WHITE INVITED TO GPC 8TH ANNIVERSARY

HOUSTON — At the July 20 meeting of the GPC, president Larry Bagneris asked to hear a report from a sub-committee of the Political Action/Finance Committee about the proposed plans to have Texas Governor Mark White attend the anniversary banquet of the GPC as it enters its eighth year of existence in September.

During a phone conversation with White's office, an Austin spokesperson was initially receptive to the idea, though it fell short of an official reply. With the GPC's request put in writing, the governor's office can provide a more considered official response. That letter is now in the mail, David Fields of TWT NEWS reported. The banquet, which will be optional black-tie, would be $30-40 per plate, and tables for organizations would be $3,000.

FALL ART FESTIVAL FALLS INTO JEOPARDY

HOUSTON — Michael Groves, president of the Westheimer Colony Association, has informed TWT NEWS that Charlanne B. "Charlie" Holoman has been appointed the 1983 Westheimer Colony Art Festival Director. Mrs. Holoman moved to Houston in 1981 from Birmingham, Alabama, where she had nine years experience as chief financial director and property supervisor of a large realty company.

One of Holoman's first duties has been to prepare for the upcoming Art Festival scheduled for this fall. After careful checking, Holoman says she is concerned about the festival's future.

"With only 14 supportive property owners along the Westheimer strip having so far agreed to offer space, the fall festival is in jeopardy." She further told TWT NEWS that twice that many would be needed to ensure a definite "all systems go for fall."

Property owners wishing to save the fall festival may call the new director at (713) 521-0133. It would be a travesty if the fall festival would have to be cancelled as was last spring's, many opined. The announcement came on the heels of the cancellation of the spring Festival, which was the only time in the ten-year history of the Festival that it had been cancelled.

In 1982, Mayor Kathy Whitmire and Councilmember George Greanias orchestrated the closing of Westheimer to vehicular traffic—a stiff boost to the already popular eleven-block festival—which attracts three-quarters of a million people semi-annually.

BEEFED-UP C.O.P. PATROL IN DALLAS

DALLAS — With crime in Oak Lawn more visible than ever, Citizens on Patrol—known as COP—is beefing up its surveillance. COP was begun last winter and met with some initial success. However, cold weather "got to the bones of most of the volunteers," a spokesperson stated.

But, COP has received an injection of new spirit this summer, under the leadership of Jim Foster, who told TWT NEWS, "We're not only walking patrols, we now have a radio car that can respond to the Dallas police when needed. Village Security is also helping with this speedy radio dispatching," he added.

Foster noted that Dallas police have been very helpful and have been responding quickly to COP dispatches.

According to Dallas police, crime in Oak Lawn is not really up from last year. It just seems more visible, as more is be-

However, "many more handguns are being used," Foster said. In fact, some local club owners and personnel have recently been confronted by people as young as eight and twelve years of age carrying handguns.

COUNCIL'S GREANIAS APPRECIATION PARTY

HOUSTON — District C (Montrose) City Councilmember George Greanias will be the honored guest of a community-wide appreciation party this Saturday, August 6, at Miss Charlotte's, 911 W. Drew. The gathering will begin at 11:00pm.

The public is invited to the grass roots gathering to talk and get acquainted with their council person, Charlotte Archer, the club's owner, said.

It's a chance to thank him, discuss politics, the police, neighborhood problems, the S.O.B. (sexually-oriented business) ordinance, or anything else on your mind. "Leave your checkbooks at home," club manager Jerry Vann told TWT NEWS, "because this is a get-acquainted party, not a fundraiser."

AUSTIN GAY PRIDE WEEK WRAP-UP

AUSTIN — Gay Pride Week in the Capitol City was well attended, Karen Stewart, co-chair of the Austin Lesbian/Gay Pride Week task force has concluded. "We had 250 people at the march to the Capitol, another 250 at the concert, 365 at the gay pride dance, and 165 people at gay skate night," Stewart outlined to TWT NEWS.

However, due to the cost of the gay pride t-shirts, "we have only broken even," she said. To make up the loss, a fundraiser has been scheduled for October 31—a Halloween gay skate night.

Stewart, who is also co-chair of Austin Lambda, reported that there was a general membership meeting of Lambda last Wednesday, July 27. Austin Lambda also hosted the recent Robin Tyler concert on July 21.

MCCD RELATIONSHIP SEMINAR AHEAD

DALLAS — On Saturday, August 20, the local MCCD will offer an all-day "Relationship Enrichment Seminar" for couples in a relationship, couples anticipating entering a relationship, and singles who are interested in finding out what makes a relationship work.

The seminar is scheduled to start at 9:30am and run until 5:30pm. Preregistration is required.

Those interested should contact Sue Schrader at MCCD, (214) 526-6221. "Pre-registration is on a first-come, first-served basis as space is limited," TWT NEWS learned from Andre "Rip" Corley, C.S.W., director, Division of Counseling.

ACLU ENDORSES RUSSELL ORDINANCE

HOUSTON — TWT NEWS has learned from Stefan Presser, staff counsel of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), that the local office "will assist and support" the efforts of Gregg Russell's Domestic Privacy in Employment Ordinance. At the July 28 board meeting, the Greater Houston Chapter of ACLU resolved to fully endorse his amendments.

The ordinance would amend specific sections of Chapter 12 of the Houston Code of Ordinances in order to prohibit discrimination in public employment on the basis of marital status and/or sexual preference.

After reviewing Russell's ordinance, the ACLU said it was convinced that not only did City Council have the authority to amend Chapter 12, but that the amendments would have the legal effect of proscribing discrimination.

The ACLU-backing does not come as a surprise to TWT NEWS since the union is on previous record declaring in its policy #261 that governmental discrimination on the basis of sexual or affectional preference is a violation of the equal protection of law. "You can count on whatever support you desire from this chapter," Presser told Russell.

Russell's ordinance has also been endorsed by the Texas Civil Liberties Union of Austin. More recently, the Citizens for Human Equality (CHE), after wavering on the issue initially, came on line last week with an unanimous decision to formally endorse, TWT NEWS was advised by Doug Dexter. CHE president, Steve Shifflet, encouraged other organizations "to join ACLU, TCLU and CHE in the joint endorsement."

21.06 RULING ANNIVERSARY

DALLAS — Members of the gay community will assemble Wednesday, August 17, to commemorate the first year anniversary of federal judge Jerry Buchmeyer's decision which struck down Texas' homosexual conduct law, Section 21.06 of the Texas Penal Code. This event, which is to be held at 8:30pm at Reverchon Park, is one of several activities scheduled to celebrate what has now become known as Gay Freedom Day.

It was August 17 of last year when Buchmeyer rendered his historic ruling unconstitutional because it violated a homosexual's rights of privacy.

DAIRE TESTIFIES AT AIDS HEARING

WASHINGTON, DC — Howie Daire, director of the Dallas AIDS Action Project of the Oak Lawn Counseling Center, was invited to the nation's capital last Monday and Tuesday, August 1 and 2, to testify at federal hearings on AIDS.

Daire was honored to be selected as one of only three such persons from the gay community across America to appear before the subcommittee examining the response of the Public Health Service to AIDS. The investigation comes under the governmental umbrella of Congressman Jack Brooks (Dem.-Texas), chair of the House Committee on Government Operations.

The chair of the subcommittee, Ted Weiss, (Dem.-New York), who invited Daire, said the "hearing will provide us with the opportunity to review public concerns regarding AIDS and federal response to the disease." Weiss stressed, "We want to make sure that the federal effort is sensitive to the needs of communities at risk."

Prior to his departure to Washington, Daire met in Houston last week with Michael Wilson, Bill Scott and Kent Summerall, all of Houston's KS/AIDS Foundation. The cooperative meeting between Dallas and Houston provided an opportunity for Daire to be apprised of the latest AIDS situation in Houston before leaving to testify.

"No finer, level-headed authority on AIDS in Texas could have been selected than Daire," all agreed. His very professional and articulate statement before the subcommittee was to be included in the printed hearing record, TWT NEWS was advised.

GAY IS HEALTHY OXYGEN & VITAMINS

TEXAS — Never before has the gay community been healthier. More gay men and women are now exercising and taking in more oxygen, joining health clubs in record numbers, eating better, taking vitamins, taking sanitary precautions, getting proper rest, and having resulting higher energy levels for leisure activities.

Why this sudden gay adventure into good living? It's all because of what is now being referred to as "AIDSphobia." The fear of becoming unhealthy is driving the "worried well" to become healthier. It's a known fact that a person's immunity system is less likely to malfunction if the body is healthy, as revealed by doctors' studies.

thinks that oxygen is the most important item on the health list. "You can live for months without food, but only five minutes without oxygen," she states. But, because modern, lazy lifestyles have eliminated walking, running, moving and lifting, most people have consequently eliminated 90% of the oxygen needed to sustain health.

"Vigorous, exhausting, perspiration-causing activity is the type of exercise that will help saturate the whole body with oxygen," Buzbuzian suggests, adding that "these rules of good health in general apply to the good health of the immune system."

Massive doses of oxygen, combined with massive doses of vitamin C, can further enhance the body's immune system, according to Jeffery Lawrence of Cornell Medical Center.

In an article in the American Health Magazine, Lawrence reported his research had found that massive amounts of vitamin C—10,000 to 20,000 milligrams daily—suppressed the malfunction of one's immunity system.

A gay male with AIDS, living in San Antonio, is recent proof that vitamin therapy can return the immunity system back to normalcy. In an interview in Calendar, the Alamo City man explained how last April, his T-helper cell lymphocyte ratio was down to 0.3—very low, his blood test by the new AIDS clinic at the Medical School for Cancer Research and Therapy, had revealed.

But, just one month later, after taking massive amounts of the recommended vitamin C, his helper/suppressor ratio had nearly recovered by jumping up to 1.6—normal is 2.0, TWT NEWS noted.

Nutritionists advise the increased vitamin therapy must begin with a combination of vitamins A, B and C—known as ACE. To prevent a possible toxic dosage, it was also recommended that ACE be balanced with calcium, zinc and magnesium.

Stories of vitamin C preventing cancer and other illnesses are not new, as several doctors, especially in Europe, have long been supporters of the controversial vitamin-therapy plan.

Dallas Knifing

Dear TWT:
How do your readers measure up when it comes to helping one of their own in trouble? Do they, when they hear a call for help in the streets, outside their windows, or see three or four punks jump someone, turn and run the other way? Let's not get involved. On Friday, July 15 at 9:00pm on Dallas' Throckmorton St., between Cedar Springs and Hall St. (1/2 block from the crowds heading to the bars), I was jumped by three Mexican youths who held a knife to my throat while they robbed me.

I yelled loudly for help; it got me cut, but I still yelled. Did anyone stop as they drove by? No. Did anyone on the street stop to help or call for help? No. One group of five just laughed. Is going out and having a good time all there is? Do we not care until it happens to us or our friends? If the gays in our community are tired of the killings and muggings, maybe they should do a little helping instead of acting like queens and running the other way.

Larry Gilbert

crime prevention in Oak Lawn is because these "leaders" have been very successful at manipulating the people who are stupid enough to believe them.

Certainly, from time to time, the police will enter a bar and check IDs. They may be looking for a particular individual or it may provide a reason to be in the place and accidentally spot someone wanted in some of the crimes being committed. . . . I have yet to see anyone mistreated by the Dallas police or singled out by them without provocation or cause. I know of no one else who personally knows such a victim. But I know of several people who, as crime victims, have nothing but the best to say about the Dallas police.

In the past few months, the Dallas police have arrested nearly 50 individuals known to be involved in crime in the Oak Lawn area. . . . The Dallas police have encountered many armed individuals in Oak Lawn and were forced to shoot and kill at least two recently. . . . The City Councilman that the "leaders" opposed in the last city election has also been supportive with the police department. . . .

I would suggest that if the people of Oak Lawn want to do something constructive for a change, why not organize some block parties and invite the police . . . and ask them what they can do to help. Tell these so-called leaders to find someone else to kick around.
R.D. Manuel
Dallas, Texas

Police in Oak Lawn

Dear TWT:
The recent letter by Scot Gordon of Dallas [TWT COMMENT, Vol. 9, No. 18] describing the recent incidents of crime in the Oak Lawn area, concludes by asking why the community doesn't take an active part in crime prevention and support for the police department. . . .

The root of the problem is that self-appointed "community leaders" have such shallow leadership abilities that they are dependent on having a "boogeyman" to kick around whenever they feel the urge or whenever they feel their power slipping away. The police, since they are not likely to respond to such people, make a convenient target. And the reason there is not as much support for the police or

Methodist Backlash

Dear TWT:
Thanks for your coverage of the United Methodist backlash [TWT NEWS, Vol. 9, No. 15] against gay people. However, the Southwest Texas Conference [held in San Antonio] actually went a great deal further toward exclusion of homosexual persons than your article suggests. They changed their standing rules so as to forbid "any person who professes to be a homosexual and/or who practices homosexuality" from serving on any conference committee, board or agency.

Clearly, this language takes into account the difference between sexual orientation and sexual practice and assesses the same penalty for both. This emphatic language was heartily ratified by the delegates in two (2) two-thirds votes: the first to consider an item not on the agenda, the second to change a standing rule. The Roman Catholics in the San Francisco Bay Area at least made room for gay-identified people who strive for celibacy.

Jobs; Not Housing

Dear TWT:

With regard to information supplied to TWT NEWS regarding the recently proposed "Domestic Privacy in Employment Ordinance," I was disturbed to read in your July 22 edition that the ordinance is, in part, a housing ordinance. Obviously, the source of your information was uninformed since the ordinance addresses only public (city) employment discrimination associated with sexual orientation and/or marital status. I understand this is a common misconception among leaders [of the community], and I would recommend that they review the ordinance more carefully before attempting to educate the community on its content.

Furthermore, with regard to reports given to you that neither CHE [Citizens for Human Equality] nor GPC had any intention of endorsing the ordinance, may I point out that CHE did vote to "endorse in concept the [ordinance] as a future community agenda." That decision was made by a unanimous vote at the July 12 meeting of CHE. Additionally, the ordinance is currently under consideration by the GPC. At the July 20 meeting, the majority of the caucus voted to sustain the ordinance by "referring it to the GPC as a future agenda item." Other organizations, such as the American Civil Liberties Union, have also expressed support for the ordinance.

As for the time of introduction of the ordinance, I have never suggested that introduction take place before the election. My proposal has simply been to obtain broad-based community support for the ordinance. I believe that the ordinance should be presented to city council through GPC after commitments from candidates on such a proposal are obtained before the screening committee this fall. I'm sure that an appropriate time can be established at some time in the future for introduction before city council.

I hope that I may have your assistance in helping the community to better understand this proposal.

Gregg Russell
Houston, Texas

TWT NEWS has never been confused about the "endorsement." As reported earlier, although both CHE and GPC have supported the concept (idea), neither have officially endorsed Russell's specific ordinance.

Miss Camp Response

Dear TWT:

In response to the accusation made against the president and I by Mr. Pat Petty [TWT COMMENT, Vol. 9, No. 19], co-founder of Miss Camp America, I would simply like to say: To the membership left remaining, no apology or explanation is necessary, and to the gay community of Houston, none would be sufficient. Enough said.

Phil Dyer

Integrity for Atheists

Dear TWT:

Integrity/Houston, Gay Episcopalians and friends, wishes to protest the action of the Gay Pride Week Committee in banning the American Gay Atheists from future Gay Pride Week parades. We, as strong members of the gay Christian movement, feel that this decision is in opposition to our heritage of free speech, a heritage which we have largely from the actions of Episcopalians among our nation's founders, and we feel that it is proper for Integrity/Houston to rise in defense of free speech whenever we see that right threatened.

We must also protest those who engaged in booing the AGA parade entry. This was not a mature Christian response, and it was generally not done by active members of the gay Christian community.

Integrity/Houston urges the Gay Pride Week Committee to reconsider the ban on the American Gay Atheists. We fear that a ban on their group now could later be expanded to a ban on all groups expressing religious concerns, and this would not serve the cause of free speech and religious freedom. We, the members of Integrity/Houston, are more than happy to engage in free speech activities with the Atheists, and feel that the community will be served by the dialogue. A ban on them harms free speech, and does not serve the community.

Atheist Public Image

Dear TWT:

I have to admit some surprise at the gay community's reaction to the punishment received by the American Gay Atheists. While I do not disagree with their right to express their opinion in an open forum, I do take exception to their method. Regardless of religious affiliation, I feel the Gay Pride Week Committee's decision was just.

I see the purpose of the gay pride parade as presenting a positive, healthy view of gay people and gay lifestyles—not only to ourselves, but also to the public in general. . . . If we seek to blatantly offend the public by totally disregarding accepted levels of good taste and dignity, we only succeed in intensifying those . . . feelings of hatred, fear and prejudice, thus setting our entire movement backwards.

I also resent the division the Gay Atheists have caused in our own community. Our theme was "Unity Through Diversity," not diversity through an error in judgment.

. . . Consider this commentary on our progress: A woman approached my mother . . . laughing about the gay pride parade. She unwittingly asked my mother, "Why do those people begin to think we would actually want to see them." My mother tactfully bit her lip and left.

Andrew Holleran

Nights in Aruba, by Andrew Holleran; 240 pp.; fiction; William Morrow and Company, Inc. 105 Madison Avenue, New York, New York 10016; hardcover, $12.95.

Reviewed by David Fields

Following his last successful novel, Dancer From the Dance, Andrew Holleran has written a more sedate, serious and moody fictional piece entitled Nights in Aruba. Aruba is a resort and tourist colony in the Carribean where Paul, the main character relating the story, lived as a child. The tone is sedate, but not dark; Paul's life as he shuttles between New York and his life with gays there and home, in a small town in Florida, is perfectly ordinary.

His story begins in the present and introduces us to his life as he goes back in time, as flashbacks are wont to do, beginning in Aruba. Holleran treats us to straightforward narrative as Paul recounts his life in the Army in Germany, in Jasper, Florida (with his parents), and in New York. The strength of Holleran's story is in his characters, with little plot development.

The main appeal of the characters lies in their realism. Holleran has carefully developed them; they are the novel's main attraction because the reader can identify with them. We share their hopes, dreams, attitudes toward getting and keeping lovers, attitudes on how, or how not to, tell parents about themselves, etc.

The novel is rich in questions we all ask ourselves and others about our lives, our choices and our beliefs about our place in the world. Paul sees his parents and their choices, their lives. He sees his mother as more approachable than his father, whose life is settled into a routine early on. He also thinks of his friends' parents and their relationships with their parents.

Another area he explores involves his lovers and would-be lovers over the years. His life with them, short or long, full of doubts and questions sometimes not answered, was to be savored and remembered, and learned from. His ultimate questions, reserved for himself, were about himself—what he felt, what he wanted, and what he got.

Holleran did not try to encapsulate a personal philosophy in any of his characters. They each had questions they tried to "create" in the best way to get the answer they felt was truest and fit what they saw in the world and in themselves. There are no labels such as existentialist, buddhist or cynic, to provide the pat answers to all the questions.

What makes this novel even more intriguing is a most important element—time. The story takes place over thirty years; time that lends hindsight to events and choices, and the understanding and meaning that accumulates. Paul is able to see his life and the life of his parents in a way that gives him perspective and insight.

As stated earlier, there is no strong plot that supports the novel. Paul moves through time and space, back to his years with his mother in Aruba and back to the present; he spends up to nine months at a time in Jasper, Florida with his parents every few years, to escape New York. He returns to New York to escape his parents. Most of the "action" exists within the characters.

All of it is told in the first person by Paul, yet—perhaps not surprisingly—we don't find out his name until almost the end of the novel. What makes this story so personal and real is Paul's viewpoint, which is subjective and involved in the events and people around him. Holleran provides no coldly objective third-person recitation of events.

Andrew Holleran has written a warm, human novel of people's lives in a way that may—possibly—communicate his own feelings, tapping his own fund of experiences in a way all writers must, to some degree. If Holleran wished to entertain and enrich, he has succeeded on both counts, and leaves one looking forward to his next book.

CROSS-COUNTRY CHASE

Reviewed by Harry Deutsch

This is one of Chevy Chase's funnier pictures. This is also one of the National Lampoon's wittier screen efforts in recent years. Too bad it's all relative. Let's face it, Mr. Chase hasn't had a satisfying picture since Foul Play, and the Lampoon bombed with Class Reunion, which was as embarrassing as it was insulting, and they wouldn't even release another finished epoch, Movie Madness.

Vacation isn't much better than all that, but better it is. Much of the action sees the movie's Chase family on the road again and again. In their odd-shaped station wagon they attempt to cover the distance from the Windy City to LA, where a Disneyesque amusement park is their target. Behind the wheel is a rather enthusiastic household head (Chase) chauffeuring an attractive, only marginally excitable wife (Beverly D'Angelo) and two easy-to-bore kids (Anthony Michael Hall and Dana Barron), who refuse to be impressed by the House of Mud and other infamous sights along the way. Imogene Coca joins the foursome for part of the ride and plays the one-sided, unlikeable role of cranky, nasty and, as the script points out repeatedly, smelly Aunt Edna. Other bit players are SCTV and SNL stars such as Eugene Levy, John Candy and Brian Doyle-Murray, but don't expect to see them for more than a couple of minutes at the most. A mysterious blonde, played by Sports Illustrated's swimsuit sensation Christie Brinkley, and her conveniently phased appearances, drive the impressionable driver crazy.

Vacation has its outrageously hilarious moments (about three); it also gen-

Truly I say to you: This is the feel-good film of the season. You don't need to be into old-time religion to feel the irresistibly rhythmic spirit of Say Amen, Somebody. The stars of this thrilling documentary are an energetic bunch of black folks who sing the gospel like there's no tomorrow.

Amen makes for an all-different, uplifting entree on this summer's movie menu. This film by George T. Nierenburg observes gospel originator Thomas A. Dorsey, and other wonderful, big-hearted and often big-bodied spiritual singers who are known mostly in gospel circles. They include Willie Mae Ford Smith, the Barrett Sisters, and the O'Neal Twins. These unspoiled amateur artists, who consider their vocal talents a God-given gift, deliver new and old hymns with a healthy mix of amazing grace and immense emotion. Their vibrant, captivating performances have a contagious effect on the audience, and the clapping and tapping around you in the theater may, at times, resemble the goings-on in your town's most soulful Baptist church. And somebody next to you might even say "Amen."

Patient Readers:

It is with deep regret that I inform you that Mr. Movies will not be able to review this film as previously planned due to an apparent suicide attempt. After a recent showing of Private School, Mr. Movies was found making repeated attempts to impale himself upon a box of straws at the concession stand where throngs of shocked onlookers watched in horror. He was promptly taken to Our Lady of No Mercy Nursing Home muttering: "My kingdom for a decent film."

The notes found in his atelier indicate that Private School is about young ingenuos who must make decisions about sleeping with young satyrs from an adjoining private school called the Free-mount Academy For Men (get it?) who regularly come to leer at them through windows, drool, hope, and bet for the best. Private School has jokes about exposing breasts on women, getting erections, and having sex so others can hear. "The dregs of comedy" is the last comment written.

The Little Sisters of Domination, who are attending to the recovery of Mr. Movies, indicate that the current depression stems from the glut of films that have neither the courage to be a full blown X-rated film or the talent to wisely present and discuss subjects in a humorous or serious manner. The good Sisters indicate that, although this is the worst case of anorexia movieola they have seen in recent months, recuperation is swift with repeated exposure to The Wizard of Oz.

Your patience during this period is appreciated. Thank you.

VARSIS BELIEVE IT OR DON'T — Talk about strange bedfellows! Perhaps you didn't believe me when I told you that Julie Andrews was recording an album of country music in Nashville. Well, are you ready for Julie's duet with Johnny Cash on Elvis' "Love Me Tender"? That's also the title of the album, which recently went on sale in England. I assume it will eventually be released stateside. (I'd give my left nut to hear Cash sing "Super-cal-fragil-istic-expl-alidocious.") . . . Barry Bostwick, who played Brad in The Rocky Horror Picture Show, certainly has come a long way. He has the title role in George Washington, an eight-hour CBS miniseries beginning production this month. Patty Duke Astin co-stars as Martha. . . . Andy Warhol once commented that in the future everyone will be famous for 15 minutes. My prediction is that everything will eventually be adapted as a Broadway musical. I mean, look at some of the musicals that have come about so far. Federico Fellini's 8½ became Nine, and Roger Corman's 1960 trash classic Little Shop of Horrors became a musical. What next? Later this year, a musical adaptation of Garry Trudeau's Doonesbury will open in New York, and about the same time Vicki Carr will be starring in Nora, a musical based on Ibsen's A Doll's House. Next year, Lucie Arnaz will be treading Broadway boards as Cherie in the musical version of Bus Stop. . . . Can you believe that somebody has actually written a biography of Natalie's little sister Lana Wood? . . . And now for some rumors: One has it that Steven Spielberg and Martin Scorsese may collaborate on a 3-D movie version of Little Shop of Horrors. Another rumor is that Eva and Zsa Zsa Gabor may star in a TV series together. Lord! . . . Lana Wood???

ly achieve movie superstardom with his appearances in The Blue Lagoon and The Pirate Movie, has been added to the cast of CBS's Dallas. (Later this year, you can see him as a male stripper in the tentatively-titled theatrical movie American Desire.) . . . Next December, Patti Page returns to television as a guest on a variety special called Here's Television Entertainment. . . . Here's some interesting TV news: Greater Tuna, the outrageous satire of small-town Texas, starring Jaston Williams and Joe Sears, is being developed as a cable-TV project.

INTRODUCING — Let me use this hot photo to introduce Reb Brown, star of a new movie called Yor, the Hunter From the Future. It's an odd story "set in a time warp, where the past and future mysteriously collide." Reb (check the size of that tomahawk) has the title role of the warrior in search of the secret of his identity. ("Duh, who am I?") Kidding aside, the movie is based on a novel—a bestseller in Europe—which was illustrated like a comic strip. Here's what I'm curious about—in this publicity picture he has curly hair, but in the movie he has straight, shoulder-length blonde hair (see inset). Duh, I think I'll get a permanent.

IN MEMORIAM — A farewell to David Niven, who died July 29 at age 73. It's not difficult to find adjectives to describe his screen persona—"suave" and "debonair" come to mind immediately. In 1958 he was awarded a "Best Actor" Oscar for his performance in Separate Tables; among his other notable film appearances were Wuthering Heights (1939), Stairway to Heaven (1946), and, of course, he starred in Around the World in 80 Days in 1956. He also contributed two autobiographical books—The Moon's a Balloon and Bring on the Empty Horses.

TURTLE CREEK — The Turtle Creek Chorale has announced the appointment of Michael Crawford as its full-time music director. He assumed the podium of the Chorale on August 1. Mr. Crawford brings with him a rich musical background, having degrees from Eastern Washington University in Music Education, Applied Music and Vocal Performance. He will be pursuing his doctoral studies in Choral Conducting at North Texas State University. Crawford has directed on both the secondary and collegiate levels for over 15 years, in addition to a variety of work with church choirs, community choruses, barber-shop societies, the Arkansas Symphony Orchestra, and many summer workshops. Under Crawford's direction, vocal jazz groups from the University of Arkansas Little Rock have placed consistently high on both the regional and state levels of the Great American Choral Festival. It was in 1982, when the festival was held in Dallas, that Crawford became familiar with the Turtle Creek Chorale by competing against them at both the state and regional levels. Since that time, Crawford has served as a guest clinician for both the full Chorale and the Showstoppers ensemble. One of Crawford's first duties will be to conduct auditions for both accompanists and singers. These will be held during the first two weeks of August. If interested, call (214) 821-3086 for information and audition times.

The vignettes which tell the story of Christ have also been updated. For instance, Matthew is introduced as an Internal Revenue Service auditor and Jesus makes his triumphant entry into Atlanta ("The Big Peach") in a white Volkswagon convertible instead of riding a donkey as recorded in most versions of the Palm Sunday story. When Jesus reappears after his death, he has a cup of coffee and pecan pie with the twelve apostles. Tom Key, who co-wrote the musical, plays the part of Jesus as well as 20 other roles in the show.

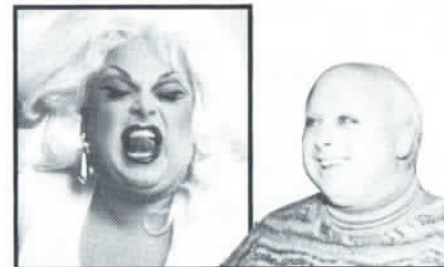

Gay Unitarians have selected this work because of its theme of commitment to ideals in a religious context. COMEDY PLUS — Robin Tyler, feminist comic and self proclaimed "dyke," recently appeared at Hogg Auditorium on the University of Texas at Austin campus. The show, sponsored by the Gay Students Association and produced by Little Feather Music/Sunrise Productions, focused on politics, feminism, as well as some biting comments at many people, including James Watt, Ronald Reagan and Nancy Reagan. TWT's Jay Cherin said that Tyler had the audience rolling when she said she was given the much-talked about sex tapes and said they showed Nancy Reagan whipping James Watt while the Secretary of the Interior was tied to the bedposts. Tyler, who lives in Hollywood, welcomed the many non-gays who attended the performance, and urged everybody to work together in the fight for our human rights. Before closing the show, Tyler got rather serious, asking for the gap between gay men and lesbians to close, in addition to soliciting funds for a music festival she produces in California.

THE LAST TOUCH — Final Touches, a play by playwright Kenneth C. Johnson, opened in Austin on July 20. TWT's Jay Cherin told how the play focuses around the homecoming of Bobby Connally, 30-years-old and scarred by a protective mother and jealous father. Bobby's father is dying of cancer when the son comes home, and that's when the trouble begins. The father, Lester, can't understand why Bobby is "different," and blames his wife, Mary, for keeping Bobby from him. Well, it is not hard to figure out what is "different" about Bobby. Even though Johnson's producers refuse to let the play be billed as a "gay play," Final Touches contains something from the life of every gay man and woman, all of which is equally distributed among the five players. Before the play opened, Johnson thought the events of the play were "unique" to him, but after opening in Los Angeles, where it won three Drama-logue awards, he sees that everybody identifies with it. Everybody who feels "different" must see this play. Just keep in mind that it closes at the Capitol City Playhouse on September 7. Don't be like those who missed Greater Tuna before it left Austin for New York and left audiences flabbergasted.

ROBINSON

photograph by Greg Havican

by Rob Clark

With a rainbow-colored State of Texas as a back-drop, Vicki Sue Robinson hit the stage at Numbers in Houston to perform to a Texas-style crowd as she had done a few weeks earlier at The Saint in Dallas. "I love these Texas audiences," Vicki told us. "This is the first time I've been to Texas [Dallas and Houston], and the reception has been wonderful. You have some boys here that can sure scream loud. It's really been neat."

Under the Numbers laser show and sparkling lights, Vicki—shimmering in black, blue and silver—sang her early hits such as "Hold Tight," "I'm Here (And I'm Hot)," and her trademark song, "Turn The Beat Around." She then went into her latest hit, "To Sir With Love." For those of us who didn't think Lulu could be outdone, we were wrong. Vicki really belts that song out in what can only be described as "disco-jazz." At times, she sounds like a husky Ella Fitzgerald with a dance beat.

Vicki began her career at age sixteen when she landed a part in the Broadway musical Hair. As for the future, Vicki tells us, "I'm going to study acting again. I want to do some films. I have some prospects, but it's bad luck to talk about them until they actually happen. They'll be straight roles, though, no musicals. I'm also working on writing and producing a cable show that will be called The Musical Magic Show."

Vicki came to her sound-check directly from Intercontinental Airport. "I'm exhausted," she announced. "I went on-stage in New York at 3:30 this morning. I don't like to rush this much. I usually get to a city the day before a performance so I can get a feel for it. But, here I am. The show must go on!" And indeed it did. With a bang.

NAKED CAME THE BOMBLETS

This is NOT the way life is supposed to be, they thought. Whatever happened to those dreams, those desires, those lofty ambitions? Why didn't anyone tell us that life in this cold, cruel world is so boring, so unfulfilled?

The stirrings of discontent grew to waves of frustration within the breasts of the seven young professionals whose lives had crossed in college.

Sure, those 9-to-5 jobs paid the bills, but there had to be more to life. . . . There had to be a way to recapture the innocence of youth, that lust for life, those goals of victory. They came together, drawn by a passion to conquer the world through comedy, kept together by a common weakness for being hams.

With their emergence as an entity, the Guava Bomblets was formed, a group to blaze a trail through the Dallas comedy wilderness.

Each member's quest as a knight in what has become the leading improvisational comedy troupe in the Metroplex has proven to be a unique journey.

John Bode:

Life is wonderful; life is fun! But what does it mean to have had an enormous amount of fun for a very long time with some absolutely fascinating people and not being able to remember a bit of it? No, I do remember bits and pieces: flashing, even white teeth; color (lots of color). I remember a parade of tiny, little brown bottles and stunning visuals usually having diagonal lines, somewhere. All this was often accompanied by the omnipotent presence of a relentless, 120-beats-a-minute rhythm. Life was nothing less than an everlasting, bouncing Betty Boop cartoon.

And nothing more.

Waitaminutesomething'swrong. I don't think this is what Little Baby Jesus had in mind. Look in the mirror, what do I see? No . . . No, it can't be! I've become—"Gasp"—a Dilettante! Skirting (sometimes literally) the pertinent issues with a laugh and a casual toss of a well-coiffed head, pearls clapping against one another.

A Dilettante. Touching everything but holding nothing. And in Oak Lawn, too, what could be a deadlier combination?

Something has to be done, but what? A statement, I have to make a statement.

Cathy Smith:

It was an unquenchable desire to pursue two degrees, a thesis and three careers before she reached 25. She was a driven woman eager to find her niche in the world and as fast as she could. She didn't find it in a master's degree, nor as a school teacher or purchasing agent or saleswoman.

Maybe a doctor or lawyer, she thought. But no, this too could lead her down the road of unfulfillment.

Deep in her heart, she knew the best way to get her jollies, to be anyone and anything she wanted, to make a comment on things that pissed her off—but to do it with humor, because it's hard to be offended when you're laughing!

She knew the way and found out that John knew it, too, so they got together in November of 1981 and planned to let others know.

For Cathy Smith knew her way was the birth of her special "baby"—the Guava Bomblets.

Allen Simmons:

It all started after I had finished a summer in Galveston doing quasi-professional theater (that means we got paid). I moved back to Dallas, found a job answering phones and decided I wasn't satisfied.

One evening after a depressingly unsuccessful romp in the bars, I went to bed (alone again) and had a very revealing dream.

In it I was a painfully wealthy businessman (remember this was a dream). I had everything imaginable except free time to enjoy the better things in life. So, I decided to take some time off and travel to the HIGH COUNTRY and a little RANCH I had built several years ago, which in all actuality looked like an OLD PLANTATION.

Upon my arrival at my little HIDE-AWAY, I thought I would ROUND-UP my CHAP'S, looking just like the SUNDANCE KID on a bad day, and ride off into the hills on my personal horse, J.R.

En route to the MINING CO., I had established on the mineral-rich estate, I came upon a large hole in the earth that turned out to be a SNAKE PIT containing at least 4001 huge, ugly, menacing vipers. It was then that my not-so-trusty steed reared and sent me to the ground unconscious.

While off in never-never-land there on the hardened soil, I had yet another dream (can you stand it?). In this episode I was in college at my FRATERNITY HOUSE, looking for a mysterious HIDDEN DOOR behind which lay a CRIB that contained the JUGS of liquor I had been sent to retrieve (I suppose this must have been an initiation requirement).

After finding the required material, I was returning down the stairs of the NO NAME Greek house when I tripped and fell. Just as I hit the last step, I was awakened from my dream (part II) by the licking tongue (now you're interested, right?) of a UNICORN that had come to save me from the pissed-off snakes I had disturbed.

The creature, which I figured must have been a SAINT sent to rescue me from my venomous death, instructed me to mount his back, and I would be whisked away to safety.

Just as I mounted the beast, I was awakened into reality by a telephone call from my good friend John Bode, asking if I would like to drop by the Bobmlet rehearsal the next evening and consider joining the group.

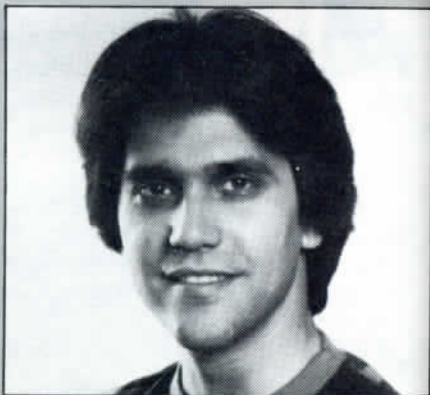

After the evening just passed in the bars, I figured I had nothing to lose, so I decided to CREWS INN to rehearsal. Seeing what a gay time everyone was having, I realized what a TWT I had been by wasting all my time in the bars and vowed to devote my free time to the Bobmlets.

You know, they say that on the EIGHTH DAY God created camp, and I've been trying to follow that avenue with all my might.

Dan Brantley:

To say that all of our comedy today was a treatise on the decay of the Judeo-Christian ethic in modern America today would not be doing justice to the premise of reciprocal actions, i.e., The juxtaposition of one comic element in relation to another, either more, or less intrinsically humorous, but no less important than the first. And we would do well to remember that more than one writer in attempting to explicate, e.g., explain or, rationalize, and thereby justify himself to his audience (which in truth would need no such explication if even rudimentary forms of structure were followed in our necessary but at times turgid bordering on analytically penetrating raison d'etre) has mired himself (For reasons of brevity I shall use the masculine pronoun throughout this work, but promise to use the feminine in the next.) in a pool of mediocrity that is no mean feat to arise from. We shall attempt to avoid this as well as other pitfalls which most certainly lie in the path of any serious student, that is a researcher who embarks upon a quest of such magnitude and holding such promise that what lies in the path of illumination will at the hoped-for conclusion, i.e., resolution, be of immense value both to the serious student and ardent devotee, mavin or admiration. In addition to that portion we have already covered, there are also further considerations that portend of even greater heights ahead for we have truly only scratched the somewhat soiled surface that is so often taken for granted as the be-all and end-all, but in reality is not. It only awaits someone with the courage, i.e., stamina and desire to shame us all into admitting, "There but for the grace of God, e.g., supreme being, all-powerful, go I." And one last thought before parting, perhaps we should all look deep into our own souls, that is the wellspring from which we fashion our myriad personalities, and reflect upon that which has gone before and even look kindly upon others whom we care for and admit that it has been a little slice of heaven, i.e., nirvana. Go in peace.

Sue Morrison

"Oh, yeah, sure . . . uh, I'd really like to come to the meeting. . . . Yeah, I'm interested in acting again. . . . Comedy and improv? . . . Oh, yeah, sure."

Panic sets in as Sue hangs up the telephone.

Jesus Christ, I haven't done anything like that for at least three years. Why the hell did I tell them I'd be at the meeting? No way to get out of it, I suppose. Oh, geez. At least they'll probably be nice about it when they ask me, between rolling on the floor in uncontrollable spasms of laughter at my futile attempts, to get lost. I'm committed; I have to go.

"Hey, hi guys! This is like a regular reunion, huh? (Panic builds.) Do a few improvs? Hey, why not? No problem, sure."

I wonder if that chair over there is big enough for me to hide behind. I'm so embarrassed, and we haven't even gotten started.

Well, whadda ya know? This is actually working, if I do say so myself. Not bad for a two-bit newspaper editor who hasn't even seen a play in the past five years.

"Do what? Start playing in clubs? In front of live people? For money? Hey yeah, like, sure, why not? We can knock 'em dead. No prob."

Wait. This is a hell of a lot different than putting on a show for your friends. I don't know. . . . Maybe this is my cue to bow out. But how can I tell the other guys? No, I've gotta do it. I'm gonna go out there, try as hard as I can and fall flat on my face.

"Yeah, I'm nervous, too, guys, Oh, yeah, sure, we're gonna do great."

Like hell.

"OK, we're on. Break a leg!"

Well, I can't believe it. They're actually laughing. At stuff I'm doing! This is incredible. Hold on. . . . What's that feeling? Oh, my God! I've truly been bitten by the drama bug once more!

I'm hooked now; I can't give it up. So what if it means paying $150 each month for gasoline while my gross income from the gigs is $1.97 a week? So what if I never sleep again?

None of that matters! I'm finally fulfilled! Life is wonderful!

Back off, babe, that's going a little bit too far. Life is never wonderful; that's a fact of life.

But at least the Guava Bomblets make life more bearable.

Diana Galloway

Being a child at heart I've been given a chance to play again and I always played dress-up as a child and knew all the words to "Mary Poppins" and "The Sound of Music" and begged and pleaded to get to sing and dance and act and now I am able to do all those things as a Bomblet while furthering and learning about my talents because this is like taking lessons in all these areas I always wanted to study and instead of having to wait months and months to give a cheezy recital and get to perform which is what it's all about I get to do it every week and every week is different because there are always new stories and fantasies to act out and it's not dull or boring because it's not like going to Toyland or Grandma's where you only play with what they have there and nothing else and no one says don't touch that Honey but there you get new toys every week and new games and new people and places and you get to explore your-ing punctuation and so it's a good thing that I get to be a child and learn how to phrase things and learn what I didn't bother to learn back then and this time it's much more fun and the Bomblets will be glad when I do.

And so they continued on their quest. And enjoyed it. And bettered themselves. And made very little money. And made people laugh. And had a good time.

Arlene Thompson:

There I was minding my own business as a travel agent, when one day John Bode walked up to me and said, "Hey, you want to be in a theater group?" I said, "Sure, why not!"

I had no idea I was going to be roped, gagged and dragged to rehearsal. I was told to be funny and was threatened if I did not laugh. I created and worked under the evil eye of my tormentors; I was allowed to go home on Jewish holidays, and I wasn't even Jewish. They swore me to secrecy, the password, the secret handshake and the hidden meaning of Guava Bomblet.

They have trained me to eat Guava Bomblets, sleep Guava Bomblets, drink Guava Bomblets and think Guava Bomblets until one day I woke up and it HAD BEGUN to be a habit. It devoured my every thought, word and action.

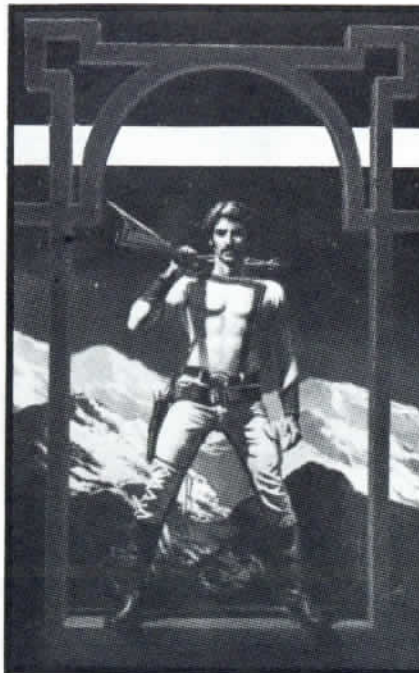

Oh! I can't go on. It's just too horrible to recount. Must life be so unjust and cruel??? No. I decided to enjoy it!!!

GARDEN TEA — Look for all the most expensive designer gowns in the Lone Star State to lavishly grace through Rich's of Houston next Sunday at the exquisite annual Garden Party. The severe private party goes public at six.

TEXAS TELETYPE — Look for River City Newsstand, the largest arcade in Texas, to open in Austin on Research Blvd. by mid-August. . . . A new cruise bar in Fort Worth, the Office Club, under the co-proprietorship of Roger and David, will grand open on August 5.

TATTLE TALE — At the Venture-N's sixth anniversary blast last Sunday, Mary's reclaimed their wandering fish from wacko-city. . . . C.J. Harrington and Jerry Byrd of He and She Productions have named the thinner and vivacious Patti Smith as corporation secretary. . . . And the larger and vivacious Donna Day, along with with Miss Gay Texas, Tasha Kohl, are off to the Mid-Mid America finals in Wichita next weekend! Good luck to our Texas dreamgirls!

HOUSTON HOTLINE — There's a free apple pie waiting for you at Houston's House of Pies tenth anniversary. . . . There's $250 waiting to be wacked off your monthly house payments for a year if you buy into Houston's Mediterranean Villas this month. . . . Robert and Rudy announce that the Montrose Symphonic Band Flag Corps is looking for a few good people at their meeting next Tuesday. . . . And, at the 47th anniversary bash of Texas' oldest gay bar, the Pink Elephant, the joint was jumpin' last Saturday night as the CRUISE CAMERA caught the antics of (l-r) Laura Lee Love, Lana Kane and De Shannon on stage, bringing the house down. Look for the pink pacyderms to plow through the wall and expand the club's size later this month. Photo by TWT's Eli Gukich.

Last Sunday afternoon, July 31, a flotilla of 150 Travis County sheriff officers in 20 boats came ashore and arrested eleven sunbathers on trumped up charges of nudity, drugs, sex and rock 'n' roll. HOT TEA observers stressed that the invasion was not directed at the gay cove! The action was obviously directed from on high in a county ivory tower after complaints were received from neighboring residents living along Lake Travis.

RUMOR OF WEEK — Sundance of Dallas was sked to reopen on August 3— one way or day or another, Sundance returns for sure!

Meanwhile, Galleon manager Bruce "Betti Jo" Dodson has decided to make her tasty Sunday brunches the weekly toast of the town. . . . At her recent Hou-to-SA bus venture, the San Pedro domain of Bruce (second from right) was invaded by (l-r) Marvin Seivers, Mike Owens and humpy Steve Garrett, manager of the Galleon's sister ship in Houston. CRUISE CAMERA photo by Jim Hamilton.

MTV/CTV — If you love Music TV on cable, you'd have loved Copa-TV last Sunday as Houston's Gary Jones punked it up on stage and on video in an innovative rock splash with Naomi, Donna, Tasha and Kelley! Yes, gang, HOT TEA actually attended a drag show sans melodies by Liza Minnelli, Aretha Franklin, Diana Ross and other assorted ol' reliables. What a delight! Let's do Copa-TV again—soon! HOT TEA wants it—Copa-TV.

by Milton von Stern

The Week of August 5-11

METEOR SHOWERS: No time is more heavily laden with meteor showers than this time of the year. As the late July meteor showers of the Delta Aquarids fade, on come the Alpha Capricornids radiating from Aquarius and reaching best visibility around midnight. This shower continues through August 21. Lovers of falling stars will then have to sit out a bleak period, void of meteor showers, until October when the Orionids will swarm down.

AUGUST NEW MOON: Each month, the New Moon marks the beginning of another 28-day lunar month, the perfect time to begin anew—a time for new beginnings. Each month, the New Moon occurs in a different house, allowing readers of STARSCOPE twelve opportunities a year to focus on one of a dozen particular aspects of their life. As the New Moon moves through your houses, sign by sign, STARSCOPE examines in detail those areas of your life that will benefit most from each New Moon. This month's New Moon occurs in Leo on Monday, August 8 at 2:18pm.

LEO: (Jul 23 - Aug 22) The August 8 New Moon is your best and most important New Moon of the year because it occurs in your own sign and in your first house of personality. This August New Moon affords you the ideal launching pad for beginning a new diet and exercise program. You have the opportunity to be a new you, to iron out any flaws you feel you have in your personality, and to adjust your attitude so others will admire you more. This is your once-a-year opportunity to successfully change yourself for the better.

VIRGO: (Aug 23 - Sep 22) If some deep-seated problems have been occupying your thoughts and keeping you awake at night and unattentive at work, then the August 8 New Moon offers an ideal time to decide to tackle your problems. Starting a counseling program will be successful if begun under the blessings of a New Moon. Or perhaps just a good old honest talk with a friend who cares will fix the nix in your inner-self. If you're honest with yourself and those who want to help, then the New Moon offers you the protection of not being hurt.

LIBRA: (Sep 23 - Oct 23) If you feel there is something lacking in your social life and that none of your friends really care about you, then take advantage of the August 8 New Moon in your eleventh house of friendships, hopes and wishes to change this unsteady picture. Under the blessings of the monthly New Moon, you can strengthen friendships with honest communication, you can make social inroads by cultivating the proper persons, and you can realize some of your fondest desires in life.

SCORPIO: (Oct 24 - Nov 21) Your usual desire for pleasure may be replaced by a burning desire to be successful in your career, as the August 8 New Moon comes to rest in your tenth house of your job and employment. This is a splendid and powerful cycle to seek and gain a promotion, to lead others with your ideas, and to assume responsibility for tasks others find too awesome. If you are unemployed, there is no better time this year than now, during the two-week New Moon cycle from August 8-22, to find a job. The lunar vibration is a solid boost to your career, stability and earnings.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov 22 - Dec 21) It's time to take a summer vacation. To independent and travel-seeking archers of the zodiac, this comes as good news because no one likes to hop aboard an impulsive trip more than you do. Fortunately, the New Moon of August 8 illuminates from your ninth house of travel. Take your trip before time runs out on August 22. If you don't choose to travel with a companion, you're certain to find one afar.

CAPRICORN: (Dec 22 - Jan 19) Your usual nature to worry and fret could be easily replaced by an impulse to break loose and excite as the August 8 New Moon occurs in your eighth house of sexual pleasures. For you to fully enjoy this sensual cycle, however, it will be necessary for you to see the practicality of such adventures. The New Moon shoves you into the whirl.

AQUARIUS: (Jan 20 - Feb 18) If marriage is on your mind, then the New Moon of August 8 brings good news of wedding bells. This is your best time of the year, August 8-22, for serious romance, since the New Moon vibrates from your seventh house of marriage. If you've ever dreamed on and on of an ideal mate, your chances of finding such are now the best they'll ever be for 1983. If your current relationship has been sagging, the New Moon gives you the opportunity and the avenue to breathe new life into it.

PISCES: (Feb 18 - Mar 20) If you find yourself very health conscious these hot summer days, it's because the monthly New Moon of August 8 occurs in your sixth house of health. This means that the period from August 8-22 is your best time of the year to see a doctor, dentist, counselor or advisor. Diagnosis under the New Moon will be accurate and treatment and recovery will be speedy. Additionally, exercise programs always produce greater results under such a New Moon.

ARIES: (Mar 21 - Apr 19) Your normal impulsive nature to jump into love affairs is further enhanced by the August 8 New Moon which, fortunately, occurs in your fifth house of love affairs. This two-week cycle, while the Moon is growing larger, affords you the once-a-year opportunity to allow your romancing to grow and bloom. Your personality acts like a magnet, attracting others with little effort when you least expect it. This is a time to be out and about and available.

TAURUS: (Apr 20 - May 20) Your normal nature to seek stability is further enhanced by the placement of the August 8 New Moon in your fourth house of the home. It is from your home that you will glean your greatest contentment and security during this two-week cycle. This is also a perfect time to move, buy or sell real estate, or redecorate your home. Domestic pleasures will now give more healthy satisfaction.

GEMINI: (May 21 - Jun 21) No one in the zodiac likes to talk more than you, and no one's mind is as agile as yours. All of these natural attributes are further enhanced by the August 8 New Moon, which occurs in your third house of communication. You are, therefore, urged to talk, sell, convince, entrap, lead and coax during this cycle because all of your mental and verbal efforts will be richly rewarded with unboundable success.

GANGER: (Jun 22 - Jul 22) Your natural nature is to love your home. With the August 8 New Moon occurring in your second house of money, it is highly likely that you'll want to buy items to decorate your home. Purchases made during the New Moon cycle, August 8-22, will be wise, enjoyed forever and admired by others. You are encouraged to invest during this cycle because, as the New Moon grows, so will your investments whether in real estate, money market funds or the stock market. You are in your best two-week cycle of 1983 for launching successful financial plans.

Coming next week: After 2½ years of Saturn being in Libra, it readies to move into Scorpio on August 25.
