The Christmas and Hanukkah seasons, a time that should be filled with the joy of family and friends, can seem unbearable after the death of a loved one. Below I have provided a number of hints designed to make the holiday season a little easier.

1.) Recognize that grief takes both a physical and emotional toll. Plan ahead for nap and exercise time. Ensure that you have adequate supplies of prescription medications, and take them as scheduled. Watch your diet—eat regular meals and avoid overindulgence. Restrict your alcohol intake. Seek out an AA or grief support group if needed.

2.) Remember that we do not grieve on schedule. Our feelings and needs may not mesh with those of other family members or friends. Include others in your planning, and include compromise in your plans. Now is not the time to burn bridges.

3.) No one can read your mind. Communicating your desires to others will ease their discomfort and ensure that your needs are met. Don't waste energy second-guessing each other.

4.) Parties, parties, parties. You may not feel up to the hectic rounds, but consider participating. A token effort to say hello may turn into a pleasurable experience. Go early before the event becomes too crowded. Have transportation available to exit when you feel overwhelmed. Avoid alcohol or recreational drugs, which can impair your coping abilities. If you decide not to attend an event, let your hosts know and thank them for remembering you. Perhaps you can arrange to visit at another time.

5.) Holiday shopping can be an escape or a chore. On a "good" day, organize a shopping list to help you focus your energy. Plan short trips on traditionally slow days in the stores. At the first hint of headache or fatigue, head for home. Among alternatives to traditional gift-giving are mail order items, gift certicates, cash gifts and memorial contributions. Or you may simply choose to give fewer gifts than in the past. Circles of friends may want to have gift pools.

6.) Traditional rituals will be changed because someone is missing. Embracing change will help redefine your holiday celebration. This can be a great opportunity to stop routine activities you never enjoyed and try something new. Use this holiday season to make great choices that nurture you.

7.) Holiday cards can be a great way to keep in touch with others. Sending cards to friends and family of the deceased reminds them that you care. If you are grieving, cards can let others know that you are interested in their support.

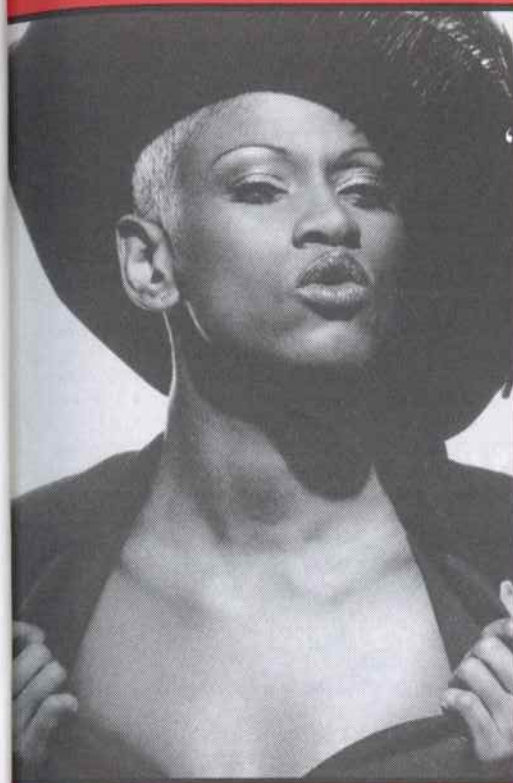

8.) Doing something for others can be a great way to help ourselves. Adopting a needy family, working on a community project, donating money we would have spent on our loved one or inviting a guest to our festivities can give us a sense of purpose and accomplishment. However, in doing for others, we must not push ourselves to exhaustion in an attempt to hide from our own feelings.

9.) Whether you choose to publicly ignore your loss or to acknowledge it, make a choice. Plan ahead if you want to visit your loved one's grave. If there is no grave site, other memorial rituals may be performed including formal prayers, quiet reflection at a specific time, hanging a special ornament, wearing a particular accessory or writing a love note to leave in a special place or to ritualistically burn.

10.) We've all heard the advice, "Take one day at a time." Sometimes we have to take it one hour at a time. Planning ahead and rehearsing in our minds how we want to handle the special day can give us the strength to cope. Growth and change, however painful, are a part of living.

Heather MacRae of Falsettos Talks About Family, Relationships And the Theatre

Houstonians get a special holiday gift this year when the national tour of the critically acclaimed Broadway hit Falsettos comes to Jones Hall December 21-26. The funny, poignant musical actually consists of two self-contained, one-act plays, 1981's March of the Falsettos and 1990's Falsettoland. In 1992, the sequels were joined and remounted for their Broadway debut under the name Falsettos. The musical was nominated for seven Tony Awards, and won the 1992 Tony for Best Score (to author and composer William Finn) and Best Book (to Finn and co-author and director James Lapine). It's the story of Marvin Rupert, a Jewish man who's married and has a young son, Jason. Jason is faced with the trials and tribulations of his parents' divorce as his father falls in love with another man, Whizzer, and his mother's remarriage to his father's psychiatrist. It's also about the crisis that confronts Jason and his extended family when Whizzer learns he has a mysterious new disease.

THIS WEEK IN TEXAS had the opportunity to chat with actress Heather MacRae, who is recreating her Broadway role as Dr. Charlotte, Marvin's next door neighbor who happens to be a lesbian. Ms. MacRae talked about American theatre, her career, and Falsettos and what it has to say about family and relationships.

TWT: What kind of play is Falsettos?

[Ms. MacRae]: When you talk about Falsettos, people say, "Oh God, it sounds so depressing," and it is quite sad. But it's also very funny and very joyous because it's a celebration of life, it's not about death; it's really about families and people coming together in a time of crisis and trying to figure out how to deal with this mysterious illness.

William Finn always says he can't stand that people think of this as an "AIDS musical." It's not about AIDS. It's really about relationships—about this little group of people who come together and face this tragedy. It'll make you laugh, it'll make you cry; I know that sounds corny, but it's really true.

The music is so beautiful; there's a quartet in the second act between the two gay men and the two lesbians in the hospital; they stand by Whizzer's hospital bed, singing this beautiful song called "Four Unlikely Lovers." It's really an anthem, it's so wonderful.

You originated the part of Dr. Charlotte, didn't you?

Yes, I did. I've been doing it since 1990, on and off for three years.

How many of the original cast members are in this touring show?

Of the people who originally opened on Broadway, there's three of us. Everybody else has done it in another form, like on a tour, or the Hartford stage production. So this is a very good cast, because it's a combination of [members from] the Broadway company and another company. Everybody in the show, with the exception of one person, has done it on Broadway.

There's been a lot of talk about "family values," especially among conservatives, and Falsettos approaches the subject from a different angle.

I think, of course, people are concerned with all the terrible things that are happening in the world, and I think that the family structure is very important in our society. But unfortunately, not everybody is lucky enough to have the traditional family. Not everybody has a mommy and daddy who are their real parents... If you have an extended family, they don't necessarily have to be your biological relations.

I think people take for granted that, because you're a child's parent, you can sort of do whatever you want. As we know from all the newspaper and media stories, there are many parents who abuse that privilege. Just because you're somebody's biological relative doesn't mean you're going to give them the best life.

Jason has all these people who really love him, and even though it's not considered a normal family, what is "normal" anymore? There are just too many different kinds of relationships nowadays to consider that one is the right one. It's whatever's right for you, and as long as children are treated with love and respect, I think they'll grow up to be fine.

What has the response been to Falsettos?

Everywhere we go, we get phenomenal reviews, because it's an extraordinary piece of theatre; the music is absolutely beautiful and wonderful, it appeals to everybody. Initially, people might think,

"Gee, I don't know if I want to see that—lesbians from next door, two gay guys." So I think people have to put aside their prejudices and just come to it with an open mind and an open heart, and I think they'll be surprised.

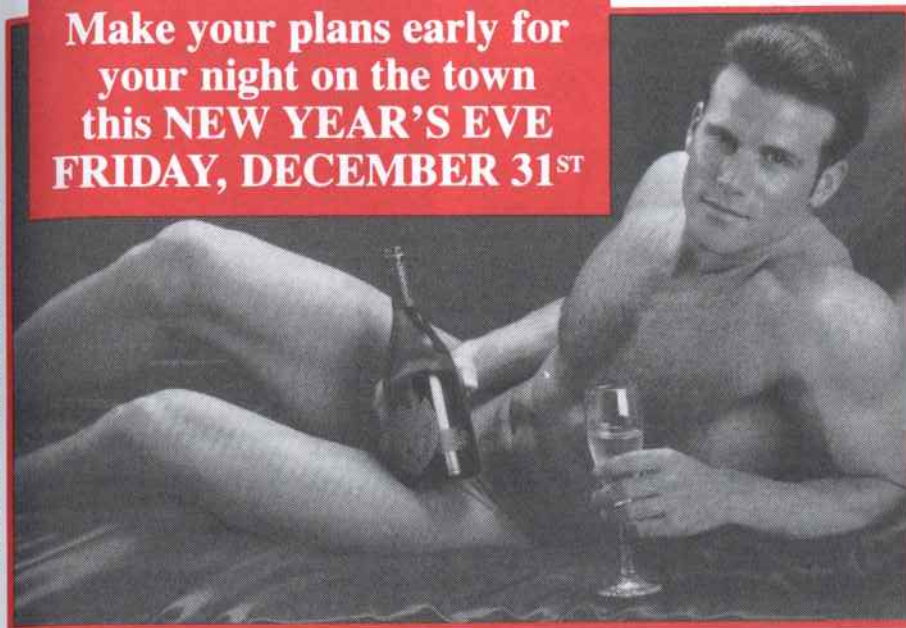

In the initial Broadway run, of course, we had the "Falsetto fans," the people who followed both the shows for a number of years and have seen them off Broadway, and the very sophisticated New York audience, the gay audience, then the suburbanites. Then we started getting tourists, and that was great because they had no idea what the show was about, and they'd wait for us after the show and say, "I've never seen anything like this, and it reminded me of my son or my daughter." Not necessarily a gay child; maybe they had a child who was ill or that they hadn't seen in a while.

A lot of people just want to see fluff; they only want to see something that doesn't make them think. And that's fine, if that's what they want. But I think that, if we're going to broaden our horizons and learn about life, when we go to the theatre we need to feel that we're coming out thinking about something, whether it's politics, religion, romance or whatever.

Angels in America is running in New York now; that's a magnificent piece of theatre, but I don't know if it can play the rest of the country.

Because it's political?

Well, it's very political, but it also has male nudity and some graphic talk. It's sad, because it's really quite wonderful; magnificent, really. I find that sad—that Americans can't really open their hearts to see new ways of life. This is the '90s, and things are different now. We can't live in a little isolated world.

You've worked in television, movies and theatre. Do you have a preference among the three?

I love the theatre, I just love it. I would never stop doing plays. I've done a few movies, and I would love to do some more, and television, because monetarily, they're certainly more rewarding, but not creatively. Doing a play is a great experience, because you go from point A to point Z every night; it's complete, each night is a complete event. I've done a few movies and some television, and it can be sort of boring sitting around, but it's certainly a lot of fun and I hope to do more.

I also do my nightclub act, in which I sing some original material. My brother Bruce is a wonderful songwriter, so I do some of his songs. Now that I'm a little older and can be more objective about my parents' careers, I do a whole tribute to my father and my mother, Gordon and Sheila MacRae, and kind of talk about my life growing up with them. I sing songs from Carousel and Oklahoma.

What's up next for you?

Eventually I'm going to have to do another play [laughs]. I think the original Broadway cast, everybody in the cast is going to go to Los Angeles to do Falsettos there for three months, then after that, who knows? I do voice-overs, and I'll do my club act again. Once we do the L.A. show, it'll be time to move on to something else, because I've been doing it on and off for a long time.

It's hard, because there's nothing much that I see out there in terms of musicals that I like as much as Falsettos. People are always coming up to me and recognizing me, and that's nice, because you know that you've made an impact on somebody's life, and they always say they loved the show and they loved my character. It's wonderful to be appreciated like that, but eventually you have to move on.

12 Steps to A More Dysfunctional Christmas

Rob Nash Presents Another Masterful One-Man Show

Are you blue because you'll be having Christmas without your "traditional" family this year? 12 Steps to A More Dysfunctional Christmas may help you feel glad instead.

Do you dread Christmas because you have to be with your "traditional" family this year? 12 Steps... may help you look forward to the holiday with laughter instead.

12 Steps to A More Dysfunctional Christmas is a comedy performed by one man—the man who also wrote the play, Rob Nash. After reading all the "writings on the walls" about Nash and about this piece, I concluded that the writer/actor more than likely is writing and playing what he's lived. And I believe that this is the key to Nash's success with both his earlier hit 12 Steps to A More Dysfunctional You as well this current sequel.

After a performance of Nash's first "dysfunctional" play earlier this year in Edinburgh, Scotland, an artistic director/composer/writer/performer/avid theatre-goer wrote him personally, saying, "Last weekend I saw 18 shows at the Edinburgh Festival Fringe, ranging from the indescribably terrible to the quite magnificent. I am simply writing to congratulate you on your amazing tour de force. It was quite the best show I have ever seen on the Fringe, both in terms of the writing and your performance."

The popularity of the holiday sequel is evident in the size of the crowds that have been turning out to see...Dysfunctional Christmas at Houston's small Curtains Theater. On the Friday evening I attended, chairs were placed in the aisles to accommodate the overflow, and the audience consisted of a fairly equal mix of same-sex and opposite-sex couples. The diversity of the crowd didn't seem to affect the level of laughter at points in the dialogue when one of the characters pokes fun at the absurdity of homophobic misconceptions.

Nash has created characters that are so true to life that it's easy to identify someone you know in each personality represented. I found this little two-act delightful and as much fun as stand-up comedy, which is understandable when one recalls that that performance genre is a part of Rob Nash's background.

What really fascinated me was the artist's ability to switch quickly among five different characters with a minimal lapse in concentration or energy. With every change, he kept each person true to their character without the loss in intensity one would expect when a single performer does all the work for nearly two hours.

Nash plays a 62-year-old grandmother who kept her alcoholic husband in the house until her three children were grown and no longer there to shield her; the woman's caretaker son, who happens to be gay; a grandson and a granddaughter of the woman, who are acting out the effects of their dysfunctional "inheritance"; the children's mother, who is in the Junior League and is a master of denial; and "Miss Denial's" sister, who's obsessed with pop psychology and the vocabulary of the New Age movement, and also happens to be a lesbian.

Nash makes this five-way role-changing seem as easy as changing an old shirt. In fact, in the earliest scenes, he uses an old red and black plaid shirt as a prop, which helps the audience keep the character switches clear. By the closing scenes, the actor has done such a good job creating his characters that theatre-goers are easily able to recognize them by their speech patterns, and the shirt prop is no longer used.

Rob Nash brings a notable background of education and experience to his latest play, which is having its world premiere at Curtains. Nash, a Houston native, resides in San Francisco and performs stand-up comedy at The Improv and on VH1's Stand-Up Spotlight with Rosie O'Donnell. His acting career began early, with training at the Theatre Under the Stars' Humphries School, where he played the Artful Dodger in Oliver as well as other significant roles. At The University of Texas in Austin, he wrote for the Daily Texan and helped write that paper's first gay comic strip.

Nash is now writing for a trade paper on stand-up comedy as well as for The Tonight Show. After opening 12 Steps to A More Dysfunctional You in Houston in October 1992, he took it to Austin, San Francisco and Edinburgh, where it was one of the most highly acclaimed American shows at the Festival on the Fringe. It has been scheduled for a return to Curtains in January, and will then go on tour nationwide.

There's still time to catch the last performance of La Traviata, Giuseppe Verdi's classic composition that was inspired by Alexandre Dumas play, La Dame aux Camelias. In this time-honored story, parental intervention in the affairs of the heart of their children leads to devastating consequences. As presented by The Dallas Opera in the Music Hall at Fair Park, La Traviata features an international cast, with Chilean-born Veronica Villaroel as Veronica and Marcello Giordani as Alfredo. Tickets for tomorrow's 7:30 p.m. performance are $25-$85, and can be obtained through the Dallas Opera ticket office at 3102 Oak Lawn, Suite 450, or at the Music Hall box office.

The Dallas Opera and the Fort Worth Ballet join creative forces to present the perennial holiday favorite, The Nutcracker, for five elegant performances December 21-24 in the Music Hall at Fair Park. This special holiday presentation—choreographed by Paul Mejia, Artistic Director of the Fort Worth Ballet, and featuring lavish sets and costumes created by European designer Alain Vaes—brings to life Clara's adventures with the Nutcracker Prince, the Rat King, the Sugar Plum Fairy and the other wonderful creatures she encounters on her journey to the Kingdom of the Sweets. The five performances of The Nutcracker are scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 7:30 p.m., with matinees on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 2 p.m. For tickets, contact The Dallas Opera Ticket Services office at (214)443-1000.

This is the last weekend to catch Beehive Christmas Party, the big-haired holiday salute to the Ronettes, Little Eva, Annette and other musical legends of the Sixties at Austin's Paramount Theatre, 713 Congress Avenue. Performances are tonight (Friday) at 8 p.m., tomorrow (Saturday) at 3 and 8 p.m. and Sunday at 3 p.m. Tickets, $9-$21, are available at all UTTM outlets, HEB food stores and the Paramount box office, or by calling (512) 477-6060.

Steve Farrell, Vicki Farrell and Rich Mills bring the Fertle family's Christmas reunion to life at Houston's Radio Music Theatre.

Houston's Radio Music Theatre presents its ninth annual production of A Fertle Holiday now through January 15. Steve Farrell (who authored this comedy, formerly entitled Invasion of the Bed Snatchers), Vicki Farrell and Rich Mills bring to life the members of the wacky Fertle family as they gather for another Christmas reunion in Dumpster, Texas. Performances are Thursdays and Fridays at 8:30 p.m. and Saturdays at 8:30 and 10:50 p.m. Admission is $12, and reservations (required) may be made by calling (713) 522-7722. Radio Music Theatre is located at 2623 Colquitt.

During the month of December, Curtains Theater presents its Late Night Holiday Showcase Series, a collection of plays running at 11 p.m. on weekend nights. Tonight (Friday) and tomorrow (Saturday), The Not-Ready-For-The-Alley-Theatre Players perform a set of comedy sketches compiled and co-written (with the Players) by Dreem Katz veteran Ramona Floyd. Then, on December 23, Shelley Stolaroff performs her one-woman comedy Sidney, in Focus about a struggling young actress who's trying to make it on her own in New York. Tickets for both shows are $8. Curtains is located at 7322 Washington Avenue. For reservations, call (713)862-4548.

Didi Snively, Aunt Pearl and Vera Carp go on a rampage after a mysterious phantom starts destroying holiday displays, while the locals' production of A Christmas Carol is jeopardized when the electric company threatens to turn off the lights. Joe Sears and Jaston Williams bring the inhabitants of Tuna, Texas to life at Galveston's Grand 1894 Opera House January 11-16. Tickets, $10-$40, may be purchased by calling (409)765-1894, (713) 480-1894 or (800)821-1894.

GREGORY DEMLER AND KYLE PIERSON

As Texans don their gay apparel during this holiday season, thoughts naturally turn to festive parties, shopping for all those special people on a sometimes too-long Christmas list and, of course, cuddling with that special someone in front of a roaring fire.

Our cover men this week, Gregory Demler and Kyle Pierson, certainly appreciate the wonders of this holiday season. This will be their second Christmas together, and the two of them have come to appreciate both the holiday season and the fact that they share it together.

Gregory, on the left, is a designer, lending his considerable talents to one of the premiere showrooms in the famed Design District of Dallas. Kyle, meanwhile, puts his keen mind to work for a major banking company in the city. Both handsome men enjoy travel and can be found exercising their toned bodies on the many beautiful hike-and-bike trails around Dallas.

Uncharacteristically charming, unassuming, gracious and unpretentious, this couple has only one wish for Christmas — that everyone experiences love, health and happiness during this holiday season.

JANE FONDA
BORN DECEMBER 21, 1937

BY C. LICHTENSTEIN

WEEK OF DECEMBER 17 - DECEMBER 23, 1993

Both the Sun and Mars change signs this week, moving from gregarious Sagittarius to practical Capricorn. Our energy shifts from fancy-free fun to a more down-to-earth aggressiveness. Not a moment too soon—it is possible that, as the year winds down, we need to close the books on certain aspects of our lives. This inspiring Capricorn energy, which will affect even more planets next week, gives us the push we need to finish up and go forward. Read ahead to see how the Sun and Mars in Capricorn affect each sign.

SAGITTARIUS: (November 23 - December 21) It's time to take charge of your financial future! The Sun and Mars in Capricorn provide you with the basic common sense that you sometimes lack in fiscal matters. Carefully weigh and balance your long-term investment needs with your short-term monetary requirements. It's wise to take control of your bank account while the planets give you the green light.

CAPRICORN: (December 22 - January 20) The Sun and Mars in your own sign command you to assume center stage. Your personal magnetism is at a peak—take full advantage of the power while you can. Any major projects begun now will have an excellent chance of succeeding. Any "make-over" will be a crowd-pleaser. One word of caution—be sure that you only pursue things that you truly want. Otherwise, don't waste your energy.

AQUARIUS: (January 21 - February 18) You derive much satisfaction from volunteering and giving a bit of your time to help those in need. Now that the Sun and Mars have moved into Capricorn, your ability to "gain by giving" will put things in the proper perspective for you. Spiritual issues also come into play and you can successfully combine the worldly with the "other-worldly" elements in your life.

PISCES: (February 19 - March 20) Seek friends and immerse yourself in large social groups. The Sun and Mars in Capricorn demand that you make your presence known in the greater social swirl. Joint projects get off the ground and prove to be far-reaching and ultimately satisfying. Pisces sometimes try to blend into the background. Resist the temptation to do so. Stand tall and make your personal mark upon the group effort.

ARIES: (March 21 - April 20) It's nose-to-the-grindstone time when the Sun and Mars move into Capricorn. You feel your career has taken a definite direction, and you seem to be more than willing to make the necessary sacrifices and compromises to attain success. Be careful of "winning at all costs," however. Keep the dirty politics within limits—you still have to look at yourself in the mirror each morning. Be sure you like who and what you see.

TAURUS: (April 21 - May 21) Taureans are usually content to stay close to home and in more familiar terrain. However, now that the Sun and Mars have shifted into Capricorn, you begin to see tremendous opportunity in traveling farther afield. Find your special niche in the world and undertake a broadening course of study or explore more exotic locales. New vistas will prove to be personally profitable.

GEMINI: (May 22 - June 21) The Sun and Mars in Capricorn spur you to more passionate outlets. You crave to dig deep beneath the surface and learn all there is to know about yourself and those very close to you. Psychological breakthroughs are possible now if you keep an open, balanced perspective. This planetary movement paves the way for greater inner strength and confidence.

CANCER: (June 22 - July 22) Partnerships become activated now that both the Sun and Mars move into Capricorn. Whether it's the quest for new companionship or the reinforcement of current liaisons, your attentions and actions will focus on establishing and strengthening personal ties. At this point, you are more than willing to sublimate your own needs to the wishes of others. Try to strike a happy balance.

LEO: (July 23 - August 23) Although it may not seem all that attractive, work is the most effective outlet for your energies now. Both the Sun and Mars in Capricorn indicate that all efforts on the job front will play off handsomely in the near future if you put in the proper effort now. Effort should also be expended in exercise and personal training. Take heart; it won't be all that onerous once you get rolling.

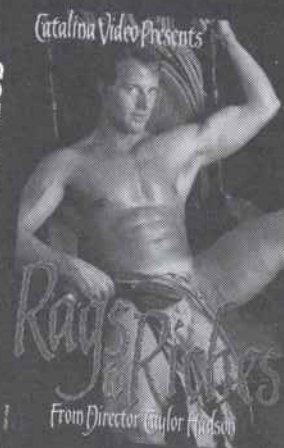

VIRGO: (August 24 - September 23) Fun has a way of becoming more important to your daily peace of mind. The Sun and Mars in Capricorn stresses to you that there must be more to life than work, work and more work. It's wise to take time out to enjoy life and to relax and refresh your psyche. Avoid the Virgo guilt complex—you deserve to divert your efforts into pleasant pastimes for a while.

LIBRA: (September 24 - October 23) Activities closer to home provide you with the greatest amount of personal satisfaction. The Sun and Mars in Capricorn accentuate your home base and sense of security. Your home becomes an integral part of how you view yourself, so keep it looking terrific. Projects like redecorating or household maintenance work will go smoothly and produce the desired effect.

SCORPIO: (October 24 - November 22) Weigh your words and speak carefully—you will get exactly what you want. Sun and Mars in Capricorn bring your communication skills into the forefront. You command authority and gain prestige through your eloquence. There is much to be gained by applying your carefully acquired knowledge to solving everyday problems. Even snippets of information gleaned in school may have their application.

AIDS SERVICES OF DALLAS HONORS VOLUNTEERS

*Over 20 Awards Handed out
At Fifth Annual Ceremony Held Last Sunday.*

DALLAS — When AIDS first began taking its toll on the residents of Dallas, no one could foresee the devastating effect that the disease—and the associated prejudice and discrimination—would have on its victims. It was years later before anyone realized that those with the disease faced not just a possible death sentence, but potential loss of employment and home as well.

AIDS Services of Dallas [ASD] recognized the need for a feeling of security in people facing this health challenge, and embarked on a program to create resident facilities for those individuals who faced AIDS, unemployment and homelessness, opening its first facility, A Place for Us, in 1987. Since that time, ASD has sheltered hundreds of people living with AIDS.

It took a community of spirit and hard work to create that first facility and build ASD into one of the largest providers of medically supportive housing for people with AIDS in the United States. That spirit and hard work came to the agency in the form of a staff of more than 500 volunteers who, combined, provided ASD with an average 954 volunteer hours per month or, in monetary terms, more than $124,000 annually.

According to Don Maison, President and Chief Executive Officer of ASD, it is "an array of community involvement, from the Dallas Junior League to the Lutheran Youth Convention, [that] has contributed greatly to our facilities." Levi Turner, ASD Volunteer Coordinator, agreed. "The greatest gift our volunteers provide is the donation of their time in providing emotional and practical support to our residents. Our volunteers come from over 30 Dallas-area churches, civic and community groups, representing a variety of different religious and racial backgrounds. Together they help to provide a higher quality of life to people living with AIDS/HIV disease."

In recognition of the accomplishments of these volunteers, every year ASD holds a Volunteer Appreciation Event. The organization's fifth such ceremony was held last Sunday, December 12, with more than 20 awards handed out in recognition of volunteer commitment and dedication. Receiving the Daryl Moore Memorial Award, named for the founder of the PWA Coalition of Dallas, Inc., was Erin Owen. Owen, a clinical psychologist with Productive Rehabilitation Institute of Dallas of Ergonomics [PRIDE], was saluted for outstanding contribution by an individual.

Other awards went to GHT Alarm Systems, recognized with the Phil Morrow Memorial Award for Outstanding Contribution by an Organization; the Oak Lawn Community Services Care-A-Van program, which provides transportation to PWAs; Rainbow Days; Regis Hairstylists; Oak Lawn Extermination; Jim Davis; Susan Ludwick; Norman Ford; Dave White; Brian Morgan; Carol West; and the International Apparel Mart of Dallas.

Similar awards were presented in honor of ASD's Supper Club volunteers as well as in honor of those volunteers who have lost their struggle with AIDS during the past year.

While the awards themselves are heartily appreciated by the volunteers, many find greater reward in the bonds of friendship that develops between them and the clients they serve. It is these bonds of friendship that, according to Maison, "give the residents the drive and determination to continue their fight against AIDS and live their lives with meaning."

And, according to Turner, "It is perhaps their strong commitment to ASD that best exemplifies the quality of our volunteers."

1993 HOUSTON BLACK TIE DINNER RAISES OVER $91,000

*Eight Local, State Organizations
And Human Rights Campaign Fund
Share Proceeds from Nov. 6 Event.*

HOUSTON — Organizers of this year's Houston Black Tie Dinner announced last week that the recently held event raised over $91,000. In a reception held last Thursday, President Frank Campisi and Secretary Shelley Porter presented checks to the beneficiaries of proceeds from the Dinner. Campisi and Porter served as Co-chairs of this year's fund-raiser.

The November 6 affair, which saw local politicians, business leaders, activists and other supporters of Houston's gay and lesbian community turn out in their finest for an evening of speeches, entertainment and fine food at the posh Westin Oaks Hotel, was organized by The Houston Black Tie Dinner, Inc. Pleased with the success of this year's event, which sold out, officers of the recently created organization say they have already reserved a larger ballroom for next year's dinner.

The majority of funds raised from the November 6 event, approximately $52,000, were distributed to eight local or statewide organizations: AIDS Foundation Houston, The Assistance Fund, Bering Community Service Foundation, the Gay Men's Chorus of Houston, Heartsong, the Lesbian Health Initiative, the Montrose Clinic/Houston Clinical Research Network and the Texas Human Rights Foundation. The Human Rights Campaign Fund, headquartered in Washington, D.C., received over $39,000.

In attendance were Committee Chairs, Table Captains and Underwriters of the event.

"The success of the dinner was a great community effort to help our own locally and lobby for our rights in Congress," Campisi said. "The funds raised are a tribute to a lot of hard work and a spirit of working together in the pursuit of freedom."

"Since the 1993 dinner sold out, we have reserved a larger ballroom for next year and look forward to an even more successful 1994 dinner."

EXPANSION IN PLANS FOR DALLAS' GAY AND LESBIAN COMMUNITY CENTER

*Hotline, 'Lambda University'
Among Projects for 1994.*

DALLAS — Throughout history, the town hall has been an integral part of the social structure of a community. Within its walls, everything of importance and interest to a group of people transpires, making it the focal point of that community's business and social life.

Such a focal point is of primary importance to the gay community, a group whose burgeoning efforts at organizing its own society have resulted in the duplication of time-honored institutions geared specifically towards gay and lesbian people. In the early '80s, however, Dallas had no such institution, no place to help foster the feeling of community that the "town hall" engenders.

That all changed with the creation of the Gay and Lesbian Community Center, the local community's answer to the "town hall." Not merely a meeting place, the Center has become what its organizers envisioned—a focal point of the community's business and social life.

Through the years, the Gay and Lesbian Community Center has changed locations several times—but it has never wavered in its original intent—to provide the community with a permanent structure in which to meet and congregate safely and comfortably.

Now, more than ten years after its creation, the Dallas Gay and Lesbian Community Center has announced plans to mount an ambitious expansion and remodeling program for 1994, beginning in February with a major remodeling and transformation of the sanctuary—a remnant of the days when the facility housed the Metropolitan Community Church—into flexible meeting rooms to address the growing demand for space by local organizations. Included in the remodeling project will be the installation of additional audio/visual equipment.

Also in the plans is the addition of a Coffee House—which is considered vital to fostering new groups and programs—and the creation of a Education Conference Center, which will house the DGA archives and an expanded and improved library facility.

New programs and services at the Community Center in 1994 will include:

- Administrative and communication services featuring Voice Mail, copier and fax services, plus a mail center, a referral network, a mailing list service, a community calendar and a "welcome wagon" pack;

- Expansion of the volunteer training and support programs the Center provides for the Foundation for Human Understanding, the umbrella organization which supports the AIDS Resource Center, the NAMES Project, the Nelson-Tebedo Clinic and the Food Pantry;

- Development of a Gay and Lesbian Hotline with a target start-up date in April. The Hotline will deal with items pertinent to the gay community, including coming out, youth and lesbian issues, and anti-violence and discrimination information;

- Continuance of local age-related support programs, such as Gay and Lesbian Young Adults, Old Lesbians and the Prime Timers, with the planned addition of programs associated with national groups such as SAGE [Seniors Acting in a Gay Environment];

- Development of self-esteem and self-respect workshops covering topics like coming out, dating, relationship building, parenting and the pride associated with the history of the gay movement; and

- The creation of "Lambda University" with accredited programs for gay/lesbian high school and college-level Continuing Education.

With all these programs scheduled to go on line in 1994, help is needed to achieve the ambitious goals already established. Community involvement and participation is encouraged to ensure the success of the Center's ongoing programs, as well as those planned for next year. Those interested in helping out may call the Gay and Lesbian Community Center at (214) 528-4233.

DALLAS SINGER SARAH ANGELL BENEFITS HIV GROUPS

Proceeds from Sales of Cassette Go to Four Nonprofit Organizations.

DALLAS — The release of Dr. Timothy Seelig's latest CD, Everything is Possible—with 100% of the proceeds benefiting Dallas' Nelson-Tebedo Clinic, the Turtle Creek Chorale AIDS Fund and the Cathedral of Hope AIDS Ministry—signals a growing trend and awareness among musicians and vocalists alike to put their talents to work in the battle against AIDS.

But before Dr. Seelig, there was Sarah Angell, a Dallas singer whose roots in the gay community are quite strong—in fact, they launched her career. While she has a beautiful voice, however, Angell had no experience and none of the mechanical elements (such as demo tapes and the like) necessary to break into the business. That's where the gay community comes in.

Angell was convinced by Jim Caruso of the group Wiseguys to perform in an Open Mic competition at a local gay nitespot one evening. She did, and was hired by the club that night. After that booking, she was hired by other gay clubs to perform, and has appeared in the famed Pyramid Room of the Fairmont Hotel. Now she even has a demo tape—something she feels confident will lead to even more work.

Angell hasn't forgotten how instrumental the gay community has been to her success—nor the number of friends she has lost to AIDS. Because of that, she decided to produce a cassette of music whose proceeds would, in some way, help to bring an end to the AIDS crisis. And when she mentioned her intentions to friends and associates, she was gratified to discover that there were others who wanted to help her realize her goal.

Chanteuse is the result of a collaboration between Angell and accompanist Buddy Shanahan. Because production costs have been underwritten, all proceeds benefit the Foundation for Human Understanding in support of the AIDS Resource Center, The Nelson-Tebedo Clinic, The NAMES Project and the Food Pantry. Because of all the help Angell received from her friends, only twelve cents from the sale of each cassette is used to cover expenses. The balance goes to the Foundation—an amount which already exceeds $2,000.

Chanteuse, at $10 per cassette, is available at Sound Warehouse, Curious Times, Crossroads Market and Off The Street.

HOUSTON NONPROFIT GROUPS HOST PARTIES ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

Black-Tie Optional Bashes Set for Wyndham Warwick, Westin Galleria.

HOUSTON — New Year's Eve has traditionally been one of the most eagerly anticipated holidays in the gay community, and several Houston nonprofit groups are joining the fun this year by hosting parties at two of the city's poshest hotels.

The Bering Community Service Foundation, The Assistance Fund and the Houston Clinical Research Network are hosting a party on the twelfth floor of the Wyndham Warwick Hotel, 5701 Main Street, from 9 p.m.—1:30 a.m. Organizers describe the bash as a way of expressing the three organizations' thanks for the support provided them by Houston's gay and lesbian community over the last year.

Tickets, $65 per person, include an open bar, hors d'oeuvres and a breakfast buffet at 12:30 a.m. Musical entertainment will be provided by deejay J. Edward of Austin and the comedy cabaret trio Less Miserable of Dallas. Dress is black-tie optional. Guest rooms and suites are available. For more information, call (713)529-6071.

The People With AIDS Coalition of Houston [PWACH] and the AIDS Equity League are hosting a New Year's Eve Fund-Raising Gala featuring a sit-down dinner and dance from 7 p.m.—2 a.m. at the Westin Galleria Hotel, 5060 W. Alabama. Proceeds from the gala benefit the PWA Coalition and AEL.

Among highlights of the black-tie optional event will be a raffle for several prizes including a Sony Watchman and dinners at fine Houston restaurants. Advance tickets are $55 per person, $100 per couple and $500 for tables of ten; tickets at the door will be $75. For every 10 tables sold, the hosts will provide a free pass for a person with AIDS. Reservations can be made by calling (713)522-5428. In addition, $5 from the fee for each tuxedo rented at Al's Formal Wear, 5524 Wesleyan, will be donated to the host organizations. Customers should specify that they are renting for the PWACH/AEL New Year's Eve party.

RED RIBBON STAMP GOES ON DISPLAY AT HOUSTON CLINIC

*Presentation by Houston Postmaster
Part of AIDS Day Observances.*

HOUSTON — A poster-size reproduction of the Red Ribbon AIDS awareness postage recently issued by the U.S. Postal Service will be placed on permanent display at Thomas Street Clinic, a Harris County facility that provides outpatient medical care and counseling for people with HIV and AIDS. The decision to place the poster at Thomas Street was made by board members of HIV Service Providers last week.

HIV Service Providers President Charles Domingues [l] and AIDS Equity League Director Lane Lewis flank poster reproduction of red ribbon U.S. postage stamp, which will go on display at Houston's Thomas Street Clinic.

The stamp was officially presented to Houston-area HIV service providers during ceremonies held at the offices of the Houston Independent School District, which included a display of panels from the NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt and performances by student musicians.

Around noon, several dozen members of ACT UP/Gulf Coast, carrying a wooden coffin and posters bearing the photos of people lost to AIDS, staged a demonstration through downtown Houston that culminated in a brief press conference held on the steps of City Hall. Group spokesperson Ross Perry read a statement condemning President Bill Clinton's response to the AIDS epidemic and calling for the adoption of the Barbara McClintock Project to Cure AIDS.

The McClintock Project would centralize AIDS research in the U.S., placing it under the direction of a Special Assistant to the President on AIDS and, advocates believe, eliminating conflicts of interest that hamper HIV research.

World AIDS Day observances in Houston culminated with a ceremony Wednesday evening at the Metropolitan Multi-Purpose Center that included the reading of the names of people lost to AIDS, and the decorating and lighting of the Tree of Remembrance.

Tonight, Rich's Customer Appreciation Party and Holiday Skirt Extravaganza offers free cover to anyone sporting their best plaid apparel. This Sunday, the club's Christmas Party features

Everyone is invited to come check out the athletes who'll be representing Houston at the Games next year. Happy holidays from HOT TEA.

TARRANT TEA — Here's what's happening in Fort Worth from Cowtown HOT TEA....

If you're just too pooped to travel home for Christmas, or the thought of slaving over a hot stove all day to prepare the holiday feast is too much for you, then please consider spending Christmas Day with your hunky friends at the 651. Beginning at 1 p.m., the western wonders will serve a traditional Christmas dinner with all the trimmings. To top all that, you also have the distinct privilege of being served your dressing by Scott Jones himself. Call us crazy, but don't you think Mr. J serving you dumplings on Christmas is just about the best present you could ever ask for? Big Mama promises to hold off until at least 3 p.m. to make sure that at least a few of the patrons have a chance to eat....

Have you been to Kings Cross yet? Well, why not? It is, after all, the newest club in Fort Worth and it does, after all, boast a veritable cornucopia of specials and entertainment options that are destined to leave you begging for more. Now, we'll ask again. Have you been to Kings Cross yet? On your way, you say? We thought so.

SAN ANTONIO TEA — Here's what's going on THIS WEEK IN SAN ANTONIO from Alamo City HOT TEA....

The "downtown experience" bar, Captain's Crew, invites you down to visit with general manager Anthony Castanon [above] and witness the 5,000 lights now on display. A birthday party for Henry DeLeon is in the works for December 23, and everyone's invited....

an easy way to win some extra Christmas money. We've been told a poll is being conducted to see if bartender Ray Gonzalez is the best-looking man in Austin. We agree he's quite handsome, but he's got some fierce competition just inside Charlie's alone....

At Chain Drive, we grabbed the adorable Garold Bates [above], who's always got a big smile on his face. This Sunday, the Drive plays host to the Capital City Riders' "Santa's Twisted Playhouse" celebration. All the sickness begins at 4 p.m., so don't be late for this annual Yuletide madness....

At the Crossing, everybody's trying to regroup after the recent three-day "Return to Dirty Sally's Party." People showed up from all over, and we'll have a photo of the event next week. Manager Warren Miles invites everybody to Jeannette's Wednesday steak night. She's always got a multitude of side dishes to go along with her meat....

At Oilcan Harry's, we managed to get Jason Barnett, Darin Dietiker, Ed Barron, Jim Tremble and Greg Brewer [above] together for a holiday picture. Another star has been born on the club's staff. It seems a dancer performing under the name "Wrangler" entertained at the local talent night contest and won. We hope Wrangler, otherwise known as Eddie Pruitt, will make another appearance soon for all those who missed his act....

5th Street Station's recent tribute to Stonewall 25 packed the house. One of those involved was Mona Little More [above], who posed for us before the show started. Next up, a huge grand opening party will be held on December 18 to welcome the new country bar, 5th Street Dance Hall and Saloon. Lots of surprises and drink specials will be on the agenda all night long. The place looks great. Check out their expanded dance floor when you stop by. Management has spared no expense in converting the club into a top-of-the-line country video saloon. To break it in right, the Cuervo Queen of the South, Donna Day, will be on stage Sunday, December 19 along with some surprises from the Baptist Women....

This weekend, the second 24-hour music marathon will be held at Auntie Mame's. As we mentioned last week, deejays from all over the city will be spinning for this charity event. The fun begins tomorrow at 2 p.m. and continues until Sunday at 2 p.m. Radio station KHFI 96.7 will broadcast this event to Atlanta, Boston, New York, Charleston, Dallas and other cities. Last year's event was a huge success, and you can help them do even better this year by going by and showing your support for Christopher House.

DALLAS TEA — Here's what's happening THIS WEEK IN DALLAS from Big D HOT TEA....

Can't you just feel the holiday spirit in everyone you meet? Doesn't the onset of the season make you feel all warm and cozy inside? Well, we don't know about you, but it apparently made a certain duo at Village Station feel so recently, as evidenced by the CRUISE CAMERA photo above. Feeling the spirit of Christmas are oh-so-handsome Perry Williams [l] and Russ Brouse [r]. If that doesn't make you want to say Ho-Ho-Ho, we certainly don't know what will....

Speaking of holiday cheer, we can't think of any place finer to find copious amounts of it than at your friendly Crossroads neighborhood libation lounge, JR's. Not only is the club the home of breathtakingly beautiful Scott Pittman, not only is it the one place you can find the delightfully divine Kimber Rozelle, but it's also one of the places that pert and perky Andy Grishan and Sean House [above, l-r] like to pop into after spending hours of holiday shopping at the Galleria and North Park. Imagine, beautiful gifts and the ambience of JR's. What more could you ask for this holiday season?...

Just next door, at TMC, we were most pleasantly surprised during a recent visit to Our Town's Bear Club for Men to find two extremely handsome—and we do mean handsome—hunks enjoying a night out on the town. Well, isn't that what you'd call Hector Gonzales and Benito Tamora [above, l-c], pictured with the always jovial Jose Guzman [r]. We're not sure if this trio came out specifically to view Miss Ellie in a clothed state, or if they had heard about a hosiery sale in the back room, but we do know they had a great time. Well, why not? They were, after all, at TMC....

Over on Fitzhugh at Crews Inn, Miss Mona's bags were already packed for her trip Westward. We've spoken with our friendly neighborhood travel agency—the one that booked Ms. M's itinerary—and we understand that not only will she be going to her home away from home, Las Vegas, but she's also booked passage to a city by the bay, San Francisco. This will be her virgin trip to Trolley Town, and while she's certainly no virgin, we're sure she'll find just loads of new and exciting things to do while she's there. Danny Michaels and Mikell Smith [above, l-r] are already waving a fond farewell to Mona, but promise to keep her stool warm until she returns....

While we're on the subject of warm, that's exactly what will happen to the cockles of your heart when you visit Cl's sister club, Zippers, just next door. While you're at the club, be sure and ask Mike Teal how many more miles he's racked up on his frequent flier program. Trumormongers are mongering that he's transferred them all to another carrier....

BIG DADDY'S

On Maple, you just would not believe the questions we've been asked about the Mount-N-Men lately. You know them. They're the studly sorts who're making an encore appearance at the Brick on Sunday. What sort of questions, you ask? Well, things like "Do they really...?" and "What did it look like?" were a few. To all those questions we have just replied, "Well, you really need to see it for yourself." You can do that by joining the scores of other curious types who will be at the club to catch a glimpse of the hottest thing on six (There are three of them, after all!) legs! Larry Arbo and his good buddy Terrie Anderson [above, l-r] plan on being there to see for themselves, even though Larry only melts ice on Mondays and Tuesdays, and Sunday's usually an off night for him. Maybe he needed a few pointers on keeping things hot. To melt the ice, and all....

Back on the Springs, we've heard from our sources that the staff and management at Sue Ellen's is busily preparing to turn the club into a winter wonderland for the holiday season. Knowing how birthday girl Kathy Jack is with decorating, we're certain it will be something that would make even Santa proud. Needless to say, with all the lights and garland and such, most of the wall space will be covered with holiday trim, necessitating the temporary removal of the Major Artery collection until January. We suppose we'll just have to satisfy our urge to look at beautiful things by ogling Christopher Craig and Brenda Minarik....

At Damewood'z, we understand that Jeff Portell just returned from a very pleasant road trip to Austin. Not only did he catch a sixth row glimpse of the Divine one herself, Bette Midler, but he also had a chance to sample a bit of the Capital City's nightlife as well. Knowing how much Jeff loves the nightlife, we were stunned to hear from him the very next day—and it was a local call.

Just green with envy over Jeff's up close and personal view of Ms. M were Lewis Johnson and Steve Morton [above, l-r]. Studly Steve is a mixmaster of note at Village Station, while Luscious Lewis just stands there and looks good. Also looking good is barbelles Peggy Smith, especially now that she's trimmed her gorgeous locks. She did it weeks ago, but due to a sudden bout of myopathy, we only recently noticed....

Across the street at the Round-Up Saloon, Jerry Hall has been having the best time checking the packages of the patrons who visit the club lately. We can certainly understand why. After all, aren't members of the Wrangler set known throughout the world for the way they pack their jeans? For those who are still making out their shopping lists, we'd like to suggest that you add a pair of Calvin Klein sport boxers for both Mark Jimenez and Terry Bucher to it. No, they don't need new ones, but knowing them they'll use a new pair as an excuse to show them off. Please check with them, personally, for exact size requirements....

Over on Wycliff, Monday nights just keep getting better at John L's, and Coco has to be the reason why. Not only is the dynamic entertainer the star of a weekly show there on that night, but she has the best special guests available. Tuesdays at the club are pretty special, too. That's the night that Amazing Grace, she of the Ha-Ha set, has her show. Rumor has it that the amazing Miss Grace has a featured role in an upcoming Hollywood flick starring RuPaul.

Vonda Richards, 34, known to her legion of fans and friends as Vonda DeLayne, departed this world on December 4, 1993, much to the dismay of the thousands of friends she had around the country. Known through the United States as a gorgeous and talented woman, she began life as a man, finding love and success as a female impersonator in Dallas in the 1970s. During her years as a female impersonator, she amassed many titles—including Miss Metroplex, Miss Universe de Texas and Miss Texas/USA—and entertained scores of audiences in clubs throughout the South.

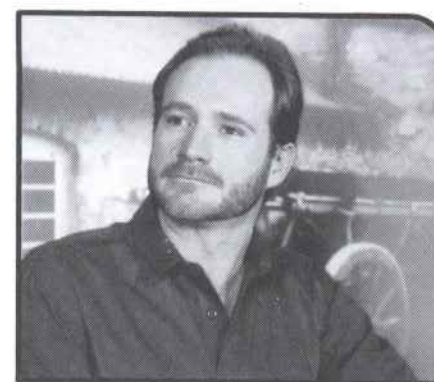

Following her transformation to the woman who most will remember her as, she moved to Miami Beach, where she quickly became the toast of that Florida city. Despite her legal change, she never forgot her roots in the gay community, remaining active in AIDS causes, as well as the pageant systems, Miss Gay USA and Miss Gay America, that she loved so well.

Vonda leaves behind friends and family in Atlanta, Miami, Houston, Dallas and across the nation who will long remember her giving nature and fun-loving sense of humor. She was never too busy to lend an ear or a hand for any cause or for a friend, and, like so many of her contemporaries, is one person who will never be replaced.

Vonda was buried in Stone Mountain, Georgia, next to her mother, as was her wish. A memorial service in Vonda's name will be held at 2 p.m. on Saturday, December 18 at White Rock Community Church in Dallas.

Randy Yeatts
March 3, 1962 - December 5, 1993
Randy was a lover of country music and he could usually be found "socializing" at the Round-Up Saloon. His mischievous grin and mile-wide heart will be missed by all who knew and loved him. His family would like to thank all his friends for their support. Randy is survived by his parents, C.L. and Nancy, sisters Cindy and Sherry, and a host of friends including among many others Brad, Gary, Forrest, Steve, Rich, Mike and David.

Friends of Randy are welcome to join together on Saturday, December 18 at 3 p.m. for a celebration of life at the home of Forrest Johnson, 11802 Oak Highland Dr., Dallas. Please call Forrest at (214) 437-3663 or Brad at 559-2498 for directions and information. Please bring a nonperishable item to be donated to the Food Pantry.

Thomas Floyd Walton, 34, died at his parents' home in Cedar Creek, Texas on October 21, 1993 in the presence of his loving family.

Tom was a devoted friend to all of his many friends, whom he called his family. He will be remembered as a fun-loving and goodhearted man who would give you his last possession if he thought you were in need.

A native Texan, he grew up in Cedar Hill and Arlington, went to high school in Arlington and later resided in Fort Worth.

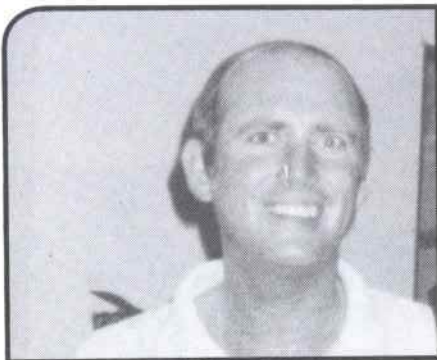

He is survived by his parents, Marlon and Leta Burnett; his two sons, Tommy and Brandon Walton; his two brothers, Joe Don Cavender and Gary Walton; and his sister, Sharon Hickman.

Tom will be missed by his longtime friends, Becky and Melanie Shumake, Rebecca Wiseman, Steve and Joe and many more who knew and loved him.

Gregory Davison Lay
October 31, 1955 - December 4, 1993
Gregory Davison Lay, of "Gregory's Hair," was a very well known hairdresser in the Houston and Alvin area. Gregory passed on to his new life on December 4, 1993 with his family and friends by his side. Gregory is preceded in death by his maternal grandparents, Bill and Hilda Gentry, and paternal grandparent Lelia Ellen Lay. Gregory leaves behind his very loving mother, Eunice M. Lay of Alvin and father, Joseph E. Lay and wife, Kathy of Burton, Texas; his brother, Maurice E. Lay and wife, Susan of California; sister, Mary F. Lay of Alvin; brother, Roger E. Lay and wife, Paula of Baytown; sister, Sharon "Sheesh" L. Lay of Alvin and sister, Debbie M. Wright of Alvin. Gregory has five nieces, one nephew and numerous loving relatives. He has two lifelong friends, Angela Parks Tatum and Micheal "Tampa" Braden, also two longtime friends, Lee Williams and John Dillion and a host of other loving friends.

The family would like to give thanks to the Hospice of Galveston County, the staff of Family Medicine at UTMB and a special thanks to Dr. Alice O'Donnell for her love and compassion for Gregory. A very special thanks to Marilyn Flatu and staff of the AIDS Coalition of Galveston. In lieu of flowers, memorials may be sent to the AIDS Coalition of Coastal Texas.

Gregory, you will be greatly missed and thought of often. As Greg would say, "Sounds good to me." Memorial services were held December 7 and December 12.

Stephen is survived by his parents, brother, sister, niece and nephew, and a host of friends in Houston and New Orleans.

Our paths crossed once, and they will cross again. Stephen, you will be missed very much. I know you and Russell are out of pain and in a better place now. I miss you both very much.

Until we meet again
