HELLO OUT THERE

Hello? Is there anyone out there? Are you breathing? Are you able to speak? Can you hear me? Can you see me?

Being a frequent customer at local establishments in the community, I have found myself, asking myself these questions. What ever happened to the age old art of conversation? Doesn't anyone communicate verbally anymore? Have we all become so televised and computerized that we can no longer hear sounds or utter words, phrases or sentences?

What the hell did people do before the invention of stereo, power boosters and sonic speakers? Maybe they actually carried on intelligent, stimulating and meaningful conversations about the state of the world or even the universe for that matter. And, without the invention of that large, colorful box full of people, jokes and jocks ... what did they look at?

All bars in Atlanta have music of some sort. And now, a growing number of them also feature television to accompany the music. Of course, needless to say, the music doesn't go along with the picture and to me the televisions and excessively loud music don't go along with the bars. Today, not only do you not have to talk to other people, you don't even have to look at them. You can prop yourself up along a wall for several hours, without ever having to communicate in any manner other than asking for another beer or cocktail. And, if you are really lucky, the bartender will know what you want without uttering a sound.

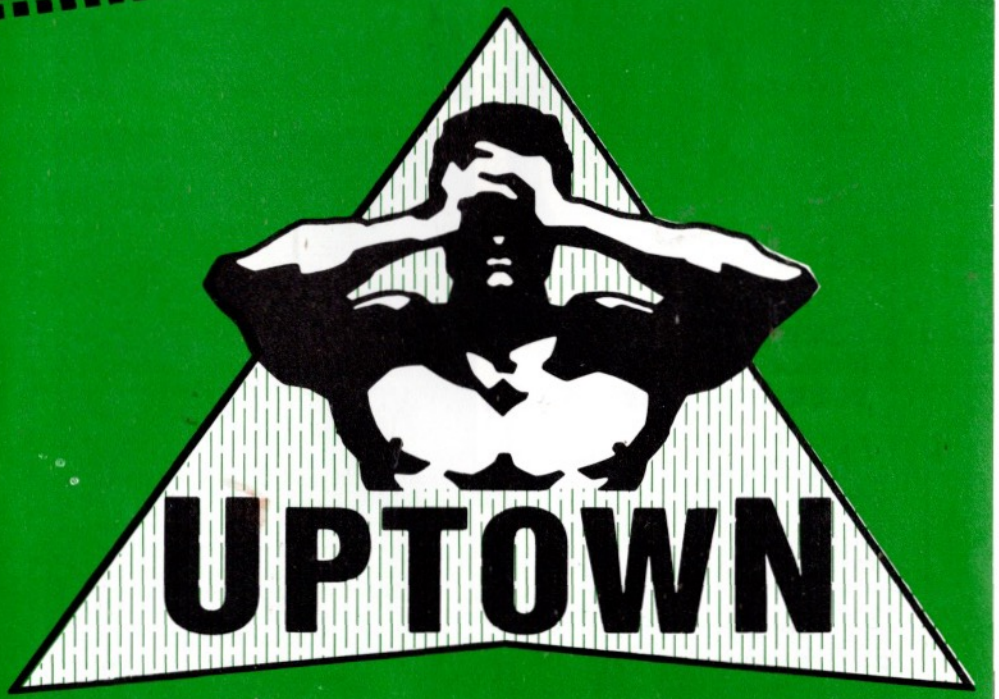

Many years ago, taverns and pubs were opened as places where people could gather, have a few drinks and talk. Issues of great importance were probally debated and many discoveries were no doubt made over a stein of beer and a few stale pretzels.

The gay community has very few places to meet one another and share ideas and concepts. Bars have always been one of the few havens for gays, sheltered by wood, plaster and plastic from the non-gays. But, what can be shared when you can't even hear someone say excuse me? Or how can you meet someone if you can't even make eye contact? Hello? Is there anyone out there? Are you breathing? Are you able to speak? Can you hear me? Can you see me?

SAVANNAH, GA. GETS NEW CRUISE BAR

Wade Bragg, alias "Helen Truble", has opened a brand new cruise bar in Savannah, Georgia. Ms. T's is the name, and says the bar differs in many ways from other bars in the area. Ms. T's cruise bar features shows, a pool table, juke box dancing and backgammon. Music in Ms. T's is played low enough to enable conversation which is seldom found in gay bars.

There is an outside patio for those warm spring and summer nights and their restaurant featuring sandwiches will be opening this Sunday. The bar is open 7 days a week from 6 pm until 3 am with a happy hour from 6 pm until 10 pm. Double nickel specials are featured nightly from 10 pm until 12 midnight.

So, if you are looking for a new place to go in Savannah, Ms. T's is probally just what you have been waiting for. They are located at 102 E. Broad Street. Stop by and tell "Helen" that you read about her new cruise bar in CRUISE Magazine.

BROADWAY STEPS ASIDE FOR OPENING OF THE PLUSH ROOM CABARET

Opening February 12, 1982, in the lower level of the newly renovated Hotel York at 683 Peachtree Street Northeast, is the Plush Room Cabaret. The 150 seat cabaret opens, not with a star-studded line-up of Hollywood or New York talend, but with some of the best entertainers in Atlanta. The cabaret has assembled ten of Atlanta's top talents for one show each during the opening weekend. Scheduled are: Bernadine Mitchell, Sandra Dorsey, Carolyn Calloway, Ginny Parker, Dejie Johnson, Liz Spraggins, David Jenkins, Mandy Beason, Keisa Brown, and Kathy Baker.

There will be three shows nightly, with the exception of Saturday, February 13th. A fourth show at two am has been scheduled. There will be a five dollar cover charge for each of the opening shows, with a two drink minimum. Advance tickets are available at the Fox Theater box office.

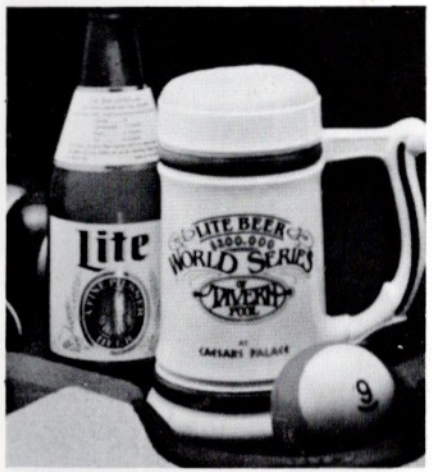

Hotel York-Atlanta/San Francisco President, Russell Carlton Cox, says, "the Hotel York's Plush Room Cabaret will strive to provide a great international city with great live entertainment in an intimate setting."

The Plush Room in Atlanta has been designed by David Sheppard, well known in Atlanta entertainment through his successful Showcase Cabaret, Manhattan Yellow Pages, and, most recently, the extremely enjoyable production of "On the Right Track" at the fabulous Fox Theater.

The opening weekend line-up will be as follows. On Friday, February 12th Bernadine Mitchess will perform at 8 pm, Sandra Dorsey at 10 pm and Carolyn Calloway at midnight. Saturday the 13th, Ginny Parker will perform at 8 pm, Dejie Johnson at 10 pm, Liz Spraggins at midnight, and David Jenkins at 2 am. The final night, Friday the 14th, Mandy Beason will perform at 8 pm, Keisa Brown at 10 pm and Kathy Baker at midnight.

The Hotel York's Plush Room Cabaret spring line-up will be announced soon.

For additional information, contact: Randall Hinton, Hotel York Atlanta, 404 874-9200.

SHOW AT THE GATHERING PLACE COFFEEHOUSE

Arthur Whitehead, a usually "mild mannered" volunteer for the Gathering Place Coffeehouse, will reveal his true self the night of Friday, January 15th, when he presents his one man show "Hyperactivity Unleashed" at the Gathering Place Coffeehouse.

He will feature "lip-syncs" to a number of songs by the likes of Jim Stafford and Ray Stevens, and from the shows,"Pippin," "The Magic Show," "Hair," "Fame" and "Jesus Christ Superstar."

He will include magic, mime, dance and perform his awesome coke can stunt. (Hmmm?)

The performance begins promptly at 9:00 pm.

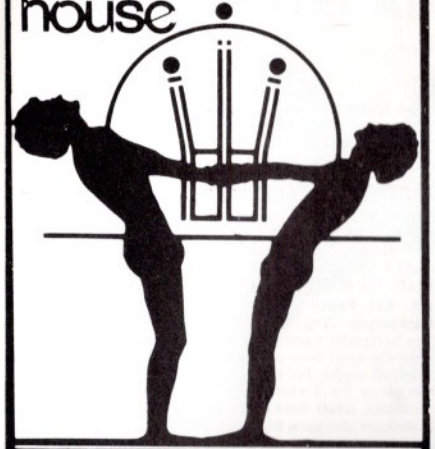

ALFA HOSTS COFFEEHOUSE

To celebrate the intimacy of winter, The Atlanta Lesbian Feminist Alliance, (ALFA), is hosting an old-fashioned coffeehouse Sunday, January 17th, 1982 at 8:00 pm at 1326 McLendon Ave. NE, Atlanta, Georgia. Some of ALFA'S finest poets, such as Elizabeth Knolton, Alice Seeter, Sharon Sanders, and Athene, will be sharing some good poems with you.

For your enjoyment, fancy coffee, herb teas, and pastries will be available. Admission is $1.00 for non-members and 50¢ for members. All women are welcome.

"CONFESSIONS" RETURNS FOR THREE—WEEKEND RUN AT NEXUS

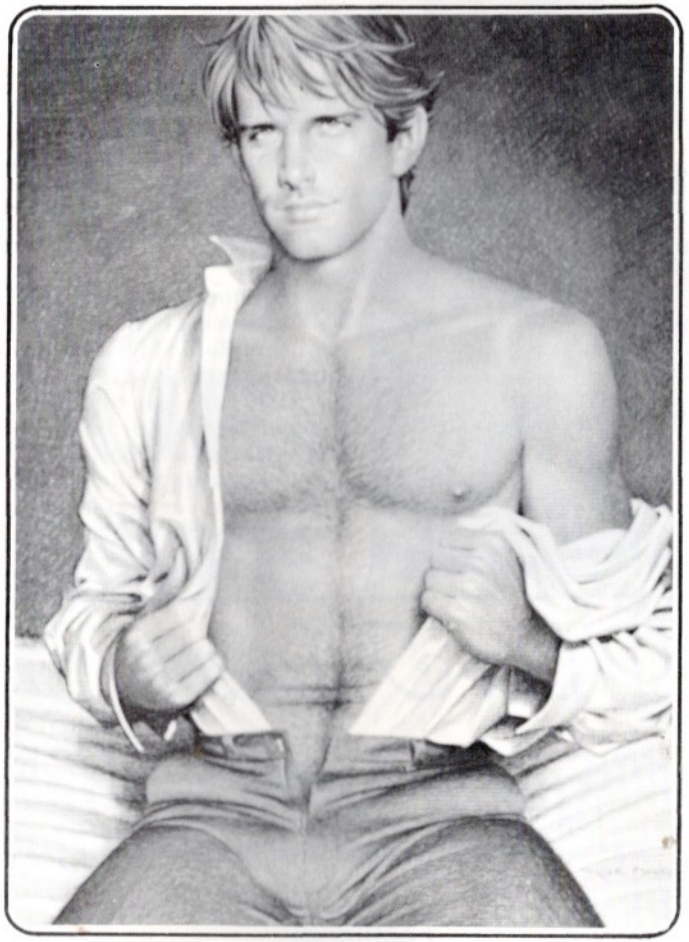

You first hear it in the dark - a snapping sound; then a rustling, sliding noise. It rustles down the aisle, clicking and slithering, and it stops next to your seat. The lights come up slowly. There they are: four insouciant, seductive, yet innocent looking cheerleaders in bobby sox, red circle skirts and letter sweaters. They stare at you with arch smiles as they sway, snapping their fingers. Then one gives the signal: "Ready? Set? Let's go!!!" and they leap onto the stage, screaming like the conclusion of "Marat Sade."

"Confessions of a Female Disorder" is back. If you missed this show the first time around (at the Existentialist Theatre in Candler Park in November), you may well ask, "So what?" So, "Confessions" is one of the most outrageously funny, satirical, high-energy, solidly entertaining shows to be put on the boards in Atlanta in the past year. It is also one of the few plays with a gay theme to appeal to sold-out audiences of non-gay and gay people alike.

"The unique thing about 'Confessions' is the energy that surrounds it," said Margaret Manners, the show's director. This energy is evident from the opening scene with the four cheerleaders, through the appearance of the central character, Ronnie, right through to the wistful, yet upbeat conclusion.

The show follows Ronnie (played by Kim Marks) from puberty, through college and loss of virginity, to marriage and an attempt to go straight in suburbia. The attempt is not too successful, for when Ronnie's old college chum, Coop (Sherry McHenry), arrives on the scene, Ronnie joyfully gives up the struggle and succumbs. Ronnie's acknowledgement of her lesbianism is shown in very personal terms rather than political ones, and the only "message" is that acknowledging and expressing love is liberation; denying that love and trying to live according to society's rules is death in life.

Kim Marks, an actress/model who has played numerous roles with Southern Theatre Conspiracy, brings Ronnie to life with irrepressible good humor and vivacity. It's a demanding role, since Ronnie is onstage almost constantly, but Kim, a striking brunette, is more than equal to it. "Ronnie is a marvelous character," says Kim, "because she is such a highly individual person, yet the relationships she experiences make her someone anyone can relate to." Indeed.

"Confessions of a Female Disorder" will re-open at the Nexus Theatre, corner of Ralph McGill and Glen Iris, on January 21. Performance dates are January 21 - 24, the 28 - 31, and February 4 - 7. Curtain is at 8:00 pm and tickets sell for $4.50. Special group rates are available. For further information or reservations, call Nexus Theatre, 688-2500.
