PLAY SAFE / PARTY SMART

Some 60 years ago, Virginia Woolf—one of England's most noted authors and a member of that country's famed Bloomsbury Group of maverick scholars—began an intimate relationship with Vita Sackville-West, a fellow author. Sackville-West was born to the aristocracy, yet bucked traditional royal deportment and embodied the spirit and vigor of the early feminist movement.

It was the contradiction of those two traits—conformity and rebellion, freedom and hauteur—that intrigued Woolf. So much so that she penned the semibiographical epic of Sackville-West's life, Orlando. And it is that same contradiction that compelled director Sally Potter to transform Virginia Woolf's 1928 novel into the much-heralded and critically acclaimed 1993 film of the same title.

Orlando, as interpreted by Potter, is a lush and visually stimulating cinematic experience that takes its audiences on a magic carpet ride through the 400-year life span of the irrepressible Orlando. Like Vita Sackville-West, Orlando is born to nobility, and finds favor, because of his handsome good looks and enlightened demeanor, with Elizabeth I—the Virgin Queen. Elizabeth, in fact, is so impressed by Orlando's charms that she grants him favors, including status and property.

But Orlando is, if anything, a renegade. Not content to be pigeonholed into the role of lord of the manor, he pursues art and poetry until the rejection of a Muscovite princess propels him into the more "manly" role of Ambassador to Constantinople. While there, he is confronted with death and the horrors of war and, realizing that he can no longer exist as a man, is transformed into a woman.

Returning to England, Orlando joins the literary elite, and takes part in the pampered world of the 18th-century British aristocracy. That participation is short-lived, however, for, true to the "rules" of that era's caste system, a woman cannot hold property unless she marries and produces an heir—a state Orlando hopes to rectify with the seed of Shelmerdine, a handsome American who, like Orlando, seeks freedom and liberation.

Orlando comes full circle in the 20th century—a woman without property but with a daughter—who has lost all the trappings of property and power, yet has found herself.

One of the most striking differences between American and British cinema is in the quality of the productions. As with Room with a View and Maurice, Orlando is British cinema at its best. The epic proportions of the production, the lavish sets and scenery, and the elegant costuming all combine to create what is no less than a masterpiece.

Complimenting the grandeur of the production are first-rate performances by some of the world's most experienced, if less than well known, actors. As Orlando, Tilda Swinton—a member of the prestigious Royal Shakespeare Company and the Travers Theater of Edinburgh—exhibits the quiet calm of an individual searching for a place in the world, knowing full well that that place is assured, just not obvious. Her understated and classic features express the strength and wisdom of a man, and the refinement and elegance of a woman—a feat which must be accomplished to successfully interpret the duality of the character.

Billy Zane as Shelmerdine is, in a word, breathtaking. Equally as stunning as Ms. Swinton, he is, too, the embodiment of all the strengths of both sexes: handsome and beautiful, strong yet gentle, calm yet ablaze with an inner passion that drives his character and his art.

Equally capable in their roles are Lothaire Bluteau as Khan, the man in whom Orlando finds the certainly of brotherly love; Charlotte Valandrey as Sasha, whose quiet beauty captures the heart of Orlando; and John Wood as Archduke Harry, a refined nobleman whose love for Orlando transcends his gender.

Despite such a cast of qualified and distinguished thespians, however, it is Quentin Crisp as Elizabeth I who captures much of the audience's attention. While certainly not known as an actor—his writings are legendary—Mr. Crisp commands the screen in the role of the aging monarch, completing the obvious gender-bending aspects of the film, and providing the catalyst for both Orlando's transformation and the audience's.

Orlando is a most satisfying cinematic event, and so much more. It is the depiction of the life of a soul, a New Age testimony to the steps that must be taken on the path to enlightenment. As we all move through this life journey, after all, we are faced with choices that, while seemingly extreme (and how much more extreme can it be than to change one's sex?), are in fact of paramount importance for the completion of the journey. In one simple statement—"Same person, no difference at all. Just a different sex"—Orlando captures the spirit of justice and humanity that is at the basis of every civil rights movement. And it does so with humor, brilliance and, most of all, style.

Simply, Orlando is 93 minutes of your journey well spent.

Orlando opens today (Friday, July 30) in Dallas at the Inwood Theatre and in Houston at the River Oaks Theatre.

British actress Tilda Swinton plays Orlando in the film of the same name, Sally Potter's interpretation of Virginia Woolf's novel.

Quentin Crisp

BY BOB DINEEN

Quentin Crisp, who once described himself as one of the "stately homos of England," is possibly one of Great Britain's most endearing exports. A simple and humble man, he found fame in America as an author and an actor, and became popular as the result of the film biography The Naked Civil Servant in the early 1980s. Currently, Mr. Crisp can be seen playing the role of Elizabeth I in the film translation of Virginia Woolf's book Orlando. TWT spoke with Quentin in his New York apartment about his new film, and about the life he's led that has made him one of gay America's most noted personalities.

First and foremost on many people's minds is how the role of Elizabeth I came about?

Well, Ms. Potter [Director Sally Potter] came to New York—I think she lives in England, as far as I know—and she borrowed an apartment on Fourth Street—I live on Third Street—so she sent for me and I walked over and I read two or three sentences from the script and she said, "Will you do it?" and I said, "I want what you want," which is what I say to everything. The rest is history.

How do you feel about the favorable notices you've garnered for the film?

Well, it first of all went to the festivals, because it is unabashed festival material. And it finally won a prize in the Venice festival, which I've never heard of. Then it went to Toronto, which has a very efficient festival. Then it went to the kingdom of Mr. Redford [Robert Redford's Sundance Film Festival], where the press said it caused a lot of discussion. Whether favorable or otherwise, it was not stated. Now it's here in New York at the Angelica, which is a sort of twilight cinema—not quite as bad as an art house but not as good as a real cinema. But it did very well there. Certainly, in the first week it was crowded—I don't know why....

I think the sight of you as Elizabeth probably had a lot to do with it.

People now have taken to this idea of everybody dressing up as somebody else. And of course you get all you can handle of it in Orlando, since I lie on a bed and talk to a woman who's pretending to be a man when I'm pretending to be a woman. So, you can't have more than that.

Was Elizabeth your first drag role?

No, I did perform on a small stage in a dim cellar in the lower half of Manhattan playing Lady Bracknell in The Importance of Being Earnest. That was torture, too, because it was so hot.

How were the reviews for that performance?

That performance, they said that I didn't always say the lines as written. That's putting it mildly; I never remembered the lines. I made them up as I went along. But I didn't alter the course of the play.

How did you end up on the shores of America?

Well, of course, I was invited to America to have my life story made into a musical, which I would have loved. But my agent in England said it was not to be, and it was never done. But the moment I saw New York, I wanted it. So, I came back again several times, and in 1980 I set about becoming a resident alien, which I now am.

The difference, of course, between England and America is that in England, nobody ever talks to you. Here, people tell you the story of their lives while waiting for the traffic light to change. I love that. People are my only pastime. I'm always glad to talk to people.

What are the differences between the gay community in America and the one in England?

It's very difficult for Americans to understand—the English don't even like effeminate women. When Mr. Harrison [Rex Harrison in My Fair Lady] said, "Why can't a woman be more like a man?" he spoke not just for George Bernard Shaw, but for the nation.

Off the record, and I know it's not polite to ask a lady her age, but exactly how old are you?

How do you feel when people tell you that you've made a positive impact on their lives?

Well, if I've made a favorable difference, that's very nice. If I've caused them to get into trouble, if they've then done something foolish like tell their mother that they're gay—and, see, I never had to tell anybody anything. I never came out because I was never in.

Do you still keep your hair that lovely shade of lavender?

It is, but it wears off very quickly. I shall put some more on today and go and see Tommy. I have spies who got me into Angels in America, and then The Kiss of the Spider Woman, and finally they will take me to see Tommy. I don't know how they get these seats.

Did you enjoy Angels in America?

Angels in America is terribly long. And one young man dies from AIDS for three and a quarter hours. It is a bit much to bear. Kiss of the Spider Woman—the ending is weak on the stage, but it's a very spectacular show.

What are you up to these days?

Well, I still write my diary [in the New York Native], but I was very ill in February and suggested to my editor that I stop and he said, "Couldn't you do it once a month instead of once a week?" so I write my diary once a month in the New York Native, which is the kinkiest paper in all the world. Occasionally I do a movie review, and I do book reviews.

Any plans to return to the stage or to do more film work?

Well, if you're offered film work you must do it—for the money!

Any other plans for the future that you'd like to share with us?

Well, I don't think I have any; I mean, I'm on the way down now. I'm 84—the next big event in my life will be my death.

And how do you view that?

Well, it should be nice.

Actor/comedian Jason Stuart, who recently came out on national television, plays Laff Stop comedy clubs in Austin and Houston during the month of August. TWT recently had a chance to chat with (and laugh at) the irrepressible performer, who talked about his career, his humor and the response to his announcement that he is gay.

Stuart, who started out as an actor, has performed in comedy clubs across the nation for a decade. He has a long list of credits across the entertainment spectrum, and has appeared in movies (Kinder-garten Cop, Eternity), theatre (Funny Business, P.A.N.I.C. in Griffith Park, Mister Roberts) and television (Murder, She Wrote, Roses Are for the Rich, Star Search). Last summer he had a recurring role on Sunset Beat. As a celebrity panelist on Match Game, he found himself seated between Charles Nelson Reilly and Jo Anne Worley, at which point, he says, "I knew I was a homosexual!"

The day TWT spoke with him, Stuart had earlier met with representatives of Rose-anne Arnold's production company concerning a situation comedy he is developing, tentatively titled My Guy, about a straight couple and a gay couple. And he had just auditioned for a part in the upcoming Wayne's World II.

Stuart, who cites Lucille Ball, Lily Tomlin, Sandra Bernhard and Bobcat Goldthwait as his main comic influences, played strictly mainstream venues up until about a year ago, when he performed aboard an RSVP cruise—his first experience at doing comedy before an all-gay audience. "I thought I'd try it out on the ocean, where no one would know I was there!"

ACTOR/COMIC JASON STUART TOURS TEXAS

Are there any differences in the way gay and straight audiences respond to his act? "They [gays] are smarter, and there are ten guys in the audience who're just as funny as I am. So I have to make sure that I'm really in synch with what's going on. The difference between me and the gay guys in the audience is, I can do it over and over again, while they can only do it at a party with friends."

Stuart said his audiences are by and large "fabulous." "Most people are dying to see something different; whether they accept it or not is another thing, but they will come to see it, and they will pay for it."

Hecklers are a part of the business, for gay and straight performers alike, and Stuart takes them in stride.

"They don't bother me. I'm in control of the show. I'll give you a little example. I was doing a show in a very small town in upstate New York. Some guy, right in the middle of my show, for no reason whatsoever, stands up in the back of the room and says, 'I didn't come to no comedy club to hear no queer!' He was wearing a hat that said 'cap' or 'jerk' on it. 'I didn't come to no comedy club to hear no queer....' So I said, 'Yes, you did, and why don't you order another drink, baby, because I'm expensive!' So I'm dating him now!"

Stuart "officially" came out on a recent installment of Geraldo dealing with "un-conventional" comics, though he had been out on the comedy club circuit for a time before then, and spent several months trying out and polishing up new material before his stint on the syndicated talk show.

"I couldn't just go on the show and come out. I had to work on the material, so when people started to call, I would be able to tour. I couldn't just come out and not have the act ready."

The response to his appearance on Geraldo has been "overwhelming, supportive, with a lot of respect and dignity." And his parents have been basically positive about his nationally broadcast revelation.

"My mother and father are very supportive. My mom had a hard time in the beginning, but now she's just the best. My father is very supportive also. It's not his favorite thing; he didn't come to me saying, 'Oh, God! I've been hoping for a gay son!'"

"My brother and sister are another story. My brother... well, let's put it this way. He lives in the [San Fernando] Valley, he has a washer and a dryer and he weighs 350 lbs. He's a little upset!... He's difficult to communicate with. He says things like, 'Can't you just be gay and shut up about it?' 'What role do you play? Are you the man or are you the woman?' What do you mean, what role do I play? I'm Patty Duke in The Miracle Worker! Quote me on that!"

"My sister is an Orthodox Jew. That's a nightmare and a half; it's very hard to deal with that... She won't let me talk to her little baby. She's afraid the kid will turn gay if he looks at me. Wouldn't that be great, if we could just look at somebody and they turned gay? If we had that power? Tom Cruise, gay! Danny DeVito, not! Arnold Schwarzenegger... Republican!"

Stuart's comedy is not strictly gay, though it can be described as a celebration of being different. And topical humor is an important part of his act.

On gays in the military: "You know what they're afraid of? They're afraid of 25,000 gay men with M-16s looking at the straight guys, saying, 'Did you call me faggot?'"

Is there anything else readers should know? "Be sure and tell them I'm single. One of my biggest fears is ending up like Rose Marie on the Dick Van Dyke Show!"

Jason Stuart plays Laffstop in Austin, 8120 Research, August 10-15 and Laffstop in Houston, 1952-A W. Gray, August 17-22. For ticket information and reservations in Austin, call (512)467-2333. In Houston, call (713)524-2333.

Steven Bradley Urges Community Involvement

To the Houston community:

Nearly three years ago, the community elected me to fill the medically indigent PWA position on the Board of the (old) Greater Houston AIDS Alliance. Election to this position included an appointment by Judge Jon Lindsay to the Ryan White Planning Council. At the pleasure of the Judge, I was reappointed to the Ryan White Planning Council last January for a six-month term, and elected by the Council to serve as Vice Chair. My role on the Council was that of an advocate for people living with HIV disease. Ultimately, I resigned my position with the Greater Houston HIV Alliance to remove any appearance of a conflict of interest. I successfully pushed for the steering committee to have regularly scheduled meetings; I continually pressured the Administrative Agent to present a written budget that was comprehensible (we finally received one in May of this year); and I supported and encouraged actions to be taken on the HRSA recommendations arising from their site visit. I committed many hours of work to two Service Committees (Health and Care Management); and as a member of the Steering Committee, I joined other committee members in working extremely hard to redesign the structure of the Council to more appropriately fit the needs of the Council and the community it serves. I was openly critical of service providers that received funds from Ryan White after voting to allocate such funds to themselves.

So it was with great disappointment that, given my level of commitment and accomplishment on the Council, I learned the Judge has chosen not to reappoint me. It hurts, it offends me and it angers me. But it in no way disempowers me. My role as a voting member on the Council was removed—not my voice, nor yours, in this process.

Risks must be taken. Only a person who risks is free. I have no regrets for my choices, opinions and actions with regard to representing you on the Council. I spoke the truth as I saw and understood it to be.

I will continue to speak to the issues of HIV disease as they affect all communities. I will continue to continue to serve as the elected chair of the Thomas Street Clinic Citizens Advisory Council for the remainder of the term. It has been a process of education for me and I am committed to continue to do my part.

As a person with AIDS, I often feel my time is limited and incredibly valuable. I gave freely of my time to the Council for many reasons. One, certainly, was inspired by wanting to make a difference, and another was to represent the infected community. I know I did and do.

My passion for dignity and justice has been my friend, and I have made many new friends in the community—gay, straight, black, brown and white—who live with grace and dignity. It was an honor to represent the HIV community on the council, and I thank you for your trust and support.

I would request that all of you reading this letter join in the political process and participate in determining the quality of our health care to the best of your ability. Be an activist for your well-being. Did you know that a study presented at the IX International AIDS Conference in Berlin on longterm survivors showed that a characteristic they share is involvement in the AIDS community?

Come and be a part of the community and develop your activism as part of your regimen for wellness. As Goethe says, "Whatever you can do or dream you can do, begin it. Boldness has Genius and Power and Magic in it. Begin it now."

Good Home for Pet Birds

Dear TWT:

I've noticed over the past several years that many pet owners have been faced with finding good homes for their pets. This can be really difficult with exotic pets, especially birds. I have had most of my pet birds for at least seven years and would like to extend the offer of adoption to those of you who are looking for a good home for your birds. Those interested can contact (214)218-5342 and talk to John, or leave a message.

Wants to Volunteer

Dear TWT:

I am not sure many gay citizens write to complain about the gay community here in Dallas or the many organizations.

I am here to change that. I am a gay male and have supported the gay community for many years. I have given moral support as well as financial support. Now I have stopped giving because I just cannot support something I no longer believe in.

In the past four years, I have contacted numerous organizations via correspondence and telephone calls to offer my services as a volunteer in any way I can. My mother has also wanted to volunteer. To this date and time, the only response I have received are letters for more financial backing.

I honestly feel I could be very helpful and an asset to the various volunteer organizations, but if they do not need my services to volunteer, then I feel they do not need my money.

I do not like the feeling I have toward the community and I really would like for it to change, but when you keep having the door slammed in your face, you tend to become bitter and indifferent. I never thought the community would turn away assistance that is definitely needed, but it has and probably will continue to do so.

I cannot help but wonder how many other gay citizens are experiencing the same disappointment.

I would appreciate any assistance anyone can give on this matter.

Thanks from Mr. E.J.'s

Dear TWT:

Now that Pride Week, the 4th of July holiday and Austin Investiture are through, I finally have a moment to send this very overdue letter of appreciation.

Back on June 18, I had the honor of being selected as Mr. E.J.'s 1993-94, a distinction I was truly not expecting, but one of which I am, nonetheless, very proud.

I follow in the footsteps of two of Houston's finest: Emperor IX Giovanni Lamond and Mr. Houston All-American 1992-93 B.J. Williams, two gentlemen I respect and list among my best of friends. Guys, thanks for your encouragement and support.

To Sivi Ross: I could tell that you weren't expecting this, either. I have become so proud of you. I am honored to have you as my Miss E.J.'s.

To Rose Luna: You're going to set the path for all the future Ms. E.J.'s to come. I can think of no one better suited to that task. Congratulations on being our first Ms. E.J.'s.

To Brittany Paige: If you hadn't talked Ed into having a Tuesday night talent show called "Performer's Alley" all those years ago, none of this could have ever been possible. I owe you a lot. I am also very glad to see that you are finally getting some of the recognition you have deserved for such a long time. Congratulations.

To the E.J.'s patrons: I would not be here if it weren't for your many years of patience, love and support. I won't let you down.

And finally, to Ed and Jeff: I honestly don't think that ten years ago, when I met the two of you, we could have ever seen this coming. You allowed a shy, somewhat younger and inexperienced young man find his place in this community and gave him a place to grow. I will always be grateful for that opportunity. Thank you, I love you.

The latest production at Houston's Theatre Southwest is Tobacco Road, Jack Kirkland's stage adaptation of the Erskine Caldwell novel. This tale of pathos and humor relates the saga of Jeeter Lester, his shiftless family and their ribald adventures with the earthy characters along Tobacco Road. When Tobacco Road first debuted in 1933, it was considered shocking because of the unaccustomed naturalism on stage, frank language and behavior of the Lester family. But the shock wore off and it became a smash hit, running for eight seasons on Broadway. Theatre Southwest, 3750 S. Gessner, presents Tobacco Road through August 14. Shows are Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30, with Sunday matinees on August 1 and 8 at 3 p.m. Tickets are $9. For reservations, call (713)661-9505.

Meet Uwonda, an African-American schoolteacher who runs Club meetings; Mary, a British visual artist whose orange hair and biker boots cost her a job; Destiny, a lesbian environmentalist; and big-haired Thelma Lou, who lives in a trailer park with a pack of kids. ## Managed Care Plans: A Growing Option For People With HIV

BY CHARLES E. SMITH, M.D., F.A.A.F.P.

When a patient is first diagnosed as HIV-infected, it is the beginning of a health care problem. Unfortunately, there are many physicians and patients who see this diagnosis as the end point. HIV disease is a chronic condition which is increasingly controlled on an outpatient basis. The health care team must be available for the patient at the diagnosis of HIV infection and throughout the illness.

Choosing the appropriate health care team is one of the first major decisions the patient must make. Patients may be restricted by their insurance plans in their choice of a physician. Individuals with HIV infection may feel limited or threatened by managed care plans and large multi-specialty clinics. Whereas such a health care system may not be ideal for all patients, it is a necessity for many.

The evolution in health care is toward large multi-specialty clinics and managed care. Many corporations have strong financial incentives for their employees to choose these programs over indemnity plans. There are many benefits for patients in choosing a managed care plan. One must look at cost, quality issues and the ease of care. Patients need to know what their healthcare plan has to offer them.

The first and foremost benefit of the managed care plan is the primary care physician. Many patients may feel they need to be under the care of a specialist. However, the primary care setting offers many patient advantages. With over 800,000 HIV-infected patients in the United States, every primary care physician should be educated in the appropriate care of HIV disease. It is encouraging that over 50 percent of HIV patients are now cared for by primary care physicians, compared to 20 percent in the late 1980s. Primary care physicians are often the first to see signs of and diagnose HIV infection. For patients newly diagnosed as HIV-positive, the medical aspects of infection are only part of their condition. The primary care physician is challenged not only with providing medical care, but with being able to deal with the many other concerns and problems facing HIV-infected patients.

The primary care physician's duty is to coordinate comprehensive, integrated medical care. Many large clinics are utilizing the team approach to HIV disease. Multi-specialty clinics are ideal places for this type of medical care. Within their infrastructure, working alongside primary care physicians are specialists, nurses, dietitians, pharmacists and physical therapists. This is an excellent environment in which to care for patients with chronic illness such as HIV disease; there is improved continuity of care.

There are problems, however. Managed care programs can restrict access to health care. Many managed care plans do not cover dietitians or patient education, though most will cover specialty referrals and physical therapy. This limitation of services is universal, and does not apply only to HIV disease. There is a movement in healthcare today towards improving patient education and prevention of disease, and insurance programs need to improve their coverage of these services.

Managed care plans can have definite financial advantages for the patient. First, most such plans do not have pre-existing clauses. This cuts costly delays in patient treatment and alleviates much of the out-of-pocket expenses patients would otherwise face. Usually there are no medical insurance forms to be completed and no filing for reimbursement. Office visits and medical services are provided for a small patient co-payment. Most managed care plans also have associated prescription plans. Patients do not have to wait for their embarrassment, stress, or even to purchase new prescriptions, nor do they have to postpone follow-up visits or treatments until they can afford them. These financial incentives do improve continuity of care. The overall cost of HIV disease can also be reduced. If patients are followed closely and preventative/prophylactic medicine is practiced, many severe and expensive complications may be avoided. This is evident in the downward trend with certain HIV-associated diseases for which prophylaxis or early treatment is available. The reduction of out-of-pocket expenses for the managed care patient can therefore lead to improved patient care and quality of life.

Quality of care is a primary concern for every patient. Managed care and multi-specialty clinics have systems in place to guarantee quality of care. Physicians must be board eligible or board certified. Both the managed care programs and the multi-specialty clinics also have methods of internally reviewing physician performance and patient outcomes. Most large groups are utilizing treatment protocols to ensure a standard of care for patients with major illnesses. These protocols are being applied to HIV care.

All of the above reasons for choosing a managed care plan are important. One other beneficial aspect which is very difficult to measure is ease of care. Managed care plans have decreased much of the patient frustration associated with chronic illnesses. With a primary care physician to coordinate care, extensive services available through one health care provider and fewer out-of-pocket expenses, medical care is much easier for the patient. This is one concept which is frequently not discussed in treatment plans, but very significant.

HIV disease is a chronic condition. It is important to evaluate patients comprehensively and establish a health care team that can provide for each patient's medical, nutritional, psychological and social needs. Managed care plans can offer a significant advantage to patients. The key to managed care plans is the primary care physician chosen by the patient. It is hoped that through this approach, medical care can be delivered more effectively and people with HIV disease can achieve prolonged survival and a better quality of life.

WEEK OF
JULY 30 - AUGUST 5, 1993

Mercury in Cancer surges forward and clears up communications. Now people won't misunderstand you and vice versa. Mercury's travels have an energizing effect on surprising Uranus and nebulous Neptune. Prepare for an unusually impulsive and inspirational time. Thoughts transport us farther along in our personal quest. Examine what you will quickly—this particular energy will dissipate through the week. Read ahead to see how Mercury, Uranus and Neptune spin their magic in your own sign.

LEO: (July 23 - Aug 23) Intuitively you know that the job is not up to snuff and you're allowing a bit of slack and a lack of vigilance. Surprises are in store for those Leos who let up at work. Mercury, Uranus and Neptune will take no prisoners here. You may find yourself buried under a mound of unfinished business, or find a competitor walking away with the store that you started and developed. Keep your eyes open, your mind focused and the energy high.

VIRGO: (Aug 24 - Sep 23) Friends are on your mind. Mercury, Uranus and Neptune cause friendships to take an unexpected turn. I wouldn't introduce a new flame to an old pal right now. Romance has to be kept close to the vest for the time being. It's not that friends are untrustworthy, it's just that they may not see how a little flirtation could upset the applecart for you. Also, avoid alcohol and drugs. Problems won't disappear and could get worse.

LIBRA: (Sep 24 - Oct 23) Career matters require your attention, even as your home life explodes with surprises and unexpected turns. Mercury, Neptune and Uranus will keep you guessing. Issues of privacy may heat up as you are asked to sacrifice and adjust to the demands of your family and their status in the community. No good—you must be true to yourself and let the chips fall where they may. Deal with career matters and stick to your ideals and personal high standards.

SCORPIO: (Oct 24 - Nov 22) Thoughts turn to long-distance travel. Mercury, Uranus and Neptune demand that you plan all trips carefully and methodically. There is too much of a chance that mistakes will be made in the construction of this treasured voyage. Take a chance on a destination that you've never explored before or one that will encourage you to broaden your base of learning. You will soak knowledge in like a sponge, resulting in new and unique ideas.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov 23 - Dec 21) Mercury, Uranus and Neptune suggest that money is the answer. It gives you the freedom to do what you really want to do with your life. Be on the alert, however—unexpected events or unclear thinking could cause you to fritter away resources. "Sure bets" could turn into sure losers. Unscrupulous con artists could take advantage of your generosity. Sex or a close relationship could fog your better judgment. Keep ideas "money-free."

CAPRICORN: (Dec 22 - Jan 20) Do you think that partners or others who are close to you can give you your own identity? Neptune and Uranus cause you to reevaluate your own personal truths, while Mercury encourages you to share information with close partners. There is much to learn from others and you may find yourself turned on by intellectual stimulation. Avoid those who are noncommittal or unreliable, and keep a good sense of humor.

AQUARIUS: (Jan 21 - Feb 18) Remember all those secrets that you've carefully hidden for so long? Neptune and Uranus turn the spotlight on them and Mercury requires you to deal with them one by one. On the bright side, it could be a truly liberating experience and will keep your mind free of baggage on these issues in the future. On the other hand, who wants to have to fight off dragons now? Seek some form of relaxation or meditation now. Take a yoga class.

PISCES: (Feb 19 - Mar 20) Mercury encourages you to think "fun," while Uranus and Neptune draw you into unique social groups. Friends can be inspiring or surprising, depending on your point of view. Large organizations and great causes may hold a certain allure, but direct your energy inward. You will benefit greatly by taking an art course or participating in a creative endeavor. Such pastimes will enable you to more richly experience your surroundings.

ARIES: (Mar 21 - April 20) Home or career—which will you choose? Mercury drives thoughts to the heart of the matter, but Uranus and Neptune accentuate unsettled accounts at work. Are you considering chucking the whole work ethic (with its restricting status symbols and meaningless political interaction) in order to start your own home-based business? Although now is not the time to take action, gather all relevant information and start considering the pros and cons.

TAURUS: (April 21 - May 21) Mercury in Cancer suggests that you sprinkle your communication with more emotionally charged imagery in order to get your point across. In other words, bring them to tears and tug at the old heartstrings to get what you want. Although this is not the Taurean way, you need to apply a little emotional strong-arm now. Neptune and Uranus demand that you explore more philosophical channels and travel the transcendental path alone.

GEMINI: (May 22 - June 21) Mercury, Uranus and Neptune accentuate finances as they apply to deeply personal relationships. You may think you can buy and sell people, love and loyalty with money... wrong. Surprises and disillusionment are in store for those Geminis who believe that there's a price for everything and everyone. There is a difference between using money to make life easier and using it as a reason for being.

CANCER: (June 22 - July 22) You are particularly aware of how you appear to others. Mercury, Neptune and Uranus spotlight your desire to make that right first impression, especially among those who you feel could develop into personal partners. Don't throw pearls before swine. You may be unable to discern others' motives now and, in your quest to please, you could open yourself up to people who are ultimately incompatible with you.

PLANNING IN PROGRESS FOR THIS YEAR'S ALAN ROSS TEXAS FREEDOM PARADE

*Celebrations Will Be Dedicated to

DALLAS — With a theme of "Family of Pride," the Dallas lesbian and gay community is making preparations for its tenth annual Alan Ross Texas Freedom Parade—the largest celebration and event of the year for the community. With over 80 entries in the parade expected, and an anticipated crowd of almost 10,000 spectators, the September 19 event will be, according to organizers, one of the largest parades in its ten-year history. Active participation is expected this year from the parents and children of lesbians and gays, as well as from other supportive friends of the community.

This year, the Freedom Parade will be dedicated to the memory of Bill Hunt, a longtime AIDS and civil rights activist who passed away earlier this year. The Celebration in Lee Park immediately following the parade will be dedicated to the memory of David Barton, co-owner of Hunky's and a very active member of many community sports organizations, who passed away in July.

New to this year's event will be a 10-year commemorative book, celebrating the history of the Parade. Published by the Dallas Tavern Guild, sponsors of the annual celebration, the book will feature many stories highlighting the accomplishments of the gay and lesbian community in Dallas, as well as a detailed history of the parade and its purpose.

Closing out pride events this year will be a special benefit concert, co-sponsored by both the Tavern Guild and the Turtle Creek Chorale and starring The Flirtations, described as "the fabulous gay singing group that entertains gays, lesbians and 'understanding straights'" on their national tours. The 90-minute concert will take place at the Cathedral of Hope Metropolitan Community Church, beginning at 8 p.m. on Sunday. Tickets for the concert are $20 general admission, and are available through the ARTTIX ticket office in Dallas.

The Tavern Guild has already released some 600 announcements, 400 of which include parade applications, to businesses organizations throughout Texas. Even with such an extensive mailing, organizers admit that some interested parties may have been missed. To obtain information about the parade or any related pride events, contact event coordinator Alan Ross at (214)559-4190.

GAYS & LESBIANS IN HEALTH FIELDS GATHER IN HOUSTON FOR NAT'L MEETING

HOUSTON — With a pre-conference registration reported by organizers at around 700 and an amazing range of workshops, presentations and speakers, the 15th National Lesbian and Gay Health Conference & 11th Annual AIDS/HIV Forum which concluded last Sunday in Houston provided participants with an opportunity to network, gain experience and insight in their particular fields, and feel a sense of community with others on the front lines of gay and lesbian health issues.

The conference, co-sponsored by the George Washington University School of Medicine and Health Sciences and the National Lesbian and Gay Health Foundation, was held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in downtown Houston July 21-25. On Wednesday, a series of all-day "institutes" dealt with broad areas of interest like lesbian health, youth issues and safe-sex education.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, dozens of workshops presented by professionals addressed much more specific issues in the areas of mental health, lesbian and gay health, AIDS/HIV and strategies for inclusion.

A plenary session held Thursday evening dealt with a controversial subject which is growing in importance as gay and lesbian Americans continue their struggle for acceptance: "Gay Positive School Curricula: Choices and Challenges" featured keynote addresses by Joseph A. Fernandez, Chancellor of New York City Public Schools, and Jerald Newberry, coordinator of a program that has introduced sex education materials into the Fairfax County [Virginia] public schools. Fernandez spoke of the opposition he had encountered in his efforts to introduce multicultural and gay- and lesbian-sensitive instructional materials in New York schools. He stressed that giving people the facts is, for now, the most important way of combatting AIDS. "Until a medical solution is found, education is really the only hope we have, educating the kids, the community."

Speakers at the Friday evening plenary session, "The Politics of the Lesbian and Feminist Cancer Movement," called attention to the fact that lesbian women have significant health issues different from those faced by heterosexual women. Mary McCauley of the Lesbian Community Cancer Project of Chicago noted that lesbians are at higher risk for cancer than straight women. "My mother always used to tell me, 'Charity begins at home.' I think it's time for lesbians in our community to embrace this policy." Susan Hester, Executive Director of the Mautner Project for Lesbians with Cancer, encouraged lesbians to become involved in health care reform through letter-writing campaigns and the political process.

Dr. Mathilde Krim, PhD, Founding Co-Chair and Chair of the Board of the American Foundation for AIDS Research [AmFAR], delivered introductory remarks at the Paul A. Paroski Jr. Memorial Awards Dinner, held Saturday evening. Dr. Krim briefly recounted the history of AmFAR, and praised the gay and lesbian community for its response to the AIDS epidemic. At one point in her speech, she cited the current controversy over gay men and lesbians in the military, and was greeted with an enthusiastic standing ovation when she referred to "homophobes in the military and wherever they may be" as "despicable midgets."

Awards, given to those individuals and organizations judged to have made outstanding contributions in the area of gay and lesbian health, went to Jeffrey Levi of the AIDS Action Foundation, who won the Harvey Milk Award; Mel Pohl, former board member and former vice president of NLGHF, who received the Winfield Scott Award; and Chris Gonzalez, executive director of the Indianapolis Youth Group, who won the Diego Lopez Award.

Houstonians were among those receiving awards. Planned Parenthood of Houston and Southeast Texas/the HIV Women's Clinic won the Lillian Wald Award, which was accepted by clinic manager Lee Virgilio. TSU law professor and activist Gene Harrington won the Community Service Award (individual), while Home Nutritional Services, Inc. won the Community Service Award (organizational), which was accepted by Ed Bradshaw, vice president of HIV/Social Services.

At a private reception sponsored by Houston organizations and held in her honor prior to the NLGHF banquet Saturday, Dr. Krim commended those present for their hard work in the battle against AIDS. She noted that Houston, in spite of its worldwide reputation as a center for medical treatment and research, has traditionally not contributed as much financially to the AIDS cause as other large cities. She said that AmFAR would be establishing what she called a "beachhead" in the area in the near future to increase awareness of the financial side of the fight against HIV.

Dr. Krim was presented with a beribboned garden spade symbolizing a tree that Houston's AIDS Equity League has donated in her honor to Omega House, a hospice for those with late-stage AIDS.

The 16th National Lesbian and Gay Health Conference is scheduled for June 21-25 next year in New York.

DALLAS RALLY PROTESTS COMPROMISE ON GAYS IN MILITARY

*Gathering in Lee Park Draws
Over 100 Upset at President's Failure to Fulfill Pledge.*

DALLAS — Response to President Clinton's announcement of the compromise policy on gay men and lesbians in the military has been both swift and vocal across Texas and the rest of the nation. In Dallas, community activists and civilians alike expressed displeasure over the President's failure to fulfill his pledge of support to the gay and lesbian community.

Immediately following the announcement, Dallas Gay and Lesbian Alliance members staged a protest march through Oak Lawn, culminating in a rally at Lee Park. Attended by over 100 people, the event included presentations by Pat Stone, president of the Dallas chapter of Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays (P-FLAG); Louise Young, co-chair of the Lesbian and Gay Political Caucus; and Gilbert Lacerte, a Vietnam War veteran who read his intended obituary to the assembled crowds in what he believes will be his last public act.

That same day, the Rev. Michael S. Piazza, Senior Pastor of the Cathedral of Hope Metropolitan Community Church in Dallas—the world's largest gay and lesbian church—issued a statement denouncing the compromise, calling it a violation of basic American values. According to Piazza, "The action of the President...has 'inferiorized' a significant segment of American taxpayers and endorsed the continued violation of our basic constitutional rights. To sacrifice First Amendment rights on the altar of bigotry is reprehensible. To do so in the name of fairness is an insult to all people concerned about justice."

Dr. Mel White, a former ghostwriter for the religious right who was recently installed as the Dean of the Cathedral of Hope, echoed Piazza's sentiments. "This is a tragic day for the brave lesbians and gay men who have risked their lives in the military service of this country. We dishonor the memories of those who have died, and create new fear and persecution for those still in the service."

"Once again, the lies from the religious right have trickled down to shape public policy. One day, truth will triumph over the rantings of Pat Robertson, Jerry Falwell, James Dobson and the others. Until that day, we will go on standing for the truth whatever it may cost."

The Rev. Piazza concurred, adding, "Sen. Sam Nunn is an old-fashioned Southern bigot of the worst sort. He has simply found a more socially acceptable minority to be the object of his abuse. His rationale for excluding gays and lesbians is an almost exact mirror of his predecessor Sen. Richard Russell's use of the same arguments to justify discrimination against African-Americans in the service. The faces may change, but the bigotry endures."

"The Cathedral of Hope will continue to oppose the evil of prejudice and discrimination wherever it is found in our society," concluded Piazza. "President Clinton's compromise only serves to strengthen our resolve to fight institutional oppression. I call on African-Americans, women and other minorities to stand with us on this issue, because no one's rights are secure until everyone's rights are secure."

SAN ANTONIO AIDS FOUNDATION DECIDES TO CONTINUE MEALS PROGRAM

*Board of Directors Reconsiders
Earlier Decision After Input

SAN ANTONIO — The Board of Directors of the San Antonio AIDS Foundation [SAAF] has voted to continue providing outside client dining services after announcing several months ago that the service would be canceled because the Foundation's funding had been reduced.

The outside client dining program provides three meals per day for people with AIDS in the Foundation's dining room. In a statement issued Thursday, July 22, SAAF officials said the Board had reconsidered its earlier decision to abolish the program after receiving input from Foundation clients. The officials said SAAF is now exploring various options to fund the program.

"Additional funding will be required for us to continue this very critical program," said Board Chair Pat Day, "and SAAF is appealing to area citizens and businesses to help support us in this effort."

Day added that, while noon meals and food banks are available at other service organizations, many of SAAF's clients are physically unable to prepare their own meals, and many of them live closer to the Foundation than to other organizations providing the same services.

"Lack of transportation for many of these individuals prevents their seeking services from other agencies, and this was communicated to the Board," he added.

Anyone wishing to make a cash or food donation may call the San Antonio AIDS Foundation at (210)225-4715.

AIDS SERVICES OF AUSTIN ANNOUNCES RECEIPT OF GRANT, AWARD

Funds Will Go to Assist Multicultural HIV Education, Organization's Food Bank.

AUSTIN — AIDS Services of Austin [ASA] has announced the receipt of grant and award money that will help the organization to provide assistance to its clients. ASA, the primary HIV service organization in the capital city area, offers direct care services to over 800 people with HIV and AIDS and to their loved ones.

"Red Hot & Blue" has awarded ASA $25,000 to be used for the purchase of food for the organization's Food Bank. "Red Hot & Blue" brought together such recording artists as k.d. lang, U2, Sinéad O'Connor, the Neville Brothers, Annie Lennox and David Byrne, who performed a collection of Cole Porter songs. Profits earned from sales of the album go toward AIDS education, care and research.

Bank One Texas has awarded ASA funds to be used in the agency's Multicultural HIV Education Project. This award will help fund HIV education efforts for people of color living in East Austin.

DALLAS TEA — Here's what's happening THIS WEEK IN DALLAS from Big D HOT TEA....

We are pleased to report there is no shortage of muscle-bound men at Crews Inn on festive Fitzhugh, in various stages of undress, who are ready, willing and definitely able to titillate and tantalize with their ample talents—men just like the even beefier and growing-by-the-minute Maverick [above], captured by the CRUISE CAMERA last week. For the record, Maverick and club staffer Spankey Studer weigh exactly the same and have the same bubbly personality. We thought you'd like to know....

At Village Station, the creative juices from the club's promotions are apparently flowing profusely, as evidenced by the latest of the dance hall's special events—Sumo wrestling! Imagine, if you will, being clad in enormously-padded suits and wrestling on stage with the express intent of knocking your opponent off his feet. Then, further imagine being unable to stand up unassisted, rolling on the floor in the aforementioned padded suit. If it sounds like fun, that's probably because it is! Just look at the two sports in the photo above. They're definitely having fun! Since you probably can't tell who they are in the photo, it's James Love and Frank Redmond [l-r]. James, by the way, has found some success on the Rose Room stage as a fem mimic of note, and now intends to expand on those abilities by becoming the first practitioner in Texas of Sumo drag....

If you've been wondering what it is that's been enticing members of the roper set to Maple Avenue on Wednesdays, we believe it might be the C&W dance lessons that boot-scooter Wade Earp has been providing for the Brick's customers. That's Wade [above, r] showing the finer points of the art to two willing students, Brad Askew and Pepe Arredondo [l, c]. Now word comes from club manager Lucky Riley that there will also be raffles every Wednesday night for country music CDs so you can practice what you learn at home....

At the Wave, Aaron Norris won Mr. Texas All-American. From a record field of 17 contestants [above], Aaron's blond good looks and winning smile [below, c] captured the audience's hearts—and the scores of the judges. The CRUISE CAMERA was there and captured [l-r] fourth runner-up Stuart Michaels, third runner-up BJ Williams, Aaron, first runner-up Robert Garza, second runner-up David Ponton and last year's

If you've discovered that your pompoms are gathering dust in the attic because you haven't used them in so long, you might be happy to know that the perfect opportunity has arisen to get them out, dust them off and shake them. The Team Dallas Cheer-leading Squad—the shorts-clad group of hunky men responsible for rousing the spirits of Dallas' entries in the 1994 Gay Games in New York City—will hold their first meeting next Wednesday, August 4, at the AIDS Resource Center at 7:30 p.m. Ken Jorns is the leader and organizer of this merry band of men, and he can be contacted at (214) 263-9200 if you need more information....

Meanwhile, on Cedar Springs, the previously item'd and incredibly popular Flygirls of Sue Ellen's continue to offer their admiring fans more than just coffee or tea—they offer pure satisfaction! Just ask the

When we were finally able to speak to the powers that be at the Empire after the club's RuPaul concert last week—the crowds were, after all, quite large—the only word they were capable of uttering was "Wow!," and we can certainly understand their delight. The reigning runway diva was, in the words of many clubbers that night, "stunning, energetic and indescribable." Just ask Patrick McReynolds, Steve Putnam and Mark Deaton [above, l-r], three of the handsome and lucky people who not only saw the show, but were able to get oh-so-very near the elusive chanteuse's fabulous limousine immediately following his performance....

We understand that Zippers staffer Dean Bodecker is currently still single, although he has had a plethora of pleasing propositions as the result of the previously mentioned report of his marital status. Resumes, we understand, are still being accepted....

Back at the Crossroads, Live Music Wednesdays at Damewood's continues to spotlight some of the best local bands available, just like Division of Beat [above]. They, like Code Red (coming up at the club next Wednesday), offer a unique and exciting alternative to the more traditional bill-o-fare. Be sure and ask gorgeous staffer Jake Bazzar about the many whistles his newly-buffed body elicits during his late-morning constitutionals. His legs are definitely worth a second look....

Did you know that JR's will soon be one of the locations at which you can view the incredible art works of the Major Artery collection? Or that handsome Kurt Rowe and Joe Herrera are just two of the people you might see at the collection's sneak peak next Wednesday night? Well, now you do....

Sources at the Round-Up have revealed that plans are afoot to provide the club's devoted clientele with even more reasons to make it the buckle-scratching tea every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. That, coupled with the C&W dance lessons provided to novices and experts alike each Sunday at 8:30 p.m. and each Tuesday at the new time of 9:30 p.m., make the popular dance hall even more the place to see and be seen.

Darrell, a native Texan and Fort Worth resident for most of his 40 years, died peacefully at his Fort Worth home in the early hours of July 3. His lifemate Scott was at his side.

Darrell was a popular bartender at Fort Worth's 651 Club. He is survived by his spouse, Scott Stevens; loving parents, D.A. and Doris Moore; brother and sister-in-law, Danny and Penny Moore; and four nephews, Keeton, Kyle and Kendall Moore and Matthew Scott Young.

A celebration of life in Darrell's honor will be held at Benbrook Lake's Pecan Valley Park at Memorial Oak on August 1 at 6 p.m. Bring picnic or covered dish. Call Scott at (817)926-2248 for details and directions.

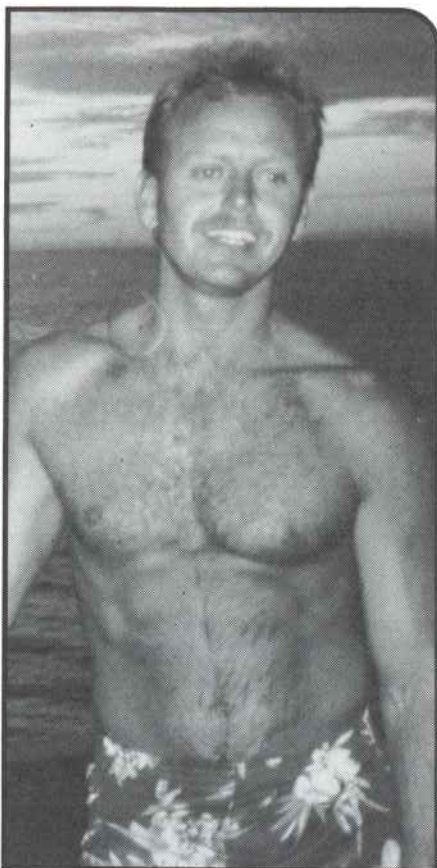

Joel D. Bridges (above)

Joel D. Bridges, a native of Louisiana and a resident of Houston since 1978, passed from this life on Friday, July 23, 1993. Joel is survived by his companion and friend, John Pietrzak, his loving pets, Hope and Toonces, and many special friends. "I hope matters not how long we live, but how well."

Joel would like to be remembered for his contribution to the larger community through his lifelong profession of work with nonprofit organizations such as the American Red Cross, the United Way and most recently Private Sector Initiatives. "I hope it can be said of me that my work made a difference for the lives of people I worked with and those we helped to serve."

Joel also is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bridges of Kentwood, Louisiana; four sisters, Connie Varden, Mona Stewart, Teri Hanks and Marilyn Bridges; and four brothers, Marshall, Regle, Brad and David Bridges.

Visitation was held at Geo. H. Lewis & Sons in Houston, followed by a funeral service and interment at Tangipahoa, Louisiana on Tuesday, July 27. A memorial service will be held at the Metropolitan Community Church of the Resurrection, 1919 Decatur, at 2 p.m. on Sunday, August 15. Joel's friends are invited to attend.

December 8, 1957 - July 22, 1993

Les passed away peacefully at Houston's Twelve Oaks Hospital after a courageous and valiant battle with AIDS. A graduate of Cy Fair High School, Les excelled in the real estate field, working with Swilley-Hudson and Associates before successfully utilizing his extraordinary talents renovating houses in the Heights area.

He is survived by his loving companion, Bart Loeser; mother and stepfather, Joyce and Pat Thompson; father and stepmother, Leslie, Sr. and Loretta Sowers; sisters Kathy and Linda; brother David and six nephews and nieces.

Les also leaves behind a legacy of friends and other loved ones. His loving friendship, quick wit and (often off-color) humor will shine brightly in our hearts and memory always.

Many thanks for the care, compassion and professionalism of Dr. Gordon Crofoot and his staff, as well as the staff of OnCol Center and Twelve Oaks Hospital, 7th Floor.

A memorial celebration of Les' life will take place at the Swilley Hudson office, Heights Blvd. at 15th. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made in Les' memory to AIDS Foundation Houston, 3202 Westlayan Annex, Houston 77027.

Thomas Michael Martin, 40, passed away unexpectedly on the morning of July 23, 1993 in Houston as a result of AIDS-related complications. He was laid to rest on Sunday, July 25 in his hometown of Collinsville, Alabama.

Originally from Collinsville, Tom lived in Birmingham, Oklahoma City and Dallas before finally deciding to call Houston his home. At one time or another, Tom was involved with several religious and community organizations, including MCCR, Houston Professionals, GLHU and, most recently, The Royal, Sovereign and Imperial Court of the Single Star. Through his involvement in these groups, he learned the importance of supporting the community without getting wrapped up in the politics of the organization; a lesson he wished more of us could learn.

Tom is survived by his parents, sister and a niece and nephew in Collinsville and his extended family in Houston, those of us still surviving and those of us who have gone before. A memorial service will be held in his honor at a date and time to be announced. Anyone wishing to make memorial contributions in Tom's name may do so by sending them to The Royal, Sovereign and Imperial Court of the Single Star (RSICSS), P.O. Box 980444, Houston, TX 77098-0444.

"Keep the cards warm. We will always love you."
—Lee, Jerel and Rusty

John passed into the arms of our Lord and Savior in the early morning hours of July 17, 1993 while surrounded by his friends and family.

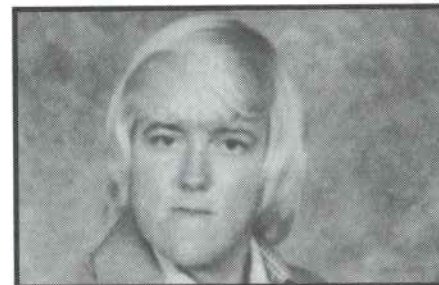

John was born January 28, 1945 in Cleburne, Texas. He served aboard a destroyer in the U.S. Navy during the Vietnam War. Formerly of Hillsboro, Texas, John spent the last 44 years of his life living with his sister, Joyce Hinkle, of Garland, Texas.

John's courageous fight has been and will continue to be a source of strength and hope for us all.

Donations may be made to White Rock Community Church.

We love and miss you, dearest friend.

May 9, 1951 - July 17, 1993

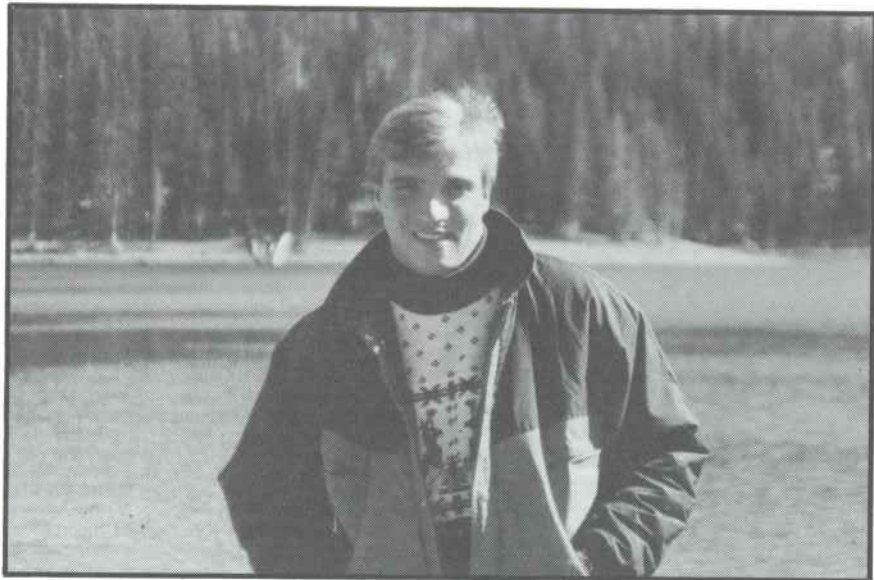

Kay passed quietly on Saturday morning with her loving friend Judy holding her hand. She fought a long, brave battle with cancer. Kay loved music and built a business called "Mobile Melodies." She played her music at local bars in the Amarillo area. Kay loved a good joke. Her many friends in Amarillo, especially everyone at Alexander's Lounge, will miss her smile and music.

Kay never had children, but took her lover's children Cherra and Dawn Ember into her life and became a big part of their lives. They became her kids and when they had children, she was the proud "grandpa." Kay was always one to help out anyone. I remember her running to put a starter in my old car in a blinding snowstorm and laughing all the time. Kay never met a stranger, so I know she has everyone in Heaven laughing.

She was laid to rest with graveside services in Amarillo on Monday morning, the 19th, with a host of friends and family. This is not goodbye, but until we meet again. Kay, all I can say is, "The sweetest thing I ever knew was loving you," friend. Rest, sweet Angel.

We love and miss you
Ronnie, Edd, Judy, Cherra,
Dawn, Mike and your Babies

Timothy Joe (T.J.) Morris
September 20, 1967 - July 15, 1993

T. J. Morris, 25, passed quietly from this life on July 15, 1993. He was born in Seminole, Texas and passed away in Mesquite. He left behind a lot of friends and family who care for him a great deal. T. J. is survived by brothers Ronald, Rodney, Alvin and Alton Morris; sisters Sue Thompson, Helen McBride, June Delacruz and Barbara Hoffman; grandparents Albert and Annette Morris; aunt Mary Pace; numerous nieces and nephews; many friends and other relatives. He will now join his lover of eight years, Robert Langley, who passed away in late April. He was very giving of himself and his time. He will be missed greatly by his friends and family. Funeral services were held at Troy Suggs Funeral Home Chapel, Monday, July 19, 1993 with Rev. Lee Bennett officiating. Private interment. Donations in T.J.'s name may be made to the Food Pantry and AIDS Resource Center of Dallas.

"The human body has a natural propensity toward health. Always toward health... Focus is important. Focus on those parts of yourself that are working. Look at yourself as someone whose body is in the process of healing. Concentrate on the positive parts... The intuitive hunch is always there. what I've started to do is live my life following the hunches."
