The 'Hustle'

A Dance For Crotch-Watchers

By Scott Young

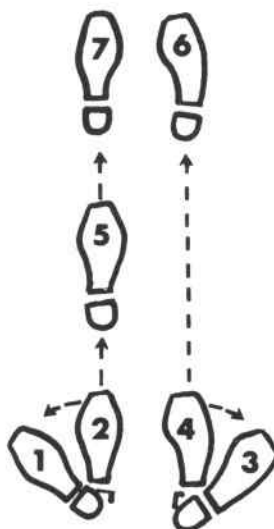

Zeus Studio

THERE is something charmingly old-fashioned about the new dance craze, called the 'Hustle'. It has reversed a trend of more than ten years, during which time dancers have danced away from, rather than with each other. In many ways we're back in the Chubby Checker days of the late 1950s/early 1960s when dancers really got it all together on the floor. If you remember Chubby's popular 'Peppermint Twist' you'll quickly see that both dances have much in common. We'll point out some similarities as we go along.

Gay people, especially, love the Hustle because it comes at that heaven-awaited time when more and more gay bars—liberated from hassling by the fuzz for 'unnatural acts committed in public'—are making a pitch for touch dancing to increase business. Gay guys, throwing caution to the winds, of course, used to get by with a lot in those few bars that allowed fast dancing apart, but now they can have the whole enchilada.

The Hustle combines the horny aspect of crotch-watching (as in fast dancing apart) with the hornier one of crotch-touching, or 'basket weaving' as it is called in gay circles. This is made possible by three things: (1) the slower, sexier tempo that creates an irresistible surge of rhythm, freeing the pelvis to do its thing in the wildest gyrations (making each of us instantly Elvis); (2) the insistently humpier-thumpier beat of bass guitar and drums (a kind of Ravel's Bolero buildup); and (3)

the balls-clutching, cock-bursting 'peaking cry' of "Do it! Do it! Do the Hustle!" repeated like a Greek chorus by disco-jay and dancers at frequent intervals during the dance, each repetition inciting a closer urge-merge of bodies in the most erotic dance patterns.

FROM OLD SAN JUAN

Although many think that the Hustle is some new commercial fad, or at best a spinoff from other modern social-dance styles, the fact is that it's neither. It's now more than five years old, and it was not consciously created . . . it just evolved.

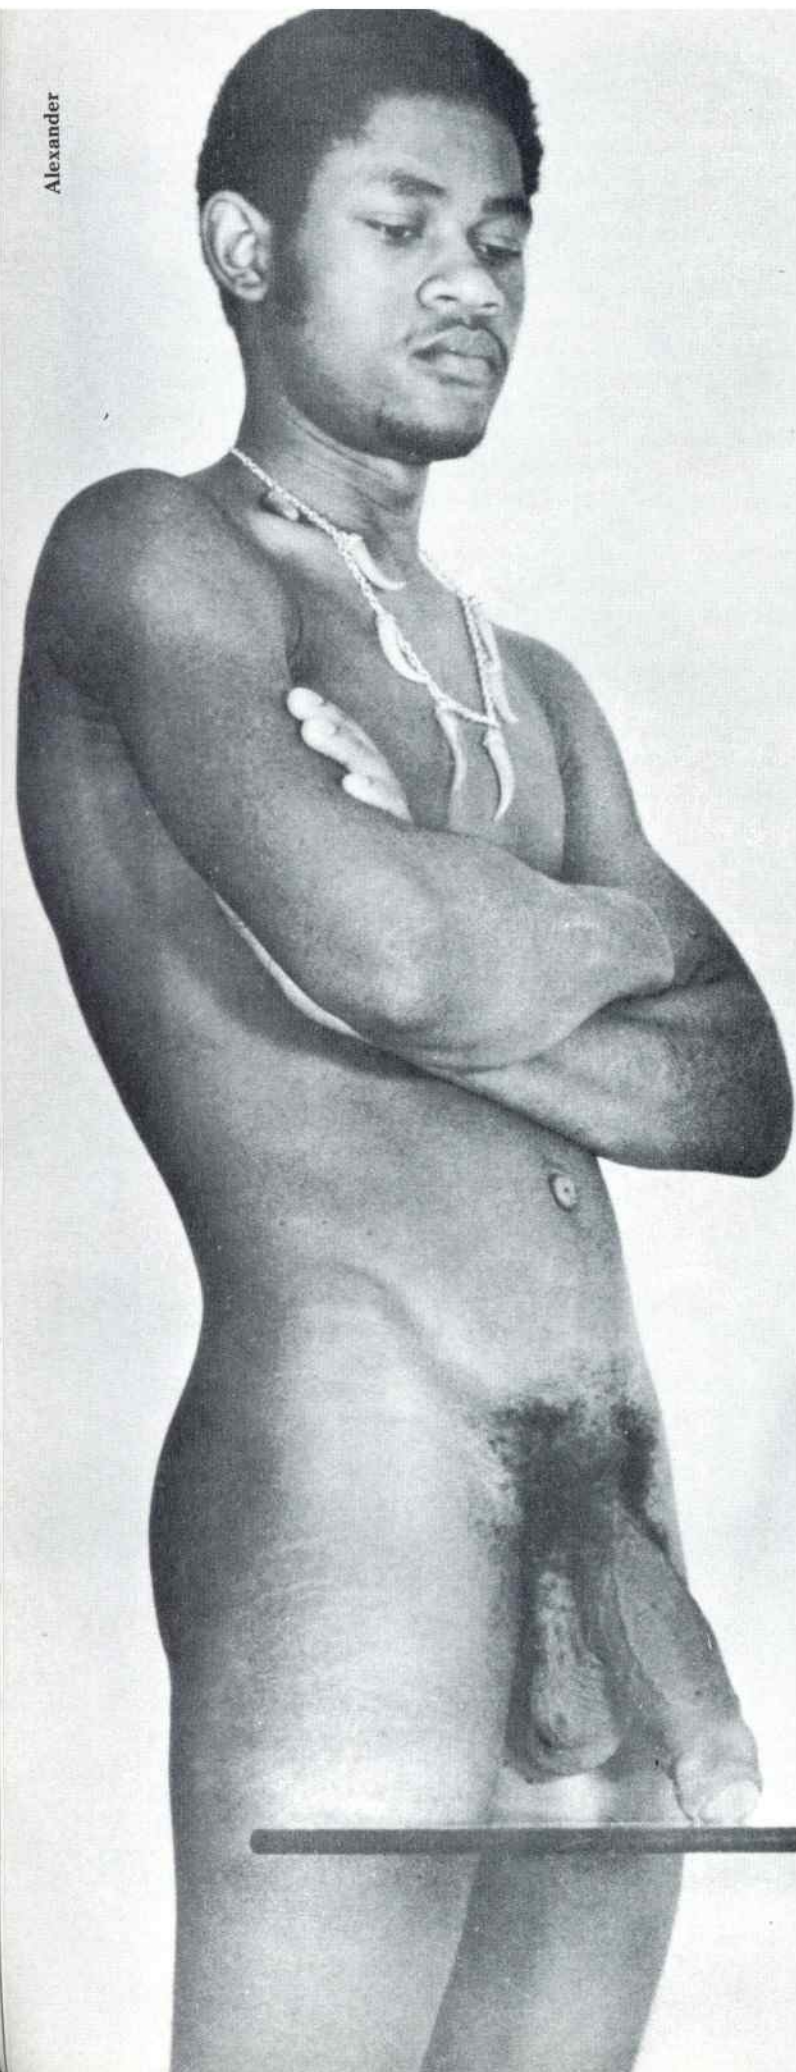

Gay guys who've made the Puerto Rican scene during the last few years, and who have found a deeper, greater pleasure in the Black/Puerto Rican bars of San Juan, will instantly recognize the basic pattern of the Hustle. In Puerto Rico it has long been danced to what is called disco . . . a Black-based rhythm/blues that is characterized by a strong, aggressive, rhythmic bass guitar—an instrument now a 'must' in most soul-music groups.

Islanders leaving their homes to settle in New York City brought with them this fascinating new dance, along with musicians who know how to play for it. At first the Hustle was 'native' only to Puerto Rican areas of the Borough of Queens, where they had settled in massive numbers. Then it spread like napalm-afire to the Bronx, thence to Brooklyn, and finally to Manhattan and points west and south.

In New York the basic orchestration of disco was augmented by many other kinds of instruments, particularly by the popular Moog Synthesizer—an instrument that not only successfully imitates many others, but creates far-out musical sounds of its own, and which, in the hands of a master, can blast dancers into outer space! So what you'll hear on disco records will undoubtedly be a more sophisticated sound, but for all its 'Mooginess' it will be just as gutsy and ballsy as ever it was in the boondocks of San Juan.

An enormously popular record album containing The Hustle is called Disco Baby, by Van McCoy and The (Continued on page 46)

Variations On A VD Theme

The Fragmentation Of Sexual Diseases

By Whitney Evans

THANKS to a more congenial sociological climate that has made possible, via television, a freer public discussion of sexually transmitted diseases—plus frequent reminders in QQ Magazine about causes and cures—gay people, especially, have become more genitally vigilant . . . more alert to signs and more aware of portents. This has worked to great effect in keeping us on the qui vive with the Big Three—gonorrhea, syphilis and hepatitis—and, in fact, we've grown rather complacent about them, knowing that when symptoms occur a visit to the doctor is a priority, and a cure may reasonably be effected.

Unfortunately we may have grown too complacent . . . sexually dozing while other dangers lurk behind the facade of that phenomenon of our times—the wave of bisexuality. The issue here, however, is not bisexuality, since—as in any other form of sexual communication—it is personal preference or sexual orientation. What is of concern is the fragmentation of sexual diseases following in its wake.

Gay people who are knowingly secure in having sex only with gay others are far less likely to contract most of these diseases, yet in these days when the social brakes are off everything sexual—when anything goes, as long as it goes—the sexual dice in any male-to-male encounter may be loaded . . . one partner having been active with someone who is bisexual, or one who—having had sex with a bisexual—is a carrier of second transmission.

If one will reflect on the near inevitability of this—even taking into account that one's cruising score may be quite modest—it should trigger a

NUDIST HAVENS

NUDIST CAMPS REVISITED

By TOM BRADHAM

IT'S hard to imagine any let-it-all-hang-out gay guy looking with disgust on the practice of nudism. "The more the better," he'll likely say. Yet until eight years ago the so-called nudist camp was such a dreary place that no youngish gay individual would have been caught within miles of it. What made it so depressing was not its primitivity; after all, Fire Island, in spite of its ultra sophistication, is still quite primitive—therein lies much of its charm. The turn-off of the nudist camp was its nudity . . . which, in almost every instance, was repulsive.

If you had glanced through any 'naturist' publication of that period just before the advent of today's free-wheeling frontal-nude magazines you would have been 'entertained' by endless pictures of mostly aged people in the buff—women whose soccer-ball tits hung down to their ankles, and men whose once-proud phalluses had retracted to the size of a pushbutton. With senility in the ascendancy this last hurrah for nudity had more to do with the cult of naturism as senior togetherness than sex. If, occasionally, younger straight couples stumbled into such a camp, mistakenly expecting to find the orgy in progress, they discovered to their dismay that they had arrived just in time for sassafras tea.

Such camps tended to be inbred . . . as senior nudists passed on to their reward impotent others took their places. Younger female singles were permitted, even welcomed, but few came unless they were Oedipally inspired. Single men were taboo— instant rape suspects. Gay people, of course, would have been regarded as suspiciously as men from another planet. So without an infusion of youth the old-style nudist camps grew moribund from a lack of red corpuscles.

THE NEW NUDIST PARKS

In less than ten years all this has changed, and delightfully so. There are many reasons for the transformation. For one thing, we are all publicly sex-conditioned because of the freer discussion and availability of sex . . . the frankly-expressed desire for it . . . the 'why not?' of it . . . plus the bizarre fascination of trying it in the many intriguing variations that—seen first only in X-rated films—crop up in the most ordinary G-rated picture. Thus sex at the grass-roots level is as knowing and sophisticated as it is in metropolitan cities.

Add to this the new wave of bisexuality that has opened the gates to a different nudist world . . . something that neither heterosexuality nor homosexuality alone could have done. In short, the more accessible sex becomes, the more doors it opens. A very healthy situation.

As sexual modality has changed, so has the physical structure of the nudist camp. First, it's no longer spoken of as a 'camp' (using the technical rather than the gay interpretation of the word). This alone has the effect of youthifying and 'undating' it. In most instances it is now called a nudist haven . . . club . . . lodge, or—the farther west one travels—a nudist ranch. Moreover, one no longer makes do with Neanderthal primitivity. The rural sanitation of the outdoor three-holer, or the pisspot through the window at break of day, has given way to modern plumbing.

Even minimally such nudist havens offer cabins with bath, heat and cooking facilities for two or more with, in most places, fresh linens furnished daily. There are always trailer rentals with bath, cooking facilities, plus fresh linens daily, and if you arrive in your own trailer you'll find adequate parking space, with connections for electricity, water and sewer, as well as waste-disposal station. Single rooms are available in most, and everyone gets to know each other better in community kitchens or commissaries, or while washing tricking towels in the automatic laundry.

Recreationally, most nudist havens have swimming pools (some enclosed and/or heated), tennis courts, sauna, massage salon—many have complete gyms and other facilities for various sports (volleyball, shuffleboard and the like).

Possibly the most arresting change in nudist-haven thinking is the switch from a formerly 'no singles' to a 'come everyone' policy. Of course there are still some holdouts. Some managements bar single gals; some bar single guys; some bar both. But of the 180 nudist parks (Continued on page 49)

France's New 'Thin Cooking'

A Cuisine In Tune With The Times

By Frank Samuels

Americans growing up in our larger cities, as well as gay people who fly to Puerto Rico as often as the pocketbook allows, have grown accustomed to hearing what is called 'dialectal' Spanish. We are so frequently reminded that this is really a bastardized Spanish because it lacks the purity of the true, or Castilian Spanish one hears in Spain. Actually the principal difference between this 'purity' and impurity derives from an impurity—a fluke, or royal happenstance.

A Castilian monarch had a speech defect—a lisp—and so his polite subjects, out of consideration for their king's affliction, adopted his lisp when speaking in his presence. He lived so long, however, that by the time he died the 'Castilian lisp' had become a part of Spanish speech. It has remained to this day—an anachronism, to be sure—but tradition, as we shall see, has a long life and a lingering death.

Certainly this has proved to be true with regard to French grand luxe cuisine. Most of it owes its beginning to royal happenstance or royal whim, and its encrusted, 'gild the lily' continuation to France's great chefs who catered to Europe's royal families, most of whom made Paris their second home.

To illustrate how great a part royal whimsy played in French grand luxe cooking we might take as an example just one famous dish: Saddle of Veal à la Prince Orloff—the creation of the noted chef Urbain Dubois, which evolved (there is really no other word for it) simply because Prince Orloff disliked the taste of veal! The logical question is "Why did he eat it if he didn't like the taste of it?" The answer is that in 1870 Russia only veal and venison were in good supply. All other meats were scarce, often to the point of being non-existent. And since the Prince couldn't stomach the gaminess of venison that left only veal.

Dubois has written that he was taken to Russia from Paris at a very great salary to take charge of the royal kitchen. Inasmuch as veal was omnipresent he was faced with the necessity of disguising its taste by serving it in many different ways. His Saddle of Veal will show to what lengths Dubois went for his employer; at the same time it will show how grand luxe cuisine became so snowballingly encrusted (and so calorie-high and cholesterol laden) as it went from crisis to crisis and from invention to greater invention.

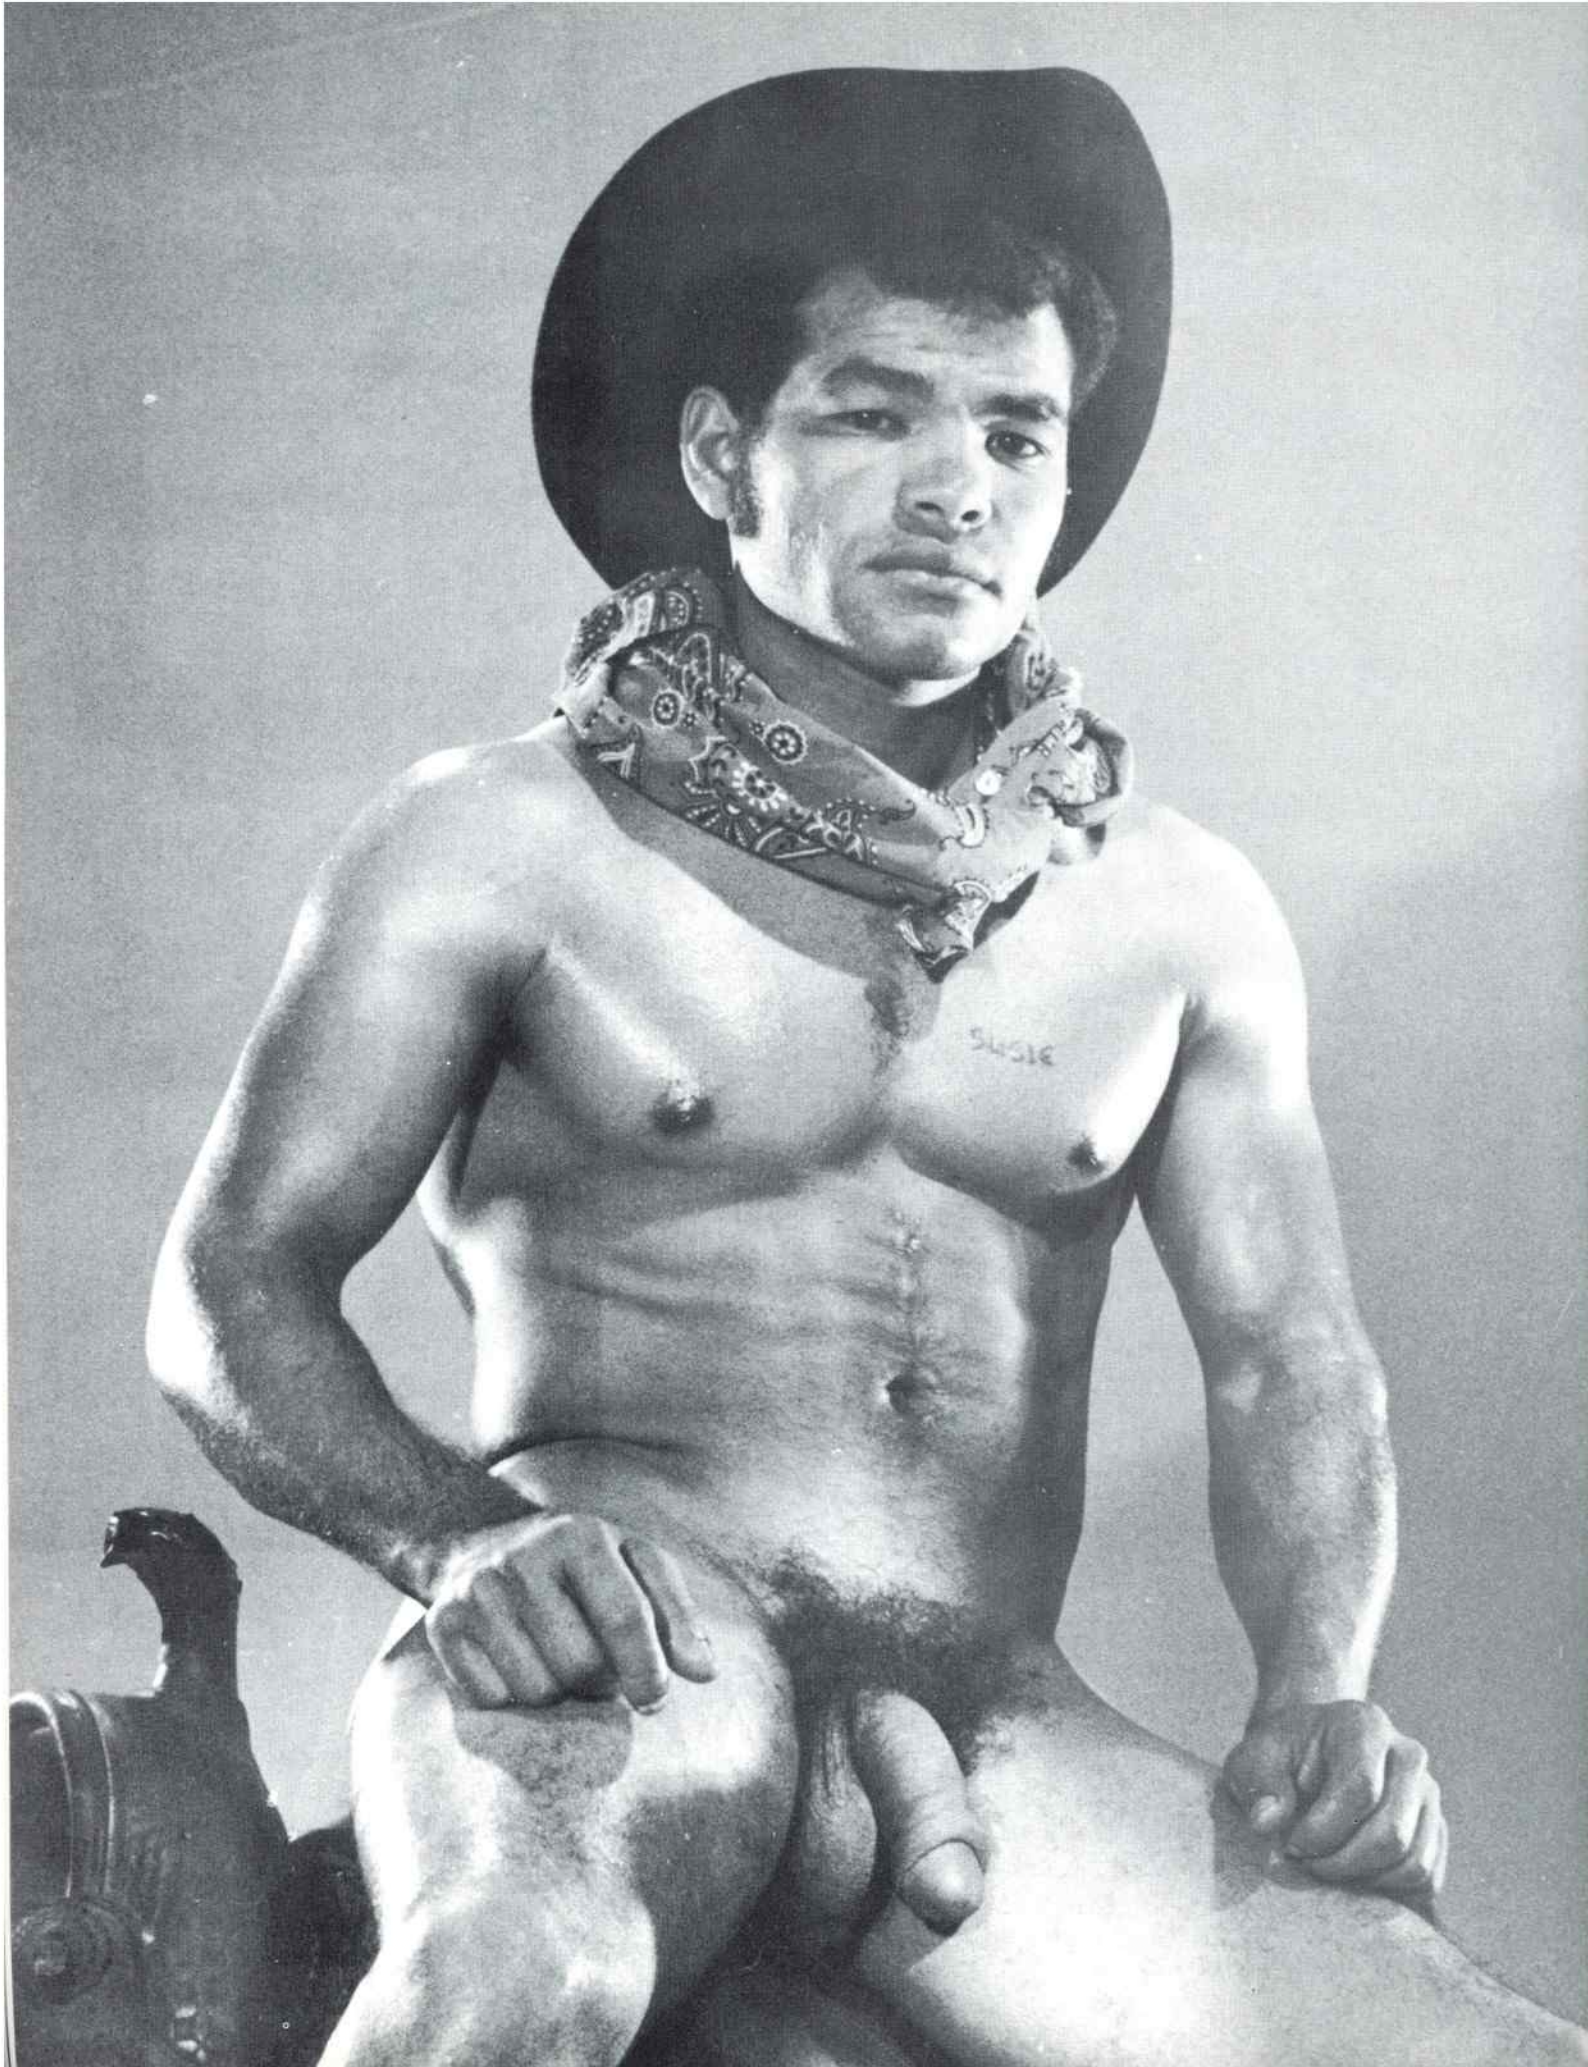

At first Dubois simply browned to a turn a fine roast of veal and served it with a duxelles of finely-chopped wild mushrooms and baby shallots. Orloff complained that he could still taste the veal. Next time, Dubois cracked the saddle and added to the duxelles a soubise of onions and saffron rice. The Prince was not deceived. The third time Dubois layered the veal with thin slices of black truffles. Oh wow! The Prince, however, was not wowed.

In desperation Dubois decided that the fourth time around he would gussy-up the veal beyond human recognition. Not a whiff of the barnyard would assail the royal nostrils. And so to the duxelles of Number 1, and the soubise of Number 2, and the truffles of Number 3, he added a thick Mornay sauce made with rich grated Gruyère cheese. Success at last! The Prince was elated, and at once sent word to the dean of St. Basil's Cathedral that the tower bells should be rung for one full hour in celebration of this great occasion. And to honor his chef he arranged an orchestral concert for which the great Tchaikovsky himself came to conduct his own 1812 Overture (with cannon, of course)!

CHOLESTEROL CASTLES

Urbain Dubois went on to create other now-famous dishes for his royal patrons—all rich/richer, all cholesterol high/higher and more calorie-laden. As his reputation grew fatter, so did the abdomens of all who dined on his creations. It took an entire summer at Baden-Baden to steam off, bathe off, massage off the body's excess fat until autumn returned and the whole gourmandising process could be repeated. Other great chefs followed in the footsteps of Dubois . . . Escoffier, Brillat-Savarin, and the noted Swiss chef Albert Stockli. Each tried to outdo another, and the results, contained in the recipes each has contributed to his own cookbook, seem to be that every viand was swimming in a sea of rich clotted cream, churned-that-morning butter, or else was hemmed in by mounds of fresh Beluga caviar or cosseted by masses of foie gras from Strasbourg. By accretion such dishes grew so increasingly rich that until well past the turn of the century more people died from fatty livers than from any other common killer. Such four-star restaurants as Maxim's and Fouquet's, patronized by royalty and the world's wealthy, became castles of cholesterol.

under the El tracks (Wilson stop). There are probably worse places to go in Chicago but I don't know of them off hand. It has been here for years, and the men seem to be either aging and giddy or tough and commercial.

Alameda Club, 5210 N. Sheridan Rd. I understand that the rough trade (Latins) from below Foster have stepped across the line to this address. So, again, if you like your men rough with a south-of-the-border accent, this may be your bag. Show bar. Female impersonators. No cover. Hours are 8 p.m. to 4 a.m. weekdays, and on Saturday to 5 a.m. Show time is 10:30 p.m., 12:30 and 2:30 a.m.

Mike's Terrace, 1137 W. Granville St. This is not a cruise bar, but a nice drinking and dancing bar with a mixture of pleasant, upper-Northside gays from about twenty-one years-old up. Hours are from noon to 4 a.m. weekdays and on Saturday to 5 a.m.

Pepper's, 1502 W. Jarvis Avenue. This is also in the upper-Northside and its crowd is older than at the Terrace. It is a friendly and nice bar, worth your time if you are in the area. Hours in this 1930-decorated bar are from 4 p.m. to 4 a.m. weekdays and to 5 on Saturday.

Outside Cruising

Howard Street, which separates Chicago from Evanston, was once a good place to meet Northshore gays at night. Many of the college types and married men would head to Howard by the El tracks to make contact. The police have cleaned up the area and very little cruising is going on here now. Maybe things will change by the time you get to Chicago, so give it a look if you are near, but be careful.

East of the Outer Drive from Montrose to Lawrence is also cruisy day and night. But the types who visit the park are getting rougher each day from all reports. So avoid this area if you can't protect yourself. North of Lawrence there is a wooded area which frequently is the scene of orgies. This area used to be a gay paradise years ago because salesmen came here on their lunch hour and made themselves available. This is still true to a degree during the day, but at night it is strictly murder and rape.

Not too far from here, between Montrose and Wilson, there is a john that faces Outer Drive. This has always been popular for cruising and the clearing for sunbathing. If you want to cruise the area, start at Montrose (in the park at the path by Outer Drive); walk slowly to Foster Avenue.

Baths

Man's Country, 5015 N. Clark St. This is probably the baths in Chicago. Splendid and private. Sponsorship necessary. Membership is only $1 without any renewal fees. It has everything, including water beds, snack bar, clothing store and friendly customers. Each Wednesday at 10 p.m. and midnight there is live entertainment. Once a month a headliner; other times a local. Locker is $5 and a room is $8. If you go with a friend, a double is $12.

NEW TOWN

This area stretches north from about Fullerton Parkway to Belmont Avenue, and west from Sheridan Road to Halsted Street. It is considered the most popular gay area in Chicago, and to make matters even better, it is a very nice area to wander (especially along Broadway between Diversey and Belmont). But like all such areas it has its drug problems and a high density of all types. There are many nice shops, restaurants and antique dealers in the area, but their prices are generally higher than in other areas of the city.

Bars

Knight Out, 2936 N. Clark St. This is a friendly neighborhood bar which is expanding its hospitality to gays from other parts of the city. Open usually from noon to 2 a.m. weekdays and until 3 a.m. on Saturday. Attracts an older crowd. Dancing.

Checkmate Lounge, 2546 N. Clark St. There is a nice mixture of younger and older men here. Hours are from 3 p.m. to 2 a.m. daily and until 3 on Saturday. Since this bar has been in the neighborhood for a long time it attracts a very loyal crowd.

Shari's, 2901 N. Clark St. This bar is very popular with the young. On weekends it's standing room only. Hours: noon to 2 a.m. weekdays and to

Israel's Gay Colonies

Sex Life In A Kibbutz

By Jon Lorrimer

NEW YORK CITY has a famous bakery where the moistest, crunchiest Jewish rye bread is made. Because all New Yorkers have come to count on its unfailing goodness, Levy's long ago created a sign/placard seen all over town, depicting some wildly non-Jewish man—such as a Chinese mandarin in court robes, or an Indian chief in full-feathered tribal regalia—munching happily on a slice of the bread, a beatific smile on his face, ecstatically murmuring "You don't have to be Jewish to love Levy's!"

This may seem to be a flaky way of getting into gay sex life of the Holy Land, but it is analogous, and may invite the attention of those non-Jewish gay guys who—noting the subheading of this article—may understandably ask "What on earth can gay sex life in an Israeli kibbutz have to do with me?" The answer is that you don't have to be Jewish to make the scene in such settlements or colonies that are unique to contemporary Jewish life. So if you'd like to spend some weeks or months seeing what it's like, it doesn't matter whether you are Jew or Christian, agnostic, atheist or infidel (except, of course, if you are of Arab descent you will be more than a little suspect!). We'll tell you about some of the interesting things relating to matters sexual in the kibbutzim and you can take it from there.

Our information has been authenticated by our friend Jack Bernstein, a San Francisco expatriate who heads a unique travel service in Israel which specializes in such "special" services as arranging gay and bisexual tours, and catering in private homes for 10 to 30 persons (preferably gay), and securing locations for shooting gay films, plus research into 5,000 years of gay history and consultation on period costume. His address is: Jack Bernstein, Historical Research "Special!" Services, 23/15 Rehov Nahalat-Zvi, Petach-Tikva, Israel.

We appreciate Jack's continuing interest in our magazines, and for keeping us au courant with the latest happenings in Israel.

As most readers know, a kibbutz is the very essence of communal living . . . a pioneering, frontier-breaking establishment where work and leisure, learning, pain and pleasure, and fortune—good or bad—are shared. Those who choose the kibbutzim way of life are young, from 18 to about 32, lusty, full of the joy of living, and totally without the sociological hangups that plague the rest of this hungup world.

Young Israeli life—'mod' in the truest sense of the word—has to do with today and tomorrow . . . its roots, with the exception of its Hebrew faith, are not in the past. Thus those who live in kibbutzim are the 'movers and shakers' of the new Israel. And sex, of whatever persuasion, is a most intensely vital part of this life. Small wonder then that straights, Lesbians, gay guys and bisexuals get along beautifully together . . . each knowing another's sexual preference and respecting him for it.

A kibbutz will have communal living quarters for its regulars, and bungalows—separated as to sex—for the Volunteer Workers and those who come for the Ulpan (Hebrew language) courses. If you would like to go to Israel to learn the language or to assist in the work programs you should write for full details to the main office of The Jewish Agency, 515 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022. And at the same time you should indicate which of the kibbutzim described you are interested in.

In this article all the kibbutzim mentioned have Volunteer Work Groups, so if you have some special skill you think would be of help during your visit you might consider a 'working vacation' and mention this special skill to The Jewish Agency when you write for more detailed information; it may serve to give you a feeling of high purpose, along with gay joys. Not all, but most of the kibbutzim have Ulpan language classes. The members of a kibbutz speak several languages, so communication should be no problem for you. English is widely spoken. Some of the kibbutzim have museums and guest houses. Guest houses are, in the main, more popular with gay guys of thirty and above. Please note the special reference to guest houses in the individual descriptions of the kibbutzim. It should be noted that all have swimming pools and are thus very cruisy . . . conspicuously so. And finally, all the kibbutzim are sexually active all the year . . . unceasingly so!

KIBBUTZIM NEAR HAIFA

Since Haifa is Israel's port of entry, we'll list three kibbutzim near this busy city.

Kibbutz Mishmar Haemek. This has the largest group of Lesbians among the Volunteer Work Groups. However, they don't outnumber the gay guys, so don't let that turn you away. Museum. 15 kilometers from Haifa. (Continued on page 41)

Dye-Light Therapy

A New Treatment For Venereal Blisters

By Roger Watson

WE hope that you may never be one of the thousands of gay men who will contract and require treatment for venereal blisters, venereal warts or 'anal shingles', or—as this painful affliction is clinically labeled—herpes genitalis. By any name it is something you wouldn't wish on your worst enemy.

Gay men who have sex only with gay others will probably never contract this form of herpes because it is essentially female in origin (virally, from the labial folds) and therefore this is the point of first contagion. Now if this causes you to feel instantly warm and cozy and unconcerned because you know there's no woman lurking in your sexual background, it is still important to keep in the back of your mind the knowledge that a new and quite effective therapy is available 'just in case'.

The occurrence of venereal blisters/warts/shingles in and around the male anus is on the rise. The reason is the simultaneous rise of bisexuality as an indoor sport . . . the 'chic mystique' of swinging both ways. Straights who, until now, never would have thought of having sex with a man, now do it as a kind of bravado social challenge . . . bisexuality having flowered into a kind of sex status-symbol today, so that not to make it with another male—at least once in awhile, to keep up with the rest of the crowd—seems to many heterosexuals a kind of nineteenth-century prudery.

Of course wedded straights are less likely to contract and pass along herpes genitalis unless they are swingers with frequent changes of bedmates. The real culprit is the promiscuous straight who—in trying to maintain a with-it sex status—throws caution to the winds and plunges his phallus into anything available . . . shuttling with equal facility between vagina and anus.

The gay male who has been on the receiving end in anal sex with a herpes carrier may soon discover that he has an uncomfortably itching anus/rectum—the result of the carrier having gotten the virus on his phallus during sex with a female, and then 'burning it' into the anus of the hapless gay guy. Small blisters/warts form and enlarge, and if one or more should ulcerate, the virus is released to form more of same . . . possibly with a resultant itching/burning farther up in the rectum. The point of contact, therefore, is not limited to just the anal area, but can be extended to the full length of phallic entry. Thus if a phallus is quite long, viral herpes has a bigger playground for its mischief. This may be the one time when the superstud is not appreciated!

NEW LIGHT ON AN OLD TREATMENT

The classic treatments used for cold sores and fever blisters (herpes simplex) were tried on herpes genitalis, without success. First, antibiotics such as aureomycin and chloramphenicol were administered but these failed to clear up the virus. Then three dyes—standbys for generations—were applied to the surface of the skin. These were neutral red, proflavine yellow, and methylene blue. Again, no results. The victim simply had to sweat it out.

Then a noted virologist, Dr. Te-Wen Chang of the Tufts New England Medical Center Hospital in Boston, discovered a new twist. By first applying methylene blue to a virally-infected area, then focusing fluorescent light on the dye, the photoinactivation stopped virus genitalis in its tracks. In 70% of the initial cases the herpes made a hurried exit! Methylene blue alone could not do it, but catalyzed by the fluorescent light everything worked beautifully!

In our followup of these findings it would appear that the clinicians did not have gay people specifically in mind in producing a herpes genitalis treatment. Yet is is quite interesting that one of Dr. Chang's first patients was described as "a homosexual multiple-rape victim." Whether this was a polite way of saying that the luckless fellow was actually attacked by force majeure—against his will—or rendered hors de combat during a wild orgy, we cannot say.

Yet it is true that the dye-plus-light therapy worked well for him, as it has since done for other gay people. In fact, the photograph illustrating the dye-plus-light treatment described in Medical World News of December 20, 1974, shows Dr. Chang treating this particular gay man's anal area. The therapy must be as joyfully painless as the virus is uncomfortably irritating. The patient simply lies face down on a treatment table . . . dye is applied to the area . . . a fluorescent lamp is swung into position to focus on the dye . . . and in this way the dye is forced into the cell and does battle with the virus and proceeds to clear up the condition . . . not possible with just the application of methylene blue alone.

It should be firmly understood, however, that as 'one swallow doesn't make a summer', one who undergoes this herpes greater alertness in recognizing symptoms if/when they occur so that steps may be taken to correct the damage. Vigilance is therefore triple important in today's sex-styles because (1) sex is more casually sought; (2) because of the addition, bisexually, of the female factor—however oblique; and (3) because many of these sex-disease fragmentations are related, thus in contracting one, another may be just behind. As Richard Willcox, M.D., of St. Mary Abbot's Hospital in London, says: "The difference between those who contract no infection and those who do may be dictated more by luck than choice." Sexual roulette is certainly not the most fascinating of bedroom games.

A SEXUAL 'JACK-IN-THE-BOX'

Physicians now say that there are fourteen STD—sexually-transmitted diseases, many of which are of female origin. Given the hazards of bisexuality, it is little wonder that at least one fragmentation can pop up like a jack-in-the-box, trapping the unwary gay person. Although gonorrhea, syphilis and—among those who are devotees of analingual sex—hepatitis no longer hold the terrors of uncertainty for us they once did—thanks to our watchfulness and prompt treatment—it is noteworthy that because of the bisexuality factor alone gonorrhea is rampant these days. In fact, it is the team captain of STD. There were 874,161 reported cases of it last year, the highest in 55 years of record-keeping. When one considers that 800,000 American women have it and don't know it, and can pass it on to sex partners, many of whom are bisexuals, the thought is frightening! So let's look at the many STD fragmentations, check some facts, note some symptoms, and see what immediate steps we should take.

Gonorrhea. This is caused by a specific bacteria called "neisseria gonorrhea" and is passed from one infected person to another. When a man has the infection his symptoms are obvious, and he knows that he can transmit the disease. A woman rarely knows, thus she can pass it along 'innocently'. The male symptoms are (a) a thick, yellow discharge at the opening of the penis, and/or difficulties in urinating. Symptoms usually appear 24 to 48 hours after infection, but the incubation period can be as long as two weeks. Other than the symptoms mentioned it is almost impossible to detect gonorrhea. The treatment is usually penicillin. Other drugs are equally effective if you are allergic to penicillin (which you should tell your doctor at once). The treatment of gonorrhea, however, will not prevent syphilis infection if acquired at the same time. (Gonorrhea is gonorrhea, and syphilis is syphilis . . . gonorrhea does not 'turn into' syphilis. Both of these serious diseases, however, can be acquired simultaneously.) This is why tests for syphilis must be made every three months for a year after infection occurs.

If gonorrheal symptoms are untreated, many other infections—particularly of the bladder and kidneys—can occur, making sterner and more painful treatment necessary. Don't neglect symptoms of gonorrhea.

Syphilis. A spirochete called Trepona Pallidum causes syphilis. It can infect almost any organ of the body once entrance has been made. The first sign is a sore, called chancre, which usually develops at the point of infection. Secondary signs which develop as the disease progresses (two to six months) are skin eruptions, fever and pain. There will be enlarged lymph nodes, maculopapular rash (flat and raised tiny pimples) as the disease gains headway. In later stages there are hair loss, swollen joints, iritis, heart disease, jaundice and disorders of the nervous system. The classic treatment is penicillin or such other antibiotic therapy as the physician may prescribe if one is allergic to penicillin. The amount of medication must always be adequate, otherwise the disease and its symptoms will only be masked for a few months, to recur much later—and more viciously.

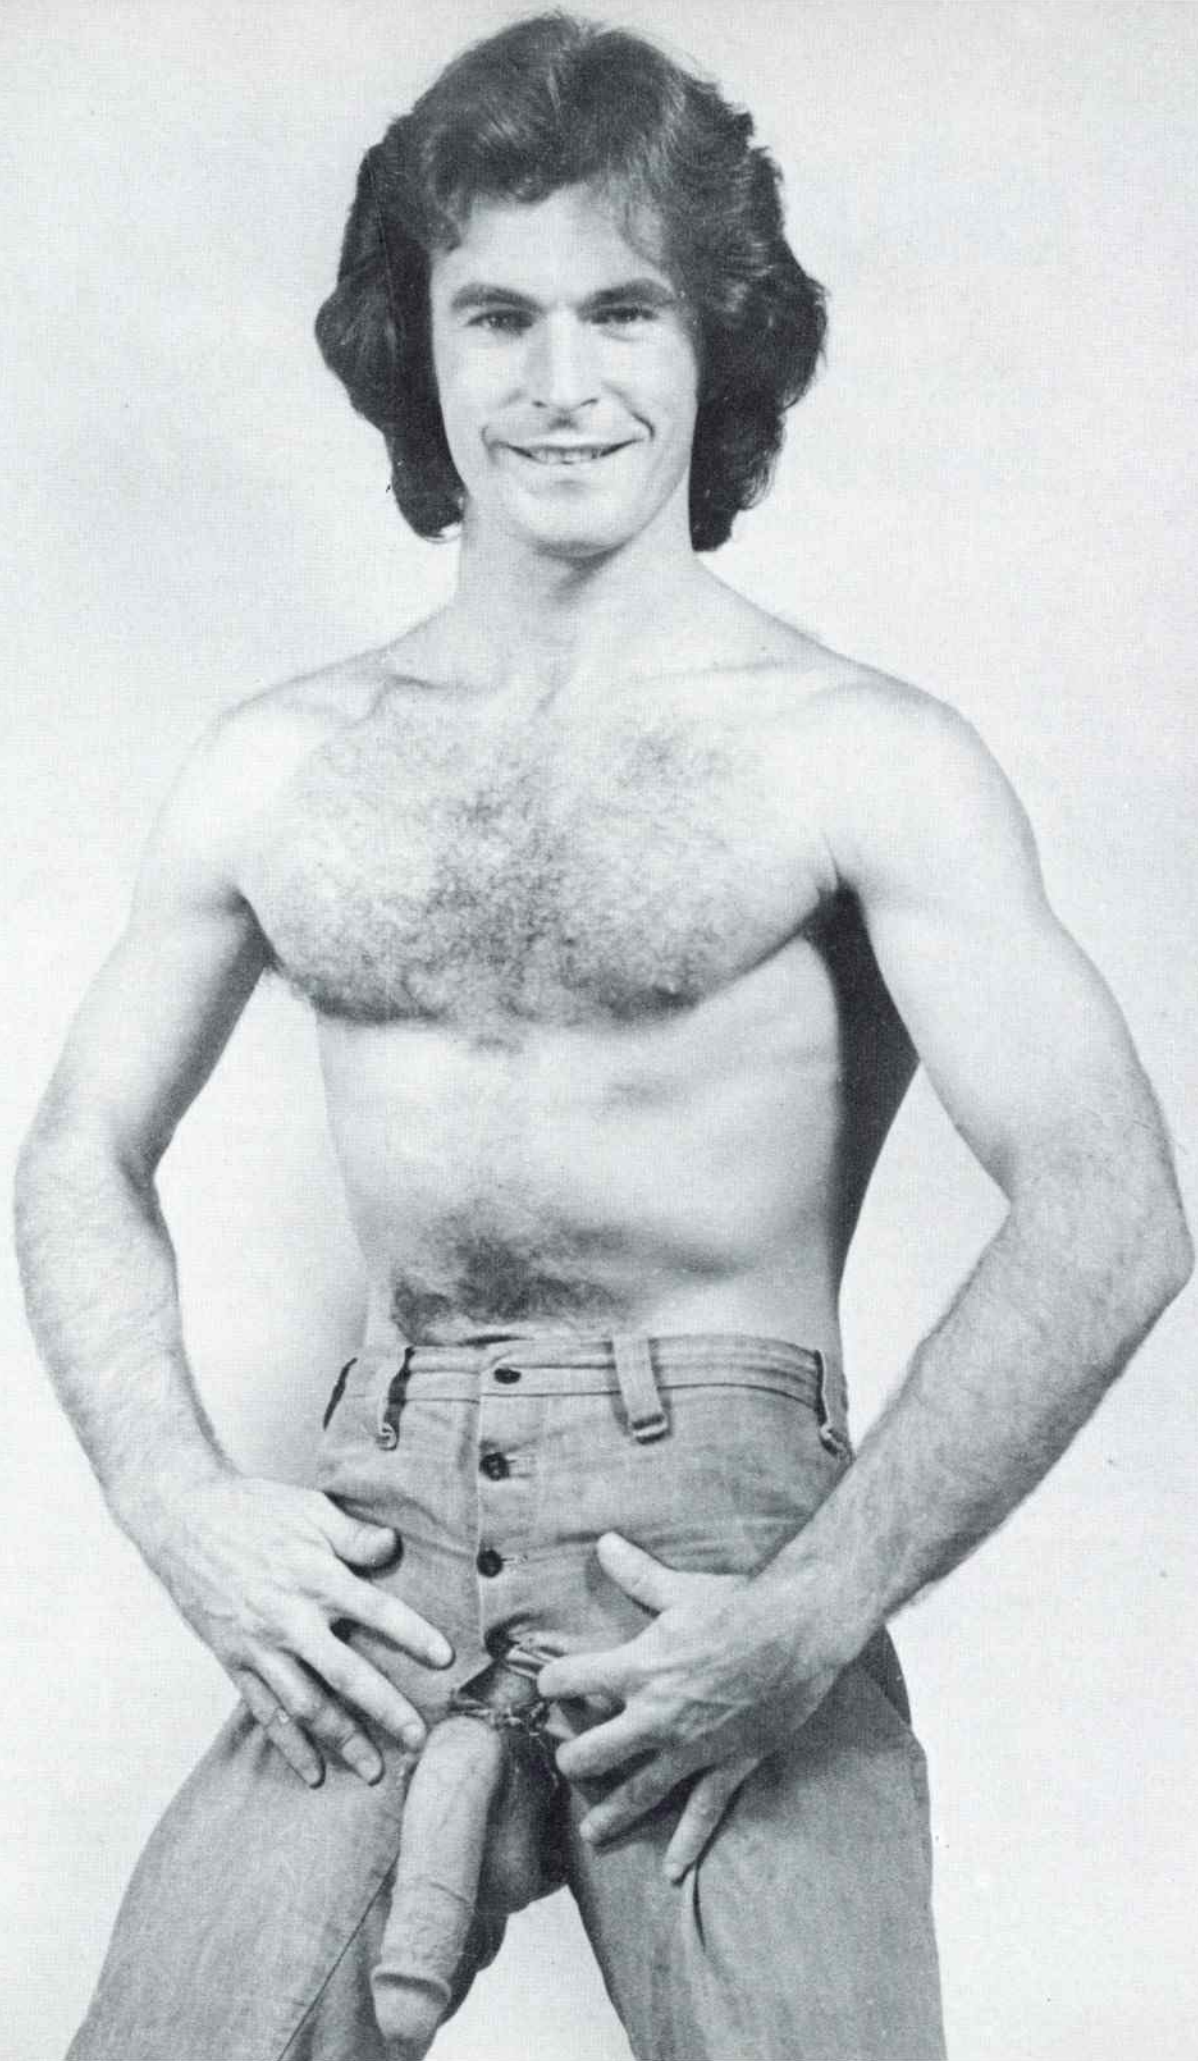

Trichomonas Vaginalis is caused by a protozoan. Men can have it without symptoms. Women experience burning on urination (much as men do who have gonorrhea). Bisexuals can acquire it and pass it along. It is mentioned here, not because it is of compelling interest to gay people who only sex 'gay', but with bisexuality as a trend, who knows? It fits into the STD syndrome as a cousin of gonorrhea. A bisexual having had sex with a woman should be especially vigilant in his hygiene.

Chlamydia can drive a man almost crazy with painful urination—women, however, get off symptomatically scot-free. It's caused by an organism midway between a virus and a bacterium. See your doctor at once if you experience painful urination. Let him rule out other causes. Usually tetracycline is the principal treatment. If it were not for the absence of symptomatic yellow discharge the luckless male might think it is gonorrhea.

NSU—Nonspecific Urethritis, is also known as nongonococcal urethritis. Check first for yellow discharge. If there is none, and painful urination continues it can be from many other, or non-specific causes . . . inflammation of the prostate, for example. Have a medical checkup. If your physician can't turn up the culprit he will refer you to a urologist who may find something serious.

Genital Warts/Blisters. Please read the article on dye-plus-light therapy in this issue. It deals with a breakthrough in treatment for this painful infection that gay males sometimes acquire if they've been on the receiving end of anal sex with an infected person who has burned it into the anus/rectum. This new treatment works, as you will find out, when the various drugs/dyes commonly use prove ineffective. Of course genital warts/blisters sometimes disappear spontaneously, but then, why wait for the millennium?

HSV II. Herpes Virus Type II causes painful blisters, swellings and other mayhem with the genitals. This disease is symptomatically related to the cold-sores and fever blisters of Herpes Virus Type I. These do not appear on the mouth and lips but on the outside skin of the penis, and on/around the area of the buttocks (Continued on page 54)

Sauna Style

Sagacious...Salubrious... Sensuous...Salacious!

By John Talisford

THE rigorous bath has always been a ritual part of European and Asian life. The Japanese with their scalding-hot 'togetherness' baths . . . the Turks with their male groupie live-steam baths . . . the ancient Greeks with their almost S&M birching baths. But it took the clever Finns to develop a type of bath that is rather an amalgam of all the others.

Of late the Finnish sauna idea has spread throughout the world. Today, not only are the elaborate American 'health spas' equipped with one or more, but saunas are now being built for home use. Some look like rather rustic outhouses and are made to fit in a bathroom of some size, for one person. Others are larger and somewhat more elegant in design and materials and add a great deal of decorative style to the bedroom. The larger ones are built to accommodate two persons, practically juxtaposed, and thus are frequently the instruments of some beautiful relationships. The sauna, therefore, is not only a sagacious addition to the gay home/apartment, and is unquestionably salubrious, but is very sensuous . . . and what goes on inside can be downright salacious.

Almost everyone who has had the sauna experience adopts it as a wise and healthful way of life. Others, more introspective, find additionally in it all kinds of esoteric meanings, and regard it as a kind of 'religion of the body'. Their 'theology' is, that as the body is cleansed/purified by the copious perspiration brought on by the intense, dry, non-radiant heat, all uptightness and the tensions of the corporal self—the muscles and nerves—are released/relaxed, and thus the spirit is elevated. Surely any faith that can work such miracles every day is a worthy religion indeed. It's a big chunk of the whole earth cookie.

The true Finnish sauna generates heat by means of stones almost as hot as molten lava, placed strategically throughout the sauna shed . . . the stones having been fired in a fragrant woodburning (they use sensuous fir and birch) stove. The Finns believe that the process is principally that of stimulating the body's natural cooling system by exposing it to the very intense, high heat. Looking across at a companion in the sauna, one notes that his skin has grown ruddy and looks well-scrubbed because of the increased circulation of the blood just under the skin's surface.

In a few moments one feels the need of moisturizing the air somewhat, and so water from wooden buckets is ladled over the stones; just a minimal amount so that the skin tingles with a healthy zing, and the nostrils begin to twitch appreciatively . . . and the sensation of utter luxury supervenes. It is at this point that the feeling of togetherness begins to assert itself, and any initial barrier to complete eroticization falls. If it is looked on favorably by the establishment, one simply does what comes naturally. But by no means does this suggest that all Finnish saunas are orgy houses. Actually, to most male Finns, the sauna, in addition to being healthful, is a convivial socializing center. Some say that it is more conducive to peace than passion. Perhaps for older persons this is true . . . but youth—everywhere—must have its day.

Finns particularly like a sauna located on the bank of a wintry lake or the sea. A nude dash into the frigid water after such intense heat invigorates the entire body. The metabolic rate increases . . . the perspiration is stopped . . . and the body snaps back to revitalized life. In metropolitan areas, however, saunas usually have ice-cold showers at the ready, and the effect—minus the invigorating wind, of course—is much the same.

Rest—for an interval equivalent to the time one spends in the sauna (this is usually about twenty minutes)—follows. Now the technique is to 'drip' dry rather than towel dry. The latter is too quick and is rather deflating. By dripping dry the sensation of invigorated well-being is maintained, and one feels pleasantly exhausted but utterly satisfied. The entire process can be repeated; three complete cycles will not be too much for most individuals of much sauna experience. One cycle will generally be enough for the beginner. The entire sauna process works in the opposite way a Turkish bath does. The Turkish bath is hot and wet—moist steam. The Finnish sauna is hot and dry—from non-radiant heat.

Blend, Grind ... Drip, Sip

By Terry McWaters

BREAKFAST coffee is so important in getting us off to work with a zing, and yet is so consistently inconsistent in taste, that to many the success of one's day can be determined by the quality of the morning coffee . . . whether it was good, indifferent or just plain bad.

There is a foolproof, four-step way to make perfect coffee every time. Margaret Maxwellhouse of Oz notwithstanding, perking is not that way. No percolated coffee is ever good to the last drop . . . indeed, seldom is the first. Percolation is boiling, and boiling brings out the acids and oils that cause coffee to change character and become bitter. We want taste and lift—flavor and caffeine (for without the latter a cup of coffee is just something to occupy one's hand)—without the bitterness, brackishness and repetition-burpiness that percolation causes. This can be accomplished only when boiling water is removed from the heat, then poured instantly over and sent through the ground coffee just once . . . never repeated, as in percolation.

There are many kinds of drip coffeemakers that do this perfectly, especially those in which the expressed coffee goes through a paper filter. When a paper filter is used, oils and acids from the coffee are trapped and what you get is the pure coffee essence. And if you choose a quality coffee, or a blend of fine coffees, you have a cup of goodness-to-greatness.

YOUR COFFEE MAKER

Recently a survey of electric drip coffee makers was completed by The New York Times. Eight of the leading brands were tested for taste rating and brewing time. These ranged in price from the imported-from-Germany Braun Aromaster at $55, through the General Electric, Norelco, Mr. Coffee, Melitta (also a German import), Proctor-Silex Coffee Magic, Sunbeam Coffeemaster Deluxe, and the West Bend Automatic Quik Drip. The Proctor-Silex at $35, the Norelco at $46.95, and the West Bend at $54 all produced perfect coffee without a hint of bitterness. But that's a lot of money to pay for a coffee maker; it's too much for most budgets. We have found one for less than $5 that works perfectly every time, and is 'faster on the draw' than the others (all of which take from 7 to 15 minutes to completely express the coffee). This is the simple Tricolette which can usually be found in any good department store or coffee store or even in some supermarkets.

The mechanism of the Tricolette is a plastic cone with a hole in the bottom (a funnel), into which is placed a cone-shaped paper filter. The cone is then set in a Pyrex receptacle and boiling water poured over freshly-ground coffee in the filter. In about 4 to 6 minutes you have perfectly expressed coffee, and there's no fuss about cleaning . . . no time-consuming recycling of hot water to rinse out complicated pipes; no separation of parts and putting them back together. Just discard the paper filter with its sediment, acids and oils; rinse cone and receptacle, and let drip dry. Or towel dry if you have guests and will need to make another pot. The Tricolette comes in two sizes—one for up to four cups; another for up to eight. A carton of 100 four-cup filters costs about $1.50. A carton of 100 for the eight-cup size costs about $2. Far less than the expensive fluted filters of most electric coffee-makers.

Another plus for the inexpensive Tricolette is that the filter cone, made of plastic, is unbreakable. And if you should break the glass receptacle, any Pyrex pot or pitcher in which the cone will fit will serve just as well.

GET A COFFEE-GRINDER

Once a vacuum-packed tin of even the finest coffee(s) is opened the vacuum no longer exists. Thus already-ground coffee begins to 'decay' from the moment it is exposed to the air. Although the taste of the first cup is heavenly, as the tin is reopened until it is consumed the coffee dries out and the caffeine that gives the lift one desires begins to vanish. It's a very practical idea to separate a newly-opened tin of coffee into four or more plastic bags . . . wrapping each tightly until ready for use. If you store the unused bags in the refrigerator be sure to wrap them in several plastic bags. Refrigeration does help 'bind in' the flavor, but only if no moisture penetrates the bags.

Really sublime coffee, however, comes from freshly-ground coffee beans, or blends of beans (which we shall go into later in this article). There are several small electric coffee-grinders or coffee-mills in department/coffee/appliance stores. Braun is a good make. Another is the French coffee-mill Moulinex. These cost about $15 and should last for years. There are two

GAY CHICAGO

By Ralph W. Davis

NO other American city has as beautiful a lake shore drive as Chicago. It stretches the length of the city and delights the eye with its splendid buildings, beaches and parks. But it's in Chicago's backyard where all the fun and charm of the city lies. It's here that you'll find a little bit of Sweden or Germany or Greece or China squeezed inbetween high rises or deposited comfortably in middle-class residential neighborhoods. It is here that you will find the ethnic restaurants and shops and people that reflect the character and charm of the Old World.

Since Chicago is a huge city, there isn't just one area to see. The first-time visitor will need a map and a little determination to really see the town. Real Chicagoans—not these plastic imitations on Michigan Avenue or Rush Street—are warm and friendly and worldly. The same fun that a visitor has in New York or Paris or Rome can be had here—if you move into the city and mingle with the people.

If your interests are strictly gay, you won't be disappointed. There are so many bars and johns and favorite areas that it is impossible to list them all. It is like New York or San Francisco in that you can wander almost anywhere and make contact with someone. Imaginative and smooth-talking gays will find the variety and picking easy everywhere because Chicago is a potpourri of types who travel freely between neighborhood boundaries with the same restless curiosity as New Yorkers.

Before listing the gay areas to visit or not to visit, there are two telephone numbers to keep in your pocket. One is the Gay Switchboard (929-HELP) and another is for a recorded, up-to-the-minute report of gay events (GAS-1234).

NORTHSIDE

This is the area from Irving Park north to Howard Street, and from the park west to the city limits. The area is a mixture of nationalities, some tough and black, others ethnic and middle-class. The farther north or west you go the better the neighborhood becomes. Generally north from Irving Park to Foster and west from Sheridan Road to Ashland Avenue, there is a heavy deposit of rough Chicanos, Blacks and hillbillies. Foster and Ashland seem to be the cut-off points. After passing over these two streets you will find yourself moving toward a middle-class neighborhood favored by a variety of nationalities like the Swedes, Greeks and Jews.

Bars

Blue Pub, 3059 W. Irving Park. An older crowd goes here. The age can start as low as 30 and work up. It is a nice neighborhood bar which attracts its customers primarily from the northwest area. On Friday and Saturday from 9:30 p.m. to closing many gather rough the piano and sing-a-long. Opens at about 7 p.m. and closes at 2 a.m. weekdays and 3 a.m. Saturdays.

Twenty-One Club, 3042 W. Irving Park. This bar is practically across the street from the Blue Pub. Most of the customers go back and forth. On Friday nights from 8 until midnight they have a fish-fry here. All you can eat for $1.50. From all reports the food is supposed to be good. Hours are from 8 p.m. to 4 a.m. on weekdays and 5 a.m. on Saturdays.

Up North, 6244 N. Western Avenue. This bar attracts a nice, quiet mixture of gay girls and boys from all parts of the city to its upper northwest area bar. They have a full menu and the food, which is served from 6 until 10:30 p.m. is good and reasonable. Champagne brunch on Sundays from noon to 5 p.m. The help is friendly and the atmosphere is pleasant.

Mike's Aragon, 1113 W. Lawrence. The Aragon falls in that area which is quite rough. I don't recommend the bar unless you like to take chances. It seems to be open all the time, and it attracts everything.

Office Lounge, 4636 N. Broadway. This bar is close to the Aragon and is

Annex, 2865 N. Clark St. Very close to Shari's; gets a nice crowd. It swings after Shari's closes. (Annex closes at 4 a.m. weekdays and 5 on Saturday.)

Carol's Coming Out Pub, 2519 Halsted. This is popular primarily with an older crowd from the neighborhood. It doesn't draw so easily from the city as the Annex or Shari's, but it attracts some humpy young numbers. Hours are 7 a.m. to 2 a.m. weekdays and to 3 Saturday; Sunday from noon to 2 a.m. Food. Beer garden. Buffet on Sunday after 10 p.m.

El Dorado, 2683 N. Halsted St. This bar can be rough. The door is locked and needs to be opened electronically from inside. If the bartender thinks you're a desirable customer it springs open for you. Primarily Latins and mixed with straights and gays. Dance floor. The weekend is the best time to go for a good crowd.

Virgo Out, 642 W. Diversey. This is a small bar with a small dance floor. It's slowly becoming a very popular bar. Service is good. Dancing. Sandwiches. The hours are from 10 a.m. to 2 a.m. weekdays, and until 3 on Saturday. Opens at noon Sunday.

Snake Pit, 2628 N. Halsted St. This is a discotheque bar that attracts a swinging, hip crowd (some Latins). On Wednesday there is usually a two-for-one special on drinks; Thursday night is party night, also with a special on drinks. Hours: 3 p.m. to 2 a.m. weekdays, and until 3 on Saturday.

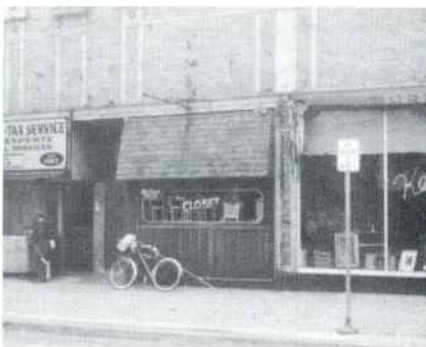

The Closet, 3325 N. Broadway. A small, intimate bar that gets about 60% boys and 40% girls. Dancing. Open daily from 3 p.m. to 4 a.m., and on Saturday until 5.

Book Stores

The Adult Book Store, 2928 Broadway (at Oakdale). It has the usual porno books and bedroom aids. In the back are the 25-cent movies. The movies, however, don't always work and the management doesn't seem inclined to refund the money. Several of the booths have huge glory holes.

Free Subscriber Service Personal Ads

HOW TO PLACE AN AD

For as long as you are a subscriber to any of our magazines we will run your Personal Ad absolutely free in every issue of all our publications. Simply send us your ad not to exceed 30 words (name and address count as 2 words). If your message exceeds 30 words send 50 cents per word additional. Only 1 ad to a subscriber (no matter how many magazines you subscribe to). You may change your ad as often as you like but notify us at least 3 months in advance. Use your own name, address and/or phone number or we will assign you a code number. When a code is used we will forward your sealed envelopes free of charge (see "How to Answer" below). No one but you will ever see your letters. We reserve the right to change wording in keeping with our editorial policy. Please print clearly and indicate which magazine(s) you currently subscribe to. Be sure and give us your full name and address for our records (even if not used in your ad). Send to: QQ Publishing Co., Inc., Suite 602, 450 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10001.

HOW TO ANSWER AN AD

Anyone may answer an ad, subscribers and non-subscribers alike. Write directly to the advertiser, or call if address and phone number are given. If a code appears here's how to reply: 1. Seal your letter in a "personal size" envelope. 2. Write the code number very small but clearly in one of the corners on the back of the envelope. 3. Affix U.S. postage stamp on front of the envelope, upper right-hand corner, and write your own return address on the front of the envelope, upper left-hand corner. Do not write anything in the address area. For U.S., Canada & Mexico postage is 10 cents for surface mail, 13 cents for airmail for up to 1 oz. (normal weight). For foreign mail (note: code given will be followed by an "F" if advertiser lives abroad) use 26 cents per 1/2 oz. for air-mail. If the envelope to be forwarded reaches us without proper postage we will destroy it. 4. Place this smaller envelope in a larger "business size" envelope and send to: QQ Publishing Co., Inc., Suite 602, 450 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10001. Be sure and use enough postage as post office now destroys all improperly posted envelopes. 5. When we receive your sealed envelope to be forwarded we will write the advertiser's name and address on it and deposit it in a mail-box. You will hear directly from the advertiser. Do not ask us to act in your behalf, etc.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Personals are free but if you have something to sell your ad becomes a commercial classified. The rate for such ads is 50 cents per word (name and address count as 2 words). Such classifieds will appear in this section but in reverse (white type on black). We will run your ad in the first available issue (specify which publication since such ads are priced on a "one time only" basis). Send ad and payment to: QQ Publishing Co., Inc., Suite 602, 450 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10001.

Non-Subscribers Note:

Non-subscribers may now place personals. General instructions above apply. Rate is 50 cents per word (name and address count as 2 words) on a 1-time basis only. Specify which of our 3 magazines you want your ad to appear in when you write. Send check or money order to: QQ Publishing Co., Inc., Suite 602, 450 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10001.

protest. Naive! Much to his surprise he finds himself experiencing excruciating pain as his anal sphincter rebels inhibitorially against it, so that what might otherwise have gone in easily, if he had done his homework with increasingly larger dildos—and joyously received—is frustrated by the sphincter's cold resistance. Moreover, if he has failed to attempt more artful forms of fantasexualizing—knowing none of the nuances of creative self-sex . . . performing it primitively as rote-masturbation—he will lack the quicksilver ability to shift into some other sexual variation in a kind of sleight-of-hand that might divert his lover of the moment, thus glossing over the gaffe and bringing the encounter to a successful (if not rousing) conclusion. His special needs are, therefore, some

AIDS TO SELF SEDUCTION

First on the list should be some aids to fantasizing. Coming quickly to mind are the many magazines created specifically for the self-sexist. All these are filled with sizzling gay guys one should be glad to have in bed, however vicariously. Unfortunately, too many self-sexists simply riffle the pages, beating for dear life while going quickly from 'big' on page 1, to 'bigger' on page 20, to 'biggest' on the last page, without taking time to savor the special charms of each model. That is why in Ciao! and Body (especially) and often in QQ Magazine we make a point of showing several poses of the same model, when possible, to help the solitary sexist develop a rapport with him and be the more erotically turned on. If the viewer will take the time to 'get acquainted' with a particular model by first studying him from all angles, and then imagining or fantasizing what he might be like in real life . . . what his smile tells . . . what his expression reveals . . . what one can 'think into' him to make him a more personal acquaintance, then the sexing hand will have less forcing to do and more time to sensuously manipulate the phallus with such varied pressures and erotic nuances that orgasm arrives in a joyous flood-tide through the unified foreces of the entire body, rather than as a genitally-localized masturbative ripoff. Mind and spirit and cock.

Gay films are also important . . . either those one sees at a gay movie house, or films one may purchase from firms advertising in these and all other gay magazines. Such films are especially valuable aids to both fantasizing and fantasexing because they illustrate sex techniques, par-

It's Better In Pairs!

Who's Who Among History's Lovers

By Rob Arrington

Look behind a famous man and you'll find a lover in his shadow nine times out of ten. From Caesar right up through Lawrence of Arabia and our contemporary great men, lots and lots of them have had lovers, both famous and anonymous, who have admired them and inspired them and have, in many cases, strongly influenced the marks they've left on history and the works they've left behind. Famous gay pairs have been a part of the human scene since history began. This month:

THE DANCER AND THE IMPRESARIO

No one has ever surpassed the great Vaslav Nijinsky as the supreme ballet dancer of our time. But if it had not been for Nijinsky's lover, the impresario Serge Diaghilev, the legend might never have been created, for Diaghilev brought Nijinsky out of the cloistered world of Czarist Russia in the first decade of this century and presented him along with other Russian dancers in ballet productions that thrilled Western audiences.

Nijinsky was duly appreciative of the fact that he might not have reached the artistic heights he did without Diaghilev's tutelage. The impresario dominated the dancer completely, and the result was the (Continued on page 49) course—just like you! Big John is a washable plastic sex manikin, although it's downright downputting to call him that. So think of him as your alter ego, or your lover, and have sex with him at home, anytime you're both in the mood. He's a humpy, horny, inflatable guy who stands a manly five feet tall when he's blown (up, that is), and who can honestly lay claim to having an also fully-inflated cock that's a meaty 7½ inches. Thick, too. Big John also has an educated anus, and when you've lubricated yourselves the things you can do to each other are fantastic! Big John is the quiet type—retiring, one might say. When the seance is over he obligingly deflates and retires to a secret corner of your closet until you get the hots for him again. Of great importance is the fact that you can try out on him all the fantasies you've dreamed up. Big John won't mind . . . he's a great guy to help you with your homework.

Accu-Jac. Many who prefer solitary sex wish that both hands could be free to create erotic patterns on the body. Others have also wished that something might be contrived to effect an actual, albeit artificial sucking of the phallus. The waiting period is over, fellows. Accu-Jac is just what you've wanted—and a lot more. Simply described, it is an electrically-powered device that uses alternating airpressure to move a smooth massaging membrane or sleeve on the erect phallus. The stroking (sucking) is a total movement from the base of the cock to the tip of the glans penis—the entire organ being snugly encompassed in the Accu-Jac sleeve so that a full-range back-and-forth suction/massage can be effected rhythmically—in a 'humanoid' manner. This is as near actual fellatio as the science of sex-engineering has produced. In fact, because your entire phallus, right down to the pubic bone, is in sucking orbit, you can actually experience a deeper, more open-mouthed sucking than is possible via the human mouth.

Accu-Jac is a really deep-throated guy—always on the lookout for a great suck. With him you get total self-seduction! Because the mechanism is away from the body you don't come in contact with the current. And if you wish, there are other types of sleeves for Accu-Jac that do other erotic things, and a T-connection that makes possible dual self-sex with someone who thinks as you do. A better description of Accu-Jac and how it works can be found elsewhere in this magazine, or in the new QQ catalog, which will be sent to you free

A Guide To Sex By Astrology Swingin' On A Star By Cosmos

Athletic Model Guild

Belonging and sharing is a growing compulsion in gay life. Astrologers believe this is an earth-response to a powerful happening in the heavens—the planet Pluto now passing through Libra, the zodiacal sign of love/sex/togetherness . . . a merry mixup that will intensify over the next nine years, affecting Librans and non-Librans in ways quite strange. Without attempting to oversimplify, it means that the attraction of opposites or 'unlikes' will continue for at least twenty years as birth signs link up with anti-signs, so that your zodiacal antagonist may become your alter ego or your lover. So let's look at your counterpart-to-be and see how one or more of his characteristics may affect you.

SCORPIO

October 24 to November 22. Your anti-sign will be a Taurus type. So if you're a spendthrift he will exert a restraining influence. He doesn't dig extravagance (which is why so many Taurans are millionaires). But he's overly generous with sex. He's not named Super Stud for nothing!

SAGITTARIUS

November 23 to December 22. He's a Gemini type. Call him "The Dazzler." You're a dreamer, but as a Gemini type he's wide awake. Capricious. Versatile. Knows how to operate. Fast-scoring cruiser. Intelligent and creative. Most famous designers are Gemini.

CAPRICORN

December 23 to January 21. Capricornians get depressed very easily. Far too indrawn and serious, at the same time they are the most sympathetic souls who need a sex focus. The anti-sign Cancerian—dreamy, indolent, receptive—is just what the Capricornian needs. A Pluto/Libra miracle!

AQUARIUS

January 22 to February 20. Aquarians like wild sex . . . surprises . . . sexing on a stone or wood floor . . . wet bodies . . . soapy-body sex. Nothing run-of-the-mill. The anti-sign Leo—willful, bold, domineering and imaginative will meet him at every turn-on!

PISCES

February 21 to March 20. Pisceans are over-loving, overly-compassionate people. As poets, artists, composers, musicians, they give too freely of themselves. They need a restraining hand. Virgo is the anti-sign antidote. Practical, with a monitor complex, Virgans are a perfect foil.

ARIES

March 21 to April 20. Aries types are bold, aggressive lovers. They are so supremely confident sexually that they tend to take over. They need to be tempered by the anti-sign Libran who is thoughtful, tactful, and who can demonstrate greater sexual nuance and sensitivity.

TAURUS

April 21 to May 20. The Tauran is usually moneyed and loves pleasure. The more he enjoys himself the more he wants others to do the same. He finds his greatest pleasure with those whose like desires he can fortify. Like the Scorpio.

GEMINI

May 21 to June 21. Brainy is the word for the Gemini. Sexually willful, provocative, impetuous Gemini needs the background of anti-sign Sagittarians who are good-natured, tolerant and generous.

CANCER

June 22 to July 23. The Cancerian is very intuitive. Sexually, he is quick to separate the bores from the bods. Deep inside, however, there is his need for a quiet oasis after his hippodroming. The anti-sign Capricornian will be the sought-after one if Pluto into Libra interferes.

LEO

July 24 to August 22. Leo's king is the Sun. With such a mighty ruler he is understandably a bit egomaniacal, with a strong sense of sexual centrality. In anti-sign Aquarians he will find those freedom-lovers and sexual rebels dear to his heart. Leos love orgies (but then, who doesn't?).

VIRGO

August 23 to September 23. The Virgan has a passion for bodybuilding and the gay Virgan for sex with bodybuilders. With all his equipment, imagine his surprise when Pluto into Libra mates him with anti-sign Piscean poets and musicians and intellectuals who don't have Muscle #1!

LIBRA

September 24 to October 23. Librans procrastinate. They're often even late for the orgy . . . getting in just at the tail end (which isn't really bad!). They need the discipline of Aries types who are better at decision making . . . like 'Down, Boy . . . now!'

sliced the truffles. Fabulous chef-salaries were a thing of the past. Many chefs left Paris to work in such great English hotels as Claridge's, the Connaught and the Savoy. Others made it to the United States to man the kitchens of such still-wealthy people as the Astors, Morgans and Vanderbilts.

FRANCE IN THE 'LO CAL' AGE

A few of these overripe, over-much restaurants survive, but only as shadows of their former glory—faded legends, rather than zealous keepers of the flame. They are anachronisms, like the Spanish lisp, greatly outnumbered by those who speak a newer, more 'with it' culinary dialect, as the Castilians are outnumbered by the millions of Spanish-speaking peoples who sound the 's'. It is of interest to note that the Guide Michelin, the bluebook of the world's finest restaurants, no longer lists any of them . . . not even Maxim's!

There are in Paris two popular, yet widely-different styles of cooking. Both are primarily concerned with the health of their patrons by keeping their figures under control. They just go about it differently. One is the no-fat, no-carbohydrate 'no cal' . . . the other is the low-fat, low-carbohydrate 'lo cal'. (There are still many 'soul of France' restaurants of the bistro or provençal type whose cooking is—as it always has been—of the hearty bourgeois type.) However inventive the French chef may be he can do little more than ape Weight Watchers if he works only with characterless foods, made less tasteful by sauces and garnitures that have every possible calorie pared away. Thus the contemporary Parisian gourmet will find truly grand luxe 'lo cal' cooking at such popular (and Guide-listed) restaurants as La Barriere de Clichy, La Maree, Le Pactole, Vivarois and L'Archestrate. These restaurants are to the figure-conscious gourmet what Maxim's and Fouquet's were to the overstuffed.

The principal difference is the viewpoint of the chefs, all of whom are young, with trim figures, who have had a complete training from the basics upward at the many fine ecoles de la cuisine . . . who know precisely how Escoffier did this, or Brillat-Savarin did that . . . and who know just how much of la grande cuisine classique can be retained without adding cholesterol to one's veins or pounds to one's figure. What they say in essence is "We shall go just so far and no farther." Nineteenth-century traditions are kept just to a point . . . using that which has great taste and

The Greatest Invention Since The Human Mouth

ACCU-JAC

If you are into masturbation then ACCU-JAC is for you. It is a professionally engineered massaging device that took four years of research and development.

ACCU-JAC uses alternating air pressure to move a smooth massaging membrane on the erect penis. The stroking motion is total and incorporates pressurized air flow which produces suction and compression to drive the massaging sleeve back and forth, thus approximating actual fellatio. This total massage combined with gentle suction results in violent climax.

No electrical parts ever touch you. ACCU-JAC is completely safe and entirely harmless. It is gentler than the hand or actual fellatio. A warranty is included to protect all electrical and mechanical parts.

The basic unit includes everything you need to use ACCU-JAC . . . there are no extras to buy. Additional sleeves for a variety of unusual sensations are available for later purchase. They are detailed in literature which accompanies ACCU-JAC and also in our 1975 Catalog advertised elsewhere in this magazine.

It is crucial that you furnish exact measurements of your erect penis to ensure perfect fit of the sleeve sent with your unit. If you are purchasing ACCU-JAC with a friend order an additional sleeve for the second person if his size is different from yours and/or you intend to use ACCU-JAC simultaneously with a T-connection accessory (see coupon).

If you wish to learn more about ACCU-JAC before purchasing see our detailed report in the February 1975 QQ Magazine. Send $3.50 ($4.50 in Canada & Mexico; $5.00 all other countries) for a copy; $1 for a Xerox copy of the report. Address on coupon.

Our prices include all shipping charges and taxes where applicable. We ship via insured parcel post. Cartons are sturdy and carefully packed and bear no revealing markings. U.S. residents desiring air service please add $10 to your order. A money-order or charge expedites shipment. Sorry, no C.O.D.'s. Price reflects manufacturer's 1974 increase. You must be over 21 to order.

because it was, first of all, rolled in a generous layer of pork fat for self-basting. But by using 4 ounces of polyunsaturated margarin and basting the roast by hand, 1,000 calories are saved in this operation. At the same time the cholesterol content is reduced by 90%. We shall give the new recipe here, noting that while it is just mouth-wateringly scrumptious to contemplate, it yields only 455 calories per serving!

The Veau Gendarme, by the way, gets its name from big nightstick of the turn-of-the-century police officer. The roast is rolled into the shape of the weapon, and its inside is studded with pistachio nuts instead of the brass/lead crunchers of the baton.

VEAU GENDARME A LA GELEE

This recipe will serve eight persons. It would be difficult to make it for fewer. You'll need . . .

- A 3-pound rolled veal roast
- 1/4 cup shelled pistachio nuts
- 1/4 cup Cognac
- 1/4 cup white wine
- 4 oz. polyunsaturated margarine
- 2 cloves garlic, cut in half
- Salt and pepper
- 1 medium onion, thickly sliced
- 1 bay leaf, halved

For the aspic you'll need 2 cups of strong chicken consomme and 2 tablespoons of unflavored gelatin.

Using a larding needle, insert the pistachio nuts (and a truffle if you can beg, borrow or steal one . . . this being optional and not given in the list of ingredients). Place the roast in a baking pan and pour both the Cognac and wine over it. Now spread half of your margarine over the entire surface of the roast. Sprinkle on the salt and pepper, and randomly flick the garlic, onion slices and bay leaf around the meat. Insert a meat thermometer into the thickest part of the roast and place in a 325-degree oven. Baste frequently as the meat is being roasted, until the thermometer registers 160 degrees. (The French chefs are precise about this.) At this point on the thermometer the veal will be a beautiful pink inside. The time consumed in roasting will be about 1 1/2 hours, figuring 30 minutes to the pound. Halfway through the roasting process spread the other half of your margarine over the roast. Continue to baste, because veal, without the larding of pork fat, will be dry unless kept moist by the basting.

Remove from the oven, and remove the thermometer. Allow the veal to cool in the pan, still basting occasionally as it cools. You may do this part in the morning, allowing the roast to cool throughout the day. Do not,

MAGAZINE BINDERS

Collectors of QQ Magazine have asked for hard-cover binders—to protect their magazines and keep them together in handy book form on the library shelf.

The binders are sturdy and attractive—covered with imitation black leather (grained). Each binder comes with 12 "spines" which are inserted in the center of each magazine and then snapped into place. Capacity is 12 magazines (based on our current issues, which are printed on heavy stock; earlier editions of QQ are thinner and it is possible to accommodate as many as 18 magazines in each binder . . . for this reason we are making available extra spines at 75 cents a set of 6).

Our binders bear no markings—to insure privacy on your library shelf. You may therefore use them for QQ or BODY or any other magazines you collect which are the same size as ours. Order extras.

advantages electric coffee-grinders have over the old-fashioned turn-the-crank kind. First, they do in seconds what would take ten or more minutes with a crank model. Secondly, they are adjustable to grind size . . . from coarse grind to pulverized. The finer the grind, the more full-bodied and stronger the brew. You will soon discover just how fine you want your coffee ground, and in this way make it to your particular taste every time.

COFFEE IN THE BEAN

If there is no coffee-roasting establishment or coffee store in your community, or other store where many kinds of coffee beans are available, undoubtedly your town boasts an A & P store. Whatever quarrel one may have with A & P there can be no quarreling about their coffee . . . or specifically two brands. One of these is their Red Circle and another is the more full-bodied, winelike Bokar. Get a pound of each in the bean. Experiment. You might begin by filling your grinder two-thirds full with the clear-tasting Red Circle, the remainder with Bokar. You get a mating of two very different types of coffee, and when 'Tricoletted' or otherwise filter-made you have an excellent brew.

Also try this little trick if you'd like to make coffee New Orleans style. If you've ever gone down for Mardi Gras you'll know what fantastic coffee New Orleans-style is. To the grinderful of Red Circle and Bokar, add two pinches of dried chicory. Then grind. The character of the coffee is made instantly richer and it's more of an 'up'. Small packets of chicory are available in most supermarkets. Don't use more than two pinches, however, or you'll have something that's neither coffee nor chicory.

Some coffees should never be blended. They have such an individually-rewarding taste and are so satisfying alone that mating them robs them of their birthright. Three of these coffees are Kona, grown in

A Q Q XMAS

Can you think of a more thoughtful way to say "Merry Xmas" to a special friend than by sending a gift subscription to QQ Magazine? QQ is a lasting gift which brings months of gay entertainment and serves as a remembrance of you every time he receives a magazine. Or how about a copy of The Homosexual Health Guidebook? It will be used time and time again.

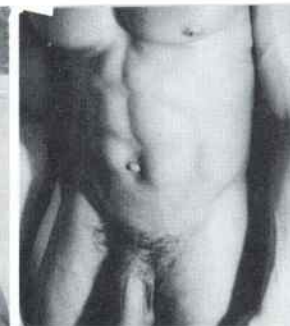

Perhaps your friends might like a subscription to BODY or CIAO! Or a copy of ERA. Or maybe a dildo. See the individual ads in this issue for details and prices. Please enclose payment with your order.

Send us the name(s) of the recipient(s) along with your gift card if you want it enclosed, or with your personal message—which we will typeset in a special QQ Xmas card. We will send it with the first copy of his magazine or other gift.

The other coffee establishments in New York are rather iffy. One may have one good coffee to six or seven indifferent-to-bad ones. They are not recommended.

Although many fine department stores sell coffee in the bean, usually this has been roasted some time previously and then paper-packaged to lie on the shelf for long periods. Consequently it loses much of its body and character by the time you buy it. Freshly-roasted coffee beans have a robust life for about three to four weeks . . . a week or two longer if you plastic-bag them and store them in the refrigerator (not the freezer) making sure the wrapping is thick enough so that moisture cannot enter. If, however, you can find stores offering one or more brands of coffee beans packed in tins you have every assurance that it is as fresh as when it came from the roaster. Get two or three brands and blend your own. Remember . . . if your blend doesn't quite hit the spot, toss in a couple of pinches of chicory and see what magic happens!

Why not look in the Yellow Pages of your telephone directory under 'Coffee Roasting Establishments' or 'Coffee Importers'? Then phone to find out what they offer. You may be delightfully surprised, and find a sufficient variety that will make your coffee not just a drink, but ambrosia fit for the gods!

Ein Hashafet. This kibbutz has Ulpan courses, excellent food, a groovy gay scene, particularly among Ulpan students. If you have a special interest in the history of the Middle East, with particular reference to the Holy Land, you'll want to meet Shmuel Ben Zvi, a wonderful man who settled in Ein Hashafet in 1937. New York born and bred, this great historian is a marvelous raconteur. And if you dig John Wayne types you'll also want to meet General Shimon Avidan, an old-time Arab fighter and a genuine frontier scout. Men like these can make your stay in this kibbutz all the more vivid and colorful. 20 kilometers from Haifa.

Ramat Hashafet has a youth hostel; also Ulpan. Heavily bisexual. Also lots of shy ones on the verge. 20 kilometers from Haifa.

Hazireia. This kibbutz has a furniture factory; Ulpan; art museum; great food; nice gay group—all ages. 20 kilometers from Mishmar Haemek . . . just a little gay visiting distance from Ein Hashafet.

HUMPY KIBBUTZIM

Kibbutz Sarid. Has Ulpan. Located in the Valley of Jezreel, 10 kilometers from Afula and 7 from Moshe Dayan's home at Moshav Nahalal. Modern and attractive dining hall serves excellent food—as good as, or even better, than that found in the best restaurants. Size enthusiasts will be more than happy during their stay. Quite a few studs around Sarid with 10", 12" and 13". The single 14" had the misfortune to fall in the Yom Kippur War. What a needless waste of young manhood!

Kibbutz Ein Harod. Home of the famed Night Squads under Colonel Yitzhak Sadeh and Captain Wingate. This kibbutz is just the place for the Levi and western gay crowd.

Kibbutz Adamit. Located on the Lebanese border. Very Spartan and disciplined . . . but also very warm and friendly. If you like to ski, snowshoe, or toboggan, you and lots of gay others will find plenty of snow here from November to April. A fine choice for your winter vacation. Great fishing in the Metulla River. It's the best bet for gay cowboys!

Kibbutz Givat Brenner, located near Rehovot in the orange/lemon-growing belt. This large, prosperous kibbutz has an Ulpan with many students . . . a huge Volunteer Group . . . fruit cannery. The best of Israel's bitter oranges, lemons and grapefruit are grown here. Not only lots of gay guys, but many Lesbians. This kibbutz is gayly unique in that on the great national/religious holidays of Yom Ha'atzmaut, Purim, Passover, Shavuot, Yom Kippur, Rosh Ha Shana, and Hannakah, gay people from all over Israel come here to join their gay friends. This kibbutz is therefore wilder still at such times. With so many holidays at such far different times, you'll find it easy to choose one that fits in best with your vacation. Can't miss!

Kibbutz Yotvata. Located in the Arava on the Jordanian border. Don't let that alarm you, however. When gay Israelis speak of "hot action" here they don't mean bullets. Just take a peek into the men's communal shower rooms and you'll see what 'hot action' really is! Also, bedroom sheets never cool down! Excellent vegetarian meals (you'll get enough meat elsewhere). Friendly atmosphere. Also some butch Lesbians.

Kibbutz Mishmar Haneghev. Butch gay guys, bisexuals and straights mix rows of this small theatre can be cruisy. Although it is in a nice area, it still attracts some hustlers and rough trade, and the manager can be nasty.

Lake Shore Theatre, Broadway at Belmont. Most people go here for the movies. Usually the movies are new and aren't as dated as at the Parkway. Cruising isn't very obvious, but since this area is very gay, enough gays go here to make it worth your time . . . if you want to see the film!

Outside Cruising

The intersection of Broadway, Diversey and Clark has always been a very cruisy area. All types meet here. In fact, this area draws from the entire city because of the many restaurants, shops and bars. Broadway from Diversey to Belmont is a good street to walk slowly. Also Pine Grove from Surf to Wellington.

The park area near the lagoon from Deming Place to Fullerton Parkway is very cruisy and very dangerous, especially at night. This includes the john by the lagoon and the hills on the east side of the lagoon.

The Belmont rocks, from Belmont to Diversey, is still the area for gay swimming and sunbathing. The water can be treacherous and deep here, so don't go into the water if you don't swim well. In the park, the john near Fullerton and Stockton Drive is popular with vice and gays during zoo hours. Closed at night. It is best to watch yourself if you go here.

OLD TOWN

This area is from Division Street south to Armitage avenue; from Clark Street East to Halsted Street. It was once a very "in" area like New Town now, but it lost its popularity and became quieter in the past years. Many good restaurants and bars and antique shops are still located on Wells Street (the heart of Old Town), despite some publicity of rough play from Westside toughs who visit the area at night.

Bars

Glory Hole, 1343 N. Wells St. This is a pleasant bar with a beer garden in the back. On Friday, Saturday and Sunday there is a go-go-boy type show from 10 p.m. on. On Tuesday, November/December 1975

Mother Out, Spanish Boogie, Shakey Ground, Fire, among others. In each a phrase or a few words from the song are flung out in the same Greek-chorus style of The Hustle, as an 'incitement to riot'. But it is The Hustle groove that has become the theme-song and mood-music of every gay bar in New York.

DANCE DESEXUALIZATION

A very perceptive critic recently said, "The worst curse of our times is the politicization of everything, even of things that have nothing to do with politics." In many areas of social communication, politicization has frequently degenerated into a desexualization of those involved. Two good examples of this come to mind because they are relevant to the happy augury of the Hustle.

One is, that until this new dance involvement came about, togetherness on the dance floor had not really existed since the beginning of the second, or 'post-Peppermint Twist' phase of Vietnam. Then one went on the floor not so much to dance as to protest, since the politics of Vietnam was as distasteful as the military incursion.

You may recall the 'arms flailing' stance of dancers during that period. Neither boy nor girl were into anything remotely 'revelish'. They just stood there, zombie-like, flailing and writhing and looking tortured in a disorganized way without being in the least sexually motivated. The flailing stance symbolized protest, and the more the dancers 'protested' the more space they needed. In a way it was a kind of 'soap-box choreography'. It was 'politicized joylessness' rather than sexual fun. Dancers had forgotten that the dance has been a form of courtship long before Milton bade his dancers "Come and trip it as ye go . . . on the light fantastic toe!" Funless, sunless and sexless.

CLOTHES MAKE THE 'HUSTLER'

The second indication that 'apartheid' dancing has had its day is that there is a simultaneous return to style in clothes. Nothing stuffy . . . nothing conservative . . . nothing that is not beautiful, comfortable and casual . . . but (particularly interesting to gay guys) fascinating crotch-watcher fashions for men. Styles that give touch dancing, as a personal involvement, a sexual motivation. There is a definite yearning for greater sophistication in hair styles and beards and accessories such as jewelry. The Hustle is sophistication and thus *demand*s sophistication, thus the 'hang loose' look is obsolescent. The sleek look is in—the 'anything goes' look is out.

The new male disco dance-tailoring makes an unabashed presentation of the basket. Wear what you like on your upper body—a stunning casual jacket or a beautiful shirt—what matters is that the tailor must call upon every facet of his training, even to the point of outlining the pubic hairs! The idea of those tight-tight pants is to show that there's a lot of guy inside . . . but mostly cock.

This means that trousers must be 'composed' on you while you're at the tailor's so that he can make sure every tiniest capillary in your phallus pops out under the cloth. The cock is actually sculptured, and what results is a kind of cock-ring hard-on. So when you go 'Hustling' you are your own meat rack! Then at the surge-forward-and-merge when everyone begins to shout "Do it! Do it! Do the Hustle!" you're right in there 'doing' and 'Hustling'.

TECHNIQUE OF THE HUSTLE

The beautiful and sexy thing about the Hustle is that it's so challenging. It thrives on competition and new variations. There is a basic movement that anyone can learn in less time than it takes to tell about it. But once learned, the more free-wheeling and 'sock-it-to-me-baby' your pelvis, hips and thighs are, the more individual and personal you can make your contribution to this dance.

Everywhere there's disco dancing you'll see the wildest variations being ripped off like a Baryshnikov or Nureyev tour de force. This sets everyone off and there's a mighty effort to top them. Thus there is no structured Hustle beyond the basics. It's purely improvisatory from then on. The Latin Hustle is the most complicated as it involves the flashiest footwork. The Latin Hustlers can spin on a dime! There's also the Bronx, the Queens and the Brooklyn Hustle, and very likely the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Hustle as well. All have their own variations. They can't be described. One must look at, marvel at and imitate them. All that high-flying meat . . . and so right-at-you!

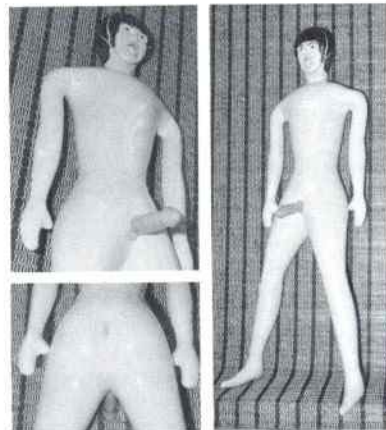

But as we mentioned at the beginning of this article, there is much in common with Chubby's Peppermint Twist. As you will note from the diagram, the basic technique is largely the same. Here's how it goes:

First, stand in the usual or classic dance position, facing and clasping your partner.

Next, look at the diagram and follow it step-number by number.

Step 1: Turn your left foot out to the side in a kind of exaggerated L'il

BIG JOHN

Never spend another evening alone . . . simply take BIG JOHN out of the drawer, blow him up, and enjoy! He stands about 5' tall and has 7 1/2" (1 1/2" diameter). Mouth and back holes are snug but comfortable . . . lubricant may be used because BIG JOHN is made of completely washable plastic (shower with him!). BIG JOHN digs whatever you like doing and never complains no matter how mean you are. The perfect companion when you're alone—and a great friend when you and a buddy want a threesome. Stores flat in about as much space as a book takes.

BIG JOHN . . . $39.95

Somerville, N.J. 08876. Sauna Distributors, Inc., 92-21 Corona Avenue, Elmhurst, N.Y. 11373. Or for those in the far West: Viking Sauna Company, 909 Park Avenue, San Jose, California 95150.

Are there any dangers in the sauna? A few that can be prevented with a little foresight. For one thing, don't take a sauna after a meal. While this will not upset you systemically, it will make you rather uncomfortable, and since the idea is to get the utmost relaxation and pleasure, why check-mate this with an abundant meal. Also, be sure to remove anything made of metal before entering the sauna. Because the most salubrious heat of the sauna is a constant 200 degrees Fahrenheit, one should remove (a) jewelry such as rings, bracelets, watches and popper necklaces (sorry, friend, you'll just have to save this part of your trip for later), and (b) your glasses, whether made with steel frames (in which case they can burn an imprint into your skin), or tortoise-shell (which can warp out of shape). But then, why worry? A little myopia can make the going great!

complete fulfillment of Nijinsky's artistic potential during a few peak years before the mental deterioration began in him that ultimately ended his career.

But even before that happened the lovers were parted when Nijinsky abruptly married a girl in the troupe, perhaps, as some say, to escape the increasing oppression of his relationship with Diaghilev, who had become his Svengali.

in the United States and Canada registered in the American Sunbathing Association, today less than 30 refuse to accept single males.

In noting this, we neither state nor imply that even the freest-thinking management espouses the gay cause . . . nor sex, for that matter, however pursued. Such enterprises are primarily just what they claim to be . . .

nudist havens/sunshine parks/nudist outdoor recreational areas. But even the most naive nudist-haven manager, in these days when 'everybody sucks', cannot fail to see that when single guys are admitted a large contingent will be gay. Inasmuch as the entire establishment—every inch of it—is obviously a meat rack all the time, the manager must either understand and tacitly approve, or—loathing the idea—permit it to flower out of sheer greed. If you will approach such an establishment with the basic idea that it is not specifically gay, and that sex is not accented—allowing yourself to be more or less matter of fact about it, letting come what may, you will discover that trailers and cabins and bedrooms may be quietly swinging all day and night.

In every case, however, if you desire to visit a particular camp you must hold membership in the American Sunbathing Association through an affiliation with the organization at some nudist park near your home or in your ASA geographical district. In this way, wherever you find yourself in your travels across the continent, you may stop at any nudist haven, show your membership credentials, pay stated local fees, and be royally welcomed. It is wise, however, to write or telephone ahead for reservations to avoid disappointment. In this article we should like to locate and give addresses of the various ASA regions, and at the same time mention a few excellent nudist havens in each region. Write to the headquarters of whatever region you live in for membership or other information and for a listing of nudist havens in whatever part of the country you expect to visit.

EASTERN SUNBATHING ASSOCIATION

Four important steps for Gay America from the National Gay Task Force

1 Let the media know your feelings

If something offends you on radio, TV or in newspapers or magazines, complain to the media people in charge. For broadcasting, contact station General Manager, News or Program Director; for print, contact Managing Editor or Publisher. Call immediately. Be exact, concise and coherent in your complaint. Follow with a letter and carbon copies to the Federal Communications Commission (1919 M St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20554) for broadcast stations. Note on your letter "cc: FCC, Senator, Congressperson." Use the same techniques to compliment the media if coverage was good. Ask your friends to do the same. Inform your local gay organization, gay programs and papers of the problem you saw/read/heard. Join a coordinated action if one exists. If not, help form one. Always include both gay men and lesbians. As a group, ask for meetings and awareness sessions with media management. Work on public relations for the local gay community. Support the gay media. Send letters to the editors of papers and magazines. Get on radio and TV "editorial opinion" spots. Call in to radio and TV talk shows with gay questions and comments.

*For more specific information, contact NGTF.

2 Back up gay legislation

Write letters urging support for gay rights legislation to federal, state and local legislators. Focus attention on gay rights in religious, professional and community groups. Make it a campaign issue.

3 Support local gay organizations

Contact and join local groups. Support them with time, money or professional expertise. Start or join a professional gay caucus.

4 Join The National Gay Task Force

In MEDIA we have: coordinated the national protest of "Marcus Welby, M.D.—The Outrage"; obtained non-discrimination employment statements from all 3 major networks; assisted local gay groups in learning techniques for publicity and public relations; circulated information on FCC ascertainment procedures for local organizations to become involved in challenging station license renewals; served as a national clearinghouse and reference center for news and programming media; developed standards of fairness for treatment of lesbians and gay men on the air, in print and in films.

But so much more needs to be done! And we need your help to continue our work. NGTF's financial support has come solely from memberships, donations and fund raising events. Without your support, we can not continue our current activities.

Help us now. Join NGTF today.

Book Review

Moise And The World Of Reason, by Tennessee Williams, 190 pgs., Simon & Schuster, $6.95, should, of course, be a play, not the curious novel it is. Granted, for now it would have to be underground theatre because of the exquisite sex scenes, and one wonders how many actors would get it up six nights a week plus two matinees. So, as second best, let's settle for the novel.

Plays begin differently than novels. There is a set. There are actors and costumes. Our interest is caught when the curtain rises.

Moise begins without these advantages (did Williams stop to think about that?) and initially gives the impression of being boring, no, depressing, hack work.

Gradually, however, as the pages slip by ever faster the dramatics get to you. The characters emerge in brilliant color. Their language (of the stage—and not one wasted syllable) strikes the ear just right. The plot develops, scene by scene, exactly as it should. Now, finally, we are caught.

Before telling you all the good things about Williams's novel, let me tell you about its other major flaw, and you can decide if these two points are serious enough to keep you from wanting to read Moise.

Moise is narrated in the first person, unnamed throughout, barely described. One cannot help visualizing the narrator as the man in the familiar photos of the author. Moustached, sometimes bearded, not at all unattractive in his fifties, Williams looks like a heavy-set Rhett Butler with a tolerant smile and an understanding eye.

But that cannot be the thirty year-old writer who narrates Moise And The World Of Reason. We must create the image ourselves (perhaps substituting oneself at thirty?) but it is almost impossible because we, at thirty, cannot be (or have been) in the circumstances of Williams's writer-at-thirty.

So, with no help from Williams, we must either concoct the character (physically) or accept him as a blank like the rabbit, Harvey. I fantasized my own concoction, imperfectly.

Well, now, Narrator (for want of a name—can't call him "Tennessee" or "Harvey") has had a great first love, Lance, a black ice-skating star who burned out his furious life flying over the thin ice of love, stardom, and drugs. Together, they lived—as Narrator still does—within a plywood room in the middle of a loft of an abandoned warehouse in Greenwich Village.

Nearby lives Moise, a painter living on the edge of her sanity, who is endowed with the wisdom of the mad, the eye of a first-rank artist, and the mouth of Miss Bankhead. She refers to Charlie, Narrator's second and current love, as "that catamite on the prowl," and that is Charlie to a T-room, for on this night he hies himself into the hunky arms of Lot, leaving Narrator alone with his notebooks and the paper scraps (rejection slips and their envelopes) on which he is writing, now, this novel.

Narrator, bereft, fights the self-pity of grief through a series of scenes encompassing the great, funny, and tragic moments in his love for (and the returned love of) Lance. It is a love lovingly described. It is as profound as any. It is as sexy as your next ejaculation. It is the enduring thing of value, perhaps the only thing of value, in a cruddy universe. (The room in the middle of the empty loft in the forsaken warehouse; get it?)

The cruddiness of the universe, like the rats in the warehouse, is drummed into our consciousness by playlets within the play, e.g., a really perverse straight shrink who erects and cums as Narrator, unwillingly incarcerated, tells the story of his first sexual encounter at thirteen with a thirteen year-old girl in a hot Southern attic.

Not only is the universe cruddy (brutal police, for another example) but so, too, is Charlie in his departure, and Narrator goes to Moise's (she had earlier given a Farewell To The World Of Reason party) for a touch of human kindness for the recollection of Lance, for love. Moise, in her madness, rescues Narrator from the aforementioned cops, welcomes Narrator to the world of the mad (read "sane") and, pathetically (?) alone, not quite yet the crone her mother is, provides Narrator (I will give it all away if I give too much detail) with a handy jar of petroleum jelly.

We all know, of course, that love is madness in a soi-disant sane world. For love to endure we must make allowances and compromise with a world which won't permit us twenty-four hours a day in the sack with our loves. We must eat, make a living, survive.

Williams's thesis is that in order to survive we must have love, a valid, human, personal love. Moise has her love of her art. Charlie has his love of success by-the-numbers. Lance had his love of ice, drugs, and love, (love diluted, is not enough, either) and we are left with Narrator who is really driven to love or to die.

To give it all away, he lives. He will not love again, as, indeed, by the grace of the gods, so, too, will you and I.

It's a heavy novel, but don't wait for the play.

SELF SEDUCTION

Only when he had proved to himself that he could play his entire program with accuracy and dexterity at double its metronomic indication could he feel comfortable and relaxed enough to express himself as freely as he wished in public. He often said, "Exaggeration is the antidote for inhibition. If I were to practice my program only at the exact speed I would play it publicly, so many of the inhibitions of my pianistic childhood—so many of the admonitions and doomsayings and actual 'knuckle-crackings' of my early tyrant-teacher—would come rushing over me on stage that I would find myself actually 'fighting' the very music I want to express so freely. It would be uphill all the way, not only for me, but for my listeners."

Male ballet dancers also operate within the 'crunch syndrome'. You may be sure that Baryshnikov or Nureyev, who thrill you in performance with their effortless five-foot-high leaps, went two or three feet higher that morning in the studio. And it's safe to say that the incredible speeds that won for Mark Spitz his five Olympic 'golds' were something less than his best training records. What, then, does it all add up to—Rachmaninoff with his double speeds . . . Nureyev and Baryshnikov with their super-catapulting studio leaps . . . Spitz with his faster-than-a-flying fish training preliminaries . . . and the self-sexist as well?

It adds up to self seduction . . . exaggeration in practice overcoming inhibition in performance to the point where it's always smooth sailing. Super belief. 'Psyching', some call it. But simply put, it's just a most practical way of make the 'possible' seem incredibly easy by having earlier made more heroic attempts with the 'impossible'.

'FLOWER IN THE CRANNIED WALL . . .'

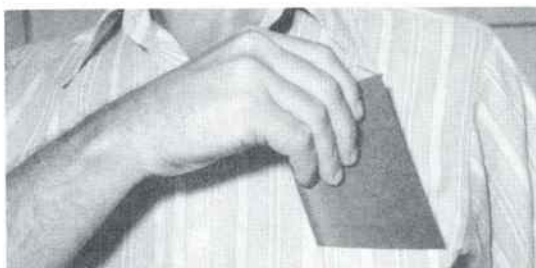

An anal-sex analogy might be drawn, in which the inhibited, inexperienced or 'un-self seduced' sexualist is drawn into an encounter with a really humpy guy who has an enormous phallus. If, in the past, he has gone to no greater efforts at self seduction than teasing his anus with a finger while manipulating his phallus with his other hand, by taking his anus for granted in such a situation he may unwisely expect it to accommodate such monster meat without Your Passport To Gay Adventure In A Compact Booklet Small Enough To Fit In Your Pocket!

THE MOST ACCURATE GAY TRAVEL DIRECTORY IN THE WORLD

Nearly all existing gay travel directories are "rip-offs" of guides published years ago—providing information which is no longer valid. The editors of our gay travel magazine span the world—constantly gathering information for Ciao! They have prepared our 1976 gay travel directory—which we call "Private Stock." It contains nearly 4,000 accurate and up-to-date names and addresses of gay establishments and meeting places everywhere in the world—conveniently arranged by country and city in alphabetical order. By utilizing a concise system of "keys" we are able to present detailed information about each listing; the keys are so arranged that you can instantly interpret them and learn everything you need to know—whether a place is entirely gay, what you will encounter—young guys, old guys, sex, no booze, entertainment, food, lesbians, hustlers, muggers, cops, even dangerous animals (in jungle meat-racks!). And we dare to bare it all—including johns on college campuses, in subways and department stores that swing. By using small type which is easy to read we are able to cram all this valuable information in a compact booklet which is securely stapled together in magazine form and small enough (3x5) to fit in your shirt pocket. Its cover is durable and leather-grained with absolutely no "tell-tale" printing so that discreet travelers can use it anywhere. Plus other features such as where to look for sex in college towns, and how much hustlers are paid—and how to handle them. Published annually—"Private Stock" is the only gay travel directory you need . . . the only one you will ever want. It is your personal address book for hot times! Sent via certified 1st class.

ticularly the trendy ones. The learning process here is imitative. There's nothing wrong with that. All of us learn by visual precept.

Films can help you acquire technical mastery much more quickly than any other medium. And they often show self-sex variations you may never have dreamed of. Make a practice of viewing the film(s) many times. You'll find that with subsequent showings you can see something you have missed before. Also, another quite practical aspect of re-viewing a pornofilm is that by the time you've seen it the third or fourth time you will have developed a very special confidence . . . you rationalize that what some of the models are doing, and how they're doing it, you can do . . . and do better. Even when a film is indifferently produced and ineptly acted one can always learn by its mistakes.

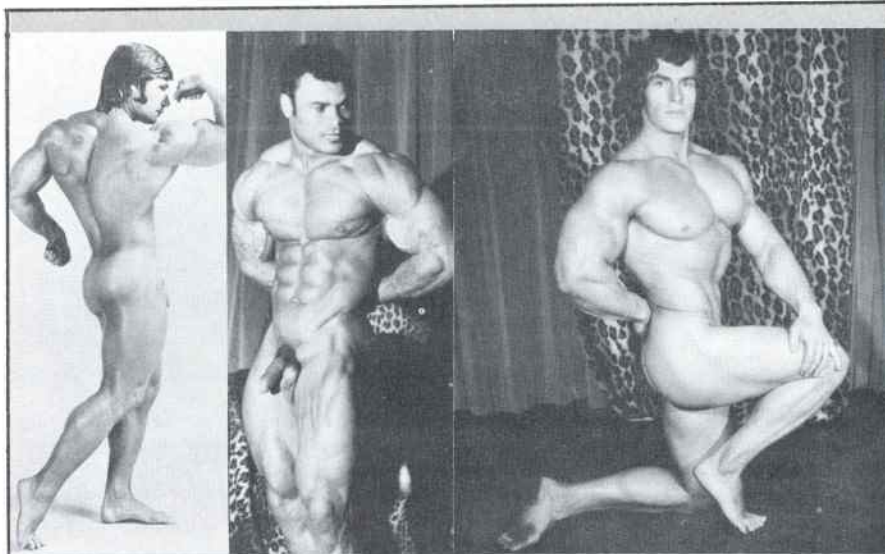

Music to fantasex by, with candles flickering on your body, instead of dim light from another room . . . fantasexing with your nude body nuanced by moonbeams shining on it through a window . . . satin sheets on your bed (black, of course) instead of utilitarian polyester . . . the pheromonic scent of pure musk oil, a drop or two of which you have traced around your pectorals and genitals, and which, as has been scientifically proved, is sexually unifying . . . fantasexing while the rain beats down outside. All these and countless others are turn-ons for many, and should be utilized. And don't forget poppers (ampoules of amyl nitrite) to inhale when orgasm hints at its imminent arrival . . . and to keep the orgasmic sensation going-g-g, like forever!

Whatever you can conjure in your imagination and reproduce by five-fingered nuance will bring a more erotic vitality to your encounter with yourself and—if and when you wish—will enable you to transfer this to another, with consummate ease. It's all part of the beautiful picture of self-sex, and the more individual creative touches you can add, the more infinitely personal the experience can be. But what can turn the beautiful into the absolutely ravishing, and the erotically sensuous into absolutely carnal rape, are these five on request. The magic of Accu-Jac is manifold. Not only does it free your hands for more nuanced pattern-tracing of your body during self sex, but it allows them freedom to insert and manipulate dildos and other anal sex toys so that the act is all the more erotic, complete, and pleasurable. To be fucked and sucked simultaneously is a completeness of sex that few experience in a sex encounter unless others participate. But with Accu-Jac it is the norm! Self seduction raised to the highest power!

Big Hole is another sex toy/fun thing. This is roughly an anus and a rectum made of flesh-colored washable rubber. Lubricate it and place it between your passionately throbbing thighs (or any other stabilizer) and you can drive your cock home in a willing sex partner anytime you like. A fine toy to help you do your sexual homework. With Big Hole your phallus slides in as unobtrusively as a whore in church, or as violently as a leather rapist. No complaints!

Second Skin is for the circumcised guy—to give him a chance to feel what he's missed without foreskin. Stretched to a tight phallic fit, it works frictionally/suctionally . . . one side is smooth, the other lined with 110 soft 'nipples' that can really drive you up a wall!

Juice Tube is also a soft, hollow rubber tube with two completely washable insert liners, one with dozens of little nipples. It must be used with a lubricant, and what can make it more wildly erotic is that in the top insert is a 1½-inch depression in which a small vibrator or the popular Shaky Stik can be accommodated, although this is not necessary for use. Manually operated, it's just as good.

These are but a few of the many fascinating creative ideas of artisans who work in tune with the times to help self-sexists reach the highest plateaus of self seduction. It will be of great help to you to read about others, unless, of course, you just can't stand the thought of having all that great sex with yourself. (Fat chance!)

great character, but without gussying it up with a glut of rich sauces and hidden calories. "Lily-gilding (like the buck) stops here!" the chefs seem to say.

This is not to say that contemporary cuisine is devoid of the 'pretty picture-esqueness' of the nineteenth-century's classic cuisine. Dishes are still made to seem what they are not—trompe le'oeil fantasies such as terrines au lapin being made to look like a sitting rabbit . . . or a bombe of ice cream made to look like watermelon or cantaloupe . . . or some extraordinary preparation of chicken decorated with coxcombs (papier maché, however, unlike the gruesome realism of nineteenth-century chefs who often killed several roosters, using only the coxcombs and discarding the rest of the birds!).

Charm of food presentation has not been sacrificed. That is just as artistic, as elegant and eye-catching as ever. The principal casualty has been the custom of overloading every sauce with butter and cream to make it either as soft in the mouth as velvet, or as fluffy on the tongue as moonbeams. And if such sauces were not creamy-buttery enough to do the trick, there was always the handy bin of flour to add more body (and more to one's body).

Sauces today no longer try to disguise the basic protein goodness of food (as in Orloff's veal) . . . one might say that meats no longer accompany the sauces, as of yore, but rather that the simpler, lower-calorie sauces of today accompany the meat, introducing it more casually—yet just as deliciously—to the palate. This culinary candor and casualness is so right for our time . . . it is part of today's lifestyle. Ostentation has become alien to our way of life, and the new Paris cooking reflects this trend.

Moreover, no longer does the waiter bring 'something to clear the tongue'—such as a releve of fruit sherbet—between the fourth and fifth courses, to help you get a second wind on the remaining four or five. Today meals have been diminished in number of courses to a maximum six, and foods have been reduced in calories through simpler preparation.

To illustrate how many calories and how much cholesterol are saved in the new 'thin cooking' of any grand luxe restaurant mentioned, let's take, for example, the always popular Veau Gendarme a la gelée (cold roast of veal studded with pistachio nuts, with a garnish of aspic). Long a favorite of Europe's crowned heads in the old days, this dish was calorie-laden however, place it in the refrigerator or all is lost!

When you are ready to serve it, remove the roast from the pan, and with a sharp knife cut it into thin slices (about 1/4 inch). The thinner the slices the prettier the roast will look as you now arrange the slices down the center of the serving platter, letting them overlap just a trifle. Sprinkle some of the chopped aspic along the center of the row of veal slices, and spoon the rest of it all around the meat. You'll have a really beautiful 'picture dish' because of the contrasting colors! Now here's how to make

THE ASPIC

Soften the gelatin in 1/4 cup of the double-strength consommé while you heat the rest of the consommé in a small saucepan. Once the consommé is very hot, add the softened gelatin and stir until thoroughly dissolved. Cool, then pour into a bowl and refrigerate. Please bear in mind that this aspic will require about 3 hours for full jell, so you may also make this well in advance. With both the roast and the aspic done ahead of time you'll have more time for your guests—another plus!

Chill a chopping board or a large dish and scoop the aspic onto it or into it. Now, with a long sharp knife, chop into small pieces. If you will hold the knife at both ends and with a see-saw motion chop up and down the aspic will be more finely cut. The finer the cut the prettier it is. Return the chopped aspic to the bowl and refrigerate until ready to serve.

To accompany the Veau Gendarme, any of the restaurants (and so may you) will likely serve concombres cremeux (cucumbers in a low-calorie, low-cholesterol cream sauce), and cold petits pois Clamart (pea puree). However, a puree of lettuce may be served instead, particularly if one is more closely watching the calories. A very cold white wine should be served, and a dessert of something low-calorie, such as a pear in wine. Crusty French bread, of course.

The overstuffed gourmet of the turn-of-the-century would recognize this Veau Gendarme instantly. "How delightful it tastes!" he would enthuse, happily unaware that most of the caloric preparation of his time had been abandoned in favor of ingredients that taste just as wholesome and good, and aromatic to the sense of smell, but which do not play havoc with the waistline. He might be somewhat surprised at the fewer courses . . . certainly he might miss the releve of fruit sherbet at the middle of the meal 'to reorientate the tastebuds' . . . but he'd feel so fine after the meal, without requiring a digestif to smooth its path down the alimentary canal, he'd forgive the chef any omission.

If you go to Paris, also go at least once to the grand luxe restaurants mentioned. While prices are high (as everywhere), calories and cholesterol are low. All the elegance you might expect will be there, only the 'too-muchness' of pampering food preparation will have been supplanted by that which is 'lo cal'.

genitalis therapy successfully is not thereafter immune to further transmission of the disease. While it works effectively on the 'now' case, if one goes out and thereafter has sex with someone else on the promiscuous prowl—or an unknowingly infected lover—then it's a whole new ball game. The dye-plus-light pattern may have to be repeated in its entirety. One hopes, however, that the hard lesson learned from the extreme discomfort of herpes genitalis in anus and/or rectum will have engendered a new sexual caution.

As we noted earlier, it is unlikely that the cautious gay person will ever contract herpes genitalis or, academically, require the dye-plus-light therapy. But if you do, you'll have in your memory bank the assurance that such a treatment now exists. It is to be

Hawaii—a tangy, aromatic, and very clean-tasting coffee . . . Colombian Supremo—from Colombia, of course . . . a very rich Armenian-type coffee. Then there is the famous Jamaican Blue Mountain coffee, of which very little reaches the United States, and if you do get it it will cost you around $4 a pound. But it's worth it, and it's better than many fine wines! In New York genuine Jamaican Blue Mountain coffee can be obtained only at Zabar's, 81st Street and Broadway. Imitations abound. But by law they must be labeled Jamaican style. Pass 'em by. Jamaican they're not. The Jamaica Coffee Industry Board exports to only two franchised coffee merchants in the entire United States. In addition to Zabar's, there is B.C. Ireland of San Francisco. Once roasted, he sells it to only a few West Coast stores. If you live out California way you might get in touch with him to find out if there is some coffee store near you where you might purchase it directly, or order it. Beware of such names as Jamaica High Mountain Supreme or just plain Blue Mountain. They have nothing in common with the true Blue Mountain. Zabar's, by the way, doesn't sell by mail. You must go there and get it in person.

One coffee house you may be especially interested in because it does a considerable mail-order business is McNulty's, 105 Christopher Street, New York, N.Y. 10014. The telephone number is (212) 242-5251. This is in the heart of gayest Greenwich Village and is a fascinating little shop with wonderful coffees, teas, and all kinds of coffee-making equipment. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for one of their bulletins listing every kind of coffee sold, and all of their famous blends which they can send you by mail . . . in the bean. In addition to genuine Kona, and genuine Colombian Supremo (no Blue Mountain, though) they have such excellent straight coffees as Santos Bourbon (very mild Brazilian); Java (rich and nutty); Maracaibo, a low-acid Venezuelan and the very next thing to Jamaican Blue Mountain; Altura Coatapec (a mellow Mexican coffee); Mocha style (there's almost no genuine Yemen Mocha around any more. Japan gets most of it, as she gets the bulk of Jamaican Blue Mountain . . . they've got the money and don't mind paying the fancy prices for it!); and Colombian (a full, robust Medellin excelso). From these five straight coffees McNulty's makes some great, and often exotic, blends.

These blends begin with the mildest (called Delmonico) and get richer as one goes through Copenhagen, Marianne's Blend, Toltec, Turkish Blend, French-Mocha and New Orleans. A very rich blend is their Viennese: 4 ounces of the Colombia . . . 4 ounces Mocha-style . . . 4 ounces Java . . . and 4 ounces French roast (not as dark as Italian roast) Colombian.

Marianne is the dea ex machina of the blending department and here is her Marianne's Blend: 7 ounces of Mocha-style . . . 6 ounces Colombian Supremo . . . 3 ounces French roast Altura Coatapec.

Nothing could be more different than these two exceptional blends. So the fascinating thing about being a coffee gourmet is to buy two or three straight brands (as you may do with Red Circle, Bokar and chicory) and contrive a blend that is uniquely yours. The brochure McNulty's publishes gives the precise measurements of the specific coffee brands that go into their famous blends. Straight coffees run about $2.25 to $2.35 a pound at present. The blends run from $2.35 to $2.45. Their most expensive straight coffee is Jamaican (a true Jamaican altitude-grown coffee, however it is not Jamaican Blue Mountain, as McNulty's will quickly tell you).

If you are in New York pay a visit to another Greenwich Village coffee-roasting house: Schapira's, 117 West Tenth Street, right in the heart of Village Square. They have wonderful Ethiopian Djimma; a robust Guatemalan coffee; a winelike Maracaibo, and their own special Viennese Blend, a wild Turkish Blend, plus a New Orleans blend (with a small, exactly-measured packet of chicory). Prices here are slightly lower than at McNulty's. Write to Schapira's for an order-by-mail form listing their coffees and teas, prices for same, and a shipping chart showing mailing charges. When Schapira's fires up their roasting machine, the heavenly aroma blankets the entire mid-area of the Village. Those overcome by the aroma stagger over to the establishment for a pound of this or that.

The Supreme Coffee & Tea Company, 51 Prince Street at Mulberry, in SoHo, is run by a wonderful character named Mae Guariglio. Every morning she fires up her roaster in the front of her tiny shop and produces the single blend she's been selling for years. It's a mixture of Colombian, Brazilian, Mexican and Central American coffees. And she roasts it both American style (for breakfast) and Italian style (for espresso). The American roast is $1.45 a pound; the Italian is $1.55. A really fine coffee, certain to please most tastes.

SKIPPER'S MATES

A PEN-PAL MAGAZINE
FOR GAY MEN

Every issue of SKIPPER'S MATES is chock-full of personal ads from men seeking new friends and correspondents in all areas of the USA, in Canada, and around the world. If you wish to make friends with other guys, come join our gay crew and discover how you can do it—with SKIPPER'S MATES! For details on subscribing and on placing an ad—plus a copy of our current issue—send $1 to: Skipper's Guides, Dept. A-6, P.O. Box 92, Danville, Kentucky 40422. You must state that you are over age 21.

"Come Cruise with the Skipper" it up here. A swinging group of Volunteers.

Kibbutz Hazerim. Hair grows longer here . . . some fem-gay types. More hippily gay-oriented. Volunteer Groups. Both the kibbutzim just mentioned are a 10-minute bus ride from Beersheba. This is mentioned here because a little deeper in the Negev from Beersheba the scenery is like that of The Painted Desert of the American West. Fantastic, especially at sunset. A very friendly masculine atmosphere at Kibbutz Revuim in the Negev. Lots of bi-guys and closet clientele.

Kibbutz Ramat Rachel. This is actually within the city limits of Jerusalem. Groovy Volunteers; youth hostel on grounds—very popular with young gay travelers. This is the only kibbutz in Israel located within a municipal boundary. Bus #7 from Jerusalem takes you there. This is a good way to see what life in a kibbutz is like before committing yourself to a lengthy stay. Come out for a day.

Kibbutz Gezer, located near Ramle where Israel's finest organic fruits and vegetables are grown. Delicious meals that shouldn't be missed. Lots of gay dudes and friendly straights who groove to gays. From Ben-Gurion Airport or Petach-Tikva catch the Egged bus #249 to Ramle. At the Ramle Central Bus Station take a local bus to the kibbutz.

Kibbutz Einat, near Petach-Tikva. This is the area in which Jack Bernstein lives and operates his gay travel-tour and "special services" agency. It has a shoe and boot factory. So save your money until you get here . . . you can buy all you want at wholesale prices! A friendly kibbutz with lots of active gay guys. Dan lines bus #82 from Central Bus Station in Petach-Tikva will whisk you here.

Kibbutz Givat Hashlash is only a 10-minute bus ride on Bus #77 from Petach-Tikva. Friendly bunch of guys. Popular with extreme-masculines, as well as with other gay guys. Volunteer Groups. Sandal factory . . . also get them at wholesale prices. The food served in this kibbutz, along with its rugged gay guys, makes a visit to Givat Hashlash an enlivening experience. You can catch Bus #77 from Central Bus Station, or anywhere along Rehov Stampfer.

Kibbutz Hanita is on the Lebanese border. Fine Ulpan; Volunteer Group; youth hostel (very popular with young gays); swimming pool; and a guest house with a bar and a fantastic restaurant. Older gay guys will love this place. Highly recommended.

Beit Nir. This kibbutz is near Kiryat Gat. Not as many gay guys as bisexuals. If this is your scene you'll have come to the right place! Moreover, just a 45-minute bus ride from here is Ashkelon, with a gay scene that must be seen to be believed! Two kibbutzim are located near this gay Ashkelon area. They are Yad Mordechai Negba and Bror Hayil. Heavily mixed groups in both. Since this is in the Gaza Strip which was Egyptian until 1967, the Army and Police advise that the area is safe by day but risky at night. Take care! Yad Mordechai Nega has a museum. Both kibbutzim have colorful markets and fabulous fish restaurants.

Kibbutz Ein Shemer. Lots of blond Scandinavian gay Volunteers in this friendly place located in the Hills of Menashe near Pardess-Hanna. Lots of Ulpan students. On Friday and Saturday nights this kibbutz really takes off!

Gesher Haziv. A large kibbutz only 1 kilometer south of Eli Avivi's "Achzivland" . . . that swinging gay area described in detail in the June 1975 issue of QQ Magazine. It's also just 3 kilometers north of Nahariya. Founded in 1949 by American pioneers, this "Gay Disneyland," as it is fondly called, boasts many Volunteers; Ulpan; youth hostel; swimming pool; an excellent restaurant and a motel-style guest house popular with Liberace types.

Kibbutz Sasa is the 'meat rack' of the Galilee. Also started by some American settlers. Join the Volunteer Work Group here and you'll meet many gay tourists who take the free Architecture & Garden Tour which the kibbutz offers to visitors—gay and straight.

Kibbutz Sa'ar. Five minutes from Central Station in Nahariya by bus brings you to this 'fruit bowl' of Galilee. Great group of mod Volunteers. Some gay gals too.

Kibbutz Shomrot is only a 10-minute bus ride from Acre (Akka) via the Egged #271 bus. If outdoor fun, the occult, uniforms and butch guys are your thing, then be sure to volunteer for this kibbutz.

In addition to these kibbutzim and the gay life of each, be sure to read the Personal Column of the Jerusalem Post. In that way you'll have touched all bases of gay life in Israel. You won't have a dull moment in your entire stay!

Very likely the easiest way to get acquainted with kibbutzim life is to do it experimentally via a day or two at a guest house. Many gay guys do it this way . . . as a kind of vacation 'retreat'. Also Lesbians and bisexuals 'dip the pinky in' this way. Often older gay guys come with their young lovers for a weekend as do many gay married couples. So for detailed they show free movies. Mixed gay types. Hours are from noon to 4 a.m. daily and on Saturday until 5.

Finocchio's, 1440 N. Wells. This is a drag-show bar which straights think is an all-girlie bar. Although this isn't really a gay bar, some gays go here for laughs and watch the drags tease the straights and hustle drinks from them. There is a two-drink minimum at $2.50 each.

Our Den, 1355 N. Wells St. This is a nice dance bar with good lighting and sound. Deejay on weekends. There is also an entrance charge of $1 on weekends.

Butterfly, 1437 N. Wells. Unlike Our Den, this bar is small and quiet and a nice place to relax and be yourself. Food is served. Dancing.

Le Pub, 1944 N. Clark (North Park Hotel). This is fast becoming the place for the elegant. Prime location and first-class entertainment. Friendly crowd. Hours are from 4 p.m. to 4 a.m. daily—until 5 Saturday.

Book Store

Over-Twenty-One Book Store, 1347 N. Wells. This is supposed to be the most active book store in the area. There are gay 25-cent movies and open cruising. One dollar entrance fee, refundable with a purchase.

Movies

Bijou, 1349 N. Wells. Movies are strictly gay. Open from noon to midnight. Usual cruising in the theater. Admission is $4.

Outdoor Cruising

Wells Street still has a little cruising, but for serious outside cruising there is the nearby Lincoln Park. The two johns in the park are the field house (basement, not the first floor) by the ball diamond near La Salle Drive and Clark Street, and the john at Armitage and Clark behind the museum and in front of the lagoon. Both johns have heavy action from gays and vice. It is wise to use common sense here and avoid the park at night. The walk area between both johns can be very tempting at night, but also dangerous.

NEAR NORTH

This is the area which has always remained the most elegant section of the city, and some of the more fabulous hotels and restaurants and bars are here. Rush Street for years has been the center for nightclubs and good, off-Broadway-type shows. The area stretches from around Superior Street north to North Avenue, and from Lake Shore Drive west to La Salle Street. The gay bars here, though, can be anything from raunchy to elegant.

Bars

The Trip, 27 East Ohio. There are rumors that this one is going out of business but management told me that they've renewed their lease. So I don't know what the facts are. Nevertheless, it still attracts many gays and is one of those three-floor super bars. Food. Dancing. Entertainment from 10:30 p.m. onward. Closed Monday. Hours: 4 p.m. to 2 a.m. daily, and to 3 a.m. Saturday.

Baton, 436 N. Clark. This is a very nice show bar, and there's a $2 cover charge to see the show at 10 p.m. (earlier on Sunday). Nice gay crowd. Reservations necessary if you want a table. Dancing

Dugan's Bistro, 420 N. Dearborn St. This is another super bar which attracts a very hip and humpy crowd. On weekends there is a comedy drag show from 11 p.m. on. Open daily from 4 p.m. to 4 a.m. daily, and to 5 on Saturday. A popular cruise bar. Dancing. Deejay. Cover charge of $1 Friday/Saturday.

Gold Coast, 501 N. Clark. This is the leather bar in the city, so the usual S&M types hurry here for their amusements. There are also two bars downstairs—the Pit and Beer Cell bars; also the Leather Cell Shop (usual leather and toys). On Sundays at 5 and 10 p.m. there are free movies. No dancing. The bar opens at 4 p.m. daily. On Sunday at 2 p.m.

Kitty Sheen's, 745 Rush St. This is where to go if you are young and attractive and looking for someone older to pay your bills. The crowd has elegance, so they think, and coat and tie are a must on Friday and Saturday nights. Casual clothes are permitted during the other days, but never shorts. Hours are from 4 p.m. to 4 a.m. weekdays, and to 5 on Saturday.

New Jamie's, 1110 Clark St. A very rough crowd of hustlers come here, and it isn't recommended to anyone who doesn't know the rules of their games. Hours are from 7 a.m. to 4 a.m. daily, and to 5 a.m. Saturday.

Ritz Bar, 937 N. State St. This is primarily black hustler and rough trade. Hours are noon to 4 a.m. daily and to 5 Saturday. Dancing.

Nite Life, 935 N. State. This attracts the same crowd as the Ritz next door. Many straights head here to see the drag show which begins at 10 p.m. Same hours as the Ritz.

King's Ransom, 20 E. Chicago Ave. A very pleasant bar with a fireplace and friendly people to warm you up on cold nights. Open from noon to 4 a.m. daily, and until 5 on Saturday. Cocktail hour: noon to 8 p.m. daily.

Haig, 800 N. Dearborn Parkway. This bar has been around for years and it still draws from all over the city. All types drift in and out of here. It is across the street from the Lawson YMCA and a block from Bug House Square, so you can really get some losers! Open daily from noon to 4 a.m. and until 5 on Saturday.

Sunday's, 430 N. Clark St. This is a very popular bar and there's frequently a line to enter. A varied crowd and a campy front keep this bar swinging. You can't miss it; the bar stands out like a neon sign. Hours are from 3 p.m. to 4 a.m. daily and until 5, Saturday. Dancing. Dazzling light show. Admission charge on weekends. Films on Monday night.

Baths

Club Baths, 609 N. La Salle Street. It's part of the national chain and membership is required. Rooms and lockers are $7. No specials.

Wacker Health Club, (Wacker Hotel) 674 N. Clark St. This is the dirtiest of the three baths in Chicago. Saturday night is supposed to be the best night. $5 for four hours. Membership. Sponsorship necessary.

Movies

Newberry Theatre, 856 N. Clark St. They are still supposed to show good gay movies. The theatre can be wild, but reports are still out that the hustlers can be rough here. Admission is $4. Hours from noon to midnight.

Outdoor Cruising

Washington Square in front of the Newberry library between Clark and Dearborn, in the 900 block, is the place to go if you like trash. Often called Bug House Square, everything can be found here, but the majority is the type you don't invite home.

Oak Street Beach is still popular along Oak and Lake Shore Drive. This is where to come for sunbathing and general cruising. Many of the elegant gays of the Near North head here.

Hotels

Lawson YMCA at Dearborn and Chicago. This particular Y has always been favored by gays over the downtown Wabash Y. The usual activity can be found here, and it's very close to everything.

Crystal Hotel, 1110 N. Clark St. If you want to head somewhere for a quickie, this is the place. It's in the same building as Jamie's. Prices are $10 for a single or double. Showers are located on each floor. Rates for a single by the week are $35, and for a double $45.

DOWNTOWN

Downtown turns black when the offices close at night. The big movie theatres that once showed top first-run films now show only Black exploitation movies. Therefore most Whites stay away from the area.

Bar

Town and Country, in the basement of the Palmer House Hotel. This is a coat-and-tie bar that attracts the usual ribbon clerks and businessmen during cocktail hour.

Outdoor Cruising

Grant Park between Randolph and Monroe Streets is very cruisy, but it isn't recommended. It gets rough at night. The area to walk, if this is what you like, is along the walkway by the Illinois Central Railroad tracks.

Johns

The Greyhound Bus Station at Clark and Randolph gets the usual crowd and deserves the usual caution. Marshall Field's (any john of the downtown store) can be cruisy, as well as the basement john of Carson's. The john in the I.C. Station at Randolph and Michigan is busy, especially during rush hour. And finally, there is the Art Institute, but the cruising in the museum is not sufficient to warrant a trip. If you are here to see a show, then by all means keep your eyes open.

Movies

Monroe Theater, 57 W. Monroe is where to go for straight porno films. There is some activity in the basement john (mostly Black), but be alert . . . vice!

For those who like the 25-cent peep shows there are several on South State Street below Van Buren Street and across from Sears. You can expect the usual activity here.

SOUTHSIDE

I don't recommend the Southside because it is mostly poor and rough, except for a few nice areas here and there. The only two bars worth mentioning are the High Chapparral Night Club at 7740 S. Stony Island, and Chain Liquor and Lounge at 7860 S. Cottage Grove. Both attract Blacks.

That's about it for Chicago. Check it out soon.

Soul City Symphony (which, in fact, is symphony-related, having a passel of strings, clarinet, piano, horns, small percussion instruments, drum, guitar, bass and, of course, the Moog). Other selections—there are five on each side—bear such fascinating names as Get Dancin', Turn This

HOT ROD

Fill 'er up and shove 'er in! No fuel shortage with HOT ROD... a little warm water goes a long way to tingle your dingle. Realistically shaped. Ideal size (7½" long by 1½" diameter, not including spout and screw cap). Made of smooth, soft plastic that has absolutely no rough edges or seams. Flesh-colored. Completely washable.

Hapenis

HAPENIS is just a thing called juice... 8 ounces of delicious (it really tastes good!) and aromatic lubricant. The dick slick comes in two yummy flavors (for those who like to switch!)—Strawberry or Pineapple/Coconut (please specify when ordering). Its usable container is shaped like a penis (9" long by 1½" diameter). Made of smooth plastic. May be used while still full or fill with warm water when empty... it's sensational! Because HAPENIS is so unusual it makes an ideal gift too.

Abner country-dance style. Rest it on an angle—heel on the floor, toes in the air. (This works terrifically when you're wearing high-platform shoes!) Now with a slightly snooty look, tilt your head and torso to the left.

Step 2: Return to basic position with feet, torso and head facing your partner.

Step 3: Now turn your right foot out to the side and rest it on an angle, with the heel on the floor and toes in the air. (Same procedure as with the left foot.)

Step 4: Return to basic position, feet, torso and head facing your partner.

Step 5: Step forward on your left foot (directly forward).

Step 8: Start again. Naturally your partner does just the opposite (right foot instead of left, and so on). The pattern therefore is two long steps on the beat, then three quick steps which are one-half beat apiece.

From here you either continue the basic pattern for a time, or you go into some kind of pelvic thrust or 'flash a moon' movement, or other wild variation that will add spice to the dance. It's really easy to master, and fun to do (even oldsters are getting into the swing of it... the Hustle having made contact dancing popular again). Once you've begun to add your own variations you'll bring the house down!

Do it! Do it! Do the Hustle! It's disco... baby!

SEXUAL FOCUS

straights are concerned, who would have thought ten years ago that certain California and Ohio TV stations would be discussing and demonstrating the condom and its use in a program directed to teenagers? This program is due to be repeated on many other stations shortly and it is not the money-grubbing idea of some production manager. It is the sexual-sociologist still hard at work, doing for population control what civic authorities and churchmen will not.

Dr. Mary Calderone, founder of SIECUS, the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States—herself a pioneer in sex education—has said: "Human sexuality is a health entity. I now see in this country a strong core of people in all the professions and in the public for whom the word 'sexuality' has acquired a great meaning; people I never would have met five years ago. Those people do not think of sex as just a series of genital acts, but something that plays an integral part in all our relationships, not just in bed. It is the key to our being.

"We're still a strongly antisex society. Fundamentally, we're scared and still trying to repress others. But in the end, nobody can legislate for another human being. We can have no moral policemen... not even parents. Some of the most sexually active teenagers I've met have been the children of clergy.

"We won't have civil rights until we have sexual human rights, until we understand, for instance, that the homosexual is not a rapist nor someone who chose his orientation at age 14 or 15. We won't have civil rights until we have adequate contraceptive care for people of all ages about all phases of sex."

That's what our sex-education pioneers have been, and still are doing. They have faced-down all adversaries and we are the beneficiaries of their tireless 'clinical' research, whose graphs/percentages/ratios are not blackboard statistics because they deal only with the human equation. They deserve our admiration and thanks.

and the effect is equally good since the heat is dry and steady. Saunas for the home come prefabricated in several sizes and can be quickly assembled. One should be careful to select a kind or grade of wood-interior that will not shrink. It must be snug so that the inside heat will not escape, nor the graduated balance of heat will not be affected by drafts of air coming in from the outside.

A sauna accommodating one can cost as little as $450; a two-seater will run about $800; and saunas accommodating four persons will usually run about $1,500. Along with the sauna you should receive a proper stove and instruments that measure both heat and humidity. Your local department store's bathroom shop will likely have these on display, or will have helpful information about where to get one; or they will be glad to order one for you. Or you might wish to write the following importers/manufacturers for a brochure. Arctic Sauna Corporation, 976 Route 22, Busch Gardens. All water sports as well, including pedal-boating. Its one disappointment is that pets are not permitted, even on leash. An all-ages nudist haven with lots of gay-young and gay-healthy guys.

Solair Recreation League, P.O. Box 187, Southbridge, Mass. 01550, is a delightful place in Yankee-land. Just 65 miles from Boston, this nudist haven has everything previously mentioned except community kitchen and automatic laundry. There are hundreds of wooded acres to explore, with swimming, boating and fishing in a private lake. Beach and bods. In addition to private rooms and trailer hookups there is tenting space for campers. Low weekly and monthly rates. Telephone: (203) 928-6734. It's open from June until September 15.

Timberline Lodge, P.O. Box 50145, Nashville, Tennessee 37206. This is midway the Eastern Seaboard. A beautiful place with all the conveniences earlier mentioned except that there are no cooking facilities in cabins or trailer rentals. Excellent restaurant, however. The cabins do not have showers, but there is a community shower that's very cozy and convivial. Open from May till September. Pets permitted on leash.

MIDWESTERN SUNBATHING ASSOCIATION

The address of this Association is P.O. Box 1308, Elkhart, Indiana 46514. It includes the states of Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota and North Dakota.

Kan-Tan Club, P.O. Box 283, Burlington, Kansas 66839. The telephone number is (316) 964-8210. This park is open all year long and has comfortable cabins without bath, but with cooking facilities and linens furnished. No single rooms. Trailer space, camping space, hot showers and community kitchen. No laundry. Pets are not permitted, however. It's not far from Emporia and is quite popular. A little more primitive than others, but interesting for those in the Midwest who would like a nudist-park connection nearby.

Woodland Acres, RR #1, Box 77C, Geneseo, Illinois 61254. Phone: (309) 658-2474. This is seasonal, open from May until September. Has comfortable cabins with cooking facilities but without bath. No trailer rental. Single rooms. Trailer space. Camping area. Hot showers. Community kitchen but no laundry. Swimming and all sports. In the broad general area of Rockford, Illinois and Des Moines, Iowa.

NORTHWESTERN SUNBATHING ASSOCIATION

Fraternity Snoqualmie, P.O. Box 985, Seattle, Wash. 98111. Near Seattle, this popular place has cabins that are heated, but without bath. Trailer space. Camping facilities. Hot showers. Snack bar. All sports, sauna, recreation building. Open all year. Pets welcomed if on leash.

Restful Haven Health Club, P.O. Box 1147, Portland, Oregon 97207. Phone: (503) 253-6542. Quite near Portland, this nudist haven has cabins, but without heat or bath. Trailer space, camping area. Hot showers. Snack bar. All sports including swimming in a heated pool. Sauna. Recreation Building. Pets welcome.

WESTERN SUNBATHING ASSOCIATION

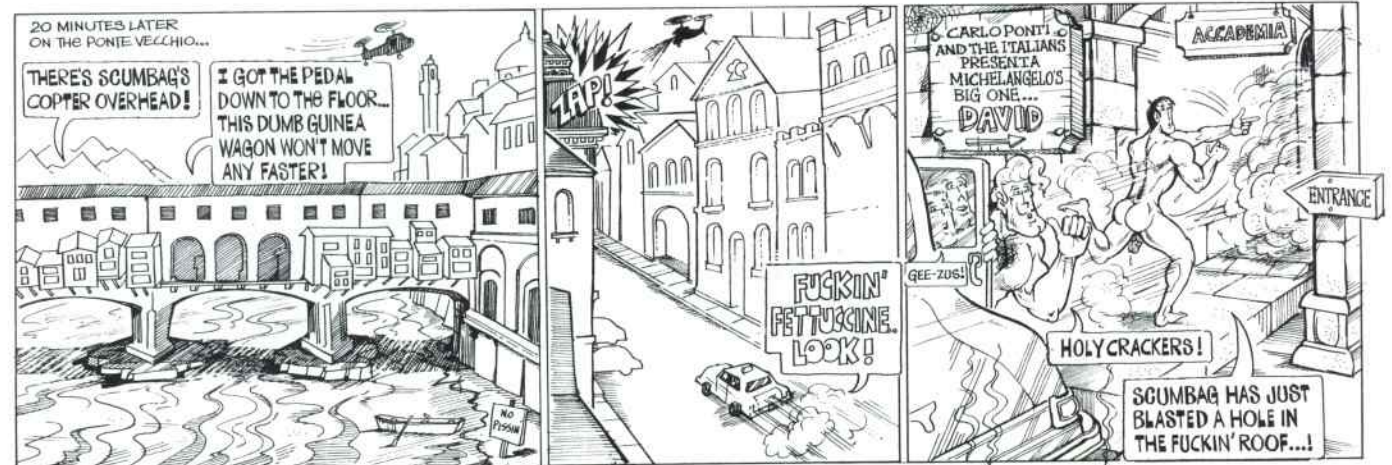

Contact this Association at P.O. Box 365, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250. It includes the states of California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, Colorado and New Mexico.

Shangri-La Guest Ranch, Box 324, Black Canyon Stage, Phoenix, Arizona 85020. Phone: (602) 465-9976. In the Flagstaff/Prescott area, not far from Phoenix. Cabins without bath, but heated, with cooking facilities and linens. Trailer rental with cooking facilities and linens, also heated. Rooms heated, without bath. Trailer space with electricity, water, sewer hookup and disposal station. Camping site. Hot showers. Community kitchen. Snack Bar. All sports plus sauna. Open all year. Pets welcome.

Tan Oaks Park, P.O. Box 6141, San Jose, California 95125. Phone: (408) 356-1882. In the San Jose/Watsonville area. This has cabins with bath, but no cooking facilities. No trailer rental. Trailer space with water, electricity, sewer hookup and disposal station. Hot showers. Camping space with electricity and water. Snack bar. Heated simming pool, and all sports. No sauna. Recreation building. Open all year. No pets permitted.

These are only a few of the many excellent nudist areas across the land. We mention them now—indicating some that are open all year as well as seasonal ones—so that you can visit a nudist haven of your choice either during your winter vacation, or make your plans well in advance for a spring/summer visit. Please be sure to contact the American Sunbathing and into the anus. This is a contagious infection and your body's antibodies have a hard time getting rid of it because it tends to retreat to the nerve cells to 'rest up' for another go at you. There is presently no antibiotic that works effectively on this unique virus. Experiments, however, are proving that a dye applied to the lesions and then exposed to ordinary light deactivates the virus. (This is unlike the methylene blue dye used in the Dye-Light Therapy for genital warts/blisters which works only under fluorescent light.) In the meantime, the best therapy is scrupulous genital hygiene, plus an upped intake of Vitamin C in 1,000-mg. tablets to assist the white blood cells in overcoming disease. Natural Harvest Vitamin C in this potency, available from the QQ Publishing Company, Inc., is most effective.

Chancroids are soft sores or ulcers on the genitals . . . lesions produced by an infection with Hemophilus ducreyi, and are venereal in origin. The lesions are multiple and painful and involve swelling of the lymph nodes. These are different from syphilitic chancre, which is harder and caused by a spirochete. Chancroids are caused by bacteria. You'll want to see your doctor about this.

Candida Albicans is a fungus disease that invades the vagina of the female. It may invade other mucous-membrane tissue as well. Although a female disease, consider the poor bisexual. A gay individual is not likely to be turned on by the bisexual who has been poking around in a fungus-filled vagina. Even though no actual harm may result, the thought is distinctly unpleasant.

Lymphogranuloma Venereum is also a viral disease that causes sores in the genital region, and, in the male, enlargement of the lymph nodes in the groin. Symptomatically one first notices a lesion on the genitalia, then regional lymph-node enlargement. See your doctor. The organism is revealed as being somewhat similar to those causing psittacosis (parrot fever), and trachoma . . . the latter a serious eye infection.

Granuloma Inguinale is a chronic, progressive disease that involves the skin and lymphatics, marked by small, round swellings in the groin area. Venereal in origin. Have it checked.

There are nuisance diseases or infections that are sexually transmitted; these, of course, are pubic lice or 'crabs', and scabies, an inflammation caused by a mite. Specialists say they're seeing more cases of these every day . . . more evidence of carelessness in sex pursuit as sexual barriers fall. Watchful hygiene is important in overcoming these nuisances. If you'll refer to The Homosexual Health Guidebook, published by QQ Publishing Company, Inc., you'll find simple techniques that work effectively in getting rid of crabs.

We have not dealt with an important member of the Big Three—hepatitis. This is (1) too involved for a capsule comment, and (2) many articles about recognizing and treating hepatitis have appeared in QQ Magazine. It is a most serious and debilitating disease resulting not only from unhygienic sex, but by reason of many other factors. Physicians now tell us it is possible to acquire the disease by using the same rectal thermometer used by an infected person!

Yet it is important to repeat that the cause of hepatitis is a virus—the same virus causing both infectious (mouth-to-anus/tongue-in-rectum), and serum (via needle, syringe, and now thermometer) hepatitis.

The classic early-on symptoms mimic those of the common cold. Next come weakness, fever, nausea, vomiting, headache and pain over the liver (under the right front ribs), and possibly—although not always at this stage—jaundice (noticed first in the whites of the eyes). From this point you will have constant consultations with your doctor. You may be sure he'll insist on your taking certain Spartan measures, and you can count on a period of from 4 to 6 months before recovery is complete.

As you see, the spectrum of STD is growing apace with the rise of bisexuality. Before this appears in print there may be another fragmentation to add to your string of sexual worry beads. It is with the idea of keeping you healthy by keeping you abreast of the sexual times that we frequently point out mine-fields along the gay way. We hope you will take time to observe, to feel out, and—when in doubt—to tip-toe around them lest you make waves. And never take anything for granted. Stay well!
