How To Get The Most From Your Flight

By David Bartel

Although we are sixty years into commercial aviation, an era that has seen the virtual abandonment of our sea-lanes, and the rusting of our rails, many veteran travelers who have been flying for years continue to approach air travel with the indecision of a backward glance . . . still thinking 'train' rather than 'plane', and flying 'timetable' rather than 'equipment'.

Of course this is understandable when one does considerable shuttle-flying in the course of inter-city business—the flight schedule must take precedence over amenities. But one's vacation flight, which make take one thousands of miles across country and world, should be planned with the happier view to comfort and convenience, rather than of slavish schedule conformance. You know the saying, when you've missed your bus: "Oh well, another will be along in a minute." Planes are like that, too.

In view of the new economy trend—the 'no frills' flights (which, in many cases are becoming 'no anything' flights)—how to get where you're going with the greatest amount of comfort and the least amount of inconvenience is paramount.

Air travelers of yesterday—particularly gay travelers—may shed a nostalgic tear for the loss of elegance resulting from the demise of the huge piston-driven planes of the late '40s and early '50s, such as the Boeing Stratocruiser. Then, for example, one made the trek to London preferably by night because the night flight was invariably a rollicking sky-high society affair. Indeed there was dancing in the aisles!

The Stratocruiser had been converted from, or modeled on, plans of the big bombing planes of World War II. It was palatially cavernous—like the Waldorf-Astoria ballroom. Among other delights it had a convivial stand-up, cruise-around bar; beautiful table settings (fresh flowers on every table; wines for every course); inspired gourmet cooking done in a fully-equipped galley, and ordered by individual choice from an extensive menu ('thaw 'n jaw' frozen dinners, plunked down on a back-of-seat tray had not been thought of); and there was live entertainment (at least a cocktail pianist with much group singing around him).

Best of all, there was an upper deck, and this was one's flying hotel room at night . . . wide and comfortable berths that made up for (a) an untroubled snooze across the briny, or (b)—if gay guys were discreet—a mini-orgy. Of course the London flight took nearly twelve hours because of necessary stops in Gander, Newfoundland and, often, if the going had been a bit rough, in Shannon, for refueling.

Also one could fly in bedroom comfort from sea to shining sea in the United States via the Douglas Sleeper Transport. Flying on this plane everyone was a V.I.P. One got individual treatment of a very high order. It may be said with much truth that this plane administered the coup de grace to the railroad Pullman as far as cross-country travel was concerned. Why days of boredom across farmland/farmland when in hours one could be in Tinsel Town?

Alas, such planes brought their airlines to the brink of bankruptcy. In 1958 we were into the jet age after a somewhat harrowing interval of prop-jet plane travel (no doubt you'll recall the many crashes of the Lockheed Electra, apparently the result of an uncontrollable wing vibration . . . a wing frequently fell off). Anyway, we can get anywhere fast, and the need for air berths is rendered academic. Although some flights such as those from Honolulu to Melbourne, Sydney or Noumea, are so long that passengers grow restless and bored, and snooze space would be welcome, all other flights are so short one doesn't have time to get bored.

THE 707 PLANES

Seventeen years ago Boeing placed its first 707 in service. In it were some overtones of the Stratocruiser . . . comfortable forward lounges that made a change of scene possible for the traveler with growing ennui. Then too, airlines had not completely forgotten their table etiquette, and passengers were treated to baskets of fresh fruit and mints. There's nothing like mints to give one a little lift . . . they have the metabolic function of quickly raising the blood-sugar level and generating a temporary perk-up, with-it energy. And so, with more m.p.h the hours slipped by faster. Moreover, the 707s had jack-rabbits for ancestors because they could leap over incredible spaces where turbulence and extreme weather changes would have delayed the Stratocruisers, which were not easily maneuverable. Also, the forward lounge could be shared by several, and one could ride in heavenly glory . . . thrilled by the head-on panorama of sky and earth and myriad colors, like a kind of personal wide-range Cinerama.

Also, such luxury was not for long. The forward lounges became mere storage space for the galley steward and his potables . . . mixological equipment for round after round of profitable cocktails. Flight attendants also used this space to store their gear. Next, one noticed, the beautiful couches had sometimes been ripped out—particularly on planes detailed to densely-populated vacation areas such as Puerto Rico . . . or from—so many Puerto Ricans having decided to live on the mainland. And so more cocktails/passengers, more revenue.

THE DC-8 AND ITS TRIBE

McDonnell Douglas followed the 707 with its DC-8. It was put into use by United Air Lines in 1959. The DC-8 was the first plane to fly at supersonic speed. On a long flight it can average about 634 miles per hour. If you are traveling in Europe—country to country—or from Europe to one of the 'emerging nations' such as Outer Babboonia, very likely you will ride a DC-8 of some airline. Both Alitalia and KLM like them very much. By the way, KLM pampers its DC-8 passengers with their rijsttafel (a buffet of Indonesian rice dishes . . . delightful!).

On many other DC-8 European airlines, however, you will do well to get a tourist apple! It is said that even the ham-handed can fly a DC-8, it's so maneuverable. So examine your airline schedule. See if your flight is DC-8. Go, and travel with confidence. The seating in tourist will be three abreast . . . and in the smaller first-class cabin, two abreast. While the DC-8 and its slightly roomier DC-8 'stretch jet' have by no means displaced the wide-bodied jets in European travel, they are quite common and are infinitely preferred by more seasoned air travelers than the big kids.

THE VC-10

You'll recognize this excellent plane by its extraordinarily high tail assembly. Its four Rolls-Royce engines are the rear of the fuselage and produce a cruising speed in excess of 580 m.p.h. If you're traveling Economy Class from London to the continent you'll have 123 companions, and only 16 in first-class. The powerful Rolls-Royce engines can lift the plane off the ground in 35 seconds—faster by far than most American planes.

THE 747

A bold venture in aviation occurred in 1970 with the block-long 747 jet by Boeing. One look inside and you're swimming in a sea of seats. It is in length, breadth and capacity much as the old Queen Elizabeth was to ocean travelers. Overpowering.

Here again there are overtones of Boeing's Stratocruiser. There's a passenger club arrangement with most of the first-class seats situated singly by the windows. Lots of stretch room . . . get-up-and-go room. There are open bars, as in the Stratocruiser, and an upper deck for lounging—not berth-like for sleeping. The upper deck acts more or less as a change of scene for Act II of a play. Same characters/different venue. You can meet hordes of interesting numbers by playing 'musical decks' on a 747 . . . friendships that may be rewarding in many other ways once you've reached your destination. Sabena and Air France 747s also have a bar on the upper deck. Nice deep chairs for snoozing. And you can come up here and get away from the inevitable movies you've already seen. The only good thing to be said for the down-deck movies is that all the lights on the deck are extinguished, so if you have an interesting seat partner then's the time to explore the relationship more tactfully . . . and 'tactilely'. Travel on a 747 is an experience you'll never forget. It's a little like being in Notre Dame, Radio City Music Hall and the Houston Astrodome at the same time!

Pan Am also has a pleasant gimmick for you if you travel on its 747s. You may be invited to dine at tables on the upper deck, rather than tray-style below. Again, a few of the amenities of the Stratocruiser. (Or how sentimental can an airline be?) Generally this courtesy is extended to parties/families of four or more. Same fine old china, silver, and wines of the Stratocruiser. Don't expect this on other airlines; and, given Pan Am's current financial difficulties, don't count on it from them much longer!

If you ride the newer 747SR, you will likely regret it because you will be mired in midair with others in ten-seats-across discomfort. Think 'tourist' because the 747SR was designed to carry 500 sardine-type passengers. It is okay for a relatively short flight. If you are at all claustrophobic, however, wait . . . tomorrow is another day!

THE DC-10

This is a Douglas 'wide body'. Smaller than the 747, it carries 250 passengers in first-class and tourist arrangements. No passenger is more than one seat from the aisle. Forward in first-class there are deep lounge chairs. Also an upper deck. This plane appears on some airlines as a 380-passenger coach. Check your airline schedule to find out about this. American Airlines likes this plane; so do Northwest, Swissair, SAS and Japan Air Lines. It gets a lot of people where they're going . . . and in solid comfort—however without frills—safely and fast.

LOCKHEED TRI-STAR

Like the DC-10, Lockheed's Tri-Star is wide-bodied, with three jet engines. Comfortable; spacious; two lengthwise aisles; under-deck kitchen with infrared equipment that will broil you the tastiest filet mignon in seconds. A pleasure to ride this fine plane, but unfortunately they haven't hewed to their original model which had a men's lavatory accommodating four gropy guys at the same time! Pity.

BOEING 727

This plane is the most commonly-seen trijet in Europe, Asia and the United States. As wide as a 707, a short-haul variation appeared in elongated form. The largest carries 189 passengers for distances up to 3,000 miles. The shorter is usually seen as a turnabout plane for short-haul distances. Like shuttles between Washington and New York. You'll find its European (British, especially) counterpart in the BAC 111.

THE CONCORDE

If you'd rather float than fly, it's expected that the Concorde will soon waft you through the sound barrier at 1200 miles per hour! New York to Paris in 3 hours, 20 minutes; Los Angeles to Tokyo in just a smidge over 6 hours! It'll be just the plane for gay guys who want to make the Carnaval do Rio next year. Zoom in, zoom out. But then, don't we all? The Concorde is being hassled by the bureaucrats just now, but once it's permitted to take off it's certain to make aviation history!

CITY IN THE SKY

"When does this place arrive in New York?" is the classic remark of Beatrice Lillie when she boarded the old (then brand new) Queen Elizabeth, the largest ship ever built which, alas, now rests at the bottom of Hong Kong harbor. Air travel may elicit much the same remark if, as expected, dirigible flights are resumed. After the tragic loss by fire of the Hindenburg in 1937, dirigible travel was given up as a commercial venture. Now plans are again on the drawing board. Possibly in two years you'll be miles high in a soundless carrier, acting very much as if it were an entire city (which, in fact, it will be), and you were cruising its streets.

The dirigible is, of course, for long flights. It would have no practical value for flights of less than 2000 miles. It will combine all the amenities of a giant ocean liner—shops, promenades, bars, dining rooms, lounges, ball-room, cabaret, gym, sauna—with everything in view of the heavens and the heavens in view of you. Here's a special Ciao! tip to readers: keep a lookout for the appearance of dirigible stock on the market . . . invest, if you can . . . the dirigible may be the best blue-chip stock of the last twenty years!

New safety devices are now being tested. Better, less vulnerable gas containers are being tried out. Although the dirigible will not fly at the speed of sound, its silence, its freedom from vibration, and its communion with the heavens over a longer period of flight, plus solid comfort and dreamless sleep, will make it the way to travel over long distances. Travel by dirigible won't be just a flight . . . but an unforgettable experience!

Padre Island

Plus Tips On
Corpus Christi
& Galveston

Will It Have A Fire Island Future?

By Walter Norris

New York's Fire Island and big Padre Island off the east coast of Texas have several things in common. At the moment, however, the principal March/April 1976 similarity is not a thriving gay sex life, but topography. Both are serpentine sandbars lying lazily in the sun, their faces turned languorously to a vast expanse of water—the Atlantic Ocean . . . the Gulf of Mexico—while their backsides nestle cozily in bays separating them from the mainland. Although no discernible gay sex profile emerges anywhere on Padre just now, if gay Texas dudes who have come to know this exciting new Eden have their way it's possible it will see a large gay colony in action before long.

Right now Padre Island is in a state of flux. Having lain primitively dormant since the days of the Conquistadores, it is now being feverishly explored from tip to tip by those who find its ceaseless contrasts fascinating. Fishermen would like to keep it as a feudal deep-sea preserve . . . surfers see in its erratic coastal waves a kind of Endless Summer West . . . while hunters would like to lock up all the unslain deer until their coming again. Weekend picnickers love Padre Island so much they'd even like to put the ants on leash. So if gay guys ever get around to staking their claim to a piece of this still-virgin land, who's to say them nay? Our pitch for Padre is this, fellas . . . get on with it! No dilly-dallying. Strike while the libido is at twelve-o'clock high! Let's have some action from you Texas longhorns! Time's a'wastin'.

Fortunately there's room for all, without anyone stepping on another's toes. The Department of the Interior saw to that in 1962 when it declared Padre Island a National Seashore. Even though motels, restaurants, gas stations and other holiday enterprises have sprung up near the gateways to Padre, the island is essentially just as unspoiled as it was many centuries ago. Let's get a picture of it in our minds.

A 'LONG' ISLAND

Actually, Padre Island is so vast it might well have been declared Texas II. It stretches 113 miles in length—from the Corpus Christi area adjacently north, to Port Isabel in the south, near the city of Brownsville, which lies next to the Mexican border. At its widest, Padre stretches 3 miles across, while at some points—like Fire Island—it is only 100 yards wide. Geographically, Padre is categorized as a subtropical barrier island. Its protective white dunes rise like the battle turrets of a medieval fortress . . . at night they shimmer ghostlike in the moonlight. The island is blessed with another natural protection—very dense growths of wild sea-oats act as a shield against the sometime furies of the Gulf when enraged.

The surf all along Padre Island is lovely most of the time; it goes sexily lap-lap-lap against the shore . . . tongue-plunging into the mouths of little coves. All across the island, even at its 113 miles widest, one can feel the tang of sea air; its aroma is distinctly Caribbean, hinting of dark, passionate affairs to come. Recurring tides bring a harvest of exotic objects from the Azores and the Caribbean, The Yucatan and South America. During the day there is the frequent whir of birdwings as hungry gulls dive-bomb from the skies for some of the tasty shrimp that fishermen bring up in their huge nets.

When Mother Nature had created this long umbilical of land she must have looked back and reflected that it was just too long for one island, so she cut it in two. About two-thirds of the way down padre is bisected by the Mansfield Cut—a natural channel. There is no road linking North and South Padre, thus each is actually a separate island taking on the special flavor and characteristics of the populated areas at each end.

SOUTH PADRE

South Padre, near Port Isabel, is reached from the mainland by the new toll-free, $13 million Queen Isabella Causeway. Once across you'll note that it is quite Mexican in flavor, having a little more 'Olé!' than North Padre. At present it is also the more developed. For example, at its southernmost tip is Isla Blanca Park with a boatel, cabanas, overnight shelters, a trailer area as well as a pavilion, bathhouse, cafe and fishing pier.

Beautiful condominiums have also begun springing up, seemingly every day. And attractive motels now line the highway. On the side roads you'll see fantastically-conceived beach houses . . . many of stark, granite-colored wood with asymmetrical tiers and covered roofs, and look for all the world as if Grant Wood, in a prankish modern mood, had painted them. One of the big luxury motels on South Padre, the Bahia Mar, is built in this same style . . . a kind of inverted-clapboard architecture, with balconies and porthole windows looking out on a gorgeous cerulean pool.

Cheek-by-jowl, almost, with such contemporary architecture, you may smile at older beach houses with their 'skirts pulled up to their knees'. Their foundations are stilts to keep them dry during storms/flooding . . . and they will remind you of the celebrated house in the Arthur Hartmann painting, The Hut Built on Fowl's Legs.

If you're in a bizarre 'bazaar' mood, and haven't just come up from South of the Border, an outing to Matamoros, Mexico is a special treat. This is a town of nearly 190,000 and its streets are twistier, turnier and more-get-lost-in than the ancient cowpath-streets of Greenwich Village or The Lanes in Brighton, England. The small streets can barely accommodate an automobile and for all the world you'd think it another Hong Kong. Shop for curios, bargains, good leather, arts and crafts, copper and onyx. Have a drink at the U.S. Bar or

The Texas Bar . . . have some good Mexican food at the Drive In Restaurant, or at the Santa Fe, with its good Chinese food.

With special reference to the dream possibility of a gay sex enclave being established on Padre Island, here's why a gay colony in this area would really swing. So bring along your sextants and divine(ing) rods, fellas, and get the lay of the next

FIRE ISLAND SOUTH?

Think Port Isabel and you simultaneously think Brownsville (the name itself augurs well for such a venture . . . lovely word, so appropriate!). Brownsville is adjacent to Port Isabel and is one of the busiest seaports in the world. Think oil . . . tankers. Then think horny humpies too long aboard ship, and think not few, but hundreds. And think all ages, just to make everyone happy . . . from 18 to post 60. Then think of the Mexicomplexion of Brownsville and its Latin beat. Right there you have a wild mixture ready to zz-z-z. Surely this immediate area is a natural for a Fire Island South.

NORTH PADRE

North Padre is reached from the mainland in the Corpus Christi area via the John F. Kennedy Causeway, or from Aransas Pass. This northern end is quite different . . . for all its target boom it retains much more of its rusticity, yet it features many of the amenities of South Padre's Isla Blanca Park. Nueces County Park has great Gulf swimming, fishing and picnicking. Available also are a cafe, cabanas, bathhouse and other travel/vacation comforts. At Malaquite Beach there is also camping and an observation tower and concession. Going up are lavish beach houses and condominiums/motels. It has been just a little longer in the doing than South Padre.

THE NORTH GAY PROFILE

As far as sketching a gay profile of this area, the big draw would obviously be from the Corpus Christi complex. The term 'complex' is used advisedly because Texas, being what it is—like big-g-gg—and where 'a stone's throw' means something like 100 miles, one thinks not alone of Corpus Christi but of Galveston, farther north and east . . . and Houston, north and west. With individual small aircraft being as common as Volkswagens back East, Texans in this area think 'minutes' from place to place, rather than miles.

So if a gay colony should emerge from this speculation it may well have its roots in such C.C. gay bars as the Chez Paris, 2207 Ayers, and The Box (The Joker), 4950 Ayers. Also please note that the gay texture of this precise spot is enriched by all that young-hungstuff pilot/officer material earning their wings (they already know how to 'fly'!) at the Naval Air Station 10 miles southeast on TEX 358.

Galveston's harbor can berth 50 ocean-going ships at one time. Where Brownsville is oil, Galveston is grain, cotton, cattle, sulphur and some oil. Then too, the merchant seamen who make Galveston's gay bars jump—and who would be such a treasure trove in a Fire Island North—are also quite different from the macho-guys of Brownsville. Humpy, too, but overall a little more youth-oriented. So if a gay colony does take roots somewhere in North Padre it may well have had impetus from entreprenuring guys in such Galveston gay bars as the Fruit Jar, 2214 Mechanic Street (dancing, and good after the beach), or the Paradise at 213 Kepner (dancing, and drag show), and Dirty Sally's, Stewart Beach (daytime). Or at the Kon Tiki Baths, adjoining the gay bar of the same name. Or at the john upstairs at Stewart Beach where the west end is gayly active! Stay at the Lafitte Hotel, 409 Rosenberg. Popular with gay guys, and there's a gay bar downstairs—Robert's Lafitte.

So with such diverse gay venues—and so many guys populating each—plus fast intra-coastal travel being a Texas commonplace, an enterprising prospectus for a possible F.I. North may well be devised for this end of Padre Island. Of course, the Gulf on the east, and the Laguna Madre Coastal Waterway separating Padre from the Texas mainland, are everything to the success of this area. Port Isabel and Corpus Christi are the magnets and gateways through which ever-increasing numbers are drawn to this fascinating island that is so steeped in history . . . where the Conquistadores walked; where Lafitte docked his pirate ships; where Spanish galleons still lie buried with their prizes of gold. In spite of the fact that the Texas Antiquities Act protects such treasure, and penalties are levied against those who would remove a single sovereign or doubloon, some find clandestine excitement in the search.

The real treasure here, however, is peace of mind . . . it's a great 'unwinding' place. Time stands still along its 113 miles, and those long-pent in concrete jungles come here for that special relaxation that nature alone can still provide.

If you are interested in making a swing down Texas way and would like to do some gay exploring, you can get more detailed information about South Padre from the Cameron County Park Board, Box 666, Port Isabel, Texas 78578; and if your interest lies more northerly at the gay entrance at Corpus Christi, write The Corpus Christi Tourist Bureau, Box 1147, Corpus Christi, Texas 78403. Prepare to be delighted!

Sex And Salt-Water Taffy

Gay Life On The Jersey Coast

By Jon Lorrimer

Too many gay guys who opt for a semester of summer sex on the Middle-Atlantic seaboard usually have veered between two points of the compass . . .

March/April 1976

Fire Island, nor' by east, and Atlantic City, sou' by west. In doing so they've managed beautifully to miss some heavy action at other Jersey beaches/capes/coves/harbors. Sorry about that, guys, and just so you won't miss out this summer we'd like to identify some of these lesser-known, but swinging places where lust is lush.

As everyone knows, New Jersey is our most densely populated state. Yet in spite of this it continues to seek even more heavy industry, while its greatest treasure, the priceless commodity of its long expanse of beautiful coastline, has never been fully exploited. Thus it always comes as a blockbusting surprise to discover quaint, colorful, other-century towns that outdiz Disneyland. Drive into Wildwood, for example, and you are instantly in Miami-out-of-Camelot, or perhaps Camelot-into-Miami!

Gay guys with wheels, passing through, are even more surprised. Theygogoggled at all that young stuff floating around in the casual next-to-bare, not realizing that so many Jersey coastal towns are college towns. Quickly they see what they've been missing . . . that there's a helluvalot more to New Jersey than salt-water taffy . . . all those humpy numbers milling about with it all hanging out—either lining up for, or darting off with gay others for a lazy afternoon of summer sex.

Always in such coastal towns those who are not exactly chicken young are at least rooster-cock-a-diddle youthful. It's very likely this is because formality and stiffness crumble in the face of the mighty ocean. In its sky-climbing waves—nature at her most defiant—pretense shows up as the shallow facade it really is. Truly the ocean is a great human leveler—by reducing everything to basics there's little sexual uptightness. And so it's wise to remember that in even the smallest beach town casualness is a lifestyle. Such a town is invariably rife with, and ripe for, sex. Just head for the beach and/or boardwalk. A quick look will get you a quicker trick.

'AUNT LIBERTY'

Actually this sex-besotted Jersey coastline begins at a famous john on Caven Point Beach in Jersey City. Now by no means can Jersey City be 'geographed' into the Middle-Atlantic coastline. We include it here because Caven Point Beach, although technically 'Jersey City', lies directly across from Bedloe's Island, on, and in, the Hudson River which, as you know, is just going to flow into the Atlantic in a few minutes, and from where Aunt Liberty with her torch raised high and a twinkle in her eye looks benignly down on all the goings-on around the area of the john and bushes. This, of course, is a summer place—a daytime place—although some activity goes on in icy winter when the driftwood is used as a shield against the sharp wind. But when the weather is kind there seems to be a couple going for bear behind every bush. It should also be noted that the Caven Point Beach is a haven of teen-young hustlers. Summertime is their time, and summer sex is their pocket money. So before pressing onward down the Atlantic coastline, pop on over. It will whet your appetite for what is in store for you along the seaboard.

ASBURY PARK

Your first big sex-stop down the Jersey coastline is Asbury Park. Although it has long been a favorite sea vacation spot for straights, gay guys by the hundreds flock here and you'll find them at the pinpointed spots we shall list.

Hotels

If you'd like to stay at an in-town hotel where there is some gay action—and near to more—you'll find plenty of gay guys registered at the Albion, 337 Cookman Avenue, or at the Hudson, nearby at 331 Cookman. The gravitational point of the gay compass at the Hudson is—as it has long been—the third and fourth floors. Stake out a room in this area. Sex is more conveniently come by, and more abundant.

M&K, 337 Cookman Avenue. This is a bar complex with snacks, entertainment and dancing. It caters to a young/youthful clientele. Probably the most popular in Asbury Park.

Odyssey, 427 Cookman Avenue. Here again, everyone is casual, young/young at heart, and get-on with it. Dancing. Very popular.

Baths

Club Baths, 216 Third Avenue. Like other Club Baths this is just that—a club. Take your ID card with you, plus money for entry. Very popular, with entertainment on the cabaret style, food, groovy sex, a generally quite young clientele, and just good and gay all the way.

Colony, 500 Summerfield Avenue. Club-plan, too. Quite popular, and offers much the same attractions as the Club.

Meeting Place

The Boardwalk at Ocean Avenue. Although this is a day/night meeting place, be careful at night. Mugging is not unknown here.

BRADLEY BEACH

Bradley Beach is one of those small coastal towns we mentioned . . . a daytime-only gay meeting place. It's also an 'all out' area, busybusy all the time. Drive down from Asbury Park . . . it's just a short distance away.

BELMAR

Just another short distance below Bradley Beach is another coastal town—Belmar. A gay haven in the daytime only at the beach at Fifth Avenue.

ATLANTIC CITY

You hit this big sex town next, and although Ciao! covered it in an in-depth report in the August 1973 issue, there have been some changes. So if you must have some salt-water taffy along with summer sex, here's the A.C. picture:

Hotels

active. Straights like it here as well as gays. Entertainment. Comfortable, easygoing . . . a very popular hotel.

DeVile, 149 S. Ocean Avenue. Much the same can be said for the DeVile. There is, additionally, a gayish sauna in this hotel.

KGP Fraternity House, 159 S. Westminster Avenue. This is a gay "fraternity house" (Kappa Gamma Phi); it's private. To stay here, apply for membership before coming to A.C. A charming, weatherbeaten kind of sea townhouse. It's very reasonably priced.

Restaurants

Bessie's, under the Boardwalk near the Claridge Hotel. A daytime-only place. Quite popular with gay sunbathers and swimmers who drop in for a snack and a chance to eye-cruise the joint.

Lyle's, 120 S. New York Avenue. The full name—Lyle's Dish Palace . . . lots of gay guys come here to dish. Lyle's specialty is breakfast. The earlier you come here the more make-out the place is. Open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Very popular.

Mama Mott's, 151 S. New York Avenue. Not only gay guys, but bisexuals and 'let's-get-into-the-act' straights. Great Italian food. It is one of the essentially gay Atlantic City restaurants.

Bars

Brass Rail, 12 S. Mt. Vernon Avenue. Open 24 hours in season, 20 hours off-season . . . has a bar downstairs, plus one upstairs.

Ceil's Saratoga Bar, 205 S. New York Avenue. Gets a young crowd; dancing; food, and very popular.

Chester Lounge, 132 S. New York Avenue. The same can be said for the Chester as for Ceil's. Immensely popular.

Chez Paree, 183 S. New York Avenue. Blacks come here in some force—they like it enormously. You'll also find a sprinkling of Lesbians. The snacks are good, the dancing is hot, the music is loud, and everybody enjoys. The mood is young.

Dirty Edna's, 172 S. New York Avenue. Popular . . . dancing . . . entertainment . . . young crowd.

Entertainer's Club, 169 S. Westminster Avenue. The clientele here is older. A very popular place . . . nice if you want to get away from the decibels of the others.

KGP Fraternity House Bar, 159 S. Westminster Avenue. Mentioned earlier as a hotel. The bar is private also, and grooves young.

Lark Inn, 174 S. New York Avenue. Atlantic City's leather bar. Very macho . . . the mixture contains some S&M and Western. Popular with those who fit this groove day and night.

M&M, 156 W. Westminster Avenue. Dancing. Young crowd. Popular.

Rendez-vous, 137 S. New York Avenue. Dancing, plus entertainment. Very popular.

Unicorn, 170 S. New York Avenue. Same as above, but with a more uniformly younger crowd.

Meeting Places

The beach area in front of the Claridge Hotel. Daytime only. New York Avenue, between Pacific Street and the Boardwalk.

Action Spots

The john on the Boardwalk at South New York Avenue—head for the end stalls.

WILDWOOD

Stop along the way down from Atlantic City in one or more of the small coastal towns. Head for the beach and let nature (and opportunity) take over. There are more than 100 miles of Jersey coast to traverse, so how can you miss? Getting down near the end of the coastline is one of the loveliest towns in the entire United States. Wildwood.

It's really like a smaller Miami, and what makes it so charming is that the old Wildwood of turn-of-the-century Victorian houses blends beautifully with such ultra-modern hotels as the Bayberry Inn at Pine & Atlantic Avenues (convenient to everything . . . sauna rooms where cruising is often overt . . . heated pool . . . color TV . . . the works). It's definitely not a gay motel, yet, in spite of itself, it has a gay ambience. There are many other such glamor motels, such as the Sea Gull, Atlantic & Cresse Avenues, and the Starfire at 5100 Ocean Avenue, to name just two. Lots of excellent, non-costly restaurants. You'll like Pierre's House of Pancakes (but there's more on the menu than flapjacks!), and the Crestwood Diner, a very popular eating place at Cresse and New Jersey Avenues.

But for gay guys, the three-mile long boardwalk is where it's at. The specific action spot is the north end, on the boards and underneath. Everything here: hustlers, rough trade, chicken, casual cruisers. Nighttime only, and very late—after the cops make their nightly arm-in-arm marching "sweep" to clear the boardwalk of young hangers-on when the businesses close. Also, ocean swimming is at its safest here. It's free from dangerous gullies and undercurrents, and the entire beach is cleaned daily. Plenty of water sports; plenty of nightclubs/taverns where gays, straights and bisexuals show up in about equal numbers. Wildwood is a fun place, and may well be the highlight of your coastal gay tour.

CAPE MAY

quiet, quaint, yet exciting beach town with lots to do and see, and never a dull moment. In many ways it reminds one of Brighton, England, possibly because of the more than 600 nineteenth-century buildings, into which are blended some of the most tastefully-designed modern motels and business establishments you will find anywhere. You might leave your car in Wildwood and take the ferry down to Cape May. Look it over for a day. You just may want to come back for a longer visit.

For gay guys the action spot is the John in Convention Hall . . . it's busy all day long. We sound this note of caution, however. Cape May is an 'everybody' town; lots of families come here for the summer, and there are lots of 'impressionable' kids. So the civic authorities long ago decided that they were not going to put up with a lot of nonsense from hustlers, muggers, Hell's Angels, decibel-high noise, and, particularly, overt sexers, who don't give a damn about the town's traditions. But there's such a lot of stuff here it would be a pity if you didn't have your fair share. Just use ordinary common sense and you'll have no trouble and a whale of a good time.

It may not have occurred to you that trekking the Jersey coast might be so rewarding. By comparison with other coastal areas around the United States it is by far the least publicized. But maybe that's just as well. It can give you a chance to discover great beauty, unusual charm, and enjoy a casualness in gay approach/life with some of the handsomest, the humpiest and 'readiest' guys anywhere. Why not give it a whirl this summer?

Sunday In Paris IX

Journey Into Yesterday

By Terry McWaters

The ninth arrondissement, or district, of Paris is familiar to all visitors from abroad during the flurry of the business week, for here are some of the great business establishments, such as the department stores Au Printemps and the Galeries Lafayette, and such venerable churches as Notre Dame-de-Lorette and the Trinité. At lunch-time the streets are packed with 'paper-baggers' trying to find a comfortable niche to have their sandwich and wine.

Paris IX is also heavily laden with new boxlike glass buildings where most of the French insurance companies have their headquarters. And since the Opéra and countless television and recording studios are centered here there is always a generous helping of the French famous . . . Delon, Belmondo, Deneuve, Trintignant. There is so much activity of today it is easy to overlook that part of Paris IX still beautifully unchanged, peaceful . . . lovely old homes and town houses, all dating to the time of Napoleon, for what is now the ninth arrondissement was Napoleon's social stamping ground.

Unfortunately, the only time the visitor becomes aware of this great beauty—this journey into the utter peace of yesterday—is on Sunday. Then, gone are the paper-baggers; the shoppers; the TV and cinema stars are off to their country places or their yachts. After the bells have called the faithful, and the last Mass has been sung at Notre Dame-de-Lorette, all is quietude and serenity, and the visitor who comes to stroll the quaint streets goes back in time to the nineteenth century.

Paradoxically, for all the somnolence of Sunday in Paris IX today, the area around this famous church was very lively then, because after the last Mass, out came the lorettes to solicit sex. They took their name from the church because it was their 'marshaling point' from whence they fanned out through the district and the public gardens. The lorettes were no run-of-the-bordello prostitutes, however. They were very genteel, having taken the trouble to acquire what Oscar Levant used to call 'a smattering of ignorance' about music, painting, literature and the theatre.

Usually their mothers brought them up to be courtesans, much, if you recall, as Gigi was. They learned to sing a little, play a little, paint a little—to please a man in countless artful ways—as well as having sex. In this way they could meet and talk with their clients on a more equal basis and could be seen with them in better places. They were too ladylike to make an overt pitch, and blended with the social tapestry of the arrondissement, for here lived such titans of the arts as Victor Hugo, Hector Berlioz, Gustave Moreau and Toulouse-Lautrec . . . the latter being their best client! Later Marcel Proust lived here.

Although it is closed on Sunday, Tuesday, and the month of August, the maison/atelier of Gustave Moreau is open to the public. The address is 14 Rue La Rochefoucauld. The Metro stop is Gare St. Lazare. Gay people love to come to this now-museum because Moreau—rich and famous—could do anything in painting that pleased him. He puzzles one with a strange mixture of the religious, the mystic and the sexual. His was an inner world of bulls, griffons, huge birds with nude women . . . mythical beast-women and beast-men . . . a fantasy world of deathlike creatures—a 'nightmare alley'. Favorites of gay people are his Angels of Sodom (two gray figures that seem to be floating away from the blood-red of the burning city); his Fleur Mystique (a sad and wan Virgin Mary holds a cross against a dreamlike landscape, and seems to be emerging from an immense tropical plant whose roots are contorted bodies and haloed heads) and his huge Jupiter and Semele. Painters of Moreau's time thought him 'sick'. So go and see whether you can translate the mystery and symbolism of his paintings!

Today the area around Nôtre Dame-de-Lorette is a favorite pickup spot for a certain type of gay individual who cruises in an elegant manner not unlike the lorettes. He is not the sharky hustler one sees in such numbers in Pigalle—not far away—but is usually a man of genuine culture who may be a professional in the arts (many are TV set designers), or a poor student from one of the many art academies in this area . . . or a music student from the Conservatoire, or a drama student of the National Academy. Some really beautiful and very interesting guys. And Paris IX has become a favorite area for gay lovers on a Sunday stroll. One sees as many couples as singles. So if you are in Paris with your lover (or perhaps would like to acquire one pro tempore) this is your place!

Although wealthy Parisians have bought many of the famous old houses and promptly ruined some with 'modernization' of their facades, most look as they did in the early nineteenth century. While the ninth arrondissement is by no means the oldest of the Paris districts—most of it dates from the post-Napoleonic era—the houses are the loveliest.

Especially beautiful are those on short streets such as Avenue Frochot where they seem drenched in foliage and low-hanging branches of trees, their gardens having that dreamy, hazy, faraway look you may remember from the film The Garden of the Finzi-Continis. Such beauty is something to drink in, rather than to be merely gazed upon. Alexandre Dumas, père et fils, lived here . . . and it was at their home on Avenue Frochot that the son completed the dramatization of La Dame aux Camelias in just one week in 1849. That masterpiece! How many other plays and movies have been based on it . . . from Verdi's La Traviata to the Garbo/Robert Taylor Camille to the Fonteyn/Nureyev Marguerite and Armand. Of the play, the younger Dumas was to say "Midway through reading it to my father I had to leave the house for an appointment. I literally ran back to the Avenue Frochot My father rose, bathed in tears, and clasped me in his arms The enormous success of the work certainly never gave me a quarter of the pleasure I experienced at that moment."

To the credit of many commercial institutions that have bought some of these great old mansions in Paris IX, the architecture has been left in as nearly its original design as possible. For example, a bank in the Rue Joubert looks—with the exception of its functional business fittings—just as it did when Belanger designed it more than a century ago.

Then, too, even in the busiest commercial street, one suddenly turns a corner and glimpses a lovely little park with a beautiful statue amid the greenery. Such a monument is that erected to the artist Gavarni, whose favorite subjects were the lorettes of his era. How charming it is to reflect that in the midst of hardnosed French business the French are very sentimental—even about harlotry. And to sublimate it into a statue of commemoration is indeed une chère mémoire.

The next time you visit the City of Light, try contrasting the chiaroscuro of a routine business day with a Sunday stroll through the more colorful and more secret confines of Paris IX. It will greatly enrich your visit.

PLACES OF GAY INTEREST IN THE NINTH ARRONDISSEMENT

Mixed but very popular with gay people are the restaurants La Rose Bleue, 15 rue Choron; and Le Potet, 3 rue de Bruxelles. La Petit Robert at 10 Cauchois is a bar that is very popular with American gays. Food is served. Orphée, 56 rue Nôtre Dame de Lorette, is still another bar in this area that attracts local gays and tourists. Take your passport for admittance. And if you prefer making it at the baths, go to Sauna Milan, 22 rue de Milan. It's open from 10:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. For a complete rundown of the gay scene in Paris please refer to the June 1975 Ciao! See the back issues ad in this magazine for details if you want to send for a copy. Or secure a copy of Private Stock, our international gay travel directory which lists all gay places in Paris, also advertised elsewhere in this magazine.

Gay Atlanta

"Y'all cum! Heah?"

By Terry Caruthers

The look in Atlanta is NEW. It is one of our most progressive cities—thanks to a stable government and city fathers who take pride in their hometown. There are new buildings everywhere. The city is clean. The people are friendly. The weather is good. And gay life is flourishing—in spite of recent police crackdowns on porno theatres and bookstores.

Getting around is easy—provided that you understand what Peachtree Street is all about. "P Street" is probably the most confusing thoroughfare in town. This is because there are so many. The main street is West Peachtree, and it divides Northwest and Northeast Atlanta in halves. Peachtree Road becomes an extension of West Peachtree in upper Northwest and Northeast Atlanta, and Peachtree Street Northeast curves away from West Peachtree Street at about 19th Street and runs parallel to West Peachtree (only a few blocks east in Northeast Atlanta) for several miles to about Baker Street (downtown), where it once again joins West Peachtree. Some of the other Peachtrees are Peachtree Hills, Peachtree Valley, as well as Peachtree Circle Avenue and Peachtree Park Circle. Suffice it to say it is confusing—so study a map before you drive around or use cabs. Happily, many of the gay bars are within walking distance of one another—but know exactly where you are going in case you have to ask directions on the way.

HOTELS

A great gay hotel (King's Kastle Inn) almost made it—but now there are no gay digs in Atlanta. If you aren't on a budget and want luxury accommodations stay at the Regency Hyatt House and enjoy its 22-story lobby and glass bubble elevators along with the underground gaslit "streets" and cobblestone "alleys." If you prefer the YMCA it's at 145 Lucie St. Quiet cruising but the rooms can get awfully hot when the sun shines. Between these extremes there are dozens of good hotels and motels that make bids for tourists.

YMCA

RESTAURANTS

There aren't any truly gay restaurants in town, but several are very popular with our crowd. We suggest you try:

Gallus, 49 - 6th St., NE. Open for dinner only Monday thru Saturday. There is entertainment at the piano after 9 p.m. Reasonable by Big City standards. And good.

Gene and Gabe's, 1578 Piedmont Rd. NE. Dinner every night from 6 p.m. until midnight. Candlelight. Hip diners. Dress is optional and old jeans are acceptable. Entertainment at the piano starting at 8 p.m. Good food and it's reasonable.

Pleasant Peasant, 555 Peachtree St. NE. Closed Sunday. Dinner only from 6 p.m. There is a branch at 3500 Peachtree Rd. Here you may enjoy lunch in an Old South courtyard. Both locations are popular.

Prince George Inn, 114 - 6th St. NE. Open from 11 a.m. for lunch and dinner as well as late supper. Closed Sunday. Very popular—and very good. Also very casual so dress as you like.

Prince George Inn

BARS & DISCOS

Drinking age is 18 so if you dig chicken you'll have to look elsewhere. All bars close on Sunday.

Armory, 836 Juniper St. NE. The furniture repair shop next door looks like a side entrance but it isn't. Here you will find an older crowd and the best time is Happy Hour starting at 4 p.m. Quieter until closing at 4 a.m. You needn't dress but you will find suits and ties here.

Back Street, 845 Peachtree St. NE (rear entrance). Enter from the parking lot out back or through the side doors in Joe's Disco (see below). This is an intimate cruise bar that gets going at 4 p.m. weekdays and 2 p.m. on Saturday. Happy Hour is best but you'll find great numbers all the time. Very friendly crowd.

Blue Room, 76 Cain St. Opposite the Greyhound Bus Station, this one isn't gay—but attracts a typical depot area crowd. Rather seedy. Mostly black hustlers and toothless buyers.

Blue Room

Cove, 585 Worcester Dr. NE. The place gets going at 1 p.m. on weekdays and Saturday—and you get as much beer as you can drink for $2.50 between 11:30 p.m. and closing (4 a.m. weekdays and 3 a.m. on Saturday). There's a buffet on Saturday and holidays and occasional drawings for prizes. The Cove has a game room and disco as well as a good cruise bar.

The Cove

El Matador

Joe's Disco, 845 Peachtree St. NE. A young dance crowd keeps the place jumping from 9 p.m. until 4 a.m. weekdays and 3 a.m. Saturday. Lots of lights, CIAO!

mirrors, sound and a balcony bar that overlooks the swingers. Very popular.

El Matador, on Ansley Mall (Piedmont Rd. & Monroe Dr. NE). This one is in a shopping center and attracts a friendly but quiet crowd. Some straights.

Mother's, 2110-B Peachtree Rd. NW. Great cruising and dancing. Occasional special events. And there's a game room—and a restaurant has been promised for early this year. Popular.

Mrs. P's, 551 Ponce de Leon Ave. NE. This bar has catered to all types over the years—being the oldest gay bar in Atlanta. Currently, it is for guys who sport leather and the western look. (There is even a leather shop on the premises.) Opens at 4 p.m. If you like your men with macho—this is your spot.

Mrs. P's

Onyx, 341 W. Peachtree St. NE. Close to the Regency Hyatt House—in case you're staying there. This is a show bar with lots of fab acts including campy drag shows. There's a buffet every Tuesday at 8 p.m. and regularly scheduled events such as auctions. It's a fun place. Go.

Sweet Gum Head, 2284 Cheshire Bridge Rd. NE. This is a great show bar (phone 634-2922 for information when you get to town). Dancing between the acts to records orchestrated by a live d.j. A fun place that you'll like.

Utopia, 2359 Peachtree Rd. (Peachtree Battle Shopping Center). There is no cover charge for the show when you present your out-of-state driver's license, or college or university student card. Call 237-8408 for show information. The place is new but catching on. It occupies the premises of a bar it took over—The Sting.

Union Station, 436 Armour Circle NE. This is Atlanta's March/April 1976

“super bar.” It opened last December and is already getting the lion's share of the crowds that come to enjoy the shows, a lounge, a disco (the biggest in the U.S.A. say its promoters), and a complete passenger train with dining cars and Pullman sleepers. Special happenings all the time.

BATHS

Club, 76 - 4th St. NE. Typical of the chain establishments. Open 24 hours every day. Weekends are usually best. Club action and comforts—including a new sauna and game room. Membership required.

Locker Room, 2325 Cheshire Bridge Rd. NE. The newest baths in town. Like the Club and catching on. Its TV lounge has a set with a 50" screen. Membership required.

BOOK SHOP & MOVIES

After Dark, 1067 Peachtree St. Books and magazines—plus gay movies in a new 100-seat theatre. There are also movie stalls. Open from 10 a.m. and does not close until 5 a.m. on weekends.

OUTDOOR CRUISING

The usual precautions are suggested for outdoor cruising. Try the Greyhound and Trailways bus stations. Hustlers.

Grant Park, near the zoo, is cruised by hustlers in the daytime. Ditto for Piedmont Park near the greenhouse and the walkway near the baseball diamond. And at night they work Luckie St. near the YMCA and the area in front of the Public Library (126 Carnegie Way).

Everybody cruises Peachtree Dr. NE to Peachtree St. NE to 4th St. NE to Cypress St. NE to Peachtree Dr. NE. You'll connect any night of the week.

ACTION SPOTS

The following johns have good action but be careful: Davison's Department Store (mezzanine); Georgia State (library); Georgia Tech (library); Piedmont Park (near the tennis courts); and Rich's Department Store in Lenox Square. Out of town try the Farmer's Market, I-75 south of I-285. Also, the Union 76 Truck

Stop on I-85 (Pleasant Hill exit).

John in Piedmont Park

SPECIAL SERVICE

For those who prefer to hire a companion for the evening there is a popular escort service called Youngman, Inc. Phone 874-7713 for information.

Atlanta is a fun city. Go on down! Heah?

SHITZKRIEG!

How To Cope With The 'Tropical Trots'

By Roger Watson

It is known by many unpleasant and unfriendly names. For example, Mexicans blame its seasonal rise on the influx of the gringos from the North and snootily call it 'turista'. But turistas blame it on the Mexicans and gloweringly refer to it as 'Montezuma's Revenge'. The medical term for this debilitating ailment is 'acclimatization diarrhea, which may suggest that Montezuma has no monopoly on revenge since the luckless vacationer may get the shaft wherever he goes.

What are your chances of being incapacitated for precious days of your gay vacation? It depends mainly on where you go. If you visit England, Scotland, Switzerland, Austria, Germany, Scandinavia, Australia or Canada the chances are practically nil. The risk increases somewhat the farther south in Europe you go. But where one must really pull out all the precautionary stops are the still-farther and more exotic countries of North Africa, such as Morocco and Lebanon . . . the Middle East . . . Indonesia . . . and (sorry, amigo!) Mexico.

It is foolish to pinpoint the onslaught of 'tropical trots' just on the drinking water of a high-risk country. While that may indeed be a source of the trouble, many travelers have taken along a supply of the purest bottled water and yet have been rendered hors de combat by this monster. The fact is this: there are no facts. Many theories, but no facts. Doctors simply have not determined what causes this particular short-form intestinal distress. What they do know, however, is what does not cause it. They know that it is not caused by bacteria like Salmonella and Shigella (the most common causes of food poisoning in the United States) . . . nor by such parasites as the amoeba (the definite cause of amoebic dysentery . . . a simply frightful, more devastating, longer-lasting diarrhea).

The reason why doctors call this ailment 'acclimatization diarrhea' is that the natives of whatever country you may happen to visit are already 'acclimatized' to it. You are not. The bacteria found in a particular environment—being indigenous to that area—has, since birth, found its way into the intestines of those who live in that environment. Thus having been exposed to it—little by little, day by day—all his life, Native Son has built up such a resistance to it that it simply doesn't affect him. You, poor sacrificial lamb, get it head-on . . . right in the gut.

The onset of acclimatization is not lightning-like. Usually there is a period of from seven to fourteen days in which one basks in blissful ignorance of the torment-to-be. The duration of the attack is rarely longer than two days, but in that brief time you will have defecated so much your rectum will feel it has been grinding coffee. Cramps, chills, nausea and low-grade fever are common. You may also vomit copiously/often. And you may have some generalized aches and pain; even be in bed for a day or so. Rarely, however, do serious or prolonged effects result. To survive the gay vacation hazard of the tropical trots (since, usually, the more 'tropical' you venture, the more 'trotting' you do), here are some tips that may help you avert the 'shitzkrieg'.

Water. If the internationally-known bottled waters are available, drink them exclusively. You can get Evian, Apollinaris, Fiuggi, Perier and Vichy Celestins anywhere in Europe and in some areas of North Africa. But if a bottle with such a label appears uncapped on your dining table in any restaurant or hotel, ask the waiter to take it away instantly and bring one that is capped. You may be certain that the uncapped bottle has been refilled many times with local water. Also, avoid ice. It, too, will have been made with local water. If you must have your beverages ice cold, drink carbonated sodas and/or bottled beer. You can purify water anywhere by boiling it for at least thirty minutes. This effectively destroys all organisms. Also, halazone tablets added to water will purify it quickly. Just one 4-milligram halazone tablet plunged into a quart of water will release enough chlorine to kill all bacteria in thirty minutes! Get halazone tablets at your drugstore . . . no prescription is needed. And it should be a must on your 'things to take' travel list. Also some thiosulphate tablets. Inasmuch as halazone tablets release a definite odor of chlorine, and if you can't stand the smell of chlorine, a thiosulphate tablet dissolved in the sterilized water will remove the objectionable taste.

Swimming. Although you may be tempted to swim in a silver brook-filled pool, find out whether this pool is polluted. Sometimes the more 'a part of nature' it seems, the greater the pool is polluted. Also, you may contract something worse than the tropical trots . . . something frightening like typhoid or a far rougher dysentery. You may ask the local health department of whatever area you visit and you will receive accurate information. Remember they want to help. And this is of even greater importance if the locality you visit has any kind of epidemic in recent months.

Food. The farther south you travel in Europe and Africa and/or Mexico, be sure to eat only cooked foods. Avoid all vegetables and salads that appear on your table raw. And if desire fruit, be sure that you peel it yourself at the table. Don't allow the waiter to do it.

Medication. Take along some paregoric. It's an old standby and it is unexcelled in helping to quiet your insides. Antibiotics as a preventative are iffy with respect to acclimatization diarrhea. It is worth mentioning, however, that such non-absorbable sulfa drugs as Sulfathalidine, Sulfasuxidine and Azulfa-dine—taken 500 milligrams four times daily—often help prevent this form of diarrhea. And they also reduce the severity of symptoms in those who already have been zapped by the ailment. But there is a minus side: side-effects—perhaps a rash of one kind or another . . . some cramping and/or indigestion.

Lomotil (aptly named because it lowers intestinal motility) also works well according to the same principle as paregoric. Two 2.5-milligram tablets taken three to four times a day help greatly. While taking this medication it is well to reduce the diet to simple things like clear soups, tea-and-toast, gelatin and custards.

We do not like to end on a sinister note, but if the medication described here does not work, and you develop a temperature of more than 101 degrees Fahrenheit, or bloody diarrhea lasting for more than 48 hours, have a doctor examine you. You have something much worse than 'tropical trots'.

The Prop Shop
London's Fabulous
Curiosity Shop
By Whitney Evans

London's gay life is so swiftly
CIAO!

changing that no sooner does Ciao! have a chance to report on what's new, than it's time to catch the next kaleidoscope back for an update on what's even newer.

So if you've run out of one-upmanship ideas, why not catch an early plane to London for a short vacation and head for The Prop Shop, a phantasmagorical costume and stage-prop boutique that gay Londoners are flocking to for the clever, the sophisticated and far-out, the infra-dig or the just plain fun things that make dress-up parties moreso?

The Prop Shop is the brain-child with a 200-plus IQ of Charles Dunlop, a 29 year-old Scot who is not only a prop-maker in his own right, but whose knowledgeable experience derives from several years in the prop department of the Royal Shakespeare Company in Stratford-upon-Avon—and Louis Negin, a 35 year-old actor who came to London from Canada as a player in Love and Maple Syrup, and who decided he liked London more than maple syrup—and stayed. Not only are they two of the handsomest guys you'll ever meet, but the nicest. Their shop is at 51 Old Church Street, S.W. 3, midway Victoria Station and South Kensington on the District Underground Line . . . the stop is Sloane Square. Also, Bus 9 from Piccadilly stops not far away.

TOE SHOES AND TUTUS

What initially impresses the visitor to The Prop Shop is the authenticity of every item, which is either a prop, a costume, or some artifact of the theatre, cinema, or the opera at Covent Garden. But what impresses more—as it will certainly impress your friends at your next costume ball—is that whatever you buy will have been worn by, or used by some noted actor, singer or dancer.

For example, would you like to make the scene as a danseur? Then why not fly over and bring back the original Leon Bakst costume worn by Nijinsky in Scheherazade? Spend a few days at the barre doing a multiplicity of pliés and such-like, and come on fortissimo. You'll drive all your competition biddlybonkers, March/April 1976 and there won't be a single dry spot on the pee-lined floor for even a kneeling quickie. Right away you'll be on a trip . . . such exal-tay-see-on! Like blessed St. Catherine on her sick bed being carried by the angels into Paradise each day to hear a concert by the heavenly choir. And at once you'll begin to wonder "But what can I do for an encore next year?"

Why not come as Richard the Lion-Hearted? Well . . . certainly after nearly eight centuries no costume shop, nor any museum, is likely to have the original chain mail that guarded gay Richard's gigantic genitals and gorgeous gluteus. But a velvet tabard used by a Crusader to wear over chain mail, which came from a famous London play, may still be available. All that richly-flowing turquoise velvet and drawn silver thread . . . what a splash you'll make!

GRIS-S-SLY AND GRUESOME

Maybe you like to shock. Here's a suggestion for a Halloween costume ball. Bats. Not the real things, of course . . . not even stuffed ones. But at The Prop Shop there are all kinds of bats that look like the real thing, which came from many of the Karloff/Lugosi Dracula films. They look so authentic they can drive all your competition from the ballroom and leave you to reign in gruesome splendor.

Or how about a human skull? (Papier maché, of course . . . from another Boris or Bela film.) Carry it under your arm and occasionally talk to it. If asked, tell 'em your first lover simply insisted on coming to the ball. They just may believe you! Or a ghostly masque from some fey character in A Midsummer Night's Dream or Puck's gilded domino . . . or Bottom's ass of a head (or vice versa)?

Now this is really trendy. Why not arrange to be 'pall-borne' into the ballroom in your very own mummy case (from Caesar and Cleopatra, of course)? What an entrance! Who could top that one? As you may happily discover, this can be turned into a handy advantage as a secluded tricking station somewhere away from the crowded ballroom.

While you are dispatching groovy tricks by the cruisy dozens, your competition will still be sweating it out on the samba line, spitting fingernails all over the floor.

FIGMENTS AND FIG-LEAVES

Have you often conjured dream visions of certain costumes you'd love to have and to wear . . . and how handsome you'd look in them . . . only to awake, saddened by the knowledge that you possibly never will? Don't despair. Rejoice! The Prop Shop can almost clairvoyantly anticipate what you saw in your dream. A few hints from you . . . a quick sketch from them for your approval . . . and they're off, whipping up the very thing you had in mind! As we mentioned elsewhere, these lads are costume professionals, and anything you can dream up they can execute with a lifelike realism.

INTERIOR DESIGN WITH PROPS

The versatility of The Prop Shop also extends into the home. Gay guys, particularly, appreciate the element of surprise in interior design that does not wear off after its initial shock (like coming head-on into a room whose four walls and ceiling are painted blood red), and which continues to exert its magnum force.

Perhaps you've often wished that you might have just a few things that, with your own sensitive feeling for creative design, might individualize your apartment or home. Not formalistic, period objets d'art, but amusing things . . . catchy things . . . things that the eye returns to gratefully again and again as a source of pleasure, or wit, warmth and satisfaction.

The Prop Shop with its immense collection of props and its handy facilities for creating others, answers just such a need. As examples one might choose that well-remembered portrait of Elizabeth Taylor as Rebecca in Ivanhoe, painted by Roger Furse, and which—on our visit—bore a price tag of forty-two pounds (about $100). Or a collection of drawings of the stage sets used in John Osborne's play Inadmissible Evidence. Or perhaps a huge, life-size doll from a production of Caesar and Cleopatra. Or headpieces, such as that worn by Elizabeth Taylor in that production . . . or one of the crowns worn by Sir Laurence Olivier in his many Shakespearean roles. Or mementoes of the early English music-hall performers . . . the paste-diamonds and sequins of the Tiller Girls. The eye is fascinated by such a tremendous collection, and one's pulse beats just a little faster when one recognizes various props, costumes and accessories worn by a star dear to one's heart.

So on your next trip to London make a special point of visiting The Prop Shop. You may find just the very thing you've often wished you might have. But in any case you'll be awash in nostalgia all the while, and be so glad you came.

Gay New Orleans

By Arlie Palmer

New Orleans is a very old—and very beautiful—city. This is especially true of the French Quarter, where most of the gay places are and where you will probably spend most, if not all, of your time. Go anytime. If you can get to Mardi Gras next year, do so—but be prepared for the usual hassles in holiday cities, such as overbooking by the hotels. This is a particularly wild time when anything goes—like groping on the streets and sex in the middle of a bar (they are so packed you'll have trouble going down . . . or difficulty removing a hot mouth from your cock).

If you're planning to take a cruise ship to the Caribbean or the Yucatan, try and book one that leaves from New Orleans or stops there on the way (the Viking Sea includes New Orleans on its Caribbean/Yucatan run every winter). The day you spend in port will be filled with fun and leave you with fond memories of the city.

"Come to the Mardi Gras!"

By all means, do the touristy things—such as strolling down Bourbon Street, popping in and out of clubs to catch some jazz, or eating at one of the fine restaurants like Commander's Palace, at Washington Avenue and Coliseum St. It's away from town but well worth a taxi ride). Be sure and stop for doughnuts at Café du Monde, the world-famous sidewalk cafe in the French Quarter, on Decatur Street. You can cruise from your seat—or be cruised. You're in the gayest part of town—and the ambiance is much the same as in Greenwich Village in New York City.

Commander's Palace

Café du Monde

HOTELS

Two small hotels that are popular with gay guys are the Noble Arms, 1006 Royal St., and Ursulines, 708 Ursulines Ave. These are almost impossible to book during Mardi Gras, but if you write in advance any other time you won't have any difficulty. They're both in the French Quarter. Or, if you prefer the YMCA, it's at 936 St. Charles St., not too far away from the Vieux Carre—the French Quarter. Likewise for the Marriott—if you prefer something more conventional.

Ursulines

RESTAURANTS

The best restaurant in town is the Commander's Palace, already mentioned. It's a special treat and a place you visit on occasion. For your everyday meals rely on the many small restaurants in the French Quarter. These are some suggestions:

Burgundy House, 700 Burgundy St. It's open from 6 p.m. There's a bar and entertainment too., Very gay.

Burgundy House

Emy's, 918 Royal St. Mixed but very popular with gay guys. Creole food—and it is really good. Reasonable too.

Fatted Calf, 727 St. Peter St. Mixed but popular and worth visiting. The specialty is hamburgers done up in 17 different ways. And there's a bar too.

Streetcar, 901 Bourbon St. Above Lafitte's (see below)—and gay. Go for dinner.

The Café du Monde, already mentioned, is open 24 hours a day and serves sandwiches and light snacks as well as doughnuts and coffee. Perhaps the wee hours of the morning, when the bars start emptying out, are the most exciting of the day.

BARS

This is a late town—so things really don't get started until 10 p.m. But some of the bars are open 24 hours. All are in the French Quarter and walking distance from one another.

Annex, 740 Burgundy St. This is where to go if you want to make it with some very exciting blacks. It's where the blonds from Europe head when their ships are in port—but you probably won't make it with them because they have a special reason for coming here.

March/April 1976

Annex

Bourbon Pub, 801 Bourbon St. Currently the hottest spot in town—because of its new disco called "The Parade." Tends to draw a younger crowd.

Brady's, 700 N. Rampart St. Popular with boys and girls. There's dancing.

Brady's

Finale II, 642 Rampart St. Dancing. Pool table. Guys and gals but not teeny boppers.

Finale II

Galley House, 542 Chartres St. It's the oldest gay bar in town and gets going at noon. All types come here.

Galley House

Golden Lantern, 1239 Royal St. All types, but mainly the leather look. There's dancing.

Lafitte in Exile, 901 Bourbon St. A very popular bar. It's open all the time and when Mardi Gras rolls around a big contest for the best costumes is held out front on a high platform. Wild.

Lafitte in Exile

Mardi Gras Contest at Lafitte's

Loft, 728½ N. Rampart St. Here's where to come for guys who wear western and leather.

Pete's Place, 800 Bourbon St. Open all the time. There's a beer bust every day at 3 p.m. Game room and disc jockey for the dancers. A fun place. Go. Everybody else does.

Pete's

Society Page, 819 St. Louis St. Everything from drag to butch. Opposites do attract here.

Travis's, 834 N. Rampart St. Open all the time. Dancing and amusements.

Wanda's, 704 Iberville St. Mostly drags. Put this one last on your list.

BATHS

Canal, 512 Gravier St. It's a short distance from the French Quarter. Old and a bit seedy—but that turns some guys on. Don't expect much and you won't be disappointed. Older types but sometimes the rewards are great. Some of the seamen who work on the ships from other countries come here because it's less expensive than the Club—and many of these guys are young and reeking of macho.

Club, 515 Toulouse St. In the French Quarter. Go anytime. It's best on weekends, however. If you aren't already a member go during the day to join and get a membership card (good at any Club location). Younger crowd than that at the Canal.

GAY FILMS

Practically across the street from the Café du Monde you'll find the Cinema I & II. (It's at the corner of St. Philip and Decatur Sts. Small viewing room for gay fuck flicks—with straight porn in the adjoining room.

Cinema I & II

BOOK SHOP

The best place in town for gay books and magazines—as well as all kinds of reading matter—and novelties too is Sidney's News Stand (actually a big store) at 917 Decatur St. Very friendly—and you must visit if only to pick up a local gay guide.

Sidney's News Stand

French Quarter: Royal & Iberville

MEETING PLACES

You may meet your lover almost anywhere in the French Quarter. Like Greenwich Village—there's cruising, cruising, cruising everywhere. Anytime. If you go in summer to to Lake Front Beach for your sunning and swimming. The spot you're looking for is between Lake Shore Drive and the L.S.U. Bridge.

ACTION SPOTS

In case you aren't a bar type—there's no shortage of action spots in New Orleans . . . at least during the day (go to the baths at night or rely on the streets). The john at Dillard U., in The Student Union building (on the main floor) gets a good crowd. If you don't want to wander too far away from the French Quarter—stroll over to busy Canal Street and try the johns in the Maison Blanche Department Store. The heads on the 5th and 6th are wild. Away from town, try Tulane U. The heads there see a lot of student action: Library, 2nd and 4th floors; Student Center, all floors; Gibson Hall, 1st floor; and the History Building. And at the U. of New Orleans check out both johns in the Library. That famous john in the French Market is long gone . . . many oldtimers are weeping buckets over its demise. Need we remind you—as a final note on john cruising—that the usual precautions definitely be taken?

New Orleans is truly a beautiful city—and its romance will linger on . . . for years.

Updating The Gay Caribbean

By The Editors

Our December 1975 edition—the All-Caribbean issue—has inspired many readers to write and tell us about their experiences. Just recently we received the following letter from one such reader; it updates Grenada, Haiti, and St. Kitts/Nevis. We thought you'd enjoy reading it and hope you will find the information helpful if you are planning to visit the Islands this year. We want to make special mention of the gay hotel in St. Kitts, which we described as being "primitive" in our write-up. It was designated as such by our correspondent who provided us with the information in the first place, and who spends a great deal of time there. Since publication we have received numerous letters from St. Kitts travelers who claim otherwise—as the letter below states. Its owner felt obligated to place a classified ad in our last issue to help change an image we set. We have not seen the establishment ourselves—but we can only assume that the people we have heard from in recent weeks are providing a better description and we apologize for our original comment. And we thank the man who sent us the following information; he wishes to remain anonymous.

Your Ciao! issue of December 1975 is monumentally good and you are to be commended heartily. I was fortunate to have a copy in hand when I travelled to the Caribbean for the holidays. I was able to utilize as well as authenticate the information you published. I can find very little fault in your information, however I feel it only fair and helpful to you and your readers to offer a conscientious update to your already excellent issue.

GRENADA

In addition to Blanco's Beach Club, more commonly known as B.B.C., there is the Across The Bridge located in the yachting service compound in St. George's. This is a Friday-night-only event, with live music, two free drinks with cost of admission, and plenty of young locals. Another excellent meeting place is the three-mile-long beautiful Grand Anse Beach, during the day. Also recommended is a short excursion to the Annan-dale Waterfall, quite scenic, located in the rain forest about 40 minutes from St. George's. Obliging youths will dive over the spectacular cascade for 50 cents (U.S.) and are also available if you are into Chicken.

March/April 1976

Avoid the waterfall on days the cruise ships are in port as admission is charged on those dates and the boys' fees are double.

Diving at Annandale Waterfall

"Haiti beckons . . .

The Panorama Guest House is quite active and should be checked out, no matter where one is staying. There are three other guest houses that cater to the gay tourist, all very good. Villa Mor. Reve Guest House, situated at Ruelle Roy 7 just two blocks from the Oloffson; clean rooms all with bath, MAP meals, pool, bar, boys available on premises and from without. Very quiet and private atmosphere. Contact Mr. René Dorleans, Manager. Thor Guest House located in the Carrefour of Port au Prince is a complex of cabins in a tropical garden. MAP meals, pool and bar. Some cabins have kitchenettes. Make your own arrangements with the boys. Finally there is Chez Michel, located on the Delmas Road to Pétionville; secluded, clean, a bit remote but private with all facilities. Run by a French Canadian. None of these guest houses object to guests. Chez Michel has 'short time' accommodations. Chez Guy is now closed to the public but will open by special arrangement. He is now operating a very chic beachfront restaurant adjacent to Lambi's called Ti Boucan and can be contacted there. Freda's remains the clearing house for the gay community and is especially crowded and active on weekends.

and beckons!"

ST. KITTS/NEVIS

The Holiday Inn has now changed hands and has been renamed Ft. Thomas Hotel. Another nearby hotel, Ocean Terrace Inn, commonly known as O.T.I., seems more popular with a disco on weekends. C.E. Stevens Guest House deserves special attention. It is a clean, well-kept and adequate colonial building. Meals are available; very private atmosphere and the boys are great! The accommodations are definitely not primitive as you state. They are comfortable enough to stay in rather than shuttle back and forth from a hotel. Joe Reid, the guide is very dependable. Rent-a-cars and mini-mokes are available on both St. Kitts and Nevis for rewarding drives into the countryside. A recommended excursion would be to take the ferry to Nevis and mini-moke into the countryside.

A Pad, Plus One

How To Get More Out Of Gay Travel

By Sonny Wolfe

With crime upward-spiraling in every country, particularly those with glamour-vacation areas where poverty runs neck-and-neck with posh, the gay traveler will be safer, more comfortable, can maneuver better and get more for his sex dollar if he plans his vacation around a very practical idea . . .

'a pad, plus one'.

In a nutshell, this means arranging for dual accommodations: (1) a 'get away from it all' better-class-to-luxury hotel to stay in, and (2) a less-expensive-to-bare-basics, or gay (often the same) hotel to play in. This is a sensible arrangement that need not squeeze your wallet out of shape, or leave you schizoid from hot-tonguing it between hotels. In fact, by vacation's end you should have scored far more and saved money to boot. It's 'having your cake and eating it, too' . . . only more of the icing!

Some, when opting only for a 'get away from it all' luxury hotel, do just that . . . get away from it all—or at least away from so much gay action . . . missing out on so many otherwise available sex opportunities.

For all its desirable luxury, a vacation hotel frequently turns out to be a kind of elegant cloister; its restrictions can leave one feeling somehow defeated, cheated . . . unfulfilled. Thus in any resort it's a gay mistake to 'put all your baskets into one egg' . . . to try to make your hotel room serve as the focus of your sex life. The management is not deceived, and will not tolerate your bringing in known hustlers, nor tricks with too-familiar faces. Such hotels are big business/big money, and concerned with image-polishing and the assurance that this year's guests will be back next year. Try to sneak in a trick and you risk a rude and—if the lobby is full—embarrassing confrontation.

THE ACAPULCO BU-BU

For example, In Acapulco, where local sex is all-hustler (as it is in so many resort areas), the Royal Hotel—formerly the Hilton—and other big hotels will know by sight every hustler in town. No matter how important the guest, he will not be permitted to take to his room anyone from the 'rogues gallery'. The manager or his assistant will stop both at the elevator with a firm "He can't go up with you." In management's view, it's a lesser grievance to humiliate one guest than to have an entire floor of them ripped off. Here is what has happened too often:

It is axiomatic that guests of a resort hotel are (1) affluent, (2) easygoing, and (3) careless. Vacation time anywhere is 'let your hair down' time, and so with visions of sugar plums dancing before one's eyes it is only natural to be less concerned about safety of self and valuables than might be the case if one stayed in an equally luxurious hotel in a large city where 'crime is rife', as the saying goes. Thus a door is left ajar as a guest darts down to the pool, or socializes with friends over a drink at the bar. If a hustler, just leaving the room of a gay guy, passes by and sees a golden opportunity, what is more 'follow through' than for him to light-finger his way through the inviting open door, picking up baubles, bangles and beads?

HUSTLERS VS. RUSTLERS

In all 'fairness' to hustlers, it should also be noted that the 'rustlers' get in their licks too. These are other posh guests of the hotel who are not averse to ripping off their peers—their neighbors. This is why many hotels, and certainly all resort hotels, change the tumblers of door locks frequently . . . and always at the end of a season. The tumblers of the second floor this season may find themselves on the seventh floor next year.

Then too, a guest who plans to return to the same hotel next year (particularly if the rustling pickin's have been good this year) may sometimes have a duplicate key made for the door-lock of his room, the better to rip off next year's tenant . . . without a trace of suspicion. It is fortunate that hotel management's foresight in changing the tumblers each year has reduced loss by hustler and rustler, along with its insurance premiums.

Nevertheless, no guest of any hotel should expect it to repay him for any losses incurred from his room. The hotel is not required to, and certainly no insurance company would underwrite such a liability. Always be sure to check valuables at the desk. This should include extra cash you bring along for an emergency; jewelry; important personal items (a passport) or credit cards that would be difficult-to-impossible to duplicate. Before leaving your room in any hotel—'stay in' or 'play in'—arrange with the desk clerk for safe storage of your valuables, and get a receipt. Only in this way are you fully protected against loss. And if you carry traveler's checks with you during your stay, be sure to jot down their serial numbers and stash this bit of information in some safe place. Then, if your checks are stolen, you can have them replaced in a matter of hours.

THE 'DAMN YANKEE' SYNDROME

Hotel security varies from country to country. In some it is first-rate; in others it is poor to nonexistent (governments that are here today and gone tomorrow couldn't care less about such matters . . . particularly if supposedly well-heeled Yankess are the losers). Which brings to mind a letter we recently received from a reader just back from Japan, who cautions about the poor security of the elegant Imperial Hotel in Tokyo.

He says that an Italian-French model working at a fashion show there befriended an attractive Japanese man who, later, got back into the model's room while he was performing in the show. He cleaned out the room . . . cash, passport, tickets, plus gifts the model had bought for friends back home. The next night an Iranian businessman had $5000 stolen from his room. Although the hotel management was questioned about his, neither guest was reimbursed. It has gotten so bad that a known hustler/thief can walk out of the hotel with a suitcase in each hand and not even be stopped for questioning!

What has apparently been contributory to such robberies is the fact that the Imperial is widely known to gay guys as a prime cruising area. Although the notorious restrooms were bricked up a few years ago, this has not stopped 'infiltration' by hustlers who know all the secret ways. So if Tokyo is on your itinerary, take heed and stay at some other hotel. If you simply must stay at the Imperial, be sure to check every valuable item at the desk and get a receipt for it, leaving absolutely nothing of value in your room.

Another reader touches upon the poor security in Puerto Rico. His complaint has nothing to do with large commercial hotels there. What he laments is that gay people in Puerto Rico have no compunction about ripping off gay others. He says, to his shame he stayed at a gay place last October, and while there was not only ripped off, but held captive bodily! He further states that the clerks (and he names them) didn't do anything to help; neither did the San Juan police. Even when mainlanders are robbed in the streets of San Juan in broad daylight, complaining to the police will get you nowhere, generally. They have been known to shrug off such muggings with "Why worry . . . you Yankees can afford it!"

The cardinal rule for gay vacationers should be this: Either stay in a first-class hotel where you can check your valuables, or travel light—so light, that you take only basics; then you have little to lose. It's not an encouraging note to send anyone on vacation with, but it will save you grief and money.

As we mentioned at the beginning of this article, the best bet for gay guys on vacation is 'a pad, plus one'. Here are some suggestions about how this may be worked out to provide you with limitless sex, greater safety for your wallet, as well as avoiding needless extended personal involvement with a trick or tricks.

1. If your chosen vacation city has a gay baths, a simple plan is to 'stay in' a good hotel and 'play in' the baths. You need not break your piggy bank to stay in a posh place . . . just a good, safe hotel where your valuables can be checked securely. What other valuables you may bring to the baths (money, et cetera) can also be checked with the attendant. You can stay in the baths for up to 12 hours (the usual time limit per entrance fee) and have almost continuous sex without the need of bringing tricks to your hotel (which you can, if they are not known hustlers).

2. If a city has a swinging YMCA, what better place for your 'play in' pad? The Y is less expensive than any other lodging place, and while the accommodations are clean and minimal, the ambience is warm; sex varooms to a white-hot beat; and your room is ideal for all the quick tricks you score. You get 'plenty' and 'privacy' at the same time! If your 'stay in' hotel costs a maximum $25 per day; your Y room will cost about $8-$10, and is well worth it. This doesn't add a great deal to your hotel outlay. Especially when you consider the 'in lay'.

3. The sex 'boy brothel'. You will find these in many Arab and Caribbean countries. Stay in one of the major hotels for your fling at luxury; play in the brothel at no greater expense than an outside trick would cost. Such boy brothels are not noted for pristine cleanliness—they are simply functional for the moment thereof. Once satisfied, you can return to your hotel and beach, and tomorrow is another day, and another boy or boys . . . and no entanglements!

4. The small gay hotel. Many cities such as San Francisco, Amsterdam, San Juan, Hamburg, Munich and London are noted for their small gay hotels. You may wish to plan your stay in just such a hotel if you are not luxury-conscious, or are afflicted with vacation grandeur, and are content to live and play in surroundings that, while plain, are comfortable and functionally serviceable—and discreet. Generally such hotels have no, or few, rooms with private bath. The head is down the hall, which can make things mighty interesting! They are not just for the gay budget-conscious, but serve a particular gay lifestyle and those who groove to it, and who wouldn't be caught dead anywhere posh. Such hotels are especially favored by leather and Western guys, motorbikers, and those whose tastes are on the maxi-macho side. This may be what you want. They're not at all expensive—usually about YMCA prices. All have been reported on in past issues of Ciao! and QQ Magazine, so check the ads in this issue for back-issue listings, as well as our 1976 gay travel directory, "Private Stock," which lists them, giving precise symbols indicating what each has to offer.

We certainly don't mean to derogate gay hotels, per se. But we again urge our readers to 'travel light' when staying in such places. Bring nothing that you can't check . . . bring nothing that you would grieve over losing. It takes only one rotten apple to spoil a barrelful. While every other gay guy you meet in such hotels may be the greatest, one can ruin everything. You'll have to be on the lookout for him, and, of course, be wary of hustlers wherever you go. A 'pad, plus one' affords you great freedom of movement. By assuring you of privacy when you want it, and sizzling action elsewhere at other times, you have the best of both worlds. It can make this vacation your 'dream' vacation . . . something quite marvelous and magical and memorable!

Gay Dining This Month: 'Japanosheries'

By The Editors

Ten years ago a New Yorker just back from a visit to Tokyo or Kobe, and in search of some of the deliciously-prepared foods he had come to know and appreciate in the Orient, would have found such cuisine at only a single dining place—Miyako, on West 56th Street. It was, and still is, a good restaurant for certain Japanese dishes. But as its popularity grew its cuisine became less Japanese and more Westernized, and its clientele more Broadway and/or touristy, with visitors from America's hinterland demanding much the same foods served in the Japanese sukiyaki joints in their home towns.

One young man was to change all that—a very handsome and now very rich young man named Rocky Aoki. He was appalled by the impressions Americans had about what they thought to be classic Japanese cooking. Most thought it was (a) not as good as Chinese food, or (b) that it was mostly sukiyaki and soup that tasted like brown water, or (c) if you dared to be different and ordered anything besides sukiyaki you'd get raw, slithery fishy things, or (d) if the food was good and prettily arranged it was so skimpy you walked out twice as hungry as before.

In 1964 he opened the first Benihana of Tokyo restaurant. No sukiyaki! No raw fish! And there was no kitchen in the conventional restaurant sense. To the surprise and delight of visitors as they sat around a big hibachi table—which may be described roughly as a combination grill (fired from beneath) and dining table—their own 'personal chef' appeared, bringing along baskets of fresh meat, poultry and the crispest, coldest vegetables. Then, slicing, seasoning and cooking them all by himself, he mesmerized everyone with his incredible speed and dexterity.

Today it is the same. You are not submerged in ikebana flower arrangements . . . you don't feel as if you're a guest at your own funeral . . . you get no wispy crisps of vegetables done up in equally elaborate designs. They are crisp and cold and chunky . . . chewy chunky. The jumbo shrimps are really jumbo and are sauteed only with lemon. The steaks are chunky, too, and succulent right down to the last 'hibachi-ized' bite. And if you have chicken, count on it being dusted with exotic sesame seeds. Rarely does the Benihana dishwasher have to clean someone's plate of uneaten food. It goes in a practically 'virgin' state right into the dishwashing machine.

Rocky's first Benihana was a smash success right from the first day. A year later he opened another. Another smash. Then he pressed on to Chicago, San Francisco and Las Vegas. Today Benihana of Tokyo is a restaurant name to conjure with all over the United States. But his grandest one is his third in New York City . . . the

BENIHANA PALACE

This restaurant is authentically Japanese in architecture and design because part of it is from an eighteenth-century palace in a province in south Japan. Rocky had Japanese carpenters and stone-masons brought over to reassemble portions of it. The massive beams and intricate stonework create a feeling of timelessness, and it is probably the most restful restaurant in New York . . . this in spite of the fact that at noon and early dinner it is crowded. So don't feel uptight if you find someone being ushered to your table. He might turn out to be someone quite special! The Benihana Palace is at 15 West 44th Street, just west of Fifth Avenue. Don't miss this posh 'Japanoshery'.

Other Japanese entrepreneurs, noting the vast success of the Benihana restaurants, have been encouraged to invest their money and try their luck. The results are some extraordinarily beautiful dining places across the land, and the food is equally excellent. One of these is in Houston, Texas . . . the

TOKYO GARDEN

To give it its full name this is the Tokyo Garden Restaurant and Club Tokyo, 4701 Westheimer. Tranquil and lovely is this place which offers classical Japanese dances and music as the background to its superb cuisine. The costumes of the attendants are authentic and colorful, and guests may choose Western (sit at a table) or Japanese (sit on a tatami on the floor) seating. Specialties are their tempura and a combination called Tokyo Garden Lunch, which consists of marinated beef, chicken, butterfly shrimp, gyoza (filled noodle) and vegetables. Another great favorite is

CIAO!

Tonkatsu Kushiyaki which is pork, skewered and deep-fried.

YAMATO

This quietly serene restaurant is in the Century Plaza Hotel in Century City, Los Angeles. As is the case with Tokyo Garden, the waitresses are colorfully kimono-clad and the seating is Japanese or Western as you prefer. Teriyaki is the house specialty, and Japanese music adds a delightful exoticism to the garden-style design. The cooking here is more classically Japanese than at many other restaurants, and is thus served with a great deal of quiet ritual. In itself this makes the food taste even more special . . . and it is really special!

DAI-ICHI

Dai-Ichi means "The Great Number One" and it's Chicago's Number One Japanese restaurant. It is situated at 512 South Wabash Avenue in downtown Chicago and the design is that of an authentic Japanese teahouse. Prices are quite moderate, and the cooking is done in a traditional open kitchen and the chef and his entire Japanese-trained staff perform their miracles for all to see. The Dai-Ichi features not only the grilled hibachi-type cuisine of the other restaurants mentioned, but the tempura (or deep-fried) cuisine. A special feature is their Inaka Yaki, or country-style broiled sirloin.

In your travels across the country, try these unusual restaurants, and be on the lookout for others that may be recently opened. You'll find that Japanese cooking is truly a work of art and these culinary temples that spring up are perfect showplaces for it.

Recipes From Around The World

Gathered by The Editors

In this issue our Gay Dining
March/April 1976

department focuses its gourmet spotlight on Cajun cooking, that spicy, hearty, wholly different food of the Louisiana bayou country. Because in its purest original form Cajun cooking is unique to this area (although overtones and variations of it appear throughout the Caribbean countries . . . with some added Creole flourishes) we thought that many of you Ciao! readers might like to recreate some of the special dishes we've mentioned—right in your home.

Although the preparation of Cajun food is not complicated, it is very important that the recipes which we shall give be followed exactly as to measurements and procedures. Probably the dish most of you would like to prepare is Cajun Jambalaya. It is a wonderful 'complete meal in itself' that gay people will find both exciting and practical because it is such happy, convivial, 'group' food. If you do much entertaining you'll find it une vrai piece de resistance, and here is how it's done.

CAJUN JAMBALAYA

Serves Six To Eight Persons

Ingredients:

¼ cup cooking oil
2 medium onions, chopped
6 green onions, chopped
2 green peppers, chopped
1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut into serving pieces
½ pound cooked ham, cubed
½ pound smoked or Polish kielbasy-type sausage, sliced

1 can tomatoes (16 oz.) cut in pieces (reserve liquid)
1 can tomatoes (16 oz.) cut in pieces (reserve liquid)
1 teaspoon salt (don't use more because there's salt in the sausage and ham)
2 bay leaves
½ teaspoon powdered thyme (or you may use fresh, if available)
2 sprigs parsley, chopped
1¾ cups uncooked rice (cook according to package directions)
½ cup water
¾ teaspoon Tabasco sauce

Heat oil in large kettle. Add onions, green onions and peppers. Simmer gently until transparent (about 10 minutes). Add chicken and brown on all sides. Add ham/sausage and cook 10 minutes longer. Add tomato paste with slices of tomatoes, with liquid. Mix gently and well, and add seasonings. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Stir in cooked rice by the spoonful. Add water. Cover and let cook over low heat for 1 hour. Stir frequently, to keep jambalaya from sticking to pan. If it begins to stick, add a little more of the tomato juice or a little water. Do this also if the rice appears to be getting a little dry. Just before serving 'sic' the Tabasco into it and stir.

SHRIMP ETOUFFÉE

(Smothered Shrimp)

Serves Eight Persons

Ingredients:

4 cups water
2 sliced onions
4 celery tops
2 bay leaves
¼ teaspoon dried leaf thyme
1 teaspoon salt, divided
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 pounds raw shrimp, cleaned and deveined
½ cup butter or margarine
2 cups chopped scallions
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup flour
2 cans tomatoes (16 oz. each), drained
½ teaspoon Tabasco sauce
Hot cooked rice

Into a large saucepan combine water, onions, celery, the bay leaves, thyme, ½ teaspoon salt and lemon juice and bring to a boil. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Add shrimp and bring to a second boil; reduce heat and simmer for 4 minutes. Remove from heat, strain broth and reserve. Reserve shrimps. Now in another large saucepan melt the butter, add the scallions, garlic and celery, then cook until tender. Stir in flour. Gradually stir in 4 cups reserved shrimp broth. Bring mixture to a boil over low heat, stirring constantly. Stir in tomatoes, the remaining ½ teaspoon salt, Tabasco and shrimp. Heat through, and serve over hot cooked rice.

As you will have divined, this is another 'meal in itself' that will make your gay dinner all the gayer. It just takes time, yet nothing in the preparation needs a great deal of watching over. Just follow it step by step and you'll have a hearty, delicious and very different kind of shrimp dinner. Serve with a green salad, a simple dressing, and some simply dessert. Any good cold white or rose wine goes well with the Shrimps Etouffées.

CAJUN CHICKEN AND OYSTER GUMBO

Serves Ten Persons

Ingredients:

1½ cups oil
1 cup flour
2 medium onions, minced
1 green pepper, minced
1 cup celery, minced
1 chicken (4-5 pounds) cut into serving pieces
3 cups cold water
2 quarts boiling water
1½ cup parsley, minced
½ cup green onion tops, minced
1 pint oysters
Mild seasonings to taste
Cooked rice

Combine oil and flour in heavy kettle and heat to make a roux, stirring rapidly until mixture is dark brown. Add onions, pepper and celery and saute 3 minutes. Add the chicken and cook 15 minutes over low heat, stirring constantly. Add cold water and stir well. Add boiling water and cook until chicken meat is tender. Add parsley, onion tops, oysters and mixed seasonings and cook 15 minutes longer. Serve with cooked rice. This preparation will make ten gay guys all the gayer!

Our next recipe is 'everyday Cajun' . . . it serves well as a principal dish without meat. It is not elaborate enough for a large dinner party, but fine for some special friend you'd like to share it with. It will also be appreciated by party guests, portions of it can serve as a side dish.

CAJUN STRING BEAN CASSEROLE

Ingredients:

1 large can string beans, any style (reserve liquid)
1 can mushroom soup, divided
½ cup cubed cheese, divided
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Breadcrumbs
½ teaspoon thyme

Place about half of the string beans in a casserole dish. Next, add half a can of the mushroom soup, plus ¼ cup of the cubed cheese. Now add the remaining beans and the cheese. Dilute the remainder of the soup with ¼ cup of the reserved string-bean liquid. Now add the Worcestershire sauce, pouring it over the casserole. Lightly sprinkle the breadcrumbs over top . . . and then sprinkle the thyme over that. Bake in a moderate oven (about 350 degrees) for 15 to 20 minutes—until the heavenly aroma of this Cajun String Bean Casserole enslaves your nostrils!

Book Review

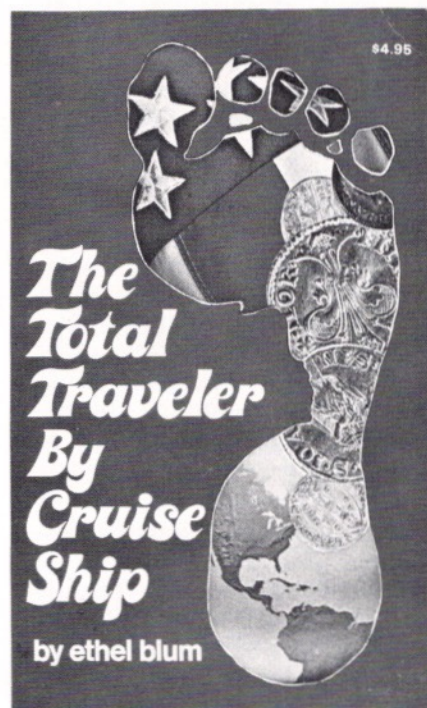

By The Editors

Cruising by ship is currently enjoying a resurgence in popularity among vacationers who prefer the simplicity of a single booking for transportation, lodging, meals and entertainment—all for a fixed price, no matter how much you eat or how you utilize the facilities. Previously the domain of oldsters, the cruise ships that ply the sunny vacation waters these days are brimming over with young people too.

But for the uninitiated, the cruise ship is a source of discomfort—because the unfamiliar is never pleasant. Now a single book chock full of information for the prospective cruiser serves to familiarize readers in an instant by providing all the answers to all the questions you've ever asked. A few hours spent with Ethel Blum's The Total Traveler By Cruise Ship (Travel Publications, Inc., $4.95 in paperback; available at most bookstores) will make you feel like a seasoned cruiser—knowing exactly where A-Deck is, how much to tip your waiter and when, what to do if you get seasick, what to wear, etc., etc.

Ms. Blum also provides a thumbnail sketch of all the major ports in the Caribbean, Mexico, Alaska and Canada—and the ships that call there, detailing facilities, crew, entertainment, dining, itinerary, and tipping.

Read this book if cruising intrigues you. If you are thinking about going on a gay cruise find out about the ship being used this easy way—because the cost of a cruise does not vary that much from ship to ship, but the ships themselves do. Get your money's worth by choosing the right cruise—gay or straight. Ms. Blum gives prospective seamen the knowledge they need.

Gay World News & Notes

By The Editors

Vatican City . . . Assailing "the unbridled exaltation of sex," the Vatican's recently released new code of sexual ethics that was seven years in the making has more or less been rejected by most thinking adults throughout the world. Consensus is that it is ludicrous. But it does reaffirm the Catholic position on homosexuality (as well as premarital sex and masturbation)—condemning it entirely. In light of this official statement and the opposition the Catholic Church has given the gay rights movement in recent years it is difficult for many non-Catholic homosexuals to understand how some of their brothers can continue to follow the teachings of that particular religion. One need not abandon God, but all homosexuals should reach Him through a path of less resistance.

Hollywood . . . Paul Newman will play the lead in a film version of the novel, "The Front Runner." The story deals with a track coach (Newman) who falls in love with a champion long-distance runner he is coaching for the Olympics.

Seattle . . . A contraceptives boutique operated by the Zero Population Growth people is going great guns. The shop is called "The Rubber Tree" and it sells 26 kinds of contraceptives in various colors—making it easy for young straights and gays to get them without the hassle of going to a drugstore. The use of contraceptives is gaining popularity among gay guys everywhere because they offer protection against anal V.D. This form of syphilis is increasing, due to the heavy bisexual crossover sex many guys are into these days.

Truro . . . Nudists are pushing to reclaim their right to drop their pants on the beach at Truro—which is part of the Cape Cod National Seashore. The crowds got so bad in recent years that locals protesting the carnival aspect of things managed to get the courts to ban nudity there last summer. The Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts has filed an appeal in the U.S. Court of Appeals in an effort to overturn the ruling. Gay people vacationing in nearby Provincetown enjoyed this beach in great numbers.

Gay World Travel Tips

By The Editors

New York . . . Times Square is getting hotter by the day. The general cleanup of prostitutes and porno stores is being forced by local authorities who are being backed by federal funds. Such cleanups usually occur before political conventions—as is the case right now on the eve of the Democratic Convention at Madison Square Garden. Such drives are a waste of money—but all those who make a living making arrests and prosecuting are happy that their plates will be filled with steaks this summer—thanks to their special salaries and fees.

Barcelona . . . It's anybody's guess what the death of Franco will mean to gay people in Spain. Most observers think the change will be good and gay life will surface now that Franco is gone. Gay rumors have it that not that long ago Juan Carlos had a close friend in a famous male model who frequently appeared in the picture books about 10 years ago. That he provided an island vacation retreat for his friend. That his friend was a frequent visitor at his hotel when he came to New York. We don't really know.

• Spas are popular vacation spots these days—and all those nude bodies soaking up the vapors are a treat to the eye and oftentimes available. Switzerland has a lot of beauty farms where you can regain relaxation and good looks. Check with Swissair or your travel agent for details on package deals.

• Before you take off be sure and register your camera and other expensive items with U.S. Customs. You can do this at the airport after you check in. It might save you paying duty on these things when you re-enter the U.S.

• We remind you of V.I.B. Tours, 244 E. 46th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. The initials stand for Vacations in the Buff and the organization specializes in booking nudist camps around the world. Write for information—but do not mention that you are gay. Once you get there it's every man for himself but at least one recent TV interview of one of the principals in the organization indicated that the sexual aspect of the attraction they hold for their clients is frowned upon—by them.

• If you're doing the U.S. this summer don't forget that a lot of guys think there's a helluva lot of Americana in the old glory hole—and "Private Stock" is one of the few gay travel directories in the world that lists action spots as well as the usual meeting places (bars, baths, etc.). So don't leave without a copy. And if you discover new action spots—tell us about them so that we may share them with others.

• A friend who has a touch of larceny in his soul tells us how he saves money by not paying overweight charges when flying. He carries his heaviest stuff on as hand luggage—which is usually not weighed at the check-in counter. If it is large and stopped at the gate the attendant simply takes it and puts it on the plane—but it will not be weighed or charged at this time.

• If you're planning on taking a cruise or going off to some remote vacation spot it's a good idea to advertise in the personals column of a gay magazine or newspaper months before your departure—to make a connection in case another gay guy is going to be in the same spot at the same time. Even if he doesn't see the ad, chances are a friend of his will. Everybody knows . . . advertising pays.

Free Subscriber Service Personal Ads

HOW TO PLACE AN AD

For as long as you are a subscriber to any of our magazines we will run your Personal Ad absolutely free in every issue of all our publications. Simply send us your ad not to exceed 30 words (name and address count as 2 words). If your message exceeds 30 words send 50 cents per word additional. Only 1 ad to a subscriber (no matter how many magazines you subscribe to). You may change your ad as often as you like but notify us at least 3 months in advance. Use your own name, address and/or phone number or we will assign you a code number. When a code is used we will forward your sealed envelopes free of charge (see "How to Answer" below). No one but you will ever see your letters. We reserve the right to change wording in keeping with our editorial policy. Please print clearly and indicate which magazine(s) you currently subscribe to. Be sure and give us your full name and address for our records (even if not used in your ad). Send to: QQ Publishing Co., Inc., Suite 602, 450 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10001.

HOW TO ANSWER AN AD

Anyone may answer an ad, subscribers and non-subscribers alike. Write directly to the advertiser, or call if address and phone number are given. If a code appears here's how to reply: 1. Seal your letter in a "personal size" envelope. 2. Write the code number very small but clearly in one of the corners on the back of the envelope. 3. Affix U.S. postage stamp on front of the envelope, upper right-hand corner, and write your own return address on the front of the envelope, upper left-hand corner. Do not write anything in the address area. For U.S., Canada & Mexico postage is 10 cents for surface mail, 13 cents for airmail for up to 1 oz. (normal weight). For foreign mail (note: code given will be followed by an "F" if advertiser lives abroad) use 26 cents per 1/2 oz. for air-mail. If the envelope to be forwarded reaches us without proper postage we will destroy it. 4. Place this smaller envelope in a larger "business size" envelope and send to: QQ Publishing Co., Inc., Suite 602, 450 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10001. Be sure and use enough postage as post office now destroys all improperly posted envelopes. 5. When we receive your sealed envelope to be forwarded we will write the advertiser's name and address on it and deposit it in a mail-box. You will hear directly from the advertiser. Do not ask us to act in your behalf, etc.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Personals are free but if you have something to sell your ad becomes a commercial classified. The rate for such ads is 50 cents per word (name and address count as 2 words). Such classifieds will appear in this section but in reverse (white type on black). We will run your ad in the first available issue (specify which publication since such ads are priced on a "one time only" basis). Send ad and payment to: QQ Publishing Co., Inc., Suite 602, 450 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10001.

Non-Subscribers Note:

Non-subscribers may now place personals. General instructions above apply. Rate is 50 cents per word (name and address count as 2 words) on a 1-time basis only. Specify which of our 3 magazines you want your ad to appear in when you write. Send check or money order to: QQ Publishing Co., Inc., Suite 602, 450 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10001.

TRAVELERS TO ISRAEL: NOTE!

In past issues of QQ Magazine and Ciao! we have run articles and tips on Israel provided by our correspondent Jack Bernstein. He now confesses that much of the information provided, particularly on gay activity in the kibbutzim, was highly exaggerated because he "... wanted to help Israel... and get gay tourism away from the Arab countries." Thus, the disservice he dealt us caused us to misinform our readers. We apologize and ask you to interpret past notices on gay life in Israel accordingly. —The Editors

1976 GAY TRAVEL DIRECTORY

From The Editors Of Ciao!—The Most Celebrated Gay Travel Magazine In The World—A 1976 International Travel Directory Containing Nearly 4,000 Up-To-Date And Accurate Keyed Names And Addresses Of Gay Hotels, Bars, Baths, Movie Houses, Book/Sex Shops, Meeting Places And Action Spots Throughout The U.S.A., Canada, Mexico, Central America, The Caribbean, South America, Europe, Africa, The Middle East, Asia, And The Pacific . . . Your Passport To Gay Adventure In A Compact Booklet Small Enough To Fit In Your Pocket!

THE MOST ACCURATE GAY TRAVEL DIRECTORY IN THE WORLD

Nearly all existing gay travel directories are "rip-offs" of guides published years ago—providing information which is no longer valid. The editors of our gay travel magazine span the world—constantly gathering information for Ciao! They have prepared our 1976 gay travel directory—which we call "Private Stock." It contains nearly 4,000 accurate and up-to-date names and addresses of gay establishments and meeting places everywhere in the world—conveniently arranged by country and city in alphabetical order. By utilizing a concise system of "keys" we are able to present detailed information about each listing; the keys are so arranged that you can instantly interpret them and learn everything you need to know—whether a place is entirely gay, what you will encounter—young guys, old guys, sex, no booze, entertainment, food, lesbians, hustlers, muggers, cops, even dangerous animals (in jungle meat-racks!). And we dare to bare it all—including johns on college campuses, in subways and department stores that swing. By using small type which is easy to read we are able to cram all this valuable information in a compact booklet which is securely stapled together in magazine form and small enough (3x5) to fit in your shirt pocket. Its cover is durable and leather-grained with absolutely no "tell-tale" printing so that discreet travelers can use it anywhere. Plus other features such as where to look for sex in college towns, and how much hustlers are paid—and how to handle them. Published annually—"Private Stock" is the only gay travel directory you need . . . the only one you will ever want. It is your personal address book for hot times! Sent via certified 1st class.

Four important steps for Gay America from the National Gay Task Force

Let the media know your feelings

See, hear or read something offensive? Complain to the media by phone and letter. Help local groups contact media management for meetings and awareness sessions. Work on local group publicity.

Back up gay legislation

Write letters urging support for gay rights legislation to federal, state and local legislators. Focus attention on gay rights in religious, professional and community groups. Make it a campaign issue.

Support local gay organizations

Contact local groups and join, or offer money, energy or a place to meet. Provide expertise from your professional experience, behind the scenes if necessary. Possibilities are limitless—there are currently gay caucuses in professional organizations and special Task Forces on Lesbianism are active within N.O.W. chapters. Start or join a gay caucus in your union, religious group, political party or professional association. Talk to your friends about the assistance they can offer. Form a regional or neighborhood organization to address local needs. Get together with other gay men and lesbians for support and sharing. Subscribe to gay periodicals: start a local gay public affairs radio program.

*For more specific information, contact NGTF.

Join The National Gay Task Force

For LOCAL SUPPORT, we have: compiled packets of support materials for use in local organizations; coordinated resources and referred groups to comparable organizations in other parts of the country; served as an information clearinghouse on national gay successes, actions and problems; referred speakers by location or expertise for local conferences; coordinated national actions in media and the military based on local action.

But so much more needs to be done! And we need your help to continue our work. NGTF's financial support has come solely from memberships, donations and fund raising events. Without your support, we can not continue our current activities.

Help us now. Join NGTF today.

El Perfecto

Some like 'em long 'n lean; some like 'em short 'n scout (see our other ads . . . we have 'em all!)—but most guys prefer a "workable" size. EL PERFECTO I is where preferred size begins; it's 5 1/2" long and 1 1/2" in diameter. EL PERFECTO II is at an acceptable limit; it's 7" long and 1 3/4" in diameter. Flange base helps prevent "accidental loss." Both models are molded from life and are made of flesh-like, flesh-colored washable rubber. Sold as a novelty to adults only (please state you are over 21). Sent via insured parcel post in a large, plainly-marked box.

Tom of Finland
presents
"RINGO & The RENEGADES"

AN EXCLUSIVE, NEW PICTURE STORY
32 HOT PAGES--$5

The world's most famous pornartist—TOM OF FINLAND—presents a new picture story exclusively done for QQ. The handsome picture book measures 5½x8½. Tom's art is reproduced on extra-heavy, white enameled stock and bound in a rigid, yellow "alligator grain" cover; 32 pages containing 20 sequences, some occupying 2 pages. Biographical information on Tom included. A must for collectors of male art. Limited edition. Sent in plainly-marked, carefully-sealed manila envelope via 1st class. Sorry, cannot be sold to minors.

Send check or money-order to: QQ Publishing Co., Inc., Room 602, 450 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 10001.

The BIG Tornado

Hur-r-y! Hur-r-y! Hur-r-y! The BIG TORNADO is here! It twists . . . it squirms . . . it throbs . . . you control the action by turning the crank. A full 10½" long (2" in diameter) of solid flesh-like, flesh-colored rubber. Completely washable. A great toy for you and an appreciated gift. Sold as a novelty to adults only (please state you are over 21). Sent via insured parcel post in a large, plainly-marked box.

The Greatest Invention Since The Human Mouth

ACCU-JAC

New Variable Speed Model

If you are into masturbation then ACCU-JAC is for you. It is a professionally engineered massaging device that took four years of research and development.

ACCU-JAC uses alternating air pressure to move a smooth massaging membrane on the erect penis. The stroking motion is total and incorporates pressurized air flow which produces suction and compression to drive the massaging sleeve back and forth, thus approximating actual fellatio. This total massage combined with gentle suction results in violent climax.

No electrical parts ever touch you. ACCU-JAC is completely safe and entirely harmless. It is gentler than the hand or actual fellatio. A warranty is included to protect all electrical and mechanical parts.

The basic unit includes everything you need to use ACCU-JAC . . . there are no extras to buy. Additional sleeves for a variety of unusual sensations are available for later purchase. They are detailed in literature which accompanies ACCU-JAC and also in our 1975 Catalog advertised elsewhere in this magazine.

It is crucial that you furnish exact measurements of your erect penis to ensure perfect fit of the sleeve sent with your unit. If you are purchasing ACCU-JAC with a friend order an additional sleeve for the second person if his size is different from yours and/or you intend to use ACCU-JAC simultaneously with a T-connection accessory (see coupon).

If you wish to learn more about ACCU-JAC before purchasing see our detailed report in the February 1975 QQ Magazine. Send $3.50 ($4.50 in Canada & Mexico; $5.00 all other countries) for a copy; $1 for a Xerox copy of the report. Address on coupon.

Our prices include all shipping charges and taxes where applicable. We ship via insured parcel post. Cartons are sturdy and carefully packed and bear no revealing markings. U.S. residents desiring air service please add $10 to your order. A money-order or charge expedites shipment. Sorry, no C.O.D.'s. Price reflects manufacturer's 1974 increase. You must be over 21 to order.

QQ Publishing Co., Inc., Suite 602, 450 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 10001

Please check:

- ☐ Complete ACCU-JAC with 1 massaging sleeve $199.50

CONDOMS

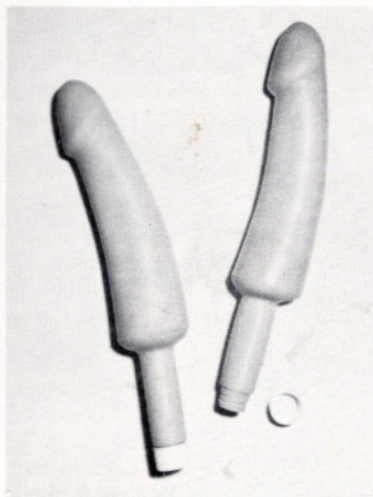

Active guys never know what they're getting into . . . so why take chances when you can safeguard against V.D. and organisms that can infect the urinary tract by using a condom? PROFIL condoms are ideally suited for gay sex: they are (1) tough and cannot tear; (2) thin to fit the skin and do not affect the sensitivity of the wearer; (3) shaped to cling and have a reservoir tip for comfort; (4) lubricated. Each condom comes sealed in foil; you get 10 to the pack. Imported from Sweden. Sent via insured parcel post in a plain wrapper. Sold to adults only.

CONDOMS (10-PACK)$5.25

Send to: QQ Publishing Co., Inc., Suite 602, 450 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10001. Order forms on page 54.

HOT ROD

Fill 'er up and shove 'er in! No fuel shortage with HOT ROD . . . a little warm water goes a long way to tingle your dingle. Realistically shaped. Ideal size (7½" long by 1½" diameter, not including spout and screw cap). Made of smooth, soft plastic that has absolutely no rough edges or seams. Flesh-colored. Completely washable.

HOT ROD$9.95

The Gemini 18

THE GEMINI 18 can be used as a "single" by those who like length—or a "double" by two at the same time. Flesh-like, flesh-colored solid rubber over 18" long and better than 2" in diameter. Molded from life, very realistic. Over 2 lbs. of springy rubber. Completely washable. (A tip for the economy-minded: It can be divided in half by cutting, for two good-sized singles.) Sold as a novelty to adults only (please state you are over 21). Sent via insured parcel post in a large, plainly-marked box.

CARIBBEAN GAY GUIDE

The December 1975 Ciao! is devoted entirely to the Gay Caribbean—including The Yucatan. Also covered are the Bahamas and Bermuda. Puerto Rico is the main feature—and gay life on 25 other Caribbean islands is exposed. Find out about little-known male brothels and where the sun shines bright on gay vacationers. This issue is virtually an Official Guide to the Gay Caribbean and because places change slowly on the Islands the information will remain valid for years. If you are a wintertime vacationer—send for a copy now. Supply is limited. Specify issue by date when ordering. Only $3.50 a copy in the U.S.A., $4.50 in Canada and Mexico, $5.00 elsewhere.
