1983 NEWS WRAP-UP

In this last edition of TWT magazine for the old year, 1983, the editorial staff, as usual, has taken its annual look back into the year just completed.

Here are the top five gay news stories of 1983 in Texas—a chronicle of the year's most important news developments.

TWT NEWS selected the order of these stories on the basis of how each related to and affected the gay lifestyle in Texas during the past year, from the cornerstones of law, politics and health—i.e. gay rights and our lifestyle.

News Story #1

365 GAY DAYS OF TEXAS FREEDOM

TEXAS — All 365 days of 1983 were enjoyed by gay men and lesbians in the State of Texas without the burden of 21.06 hanging over the gay lifestyle. It was the first complete year of freedom from that section of the Texas Penal Code which had outlawed homosexual conduct. It was the first complete year that Texas homosexuals were legalized, that they were not deemed lawbreakers simply because of their lifestyle—their sexual preference.

Because nothing can truly change until the laws are changed is why TWT NEWS has selected gay legalized freedom as the top story in Texas of 1983.

The freedom from legal bondage actually began on August 17, 1982, when Federal District Judge Jerry Buchmeyer struck down 21.06, declaring it unconstitutional. It was on that day that Texas became the twenty-sixth state in a growing list to legalize homosexuality.

However, the fight in the courts actually started years earlier, when the Texas Human Rights Foundation was formed with its primary purpose being to change the state law. Plaintiff Don Baker, a schoolteacher from Dallas, had agreed to file suit. His trial came on June 15, 1981. However, it was not until 14 months later that a final verdict was handed down in favor of gays.

But, even after Judge Buchmeyer had made his ruling, there were still roadblocks being thrown up to overturn the judgment. Within two months, on October 28, Potter County District Attorney, Danny E. Hill, had appealed the decision. Hill's appeal was followed by then-Attorney General Mark White's legal concern.

Why did White appeal 21.06? Senior lobbyist for gay rights in Austin, Bettie Naylor, explained to TWT NEWS, "I think he [White] felt an obligation as attorney general to appeal that law, just as he did other laws and challenges to the Texas Constitution. He felt he didn't have much choice, since he was the attorney general."

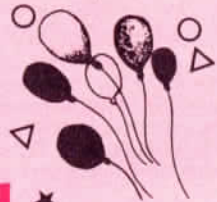

However, on March 11, 1983, the newly-elected attorney general, Jim Mattox, dropped Hill's appeal of 21.06. It is important to remember that Mattox took many political risks in deciding not to appeal. "His courage is applauded," remarked the late M. Robert Schwab, then president of THRF, adding, "Maddox took the correct step, both morally and legally."

It was after Mattox's November 1982 election as attorney general, that Schwab had predicted to TWT NEWS that "Mattox would likely drop the state's appeal of 21.06"—and he did.

Thus, 21.06 was obliterated, once and for all. Its obliteration was celebrated on the anniversary of the Buchmeyer decision. On August 17, 1983, the gay community of Dallas presented its first annual Texas Freedom Festival, to mark the 365th day of homosexual freedom. Dignitaries and gay leaders from across the state came together to share in the historic moment.

News Story #2

TEXAS GAY LOBBY BATTLES FOES

TEXAS — With the 21.06 victory still fresh in Texas history books, another fight to save our freedom was already building in the 1983 session of the Texas Legislature.

No sooner had we won one battle, that another had loomed. No sooner had 21.06 been declared unconstitutional, that 21.38 was fired at us in a volley of homophobia.

State Representative Bill Ceverha, a Republican from Richardson, Texas, had introduced a new anti-gay sodomy bill last winter, during the 1983 Legislative session. Ceverha wanted to make certain that since 21.06 was then a dead issue, Texas did not go without any anti-gay law on the books.

Thus, he hurriedly concocted House Bill 21.38. It would have torn down the very things that had just been accomplished in defeating 21.06. Its language was harsh and crude; its purpose was to once again take away our newly-acquired freedom.

It was because of the gay lobby in Austin, the Lesbian/Gay Rights Advocates, that the bill was stymied in committee and never came to a vote on the floor of the Legislature. Ceverha tried to wrap the emotion of the AIDS issue around his bill to build sympathy and support, but it failed, in spite of the much publicized attention given to the Dallas Doctors Against AIDS group.

Why did Ceverha introduce HB-21.38? "It's strictly my personal speculation," Bettie Naylor, senior lobbyist for LGRA, said, "but there is no question about the fact that the man really does have a problem with homosexuality."

"I there were a few other legislators like Hollowell from near Waco who joined Ceverha, but he [Ceverha] was the main catalyst," Naylor explained.

Looking back on the 68th session of the State Legislature, it can be recorded that no anti-gay legislation was allowed to pass into law. Our gay lobby was extremely successful on all fronts in 1983.

Aside from sidetracking HB-21.38, LGRA also killed a bill which would have required VD testing for all citizens, helped keep the drinking age from being raised to 21, helped keep popper aromas legalized in Texas, and helped keep the gay lifestyle from being infringed on by narrow-minded house bills.

Governor Mark White does not want to have to deal with bills like HB-21.38, LGRA has assured. "He [White] is a good man for Texas gays and lesbians to have as governor of Texas," it has been proven, opined LGRA.

TEXAS GAY VOTE GAINS MORE CLOUT

TEXAS — In 1983, gay voters in cities like Dallas, Houston, Austin and San Antonio, demonstrated that when our community votes together, we have much strength, enough strength in fact to get pro-gay, pro-human rights candidates elected to office. Voting together is known as bloc voting.

Ever since the late 1970s, politicians in Texas have become increasingly aware that a gay endorsement is a ticket to ride to victory rather than a kiss of death. Each election year, more and more candidates come before our local political organizations seeking the gay community's endorsement.

1983 was no exception. In fact, the exceptions became the rule.

In San Antonio, the newly-formed Alamo Human Rights Commission endorsed a staunch advocate of human rights, Orlando Garcia. On November 19, Garcia galloped to victory in his bid for a Texas House seat, with a 72% plurality.

In San Antonio's April 2 city election, AHRC had made its first endorsements and won big. AHRC had endorsed such victorious candidates as Maria Berriozabel and Bernardo Eureste for San Antonio City Council. Eureste's opponent, Jesse Valdez, had even appeared on local television doing some gay-baiting. He labeled the man who was to beat him in an April 16 runoff as "queer." Later, however, he apologized sincerely to AHRC.

Although AHRC did not officially endorse Mayor Henry Cisneros, his 94.1% landslide mandate was heralded as a victory for human rights.

In Austin, the ALGPC was able to again count many winners in its victory column in last spring's city election. There was, however, a controversy in the mayor's race and considerable confusion in one Austin City Council race.

In the April 30 runoff, ALGPC supported, but didn't endorse, Ron Mullen, who was elected mayor over Lowell Lebermann by 52.6%. ALGPC, although pleased with the Mullen victory, had not officially endorsed the winner. "The vote in the ALGPC about the mayoral race was between endorsing Ron Mullen, or making no endorsement at all," Mary Summerall had told TWT NEWS. "The majority of those in attendance had voted to make no endorsement. Meanwhile, many of the city's leading gay clubs had visibly thrown their support behind Lebermann.

Those same clubs and gay businesses had also thrown their support behind Mark Spaeth for one of the six Austin City Council positions. Spaeth was on record "for being sensitive to all the interests of the community."

But ALGPC also made no endorsement of Spaeth for Place 4, deciding instead to endorse Leda Roselle. Thus, there was no real gay bloc vote in Austin, as the community lay divided. The vote, as expected, also divided and the race was thrown into an April 30 runoff.

ALGPC-endorsed Rosell did not even make that runoff. So, ALGPC switched their endorsement to George Humphrey —again not endorsing frontrunner Spaeth.

In that runoff, Spaeth trailed most of the night, but pulled ahead in the end to win by a slim 50.6% margin. ALGPC critics cite the fact that the caucus had twice endorsed a loser in the same race.

In Dallas, a similar story brewed in a similar city council election on April 2. DGPC had voted to endorse incumbent Ricardo Medrano, rather than challenger Paul Fielding. Yet some opponents of DGPC supported Fielding. The community was split, and so was the vote. In fact, the entire race was thrown into a tense runoff on April 16. And, as was true in Austin, the gay-endorsed candidate, which was Medrano, lost.

Fielding in Dallas, like Spaeth in Austin, was a supporter of gay rights, but like Spaeth, had also not sought the gay endorsement. Yet he won, if only by a slim 52% margin.

DGPC explained later to TWT NEWS that redistricting in Oak Lawn had given the caucus reason to believe that District 2 no longer contained their central core of gay voters.

As fate would have it, another similar story brewed in Houston, in the November 8 election. Once again, a city council race was at stake, just like in Austin and Dallas. Once again, both candidates were pro-gay, pro-human rights. And, once again, just as in Austin and Dallas, the gay-endorsed candidate lost.

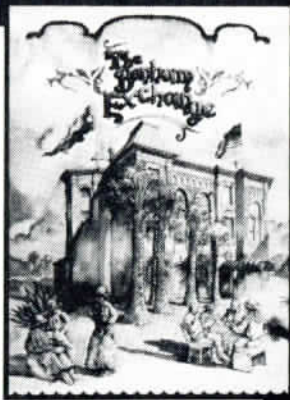

The heated race between the winner, Anthony Hall, and the loser, Nikki van Hightower, found sectors of the gay community divided over whom to support. Although van Hightower carried the gay precincts of Montrose, Hall won City Hall. Hall had cut over 25% into the Houston gay bloc vote.

However, it was the only race where a GPC-endorsed candidate lost, because Mayor Kathy Whitmire and City Councilmembers Eleanor Tinsley, George Greanias, Judson Robinson, Jr., Jim Greenwood, Rodney Ellis and Dale Gorczyński—all GPC-endorsed—won.

Yet in spite of the many 1983 gay political victories in Austin, Dallas and Houston, there is considerable concern in each of these cities that the political process of endorsing candidates needs to be reexamined.

For a gay political caucus to lose a crucial battle in one Texas city could be called circumstance. But for it to have happened in Texas' three most politically active cities in one year, opens the door to self-introspection.

Something has happened. A trend has shown up on the graphs of gay bloc voting.

That something is this: The days of having only one pro-gay candidate run for a particular office are over. As our clout grows, more and more pro-gay candidates will surely seek our support.

The city council decisions made in 1983 in Austin between Spaeth and Roselle/Humphrey, in Dallas between Medrano and Fielding, and in Houston between Hall and van Hightower, are minor confrontations—although bitter—when compared to the even greater choices facing gay bloc voters in 1984.

Let us hope that we have learned in 1983 what we will have to deal with in 1984.

Let us not burn political bridges that we may have to recross. Let us not tear down one of our political friends in order to build up another.

Who is to say that the victors—non-ALGPC-endorsed Spaeth in Austin, non-DGPC-endorsed Fielding in Dallas or non-HGPC-endorsed Hall in Houston—will not serve our interests well on city councils in their respective cities.

For this to have happened to our gay vote in three Texas cities in the same year indicates that it is a point that needs to be addressed immediately. In spite of all our many victories in the political arena, we cannot allow even one single race to divide us.

Clearly, we need to fine tune our political caucuses and how we endorse and conduct ourselves in our campaigns for "our friends." If we don't modify our political handlings of such situations, then the candidates will surely modify it for us, and take our leaders down in unpopularity.

In 1984, we need to make a New Year's resolution to not allow ourselves to again divide ourselves. Otherwise, we leave ourselves vulnerable to dividing our highly-publicized gay bloc vote.

GAY STUDENTS MORE ORGANIZED

TEXAS — If there ever was a shortage of top notch leaders in the maturing gay communities of Texas, it was in 1983. That is why the formation of more and more gay student groups on our state college campuses has become so important.

For it is true that tomorrow's teachers and leaders are the students of today. From these newly-inspired campus groups, surely more leaders of the gay rights movement shall emerge.

In 1983, a landmark meeting was held in Dallas on June 24-25, when 13 different campus organizations from across Texas met for the first time to form the statewide Texas Gay and Lesbian Student Organization Coalition (TGLSOC).

The coalition pledged to keep its promise of helping fledgling gay student organizations form on Texas campuses. TGLSOC also established a task force to deal specifically with relationships between universities and their gay organizations.

The latest members to join TGLSOC were the Lambda Christian Fellowship of Brazos County at Texas A&M, and Gays of Angelo State (GAS), which is in the process of seeking recognition by the school.

As the old year was ending, the new University of Texas at Arlington Gay/Lesbian Association was approved as an official campus organization. The vote was 8 to 1 in favor in the easy decision.

Approval, however, was still pending at two other state colleges. After seven years, Gay Student Services (GSS) was still awaiting approval by Texas A&M University at College Station. Their case has been batted around in the courts for far too long.

Also bogged down in their attempt to become officially recognized was the Gay and Lesbian Support Organization (GLSO) of Southern Methodist University. After three appeals to the Student Senate, the group's highly-publicized case was still pending.

College groups among the approved and faculty-annointed included at year's end UT's Gay Student Association of Austin, Gay/Lesbian Association of Denton, Gay Academic Union of North Texas, Lesbian/Gay Resource Services of the University of Houston, Rice Gay/Lesbian Support Group, and the Gay/Lesbian Associated Students at Stephen F. Austin College at Nacogdoches.

February 5, 1984 will mark the first-year anniversary of the initial meeting and formation of the statewide TGLSOC, which is acting as a protective umbrella, shielding our campus organizations from legal flak and peer persecution.

STILL NO CURE FOR AIDS

TEXAS — TWT NEWS would have liked to have made the AIDS story the top story of the year. But that won't happen until a cure is found. Hopefully, next year, the AIDS health issue can advance to the top of the yearly news report by proclaiming an end to the mystery.

Until then, acquired immune deficiency syndrome, hence the acronym AIDS, will continue to be the major health concern of the gay community. If in 1982 we came into shock and fear over AIDS, then in 1983 we advanced to come to grips with its ramifications.

In 1982, five Texans died of AIDS. In 1983, that many died the first month. Nationwide, nearly 3,000 cases of AIDS have been counted by year's end at the Center for Disease Control. Of that, about 41%—over 1,100—had resulted in death.

Fortunately, the fatality rate in Texas has remained much lower. Nationwide, Texas has only accounted for less than 5% of all AIDS cases. In 1983, Austin had only two fatalities, San Antonio counted three, Dallas figures indicated about a dozen deaths, and in Houston—the state's highest—the figures were hazy because of delayed reporting, but indicated nearly two dozen deaths.

Thus, in Texas, not only was the case-load lighter, the fatality rate also lagged the nationwide statistics, according to 1983 figures.

In 1983 we also learned that AIDS was not purely an American disease. Thirty-two other countries have been affected. "It's a global health threat," medical experts now say. Outside of the United States, Western Europe is the hardest hit—especially France and Western Germany.

After extensive research, doctors still do not know how AIDS is transmitted from one individual to another. Although various forms of treatment have been successful on over half of the cases, no one single cure-all has yet been found.

Texans, probably more than any other people in the nation, have come to grips with AIDS better, by putting the mystery into perspective. Panic has subsided and logic has prevailed.

Thanks to the efforts of the AIDS Action Project of the Oak Lawn Counseling Center in Dallas, the SAFE Week Committee of San Antonio, and the KS/AIDS Foundation of Houston, programs for treatment, help, counseling, feeding, transportation, nursing, doctor referral and peer support have been instituted.

Such organizations have also been pivotal in raising money for local needs, and lobbying to get more money allocated from city health budgets for research and treatment.

Hopefully, 1984 will be the last year doctors will still refer to AIDS as a "mystery killer." Hopefully, in 1984, our prayers will be answered and the cause and cure of AIDS will be reported, putting an end to the disease, once and for ever.

1983'S BEST BOOKS

by David Fields

The books that appear on this list are here for a variety of reasons. Some are simply entertaining, and all good at what they set out to do. One novel is written by a professor of medieval French literature in Mexico City. Books of satire, a gay cookbook (done up just right), books of a personal nature, personal issues and spiritual issues are included.

It is difficult to say which is the top book of 1983, because most are samples of the best of a particular subject. Some are books you will not find on the best-seller list because of the explosion of good gay books in the last several years. A list of ten does not begin to suggest the quality, diversity and volume of books available.

As I mentioned in one review in the last year, everyone has different standards of what makes a "good" book, and preferences as to what they would like to read. So it is possible your favorite is not among them. There are many "bests," and I have chosen these ten as a sampler, in no particular order.

Death Trick by Robert Stevenson—a detective mystery; well-crafted, with wit, intelligent and strong gay characters; good plot.

The Gay of Cooking by the Kitchen Fairy—real live recipes and outrageous word play; comprehensive.

Southern Discomfort by Rita Mae Brown—the authoress of the bestselling Ruby Fruit Jungle does it again with wonderful, warm characters, small town intrigues and the small minds that live there.

In Search of God in the Sexual Underground by E.C. "Toby" Johnson—gives spiritual and mythological meaning to life in the Tenderloin district of San Francisco.

The Color Purple by Alice Walker—Pulitzer Prize winning letter-form novel about a poor, black woman, uneducated and living in the rural South; Celie learns

Coming Out to Parents by Mary V. Borhek—a thorough and in-depth exposition of the problems and emotions parents face; the authoress is the mother of a gay son and wrote My Son Eric.

Whose Child Cries by Joe Gantz—a first person account of the lives of five families of gay parents; the children express their thoughts and feelings; novel-type format.

Reviewed by Harry Deutsch

PRIMETIME FOR HITLER

Nobody's Nazis are more hilariously nasty than Mel Brooks'. To Be Or Not To Be is the movie based very loosely on the 1942 film of the same title which starred Carole Lombard and Jack Benny. Mr. Brooks has grouped a number of talented people around himself and entangled them in a halfway decent storyline. In the best Brooks tradition we have plenty of not so discrete humor, more than enough shtick and a handful of scenes that should justify a roar or two.

Mel Brooks as Frederick Bronski

teutonic aggressiveness interferes directly with the prospering stage careers of the Bronskis (Brooks and Anne Bancroft) who run a theatre in downtown Warsaw. The Nazis are slowly but surely ridding their new territory of undesirables, and Brooks observes that you can't run a theatre without Jews, fags and gypsies. His (film and real)

Anne Bancroft as Anna Bronski

The year is 1939, which sees Hitler in his prime. He is demonstrating to the world that he is a pieceloving fellow, i.e., he wants a piece of Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, and so on, and so on. His wife's dresser is what one might subtly call a flaming queen who has a terrible time coordinating his wardrobe around the big pink triangle he is forced to wear. He is played with effeminate effectiveness by James Haake. When he goes on a date with another bearer of the same label, one love triangle, so to speak, meets another.

2 B involves numerous masquerades which require its leading man to double as a treacherous tipster, a Nazi bigwig, an overblown Hamlet and the furious Fuhrer himself. As usual, Mr. Brooks overacts (which doesn't hurt the picture) and hardly allows a scene to go by without him in it. Ms. Bancroft comes on almost equally strong as his partner in the limelight. Tim Matheson plays her youthful admirer and fling prospect. Charles Durning is wonderfully inept as the Gestapo's chief turkey, and Christopher (Taxi's Ignatousky) is excellent as the Hogan-heroic Captain Schultz. The dancing sequences look a little stale and flatfooted, but where else can you see a chorus line moving to "Sweet Georgia Brown" sung in Polish?

2 B is not one of Mel Brooks' greatest, but it is reasonably entertaining and offers the legally required minimum of amusing moments to qualify as a comedy.

THE KEEP

Reviewed by O. Flores Alvarez

KEEP AWAY FROM THE KEEP

I can describe The Keep in three words: bad, worst, terrible.

And I'm being kind.

This has got to be one of the worst movies to have been made in the history of the world. We are talking bad acting, bad sets, no writing past grunts, groans and screams, and a zero plot line.

This movie is so bad, I can't believe Paramount Pictures put it out. Paramount must have had money to burn, because that would have been better than spending it on this kind of garbage.

Scott Glenn stars (?), poor guy. We first saw him in Urban Cowboy. The press kit says he's a "macho-male romantic," but I don't believe it. I think he's a guy so hungry for work that he'll even do movies like this if they pay him enough. Glenn was also in Apocalypse Now. And in something called Baby Maker, as well as Nashville, Personal Best and The Right Stuff. Some of those performances were worth watching; unfortunately, The Keep isn't.

There is an international cast around Glenn; it seems Paramount had to go out of the country to get people who were willing to be in such a flop.

Alberta Watson and Scott Glenn battle the forces of evil.

THE YEAR IN MOVIES

The Good, the Bad and The Ugly

The past twelve months have often crisscrossed between cinema de crap and movie magic. There has been a mass of mediocre, unimaginative motion pictures sandwiched between a selective few reels of celluloid class on one side and an embarrassing dozen or so of big screen low-blows on the other.

GRUESOME TWOSOMES

One disturbing development has continued in '83, namely that of silly sequels. Even more disturbing is that the paying public has apparently not quite comprehended that, with few exceptions, those film follow-ups develop severe rip-offish tendencies. Among the unfortunate attempts to cash in on a former moneymaker's name recognition were Sting II, Psycho II, Cannonball II and Porky's II. After all that you'll need a break, too. An even uglier marketing twist has been Hollywood's habit to turn third parts into three dimensional disasters. Samples: Amityville III-D and Jaws III-D. These not exactly one-sided efforts are clearly all sponsored by the Bayer people, who are fully aware that the tricky 3-D glasses tend to generate genuine headaches. Be sure to wait patiently for Superman IV, Smokey and the Bandit IV and Rocky IV. Don't ask me what for.

TRENDS

While the past year has been short on new artistic accomplishments, we have seen a nouveau wave come about. Style and slickness with a seemingly computerized choreography has made its transformation from MTV and TV commercials to your neighborhood theater. Films like Flashdance and The Hunger certainly provide visual satisfaction where they may lack substance or character depth.

HITS

Even though not on my Top Ten list, we have seen a few flicks that should easily survive the year, among them The Big Chill, The Right Stuff, and, another sequel, The Return of the Jedi.

Mary Kay Place and William Hurt in The Big Chill. Matt Dillon in Rumble Fish.

Debra Winger (l) and Shirley MacLaine in Terms of Endearment.

Actors Sean Penn, Tom Cruise and Matthew Broderick (my favorite!) have emerged as the most promising stars for the 80's.

SUPERFLOPS

Let's quickly forget Coppola's The

by Harry Deutsch

Outsiders and Rumble Fish; maybe he needs The Godfather III to find his way back to financial and creative strength. Other insulting offerings that come to mind were Staying Alive (illegitimate son of Saturday Night Fever), A Night in Marie Kaprisky and Richard Gere in Breathless. Meg Tilly in Psycho II.

Dennis Quaid and Bess Armstrong in Jaws 3-D.

Catherine Deneuve and David Bowie punk it up in The Hunger.

Heaven and Friedkin's Deal of the Century. The good news is, we did not have to endure Brooke Shields all year long.

GAYS ON CAMERA

After the discovery of the alternate lifestyle in '82, the current year has been extremely tame. Watch for Robert Altman's Streamer still to come. Sources say it is an excellent effort. Also get ready for Cher as a lesbian in Silkwood.

DEUTSCH'S TOP TEN

Local Hero—Wonderfully outlandish. John (Gregory's Girl) Forsythe directs a cast of captivating characters searching for oil and life's answers in eerie Scotland.

Tender Mercies—Robert Duval is great as the lonestar legend about to retire on a home on the range.

Breathless—Some didn't like this Godard remake. I loved and could identify with Richard Gere as the all-or-nothing small-time crook.

War Games—Atari-style Armageddon. This exciting end-of-the-world thriller introduces Matthew Broderick to the world.

Class—Some called it a cheap Graduate remake. I saw a healthy, often affectionate relationship between straight American males.

Zelig—Woody Allen is funny again in this superbly crafted mock docudrama.

Under Fire—About the ethics of journalism. A gripping first-rate account of third-world warfare.

Educating Rita—Julie Waters and Michael Caine are brilliant as they are playing school.

Terms of Endearment—Where Love Story meets Real People.

-10—still open.

And as if that weren't enough, could I have the envelopes please.

DAVID HOUSTON

By Dean Malone

David Houston got his first lucky break in Tyler, Texas when he recorded his first hit "Mountain of Love" with the assistance of Tillman Franks, the man who is now David's manager and musical accompaniment on the upright bass.

David's next big hit was called "Almost Persuaded" which went to Number One on the national country charts and won two Grammy Awards (best country record and best male country vocal) for him.

He has won two Country Music Awards for his duet with partners, Tammy Wynette ("My Elusive Dreams") and Barbara Mandrell ("After Closing Time").

David told us in a telephone conversation, "My latest television appearance was on Ralph Emery's Nashville Now cable show. I've done three of those now." Although his home is in Bossier City, La., he says, "I've played Gilley's in Houston along with other places. I make my home in Louisiana because my father is a direct descendant of Sam Houston and my mother is a direct descendant of Robert E. Lee. My people have lived here since 1830. My parents and our family are still based here."

When asked about his New Year's Eve show in Houston at the Brazos River Bottom, David disclosed, "I'll be doing two forty-five minute sets with the Mustang Band. I think it will be fun. I'll get to do songs I can't sing on the Grand Ole' Opry." When pressured for an example, David replied, "Oh, songs like 'I Gave Her the Ring and She Gave Me the Finger' and 'Big Legged Women Keep Your Dresses Down'. The last line of that song goes, 'Cause you got somethin' big mama, make a bulldog love a hound.' Get the picture?"

Yes we do! Sounds like a good ol' country time.

ROOMMATES

Growing up in the Sixties and Seventies, I thought roommates were something college students needed in order to move off campus. This was just another stage in "growing up," getting married, and entering the "real world."

Then I grew up, my marriage failed, and I found out the "real world" wasn't so simple. After I came out, I realized that roommates could be the alternative to loneliness, and not necessarily a temporary alternative. Being cut off from family who don't/won't understand and co-workers I couldn't confide in, led me to discover that there was life between being single and being married.

Finding an ersatz family in friendship and co-habitation may have been a hippy fad of the Sixties, but for gays it has always been a necessary lifestyle. Some of us are loners and some married, but a lot of us find the family we need in roommates. At least we can thank the Sixties for teaching us that adults, male and female, could co-habitate without a total breakdown of morals.

Pictured here and on the cover are my three roommates, Chris Alexander (right), Larry Jones, and Fran Davis. Chris is art director at a Medical Center hospital where Larry also works as a press operator in the print shop. Fran is an illustrator for a large corporation; her specialty is operating a computer graphics system.

Together we have shared a home for nearly two years, yet we still like each other. Sure, we have our differences, and each of us needs his or her "space" now and then, but this holds true for any family. Only difference I can see is that in our house we have a democracy where we all share decisions and responsibilities (and get cranky with similar equality).

I feel lucky to have met friends I feel comfortable sharing my home with; I met them right here in Montrose where we live. To hell with anyone who thinks being 30 and having roommates is weird. This is 1984, baby!

SPORTS SUMMARY

TWT Sports Annual Year-End Wrap-Up

Since the emergence in TWT Magazine of a regular weekly sports page at the turn of this decade, gay sports in Texas has grown, flourished and been nurtured by both fans, sponsors, businesses, and an increasing array of participants.

In 1980, bowling and volleyball were topping the list of activities. By 1981, tennis and softball had organized. In 1982, the coming-out experiences of several prominent national sports figures in pro football and pro baseball gave the local gay athlete a new self-image, a proud purpose.

By 1983, all major cities in Texas—Austin, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Corpus Christi—were as competitive and organized as their forerunners in Dallas and Houston. The concrete formation of Sports Associations and Sports Committees has added to the cohesive spirit of competition across Texas!

Here, season-by-season, is a compendium of Texas Gay Sports as chronicled by TWT SPORTS.

SPRING

On Sunday April 24, 1983 the MSA Thursday Night Mixed Bowling League held its awards ceremonies at the Velvet Hammer. The overall winner of the 1982-83 winter season was Just Marion and Lynn's. The final first place divisional teams were Rockettes Two and Briar Patch Pacesetters. Second place teams were the Barnyard Biddies and The Natives Are Restless. League high average went to Myrt Bading for women and Steve McConaughy for men.

When the Women's Softball League (WSL) spring season ended on May 7, 1983, there was a four-way tie for first place between the River Rats, Briar Patch, Sports Coverage Unlimited and First Edition. Thus, a play-off was scheduled for May 22. However, typical Gulf Coast rains delayed the tension until June 5 when the Briar Patch Renegades broke the tie and took the championship. Sports Coverage ended the season in the runner-up slot followed by First Edition in third.

In Dallas, in the Oak Lawn Bowling Association rollofts for the winter season ending May 16, these were the final top standings:

Division A: 1) Natalie Deadwoods, 2) Up Your Alley, and 3) L'Rimr. Division B: 1) Oh Daddy's, 2) Pine Valley Misfits, and 3) Cyprians. Division C: 1) Odd Squad, 2) Midnite Ballers and 3) La Menage A Re.

Meanwhile, in Houston, the MSA Monday Night Bowling League had also ended its fall-winter season. In March 25 ceremonies at the Marriott Astrodome, The Other Men were declared the season's champs.

In divisional standings, first place winners were The Copa, Bushwackers and Hole. Second place teams for the season were Queen Pins, Bowlerinas, Sisters of Mercy and Barnyard Hoers. Third place teams were Eurotan, Briar Patch Two, Alley Cats and Five Easy Pieces. Steve McConaughy won the season's award for overall league high average.

In Corpus Christi, the final results for the 1983 season found the Hidden Door in the top June spot, followed by The Neck Ups with Texas Boys rounding out the top three. Troy Marlatt won high game for the season, Steve Falgout won high series, Bobby Wilcox won individual high series handicap and Chuck West won individual high game handicap.

SUMMER

For the fourth year during Gay Pride Week, the Montrose Sports Association provided a day of sports pride and competition. In previous years the MSA All-Stars had either played the policemen or the firemen. This year it was different. It was all gay! Houston vs. Dallas!

On June 18, four games were played. In the first of women's doubleheader games, Houston's WSL All-Stars played the High Country All-Stars of Dallas and shut out Dallas 23-0. In the second women's game, Houston again shut out Dallas in a game between the Briar Patch Renegades of Houston and the Unicorns of Dallas. Thus, Houston won the gay pride doubleheader in women's play.

In men's competition, the story was different. Houston won the first game; Dallas took the second. In the opener, the MSA North All-Stars trounced the Oak Lawn All-Stars, 13-3. In the second game, however, the Dallas All-Stars edged by the MSA South All-Stars 9-8.

Over Independence Day weekend in Houston, the annual Fourth of July Lone Star Classic softball tournament was successfully held as 39 games were played in two days as teams from all over America came to Texas. Final standings were 1) Dirty Sally's of Houston, 2) Greg's Blue Dot of Los Angeles, 3) the Galleon of Houston, and 4) Kansas City's Cabaret. Cafe St. Marcus of San Francisco won the sportsmanship award in ceremonies at Miss Charlotte's.

In Dallas, in the new Lambda Summer Bowling League of Thursday night bowlers, their premier season ended with a three-way deadlock for first place that was narrowed to a two-way tie with total pins determining Late Cummers as the first season's winner. The Gutter Sluts took second place. Cindy Spencer won women's high scratch series while Sally Gammage and Cheryl Tiercy tied for women's high scratch game. The season's winner in men's high scratch series competition was won by Cliff Adair while game play was awarded to D. Davis.

On August 15, the summer session of the Oak Lawn Bowling Association ended with some last minute jostling of positions.

Division A: 1) Atta Girls, 2) Crisco Kids, and 3) High Rollers. Division B: 1) Round Up Dancers, 2) Up Your Alley, and 3) Boot Scooters. Individual winners had been Al Aaron, Hank Cantrell, Si Holt, and Ron Adams. Awards were presented at the Dunfy Hotel on August 22.

In August, the Briar Patch Renegades won the first place trophy in the first annual Houston Women's Softball Classic. Cyanide took second, Kindred Spirits took third, and Dallas' Ray's Gays landed in the top four.

Also in August, the MSA Monday Night Summer Bowling League came to an end with the following teams placing in the top six after heated rollofs: 1) Five Easy Pieces with an 8 win, 4 loss record, 2) High Heel Rollers, 3) Dirty Sally's, 4) Tush Ticklers, 5) Badd Girls and 6) Teddy Bears.

For the second consecutive year, Dirty Sally's won the MSA Men's Softball League summer competition and the privilege of representing Houston at the Gay World Series in Chicago, beginning August 30.

The final game was a replay of the last three years as The Galleon and Dirty Sally's had once again found themselves one game away each from a championship. In the 1983 rubber game, Sally's trounced the Galleon 14-2, placing the shipmates in second place for the season.

Final 1983 standings: 1) Dirty Sally's, South Division Champs, 2) The Galleon, North Division Champs, 3) Montrose Voice, 4) Brazos River Bottom, 5) tie between Miss Charlotte's and the Montrose Mining Company, 7) tie between the Barn and the Briar Patch, and 9) tie between Catch One and Jim's Gym.

At the Gay World Series in the Windy City, Dirty Sally's was unable to get the necessary hits needed to capture a top spot. In the opening game on August 30, Seattle beat Sally's 7 to 5. Two days later, Sally's came back to win over Southern New England, 2 to 1. However, as fate would have it, the third game was again with Seattle. Sally's lost again to the northwesternmost city, 7 to 2, dashing all hopes of any winners bracket placement for Texas.

OPEN ALL NIGHT NEW YEAR'S EVE

After 31 games played by 16 teams, Chicago Sidetrack won the 1983 Gay World Series. Atlanta was second, Los Angeles was third, Seattle was fourth, San Francisco was fifth, and Houston was down in twelfth place.

As summer was ending, so was the first big season of the new Oak Lawn Softball Association. After all the runs, hits and errors had been tallied, Dallas Steel was awarded the 1983 championship. The runner-up slot went to the Throckmorton Mining Company. The Round-Up came in third, the Gay News placed fourth, followed by the Unicorn in fifth place and High Country rounded out the top six teams for the 1983 season.

AUTUMN

In September, the third annual Southwest Invitational Softball Tournament was played in Tulsa over Labor Day weekend, and it was an instant replay of last year's event for Houston as the Kansas City Cabaret again narrowly beat the Brazos River Bottom of Houston, 14 to 13. Top three teams: 1) KC, 2) BRB, and 3) Lambda Lancers of Topeka.

In San Antonio, as Autumn was beginning, hill country teams swept the first Alamo Volleyball Tournament.

Division A final standings: 1) San Antonio Galleon, 2) Dallas Team, and 3) Austin Supremes. Division B: 1) Austin Fuenza, 2) San Antonio Galleon, and 3) San Antonio Blazers.

In tennis, in Dallas during October's Texas-OU weekend Tournament, Tony Cibrian captured the A Singles crown. Cibrian's win came after a tough match with Don Draper in the finals of the fourth annual tourney. Mickey Braden upset Frank Guerro in B Singles. In Open doubles, Mike West and Jon Papp were upset by Don Draper and Al Leon.

As October ended, so did the MSA Women's Softball League Fall season, resulting in the following final standings: Division A: 1) Kindred Spirits, 2) Renegades, 3) Cyanide, 4) SCU and 5) Rage. Division B: 1) River Rats, 2) MCCR, 3) Special Blend, 4) High Hopes, 5) Marion and Lynn's, and 6) Double R Saloon.

In San Antonio in November, the Alamo City's Jans-Men's Bowling League hosted the statewide Texas Rolloff Tournament, known as TROT. When the action was over, the Briar Patch of Houston had won, Godamtherring placed second, and the Galleon of San Antonio rounded out the top three.

Our Capricorns this week are (l-r) Dyan Cannon (Jan. 4), and our almost First Lady, Jane Wyman (Jan. 4).

The Week of December 30-January 5

METEOR SHOWERS: The first meteor shower of the new year will occur next Thursday, January 4, 1984 producing approximately 100 shooting stars per hour. The January 4 phenomenon is called the Quadrantid Meteor Shower.

This meteor shower will occur because the Earth will pass through a place in space where it will travel through a huge swarm of tiny pebbles which are called meteoroids. When the Earth passes through the Quadrantid swarm, these tiny pebbles will burn up in the atmosphere. When they catch fire, they can then be seen.

Meteors actually occur at any time of the day or night but they are best observed after midnight when we are standing on the forward side of the Earth which is the side into which the meteor showers directly plow.

NEW MOON/NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS: Fortunately the first New Moon of the New Year comes only three days into 1984 which combines to give added meaning and direction to all traditional New Year's Resolutions. Since the New Moon doesn't occur until January 3, 1984 you will have three extra days in which to formulate your resolutions. Make sure such resolutions, however, are made by January 3 in order for such goals to achieve success.

CAPRICORN: (Dec 22 - Jan 19) Be sure to make your 1984 New Year's Resolutions before the New Moon of January 3. For best results, stress your personality and how you can improve it since the New Moon occurs in your first house of personality. Buying a new wardrobe, getting a new hair style, starting a physical fitness program, and seeking a new positive mental attitude are the type of personal things that will succeed the most under the illumination of the first New Moon of 1984.

AQUARIUS: (Jan 20 - Feb 18) Be sure to make your 1984 New Year's Resolutions before the New Moon of January 3. For best results, stress your inner self and how you can rid yourself of needless worries since the New Moon occurs in your twelfth house of introversion. Secrets, behind the scenes conversations, and invisible negotiations are the type of inner things that will succeed the most under the illumination of the first New Moon of 1984.
