for What is Right has never been easy, has it?

Terry Harris
Austin, Texas

Back Street Basics responds:

We still maintain our door policy toward women at the request of the majority of our customers.

We remind you that Austin has many bar formats. Gay life is an alternative; and with the gay bars in Austin you have an alternative.

HCC Thank You

Dear TWT:

The Houston Council of Clubs (HCC) extends its sincere gratitude to the businesses that supported and helped to make the tenth year of "Let Us Entertain You Weekend" the biggest and most successful in its history.

We wish to thank The Barn, Brazos River Bottom, The Deep, The Drum, Eagle Leathers, The Exile, Kindred Spirits, Leather Works, Mary's, Miss Charlotte's, The Ripcord, Tim's Coffeeshop and The Venture-N.

HCC has now legally registered the name "Let Us Entertain You Weekend" and invites all gay businesses to participate in future years either through the discount coupon book or in other ways.

Active participation will include the council's permission for the businesses to use our registered name in their advertising and promotional planning. Businesses may contact HCC through any of its member clubs—American Leatherman, Colt 45's, Mustang Club, Sundance Cattle Company or the Texas

Riders.

Those businesses opting not to become an official supporter are prohibited by federal copyright statute from using our registered slogan.

18 to 21

Dear TWT:

All clubs advertised in your magazine are in Texas, which is not surprising, considering its title.

However, being 18, I am denied entrance to any of them. With the rumors of altering the legal drinking age to 21, I might as well forget about doing anything until I get out of college.

I ask that you publish a list of names and addresses of clubs in Louisiana, so we youths can have some place to go for the next four years!

James D.
Beaumont, Texas

Publishing a list of bars in Louisiana will not help, as raising the drinking age to 21 is not just a rumor in Texas—but in all of America. If the states don't pass new minimum age requirements, most likely the Reagan administration will pass a national law making 21 the legal age to consume or buy alcoholic beverages. The current campaign to stop drunk drivers has become a national priority—not just a Texas priority.

In states where the 21 age limit has become law, coffeehouses and juice bars have become the new rage. It could happen in Texas, too.

New Music

Dear TWT:

Attention, bar owners! How would you like to start a new concept in entertainment, one which would require no remodeling, a minimal outlay, would attract an intelligent, attractive crowd, and yet is perfectly legal? You would?

You might start playing New Music.

For some reason, the only music played in bars at this time is disco. I have nothing against disco, per se, just as I have nothing against big band or ragtime. And, surely as ragtime was the music of the teens, and big band the music of the '40s, disco was the music of the '70s. Disco was fun when I came out in '75. It was fun when Saturday Night Fever came out in '77. It stopped being fun in about '79, when discount stores started carrying disco clothes and "Greatest Hits" disco records. The time had come for disco to make a graceful exit from the bars. But exit it did not. It continues to thud, thud, thud right along, replete with electronic farts and E-Z listening background vocals.

Why? In some cases, it's because the bar owners will not allow their dj's to play the music of the '80s, hoping, perhaps, that they won't have to acknowledge their advancing years if they continue playing the music that was popular when they were young. My parents are like that—they still enjoy listening to Lawrence Welk. Sometimes the blame must be placed directly on the dj's. On several occasions, when I've asked them to play New Music (Lene Lovich, Yazoo, Fun Boy Three, B-52's, etc.), not only had they never heard of the above bands, some defiantly stated, "I don't play Punk!" Punk, to me, means Dead Kennedys or the Ramones, which is hardly the same thing. . . .

"But," some of you may bleat, "New disco is coming out all the time. What do you mean, New Music?" Yes, disco is still being recorded (though Lord knows why when it all sounds alike anyway). For that matter, the Glenn Miller band is still playing forty years after 'ol Glenn kicked off—but is Glenn Miller the music of the 80s? I think not. . . .

I love Houston. And, I hate to see ignorant bar owners and dj's give credence to those who say America has only two coasts worth mentioning. In this age of electronic communication, there's no excuse for Texas to be five years behind in the music being played.

Dennis Cass
Houston, Texas

HOUSTON STYLE

by Dee Smathers

One of my favorite bumper stickers states: We really don't care how you did it up North. Like a lot of Texans—no, not native; I was an immigrant in 1966—I am completely fed up with new arrivals who come to Boom Town to make money and enjoy the freedoms we have worked for and then attempt to instruct on morals, priorities, activities—in short, on our style. In the name of hospitality, we'll assume that such behavior is the result of ignorance rather than bigotry. Perhaps they just don't know about Houston Style.

Houston Style is ACTION.

Houston Style is not static or passive. Houston Style is working hard and playing harder. Houston Style is not stuffy organizational meetings or preachy seminars. Houston Style is slug-it-out politics and three-day parties. Houston Style is not quiet observation or a sedate audience. Houston Style is endless hours of practice and a thousand standing for the Chorus. Houston Style is not lawn bowling or silent spectators. Houston Style is pulled-muscle softball and beer drinking, screaming fans. (If you can't be a jock, you can be an athletic supporter.) Houston Style is not homogenous or predictable. Houston Style is as varied as each individual chooses to make it at any given time.

Before you embark on the obligatory "That will never work" lecture, let's look at a few of the things Houston Style has accomplished while our "leaders" feud among themselves and form more splinter groups than a Baptist church with an adulterous preacher. We have developed as much political clout as any gay/lesbian community in the nation. While we disco 'til we puke and brawl in C&W bars, we have a symphony and choir that would be the cultural centerpiece for many moderately-sized cities. While partying 'til dawn, we field athletic teams that compete at the national level. While scrambling for carnival beads, we support a multitude of artists, decorators and designers. While wearing cut-offs, leather or gym shorts, we keep a host of haberdashers and boutiques in business.

Houston Style is individual, contradictory and FUN! There is a place in Houston Style for almost everyone. One of the things Houston doesn't do well is supporting professional homosexuals or gay activists. We have so many homosexual professionals and active gays that we don't need them.

Houston Style is not serious about being gay, but it is serious about living gay. We really do not need lectures, or seminars, or Yankees, to tell us how to do that.

We do it well.

A GROWING PART OF OUR COMMUNITY

BWMT stands for Black and White Men Together, and was begun in January 1980 in San Francisco by a group of men concerned about segregation in the gay community there. Their response was to form a support group for those wishing to ease divisions; and now, the international organization that has arisen since continues to develop with 26 chapters around the world. BWMT of Houston was organized in November 1980 with an initial following of 20 people. Currently, we have developed a subscribing membership of 75 and have over 130 people on our telephone contact lists.

Our purpose and goals are:

1) To offer an opportunity for gay men of different races (not just black and white) to socialize together, to form friendships and provide support for on-going relationships.

2) To provide a forum to express and explore our personal feelings, supporting each other in the sharing of these experiences, with the goal of learning positive lessons from them.

3) To actively engage in the struggle for racial understanding in Houston, especially in the gay community.

BWMT is not an escort service, a cult or a political activist group. BWMT is for those who want to share a pleasing social atmosphere based on the above-mentioned goals. BWMT also wishes to work with interested lesbians to form BWWT (Black and White Women Together). As the first chapter in the nation, BWWT could promote enhanced interaction within our gay community. For anyone interested in forming BWWT in Houston, please contact Merl at (713) 747-9812 or Dennis at 926-7816. With your concern and friendship, the possibilities are endless! Please call.

ACTIVITIES OF INTEREST

1) Newsletter published monthly, by subscription.

2) $15 yearly memberships.

3) Rap groups held every other Friday evening, socializing afterwards.

4) Participation in the MSA, Texas Gay Conference, last two Gay Pride Week parades.

5) Persons speaking before our group include GPC president Larry Bagneris, Councilmember George Greanias, mayoral candidate Al Green.

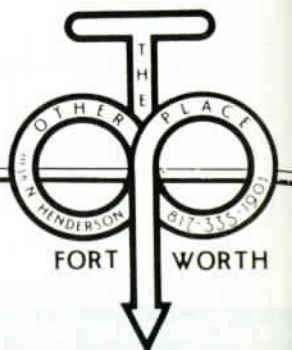

6) Hosted the Fireman's Ball at Babylon during Gay Pride Week '81, and with MSA, hosted the Juneteenth Celebration during Gay Pride Week '82.

In over two years, BWMT of Houston has NEVER been the RADICAL PROTESTING group for racial equality. We feel that we can create a better gay lifestyle by remaining POSITIVE and OPEN to EVERYONE.

GOD'S Bullies

Power Politics and Religious Tyranny

God's Bullies, by Perry Deane Young; appendixes, index; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 383 Madison Avenue, New York, New York 10017; hardcover, $13.50.

Reviewed by David Fields

No clearer analysis and exposition of the power campaigns of the Religious Right and the New Right (one and the same) has yet been written than this offering by Perry Deane Young, God's Bullies. He presents the efforts of liberal, conservative and religious leaders to effectively respond and staunch the flow of our liberties away from us. The best statements are accredited to Thomas Jefferson, whose speeches on the proper placement of religion in a democratic republic are recorded here for all to see, and cannot be denied.

Perhaps the newest feature in the literature against religious tyranny is Young's historical perspective of other attempts to keep separate religion and politics, dating back to the early 1800s. Another unique aspect Young supplies is his own small-town, Southern Baptist upbringing that enables him to recognize religio-political hypocrisy and duplicity in the most sincere-seeming demagogue. He sympathizes with the free-thinking Baptists whose ideologies center around love for others, but whose religion is associated with frenzied, strident attacks on all but the most narrow-minded.

Excerpts of this book have been published in Christopher Street magazine recently under the title, "Sleeping With the Moral Majority." A general statement was included by Young, and his accounts concerning the homosexuality of Terry Dolan, chairman of the National Conservative Political Action Committee (NCPAC). He discusses this curious phenomena of Dolan, and others at the head of the New Right movement, extensively. Other chapters in the book focus on other individuals' specific roles played by those such as Anita Bryant, Jimmy Carter, Richard Viguerie (controlling an empire in direct-mail assaults on the nation's perceptions) and, of course, Jerry Falwell.

The title God's Bullies is so appropriate and descriptive of the way James Robison and others conduct their campaigns. This is especially true for Jerry Falwell's methods of harassing those who criticize him, those who catch him in a lie. The title is also appropriate for those who use force when they have no intelligent, rational argument to persuade others to accept their way of thought. The history of other religious leaders during the Civil War becomes very interesting when one discovers how instrumental preachers had been in sustaining and inciting conditions for battle in those times.

One other item Young records is one of the last notations in the diary of Abraham Lincoln's killer, John Wilkes Booth: "I can never repent it, though we hate to kill. Our country owed all her troubles to him, and God simply made me the instrument of his punishment."

Young's writing is in clear and captivating prose. His tone is not vindictive, but aware of the traditions that began in this country, he forthrightly asserts anew what Falwell, et al., choose to ignore and cover up with their slander: anti-intellectualism, thought-control, racism, anti-Semitism, hatred and intolerance are all poisons that must be dispersed in the free-flowing marketplace of ideas, creative ideas that are the life-blood of the country.

Though many will say, "It seems so far away, these issues the book raises, how do they affect me?", the danger is ever-present, simply dormant. After one of Anita Bryant's tirades, attacks against gays increased 30% in the Dade County area, as mentioned in the last book reviewed here. Ignorant people with hate in them already, susceptible in their ignorance, fear and insanity, are whipped into action by these people. Knowledge is the key, the key to prevent further abuses and distortions people get away with every day; education is the flip-side of that key. This is Young's purpose and his success.

God's Bullies is invaluable in understanding its subject and charting our remedy for it.

QUEEN VERONIKA

Veronika Voss

Rosel Zech as the title character, a fading film star, in Rainer Werner Fassbinder's Veronika Voss.

Reviewed by George Klein

Rainer Werner Fassbinder, until his death last year, was the third in the trio of New German Cinema directors completed by Wim Wenders and Werner Herzog. These artists, while admittedly different in approach, share a florid visual sense and a radical view of relationships and political ideologies. Fassbinder is probably the most radical of them all, especially in his belief in the oppressive nature of any relationship. Veronika Voss amply displays Fassbinder's preoccupation with fluid camerawork, American directors such as Douglas Sirk and Billy Wilder, and, of course, power relationships between people on the most intimate levels. It's beautifully photographed in black and white, with strong contrasts in lighting ("Light and shadow," says Voss, "are what films are all about"). Veronika

Voss is elegantly produced, nicely acted and certainly indebted to Hollywood and at least a dozen films, but what in the hell is it?

One of the difficulties I have with Fassbinder (I've seen, roughly, about half of his 38 movies) is an aesthetic "discomfort" at his continual use of unpleasant, hyperbolic imagery and thematic material in a pointedly self-conscious way. While in no way trying to denigrate Fassbinder's obvious talents (Ali, Fear Eats the Soul shows a great filmmaker at work), I must say that Veronika Voss tries so hard for "camp" that a viewer feels overwhelmed. The story concerns a German film star who has lost the adulation of a post-war public, turns to morphine provided by a vicious hospital owner, and eventually commits suicide. In this film, as in The Bitter Tears of Petra Von Kant, Fassbinder tries to make campiness hold some sort of truth. The inflated style of Veronika Voss (Rosel Zech), the actress—reminding a viewer of Crawford, Davis and Swanson all at once—contrasts with the bitter, confused emotional state of Veronika Voss, the person. Fassbinder wants to remind us that, as an actress, her emotions have been absolved as a way of behaving that seems "real" to an audience; however, Veronika Voss—the drug addict—can never be acknowledged.

The film, unfortunately, never allows us to get our aesthetic bearings, and so the theme—what little there is—disappears. Veronika Voss opens with a romantic rendezvous between Voss and a stranger, who board a tramcar to escape a shower. Yet we soon move to a mystery-melodrama, complete with vicious doctor, and finally to cynical realism. Along the way, Voss seduces the stranger in a house complete with all the trappings found in that museum Gloria Swanson inhabited in Sunset Boulevard. The similarities continue. Veronika Voss and Norma Desmond are both forgotten stars looking for a comeback role. Both are attracted to writers. Both watch their old pictures. (In Sunset Boulevard, Swanson as Norma Desmond views one of her silent films, Queen Christie, directed by Erich von Stroheim, who plays Desmond's servant and one-time director/husband). Obviously, Fassbinder wants to make an allegory all tied together by Hollywood camp, i.e., emotions and mannerisms which, while hyperbolic, were taken as "truth." But a director, I think, must provide a basic framework to a film before (s)he posits any meaning or significance to it. Fassbinder moves in and out of so many styles (at one point, he duplicates Jayne Mansfield's milk-bottle scene from The Girl Can't Help It) that he never gets down to making a picture. Veronika Voss is a pastiche that never really connects.

THE LORDS OF DISCIPLINE

Reviewed by Paul Herrera

In the previous months more intelligent, well made, and (most importantly) enjoyable films have been released than in any time in recent memory. If the trend continues throughout the rest of 1983, it could be an outstanding year for film. A recent release, Lords of Discipline, joins the ranks of good films by intelligently stating its message without dramatic overkill.

The film is set in a South Carolina military academy during the early sixties. Will McClean (David Keith) returns to the academy for his senior year. He is asked by his mentor Colonel "Bear" Berrineau to do a special favor. The academy recently accepted its first black student; the Colonel wants McClean to protect the student from unfair harassment. McClean finds this an odd request and is reluctant to fulfill it.

McClean does not want a black student enrolled in the academy and finds the notion of him protecting the student from the rest of the student body faintly suicidal. Initially he weakly enforces the Colonel's request but intensifies his efforts as the harassment increases in severity. With the help of his roommates he uncovers the existence of the "Ten," a vigilante group made of ten cadets who have empowered themselves to use any means available to preserve the honor and dignity of the academy.

Worse yet is the discovery that the Ten are connected with the administration of the academy. Finding hypocrisy in the administration that espouses honor and democracy, yet allows the Ten to operate, Will vows to bring those responsible to justice. The Ten likewise try to rid themselves of McClean and all those involved with him.

The film beautifully captures a slice of life with a military academy. Most particularly in the humorous exchanges between McClean and his roommates and the incidents of Hell night, where the upper classmen try to break the newly enrolled cadets. It is remarkable that the atmosphere of a military academy in South Carolina was captured in this film when the bulk of it was shot in England. The film portrays the military with fairness. Set at the time of Vietnam, it makes little reference to the war and shows no anti-militaristic sentiment prevalent in most post-Vietnam films.

The film shows it is not the military institutions that are evil, but those individuals who abuse their positions. It's the film's understatement which makes the message stronger. My only regret was that the resolution was too understated; the plot near the end was weak and anticlimactic. This is a shame since most of the film builds itself up nicely to the tense confrontation between McClean and the Ten.

Some of the credit for the film's success must go to David Keith for his portrayal of Will McClean. The character of McClean is beautifully complex. Originally repelled by the idea of protecting a black student, he grows to realize that if the Ten can act unchecked, his four years at the academy are for naught. I will not be surprised if David Keith enjoys a successful movie career. Credit also goes to Robert Prosky as the Good ol' Boy Colonel "Bear" Berrineau and to G.D. Spradlin as the thoroughly despicable General Darrell.

A FREUDFUL EXPERIENCE

LOVESICK

Reviewed by Harry Deutsch

If this film is for the "incurably romantic," as the ads stress, maybe I'm incurable. The question is whether that's good or bad. Perhaps I should let my analyst decide.

After bombing with Six Weeks, Dudley Moore has switched back to terrain more familiar to him—comedy. And, given the right material, Mr. Moore can certainly be a very funny man. Unfortunately, Lovesick only makes you chuckle on precious few occasions. This motion picture, written and directed by Marshall Brickman (Annie Hall, Sleeper, Manhattan), focuses on a few days in the busy life of a prominent New York psychiatrist, as played by Moore. Mr. Brickman, I assume, has a hatred for the analytical profession so deep-rooted that I would recommend he see a shrink about it. His lead character is an inept, daydreaming, mostly non-caring "doctor of the mind" who lets his patients talk or fantasize or merely rest on his stereotypical couch, and never fails to remind them—if need be in mid-sentence—when a 50-minute session is up. Among the decidedly wacky patients is a super-nerd who firmly believes that some vicious rays are being beamed from the World Trade Center in order to mess up his brain; there is also a frustrated housewife enduring a helplessly boring mid-life identity crisis; there is, of course, the gay guy, thrown in for laughs, who's tricking with a married policeman and later gets kinky with a Viet vet; there's another paying customer who doesn't say a word in a year of sessions and then gets cut short when he finally reports of one weird dream in which he was having intercourse with his mother while his father took pictures. If Moore fails to make sense out of all the tidbits and pieces his patients throw at him, he can always check with his imaginary sidekick. None other than Sir

Alec Guinness was signed up to bring to life the ghost of none other than Sigmund Freud. Whenever Dr. Siggie shows up he tries to point Dr. Dudley in the right direction, especially after he is ready to commit the ultimate no-no for a psychoanalyst, namely falling for one of his patients. She is Elizabeth McGovern (remember the girl Tim Hutton had a crush on in Ordinary People?) who is on the verge of becoming a celebrated playwright for the NY stage, and equally on the verge of stealing her shrink's heart or sanity or both.

With a rather stale, uninspired performance, Mr. Moore doesn't help the unimaginative writing. Ms. McGovern lacks the magnetic attraction needed to make the dilemma which the doctor experiences possible as he finds himself bitten by the lovebug. Other minor parts include a brief appearance nicely played by Wallace Shawn (My Dinner with Andre); John Huston dares to show some enthusiasm as the elder, experienced therapist; while Alan King and Selma Diamond do not exactly spark what you would call memorable moments.

SHOWBIZ

by Jack Varsi

It's a bird... It's a plane... no, it's... uh... Supergirl?

LOOKING AHEAD — Did you know that Superman has a cousin in Chicago? Of course you didn't, but wasn't it inevitable after the colossal box office of the first two Superman films? Supergirl, from Superman producer Alexander Salkind, begins production this spring in London, with director Jeannot Szwarc at the helm. No, Christopher Reeve won't be playing the title role in drag, although that might have been a smart move considering all the Oscar nominations for Tootsie. Supergirl will be portrayed by Helen Slater. Don't rack your brain trying to figure out who she is—she's as unknown as Reeve was five years ago, but this time next year she probably will have acquired "household word" status. In the meantime, we can content ourselves with Superman III, which opens in a few months. . . . Come Back to the 5 and Dime Jimmy Dean, Jimmy Dean is far from big box office, but director Robert Altman was pleased enough with its critical reception and, in some cities, fairly respectable ticket sales, that he is charging ahead with new projects. His next film, Streamers, from David Rabe's play, should be out by August. Cast mostly with unknown New York stage actors, the film is set in an Army barracks during the Vietnam years. It's shooting in Dallas. After Streamers his next project is something called The Diviners, to star Treat Williams. After that, Altman plans to make a film version of a novel called Easter Egg Hunt, which is set at an English finishing school for young ladies during WWI. He hopes to star David Bowie and Geraldine Chaplin.

LIGHTING UP — I keep vowing not to go out on a limb with predictions, but here I go again. In my opinion, Ben Kingsley and David Keith are the two main actors to watch in 1983 (unless Richard Gere, Mel Gibson and Robert Redford are all cast in a porno movie together). Kingsley, who has already received several important awards and an Oscar nomination for his starring role in Gandhi, is also the star of a new film version of Harold Pinter's Betrayal, a comedy-drama about a menage-a-trois involving two close friends, played by Kingsley and Jeremy Irons (he was the male lead in French Lieutenant's Woman), and the wife of one of them, played by Patricia Hodge. . . . David Keith has already appeared in several films—Brubaker, Take This Job and Shove It, etc.—but his big break was getting the second male lead in the enormously popular An Officer and a Gentleman. Already we are about to see him in his first starring role in a new film called The Lords of Discipline. Set in 1964 at a strict military school in the South, this story of corruption and cruelty has parallels to Watergate and, by some accounts, is a real shocker.

Suzanne Pleshette and Cloris Leachman in A Mother and a Madam?

DEJA VU — Speaking of An Officer and a Gentleman: Isn't it funny how that plot keeps coming back to haunt us? My favorite version was a recent and rather abominable (but fun!) made for TV movie called Dixie: Changing Habits, which starred the incredibly beautiful and talented Suzanne Pleshette as a glamorous whorehouse madam who gets busted and sent to a convent for rehabilitation. The convent is run by Cloris Leachman (in the Lou Gossett role), playing a "cute" tractor-driving Mother Superior. I hope you saw it because it was a scream.

DOUBLE YOUR PLEASURE — I used to think that the quickest way to get to the top of the record charts was to remake a golden oldie. Look at the recording career of Linda Ronstadt; almost her entire chart life has been dependent on third-rate versions of other people's hits, and other stars have also taken that route many times. Now, however, it seems that the easiest, if not the quickest, route to the top is via duets—and we're being deluged with them! Actually, it's nothing new: Remember Barbra Streisand and Neil Diamond, Barbra Streisand and Donna Summer, Barbra Streisand and Andy Gibb etc.? Anytime you pair a couple of superstars, you're going to have a hit record. Recently we've had Paul McCartney dueting with Stevie Wonder and Michael Jackson, with spectacular (commercially) results. Dueting also seems to be the answer for some less successful artists like Joe Cocker and Jennifer Warne, whose "Up Where We Belong" (from Officer and a Gentleman) went all the way to the top. The Billboard country charts are virtually choked with duets: T.G. Sheppard & Karen Brooks are at No. 1 with "Faking Love," and not far below that you can find duets by George Jones & Merle Haggard, Dolly Parton & Willie Nelson and Merle Haggard & Willie Nelson, among others. My favorite of all the duet successes involves the current No. 1 record on Billboard's "Hot 100" chart. "Baby Come To Me," by Patti Austin and James Ingram (who?) first appeared on the "Hot 100" last spring and dropped off after four weeks, only to reappear in October, when it began its steady 19-week climb to its current No. 1 position. Slow, but successful. Incidentally, since everyone considers me to be a cornucopia of trivia, I gotta tell you this: "Baby Come To Me" is the fourth No. 1 single to be produced by Quincy Jones. The others were the Michael Jackson hits "Don't Stop Till You Get Enough" and "Rock With You," and, uh, Lesley Gore's "It's My Party."

FURTHER OUT ON A LIMB — Okay, if duets are going to be the next big thing, why can't we, the consumers, have a say in it. I personally would slide down a fifty-foot razor blade just for the experience of hearing Debbie Harry & Johnny Cash, Barbra Streisand & Bette Midler, Mel Tillis & Yoko Ono, or how about Placido Domingo & Millie Jackson. If you have any suggestions for duets, SHOWBIZ would love to include them in an upcoming column. w

TEXAS by Rob Clark

The Montrose Counseling Center and the Metropolitan Community Church of Houston have announced a special concert by Ruth Hastings and Company. The concert, underwritten and sponsored by the Diana Foundation, will be held at MCCR, 1919 Decatur St. at 8pm on Friday, March 11. Ms. Hastings told us, "We wanted to do a benefit in Houston to show our appreciation for the tremendous support we have received from the gay community. This concert will be two hours and will contain new material along with many old favorites." Tickets will be available at MCCR, Wilde & Stein, Kindred Spirits and Baja's.

Pamela Stanley

Recording artist Pamela Stanley performed at Uptown Dallas for a Valentine's show. Pamela was big in the industry some years ago, and is planning a big comeback with the release of her new album in the near future.

The Vienna Choir Boys were founded in 1498, six years after Columbus discovered America. "The Boys" have preserved their ideals to become a musical institution. They will be in Austin, February 27, at the Performing Arts Center.

The Saint of Dallas has quite an impressive list of entertainers coming up. They are: Sharon Redd, February 25; Nona Hendryx, March 4; Marlena

Shaw, March 11 and Grace Jones, March 15.

The girl that sings Jump—Shout, Lisa, will perform at the Boathouse in Austin, Sunday, February 27.

Dena Kaye and Lock, Stock & Barrel brought the house down for the grand opening of Chaps in Dallas. The club will obviously have some of the best in country music. Be sure and check it out.

The Women's Music Festival, held recently at Houston's Kindred Spirits, was a great success. Some of the best talent locally and abroad gathered under one roof for an all day and night musical affair. The performers were great; the only complaint with the show was once again with some of the audience. In Peter Allen's words, "Quiet, please, there's a lady on stage."

Kindred Spirits owner and newly-elected vice-president of GPC, Marion Coleman (l), with singer Gayle Marie (c) and Spirits' manager, Sandra Floyd.

Numbers of Houston will bring Margie Joseph to their stage after her appearance at the Colliseum downtown on Saturday, February 26 at 12:30 pm. Viola Wills appears on Sunday, February 27, at which time she will sing cuts from her new album to be released the same week. The outlandish Iggy Popp will be on the Numbers stage Monday, February 28. Admission is free on Monday from 6:00-8:00pm.

Leo Lerma

THEATRE — Mr. Leo Lerma performs Tallulah at Austin's Capitol City Playhouse March 13-15, 19-20 and 25-26. Leo will do impressions, readings and his thoughts through the eyes of Tallulah.

Les Ballets Trockadero De Monte Carlo

The notorious Les Ballets Trockadero De Monte Carlo will perform twice in Houston, Thursday, March 3 and Friday, March 4 in Jones Hall. Each of the dancers assumes several stage names, such as Adam Baum and Tamara Boumdiyeva, all of whom have biographies as funny as their performances.

The "Trocks" will give one performance at the Performing Arts Center in Austin on Tuesday, March 8 at 8pm.

Community Resource Center has bought the house for one show of Bent by Martin Sherman. The play is being staged at the Greenville Avenue Theatre. CRC benefit tickets are $10 for the March 13 showing.

Channing Players, a non-profit theatre group in Houston is currently showing their latest production called A Night Thoreau Spent in Jail. It is the story of young Henry David Thoreau, who believed "the only obligation which I have a right to assume is to do at any time what I think right." Channing Hall is located in the First Unitarian Church at 5210 Fannin. The production runs through March 5.

Macbeth will be performed in English at Austin's Performing Arts Center on March 4 and 6. The program will be conducted and directed by Walter Ducloux.

Montrose resident Brian Wycoff has selected an outstanding comedy for Houston's Theatre Suburbia. Horowitz and Mrs. Washington will run February 25, for five weekends. Horowitz and Mrs. Washington is a touching comedy about a retired Jewish man who has been mugged and slashed by a gang of blacks and also had a stroke while in the hospital. Now back at home, he is suddenly confronted by a black therapist for whom he volunteers to open a chain of concentration camps. Between the two them they eventually grow to understand one another and build a close relationship, which they use when his do-gooder daughter and son try to send him to a rest home.

STUFF — Hunky Arnold Schwarzenegger will make two personal appearances at the Houston and Dallas Video Environment locations, to promote his video-taped work-out course. He will be in Houston February 28 from 4:00-5:30pm. His Dallas appearance will be February 29 from 4:00-5:30pm.

THE REPORT

by J.E. Stanwick

We have all been led to believe and accept as fact by established medical and scientific institutions the belief that most Homo sapiens, if near normal, possess only five distinct senses: seeing, hearing, tasting, touching and smelling. This theory is confining, false and misleading! I challenge this concept because throughout my life I have been dogged by what I have come to recognize in most of our species as a SIXTH SENSE!

THE THEORY

If you have ever been tempted to do something you know you shouldn't, but do it anyway, and end up wishing you hadn't, then you have experienced the workings of your SIXTH SENSE: the Guilt Syndrome Sense!

THE EQUATION

The Guilt Syndrome Sense generally occurs as a result of four distinct mental thought impulses being performed simultaneously: Confusion, Logic, Procrastination and Greed.

In juveniles, however, a fifth mental thought impulse seems to be apparent in this process: Genuine Remorse, which usually follows Greed and precedes Punishment. It has also been known to cause Red Bottom in these particular cases.

RESEARCH-OBSERVATION

Research shows that levels of Guilt Syndrome present in the human body vary not according to age or sex, but according to job class.

Salesmen as a whole seem to be a degree or two short of normal functional levels of Guilt Syndrome. Used Car and Cemetery Plot salesmen in particular seem to suffer great deficiencies of this sense, and the partial loss of facial muscle control may be the result, as these individuals seem to exhibit unnatural smiles, continuously! The persons exhibiting levels of Guilt Syndrome higher than normal, a definite advantage in seeking possible sainthood, are: boy scouts, dedicated clergy and writers' agents.

SUMMARY

As you can see from this basic summary, the human species is a complex animal. I hope that this paper serves as a reminder that no preconceived ideas or assumptions concerning the body human can be considered final.

In closing, let me humbly state that I have been tempted to keep this information to myself; however, I know that should I neglect my responsibility to the advancement of knowledge for mankind by not contributing to it, I would most assuredly fall victim to the Guilt Syndrome Sense, by wishing I had, when in fact I hadn't. Thank you.

SMU TEA — At Southern Methodist University, some of the forward gay and lesbian students are organizing their own student group. If you'd like to be a founding member, write to Box 1636, SMU, Dallas, 75275.

NAME DROPPER — Tim "Coffeeshop" O'Rielly's professional interest in fine food has just expanded to also include the fashionable Tropicana Swim Club . . . When Rudy Rudy Rudy became "Tootsie" on stage at the Exile's recent bartender's show he not only chopped down part of Chop's stage but also rang down one of Bernice's chickens perched high atop stage . . . Billie Duncan's Off Broadway plays off Mandell on Richmond at Cripple Creek this Sunday night . . . Delightful Dee is now up and at 'em at 7am at the Ranch . . . Blond Troy of Loading Dock fame has dropped anchor with other former dockers in the depths of the Deep . . . Record man Chuck Proske is back at the Record Rack . . . And last, but certainly most—the legendary Cassandra McCory—a former TWT cover girl—has become quite unnaturally the new manager of Mary's, naturally! . . . And, at the recent Texas Film Society Movie/Video Expo at the Shamrock Hilton, TWT writer, Weldon Grahame (l), finally met his long time idol, the still foxy Mamie Van Doren. In this CRUISE CAMERA photo, Weldon is the one in glasses; Mamie is the one sleeping. A truly historical moment of infamy!

JIM'S TEA — It all started three years ago—a gym in the heart of Montrose so Houston men could conveniently shape up. As Jerry's Gym—oops, Jim's Gym—rounds the weekend into its last days of its third anniversary month, you can still save on your membership special.

OAK LAWN TEA — The much respected Oak Lawn Counseling Center of Dallas raised a whopping $17,000 at a private cocktail party held in posh North Dallas on Valentine's Day. Gay Power! Gay Money! Triumphant, again!

AUSTIN — The recent party at Dirty Sally's for the Gay Student Organization of UT brought in a big Thursday night crowd . . . If you couldn't reach the bar, many did as the CRUISE CAMERA did by reaching out for (l-r) Mike, Randal and Charlie who were making the rounds taking drink orders . . . Ernest Hernandez was the lucky winner of the Valentine night drawing for a New Orleans trip arranged through Glen at Capitol of Texas Travel . . . Guess who's back managing at The Crossroads at the gay crossroads? Brett Kline, that's who! . . . Guess who's still going to Back Street Basics? Men only, that's who . . . Songstress Lisa is set to jump, shout and light the first anniversary candle of the Boathouse—live, on stage, this Sunday night . . . THE SOURCE — Houston's Different Drum popped the antlers off their new and different Stag bar during last weekend's post Mardi Gras madness, and its opening night hot customers were exactly what the bar is called—available stags . . . In Dallas, Frank Caven's new Crossroads Steakhouse is set to open March 1 . . . In Houston, Kenneth Vance of New Mexico is the new administrative director of the Montrose Counseling Center, chair Marion Coleman told HOT TEA . . . And there's a new bar north of Montrose in the Heights called the Velvet Hammer which grand opened last Saturday thanks to owners (l-r) Rita and Julie who were formed in black and white with doorman (top) Chuck—the Hammer is pounding out a togetherness tune of men and women mixed to the beat of country, rock and disco. CRUISE CAMERA photo by Greg Havican of TWT's Houston Bureau.

MADNESS — Over 300 members of 28 clubs from 21 states, Jamaica, England, Canada and the Netherlands swooped in on the Houston Council of Clubs' tenth annual "Let Us Entertain You Weekend" from February 17-20 for post mardi gras. My God, there were lots of hot, hot men! HOT TEA fell in love too many times. No wonder the event has been trademarked and registered!

DALLAS BENEFIT — The place was The Saint. The occasion was a benefit entitled "In The Heat Of The Night" to raise money to replace the charred and melted wax of the Snake Pit which fell victim to an arsonist's torch on opening night. On hand were the Snake Pit crew (see CRUISE CAMERA photo) to receive over $2,500. Incidentally, the insurance company allowed reconstruction to begin last Monday. It must be true that the Pit is headed towards a mid-March reopening as dj Jimmy Spaulding told HOT TEA he had already ordered new Klipsch speakers. David Niven (l) was born March 1 and Tony Randall was born February 26, making them this week's Piscean Starscope stars.

The Week of February 25 - March 3

STARGAZER: Bright Jupiter is the star you can now see a few hours before sunrise. During February, Jupiter passes ahead of faint Uranus—the first time this has happened since 1969. Meanwhile, after sunset, the brilliant evening star remains Venus. After it sets, the star called Sirius sparkles as the sky's brightest.

FULL MOON: The February Full Moon occurs this Saturday morning, February 27, at two minutes before 3:00am, Texas time. Since the Full Moon occurs in Virgo, health and employment are affected. This week's STARSCOPE examines the February Full Moon in relationship to your own horoscope.

PISCES: (Feb 18 - Mar 20) The vibrant Sun entered your sign on February 18, marking the beginning of a four-week cycle when Pisceans should be feeling their typical zest for creativity. The only bottleneck in your lifestyle is marriage. Either it's the lack of a mate or the problems associated with having one that are at the heart of your Full Moon dilemma. Since this weekend's Full Moon occurs in your seventh house of marriage, it is likely that this marital situation is at an emotional zenith. A partnership—or the absence of one—is the key to your contentment.

ARIES: (Mar 21 - Apr 19) With Mars and Venus having now just entered your own sign this past week, you should be feeling your sexual oats—ready for romance at the slightest impulse. This weekend's Full Moon, however, cautions you not to let the sex hunt interfere with your job or health—two matters ruled by your sixth house, where the Full Moon currently rests.

TAURUS: (Apr 20 - May 20) It's quite likely that this weekend can find you the belle of the ball—or at least wanting to be, since the Full Moon is in your fifth house, which holds dominion over love affairs and entertainment. You are advised to avoid speculation or investing at this time. You are advised, however, to be in the middle of pleasure place, since this is where you will find the most satisfaction.

GEMINI: (May 21 - Jun 21) Your home life is due for a shake-up since this weekend's Full Moon illuminates its vibrations from your fourth house of the home. This planned domestic shake-up may be for the better as you yearn for a new address. A partnership decision weighs heavily. But, after the Full Moon passes, your decision will become clear if you rely on and listen to your inner feelings, which are highly reliable now to such a mental sign as Gemini.

GANGER: (Jun 22 - Jul 22) You are a highly communicative sign, especially when you communicate along nonverbal paths. With the Full Moon now vibrating from your third house of communication, you should be able to accomplish much through speaking and writing. But, you will accomplish even more if you rely on your own sensitive inner wiring of ESP. You can convey a thought to another by simply using mind power. Others can easily fall under your spell during this weekend's Full Moon.

LEO: (Jul 23 - Aug 22) The Full Moon of this weekend occurs in your second house, which rules money. Since Full Moons are always accompanied with emotional caution, you'd be wise to tread carefully in all financial affairs. Stick to conventional transactions, take no speculative chances, and look for pleasure in areas of little cost. "The best things in life are free" should be your motto.

VIRGO: (Aug 23 - Sep 22) This weekend's Full Moon occurs in your sign—a once a year event—making this Full Moon your most important of 1983. It is important from a personal standpoint. If there ever was a time to be diplomatic and avoid arguments in home and employment affairs, now is the time. Your personality can be strained to the limits, but others will never know because of your stoic exterior.

LIBRA: (Sep 23 - Oct 23) Now is a splendid time to plow the fertile ground of your inner self, since the emotional impact of this weekend's Full Moon illuminates from your twelfth house, which rules the inner workings of your mind. Secretive adventures and hidden plans figure heavily into the scheme of this weekend's Full Moon affairs.

SCORPIO: (Oct 24 - Nov 21) With Venus and Mars in your fifth house of love affairs, this should continue to be an exciting time for you socially. Added to this is the presence of this weekend's Full Moon in your fifth house of friendships. Consequently, the public is likely to figure heavily into your weekend plans. However, a tiff can occur at a gathering. But, your typical Scorpio sting will kill the matter once and for all.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov 22 - Dec 21) Your job environment is most likely giving you a tenth house headache because of pressures brought about by this weekend's Full Moon in the career sector of your horoscope. If you have done your job homework and have built a solid foundation, little can occur this weekend to jar your security. If, on the other hand, you have been irresponsible in your employment, this weekend's Full Moon could tear security asunder.

GAPRIGORN: (Dec 22 - Jan 19) If you are about to sign some important papers or contracts, check closely for hidden clauses that could cause future problems. If you are in school, double check your study plans so as not to put the emphasis on the wrong subject. If you are planning a trip, double check your plans, finances and schedules. All of this caution is offered because this weekend's Full Moon occurs in your ninth house which rules legal affairs, education and travel.

AQUARIUS: (Jan 20 - Feb 18) Mutual money matters need extra attention this weekend because the Full Moon is vibrating from your eighth house of other people's money. If you are involved in any shared expenses with a roommate or in any mutual finances with a partnership, take care to make only responsible decisions. You are cautioned to also use restraint in sexual pursuits. Excess is to be avoided. If possible, spend the weekend with a familiar soul whom you trust and enjoy.
