TELL SOMEBODY YOU LOVE THEM:

Now is your chance to say "I love you" to someone special in a different way. For the Fevruary issue of the CHANNEL, we are opening a page-at least-to messages of love. We will put your name, initials, or message in a small heart along with others taking advantage of this unusual offer.

Haven't you ever said, "I'll tell the world"? Then tell them, and tell that special someone, with a valentine message in the CHANNEL.

IS THIS LOVE? :: AN EDITORIAL

As editor it is fun to plagiarize. I have already advised Mike Davis that I would print his name here, because he recently spoke to our Thursday night worship service. (And those of you who haven't attended are cheating yourselves.) Mike's theme was the grapevine, and he pointed out the necessity of the individual branches to cling to the main vine. Just as the parts of the vine work together, it is necessary for Christians to work together. If we fight, bicker, and have differences, we get nowhere!

It is true that MCC-Dallas is a church full of love. We flow over with love, and it definitely shows. One of our worst failures, however, is the lack of communication; this often overcomes the love and makes it of no worth.

Let me get down to the nitty-gritty. I claim to be a Christian. Something that one of my beloved brothers or sisters does offends me. I see this as an unChristian thing. What do I do? Usually and sadly I go and discuss it with my intimates and general acquaintances and complain and gossip, with the result that hard feelings come by reason of my approach. This may not even be something that my friend has done; it may be something left undone.

My dear readers, don't let some other person's behavior take you apart. The best thing to do, as advocated by the Scriptures themselves, is to go directly to that brother or sister and speak up. "Friend, I notice you weren't here Sunday to help out like you promised. Do you have some problem, and, if so, can I help?" If your friend is drifting anyway, there will be no negative results with a sincere approach. You can only persuade him or her that your desire to help out and your interest are genuine. You may gain a better friend for the effort.

For love's sake, never go to a third party with your misunderstandings. Go to the party involved. My invisible pet squirrel, Socratease, comes to me from time to time and advises me that some people find me unbearable. (He always bites them because he thinks they are nuts; fortunately, he has no teeth.) Perhaps I am unbearable; if you find me so, then tell me why I am unbearable. I want you to like me as much as you want people to like you. If what I do offends you, it may offend others. I may not know it.

Do yourself a favor. Say something constructive to the person who can do something about it. You'll be better and show your love if your attitude is Christ-like. I love you all.

TRAINING CLASSES FOR SERVICE CENTER

The Community Service Center, a crisis and referral service housed at MCC-Dallas' church building, has been holding training sessions for telephone counselors. With the staff presently manning the phones and those successfully completing the training sessions, it is hoped that phones will be manned from 7:00 PM to 11:00 PM seven nights a week. Future classes may enable the Center to reach the hopeful goal of operating the Center's crisis line on a 24-hour basis. Interested members of the community are urged to get in touch.

The Community Service Center is a confidential service. If you are uptight or in trouble, you can call us during the open hours, from 7 to 11 each evening. (See the number on page two.)

As editor of this paper, I look forward to printing more good news regarding the Community Service Center. Let us know if we can help you - or vice versa!

GROWING PAINS.....

It is a real pleasure to look through the finished paper and notice the growing and expansion going on here. In March of 1972, we were a 12-page paper put out by the Pastor. April showers brought in the reign (what a terrible pun!) of Roy the Terrible, our present editor/dictator. When, after much pleading and begging, a staff was recruited, we courageously spread our words on to 16 pages, then boosted the circulation from a mere 1000 up to 1500.

And then we found businesses calling to ask, "Where is the CHANNEL? We've run out." But so had we.

So now, with the growing interest of advertisers and community-minded businesses, we have dared to go into a 20-page format - with a stupendous circulation of 2000. Pat McCormick, our Publications Director until she resigned, has returned to the staff as Associate Editor.

We are still hunting. We need a business manager, and we need artists and talented doodlers. Perhaps someday, when we get a go-ahead, the CHANNEL will come out even more often. I certainly hope you will write and let us know what you think. Stay tuned for further bulletins and special issues!

BETTER-LATE-THAN-NEVER Department:

The CHANNEL is pleased to belatedly bring you a listing of the winners of the First Annual Dall-y Awards, which was hosted by Ronsue's September 8. The "Fun Bar of the Year" was a tie between the Bayou Landing and Ronsue's. Terry Wilke of the Ranch was chosen as Manager of the Year. A Humanitarian Award went to Ronsue, and Ronsue's swept the entertainment field as well, with Entertainer of the Year (Sabra Garth), Group Drag of the Year (the Supremes), Serious Drag of the Year (Chelsea St. John) and Comedy Drag of the Year (Sal. E. Marie). Ronsue took the Congeniality Award, and the Waiter of the Year was Ronsue's delightful Fertilizer. Chuck K. of the Bayou Landing took the Bartender of the Year award.

(There's more gossip for Dallas; keep reading!)

A SUBSCRIPTION TO THE CHANNEL WOULD MAKE A NICE CHRISTMAS GIFT...

THE HOUSTON SCENE

Houston was long overdue. At last a study group has been started there, and it is meeting regularly in an apartment. Your man on the scene - sorry, and a woman on the scene - was the editor, and associate editor Miss McCormick, a truly fabulous female if you will accept the word of one who is prejudiced.

Back to Houston - the group was small; there were only about a dozen, including three from Dallas and one baby raccoon with a mad passion for salted nuts. But the people showed real enthusiasm and love. Due to Bob Miller's cold (Bob is visiting exhorter), the sermon was delivered by our dear Associate. Pat set a record for brevity and made Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address seem super-long. By the time most of us were just getting comfortable in our seats, she had finished and sat down. At press time we were looking forward to her Sunday morning sermon scheduled for October 28...

The worst tragedy of Bob's cold was that the song leader was the ultimate volunteer, your peaceable editor, modest and kind - and tone deaf. With an unparralleled talent, he selected only the songs that nobody else knew. But the courage of the group was up to it, even without the aid of music. As one Houstonian (is that right, readers?) put it, "You start it and we'll all fake it." And they were really good sports. If you think that's easy, then you haven't listened to the editor's dulcet dones.

If you go to Houston or have friends there, drop by the study group. Call Arnold Lawson, 522-4446, 2211 Kipling, Apt. A (in Houston). You'll be made to feel right at home!

WHAT'S HAPPENING, BABY:

A word of thanks to our patient advertisers. Two months of absence from duties left the editor lost when he stepped into the shoes of advertising co-ordinator as well.

A new advertiser (not for the last time, we hope) is the DOB - Daughters of Bilitis. As the name indicates, it is for women. They meet at the Women for Change offices at Bryan Towers, 2001 Bryan, Room 290 (see the ad and call for details). The telephone company (Ma Bell herself?) will have a representative meeting with the DOB Nov. 9, and Jane Baker of the National Organization of Women will be a featured guest Nov. 16.

Is THREE a lucky number? Let's hope so, because the ACT III and the 3 + YOU are both new bars, the third (I think) in each of their respective locations, and both have the number 3 in their name. The 3 + You is already open (some beautiful people), and the Act III will be opened in early November by Joe Gibson and Don Elliott of the Villa and Tommy Harris of Ronsue's. Good luck to both businesses!

.....MEDITATIONS.....by Larry Hart.....

(1) A woman when she is in travail hath sorrow, because her hour is come: but as soon as she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world.
-St. John 16:21

As a woman has pains in childbirth, so we all have pains in our spiritual growth. We sometimes commit an error several times before we learn not to do it. After we learn not to err in this same manner again, we have learned how to avoid a pain. We have also learned a valuable lesson.

Learning through experience is God's best way of teaching us who have thick skulls. If we would but listen to the voice of God in the beginning and do as He says at first, we would learn quickly and without pain.

PRAYER: Oh Mighty Teacher, we are but children in a classroom. You know all and we know so little. Open our eyes, that we might see. Open our hearts, that we might hear Thee. Oh Glorious Father, we ask that You will pick us up and show us the beauty of Your Universe. -Amen.

(2) When wisdom entereth into thine heart, and knowledge is pleasant unto thy soul, discretion shall preserve thee; understanding shall keep thee. -Proverbs 2:10-11

When an individual utilizes his knowledge for developing a more perfect unity between himself and God, then does he use his knowledge wisely.

Awareness of the Spirit of God moving through all is understanding the embodiment of the Divine Essence in all people, everywhere.

To use your wisdom and knowledge at the direction of the Holy Spirit is to preserve your soul.

PRAYER: Eternal Father, we are Thine. We are all one in the Spirit and realize the essence of God in our brothers and sisters. We realize when we embrace the good in all things, we are but expressing our Divinity. -Amen.

(3) My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: and I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand. -St. John 10:27-28

What beautiful words these are. God truly has "the whole world in His hands." We are the sheep in the field and Jesus is our Shepherd. He calls and we always hear, yet we do not always listen and obey. The black sheep is very often ornery. They hear but they do not obey. They fall over the side of the cliff as we fall out of the hands that created us. Many times the black sheep leads more over the side of the cliff, and it is the same with many of us. We must learn to be still and listen to His voice. We must first want to listen, before we can hear.

PRAYER: Dear Heavenly Father, hear our prayer. We praise You and glorify Your Son, and we want to hear and follow You. Why do we go astray? Hold us near to You and never let us leave. -Amen.

(4) For in Him we live and move and have our being. -Acts 17:28

Our bodies are the living Temples of the Most High God. The Light of God abides in us and it does the works.

Our bodies are like generators. God sends the light to our Temple where we glorify and praise God, making it stronger. We send it out to the Universe. We send it out to this planet. We send it out to this country. We send it out to our neighbors all around the world. They receive God's perfect life-giving Light, and they send it out to all. This light which may be likened to energy, never dies out, but is constantly moving and vibrating with the essence of the Godhead. It may also be compared to Love, which vibrates and moves and believe it or not, gets stronger...IF...our generator wants it to.

PRAYER: Dear Lord, the Light is definitely the greatest thing I have discovered in this life. Teach me more about it, and how I shoul use it more to Thy glory. -Amen.

CONFESSIONS OF A MALE CHAUVINIST PIG

My greatest social problem, long ago when I was young, used to be deciding which fork was proper to use. Now I find that I am afraid to refer to a member of the opposite sex. "Girl", I think, is supposed to be derogatory. "Lady" is also chauvinistic (But I think it sounds nice anyway). The "weaker sex" apparently is no such thing. Somebody, help!

Whatever you want to call them, they are some pretty nice people. And one of the really missing things at MCC-Dallas is women.

The accusation has come up that the church - not just MCC but often other churches as well - is chauvinistic and down on the female population. A good deal of this stems back to the Apostle Paul, a most unpopular and often-quoted man. After some considerati it may well be seen that he may have been misunderstood. For exampl one of his most unpopular quotes is his desire that women keep silen in the church. Now that sounds pretty definite. I finally found out what Paul's reason was when a Jewish minister - female - brought to my attention the fact that Jewish congregations and meetings of the early Christian church were conducted in segregated services. The women sat on one side and had a social hour while the men sat in the other section and listened to the speaker. They then explained the lesson to their wives at home. Sometimes the wives would get carried away with their gossip and drown out the speaker. It was then necessary for them to get quietened down. (Remember that this story did not come from a male; it came from a very charming female.) In these modern days, with integrated services, it is no longer necessary to ask the women to keep quiet, any more than it is necessary to ask the men to be quiet.

A good deal of the Apostle Paul's teachings are related to the period of time he lived in. He did not visualize our own modern day and age. If he had, you would have found more admonition: against new sins which have cropped up. I think you would have to look far to find a minister who would approve of the use of heroin; but the Apostle Paul never spoke out against it. He did speak out against drunkenness, but dope is never mentioned! The modern church has developed a stand not mentioned in the Bible. Even so, we must consider that Paul spoke out against certain attire and cosmetics for women - but most of this was to protect their reputations so they would not be mistaken for streetwalkers. Most of us know how sensitive and susceptible to criticism a young church is.

Upon careful inspection, we find that the woman was not quite as downtrodden as might have been believed. Phillip the Evangelist had seven daughters who were prophetesses. In fact, it was thru a woman that Christ was born. The Bible is full of women who have made their mark. Jael, an Old Testament woman, saved the Jewish nation from a tormentor when she drove a tent peg through the head of the commander of an attacking army. Rahab, a prostitute, made it possible for spies to excape from the city of Jericho and became the ancestress of David the king.

In a day when women are being accepted as the equals of man that they have already been since the year 1, and when education and jobs are opening to them, it is important that women be not only accepted as equals in the service of God but also sought as leaders.

MCC-Dallas has suffered a sad lack of women because they come one Sunday, see few if any others, and never return. Dear reader, if your sex is F where mine is M, don't give up after one visit. If there are only two of you worshipping with us this week, then bring back one more apiece next Sunday, and we'll have four or more. Don't be afraid to speak up and introduce yourselves. Come have fellowship with us and let us worship together.

MCC-Dallas is a church for all people. We don't care what color you are, what sex you are, what your sexual orientation is. We are here to be Christians in the service of God. Come worship with us, and give us a chance to show you our spiritual love!

COMMUNITY NEWS FLASHES:::

The CHANNEL blushes gracefully as we correct a boo-boo from last issue. As some of you may have noticed, we attributed the Villa with one Joe Elliott. Now my informed sources fortunately told me that Joe Elliott much prefers to be associated with the Highland Lounge, a bar for women, I'm glad to announce that I did not wear the bullet-proof vest to see Joe, as advised, and I am alive to tell about it. Joe is a delightfully pleasant person and even invited me to come back! So there. Males are not taboo so long as they behave. (The Highland is just Northwest of Central Expressway on Monticello, in the first block.) You might want to find out where it is, because on a date not yet chosen there is a Thanksgiving shindig planned. If anybody still isn't sure where Joe hails from, drop by and find out.

MCC EVENTS OF INTEREST

A number of members of MCC recently took a friendly crash course in Robert's Rules of Order when two consecutive Sundays were devoted in the afternoon hours to voting on the new By-Laws and the new Budget. A lot of people have learned the meaning of the word "Question" and just how useful it can be, especially when you want to get out before evening services start...

Work is still going on steadily on remodelling the building. Bring your talents and have them polished brighter, or pick up new skills. As my associate editor says, "God will get you for it!" We appreciate so much those who have already helped, even done more than their share but keep working.

Our Thursday evening services are becoming interesting. Why not give us your Thursdays for worship? After all, can anybody ever get an overdose of serving God? Nobody ever has yet!

There's always something cooking at MCC, even if it's the monthly covered dish dinner, so check us out. We are friendly people; we love you; and we like to think that you can't help loving us too.

MCC-Dallas is more than just another church - it is a way of life. Look at a brighter tomorrow!

YOU ARE THE ONLY ONE....

...Who can give us your own personal opinion! The goal of the CHANNEL is to reach out and interest you, not just with news of the community but with the spiritual aspects. Only you can tell us if we are succeeding. We would like to hear from you, if it be suggestions, complaints, or praise. All of these are essential to keep us on our toes. We cannot stand still. We need your own comments, because they are special to us.

Will you do us a favor? Write or call and let us know - what articles you have enjoyed, whether our religious articles are inspirational, what articles you found pointless or in need of vast improvement, what articles you think should be added. We are only human at best (?) and we want these 2000 (or more) copies of this paper to be worth the few minutes it takes to pick it up and read it. It didn't cost you a penny to pick up this paper - won't you take a minute to let us know your feelings?

'TIS THE SEASON TO BE THANKSUL, TRA LA...

Your editor has a lot to be thankful for this month, and so do you. All you have to do is look.

I'm first of all thankful to be back working on the CHANNEL, which I love, and secondly glad that this is the last page I have to type. (I hope it won't be conceited to say I'm also thankful for a job well done.)

I'm thankful for my recent operation (ouch!), that I had planned by carrying group insurance, and that my doctor has given me clearance to enjoy life fully again. No more attacks in the middle of the nigh

I'm thankful that I live in America, the land of golden opportunity - and I intend to make the most of those opportunities.

I'm thankful I discovered MCC-Dallas, because I was never happy until I yielded to the invitation to come and worship.

I'm thankful that God has blessed MCC-Dallas and the Fellowship as He has.

I'm thankful for the love that permeates each meeting at the church building, a love that is so strong, so sincere that I can say, "Do you want a handshake or a hug?" Dear reader, how many churches would keep their cool at that for very long?

I'm thankful for the wonderful people I have met since I became involved with MCC - my beautiful staff, Rev. Vincent, the board of directors, the deacons...I could well run out of space. And I have.

Oh, yes - I thank God for my readers. Come worship with us, plea

CELEBRATING THANKSGIVING

Scripture: Psalms 67.

In the month of November we set aside a special day of Thanksgiving. Although we should always give thanks for our blessings an even trials - trials make us better people - , this one day should be used to count the many blessings we have received throughout the year.

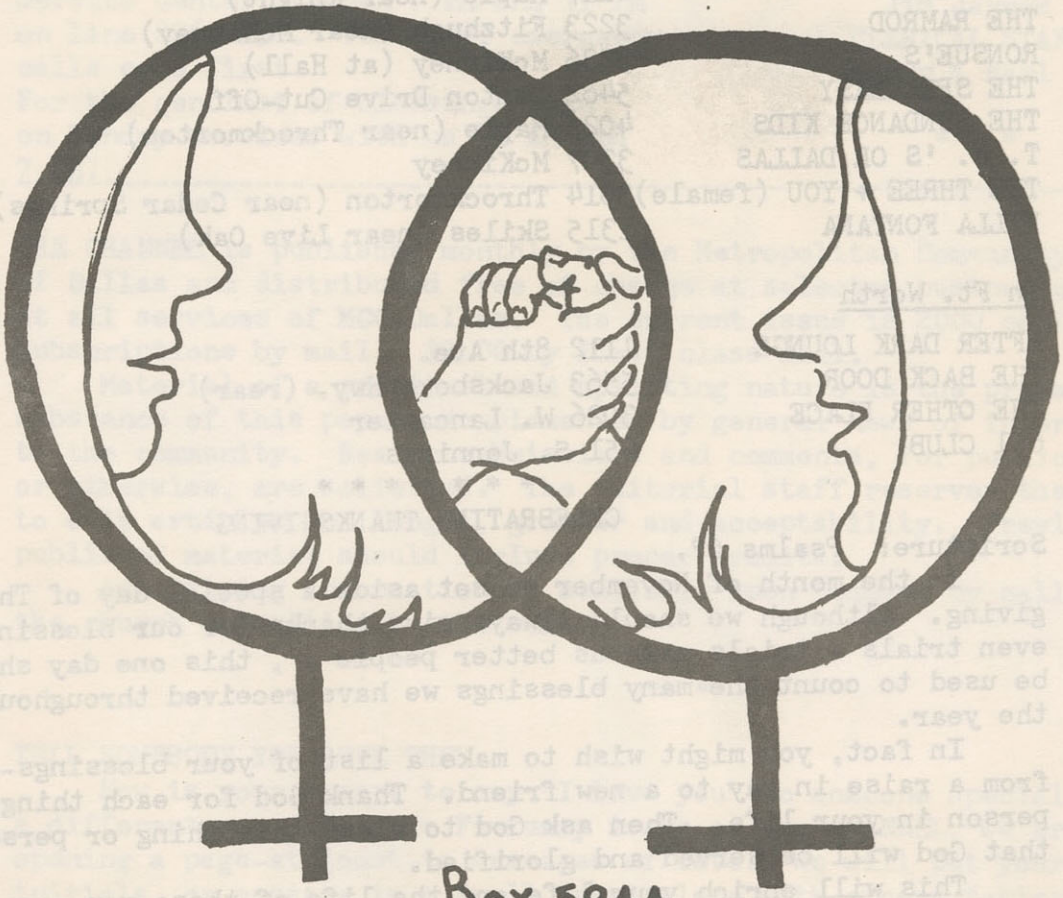

In fact, you might wish to make a list of your blessings- from a raise in pay to a new friend. Thank God for each thing or person in your life. Then ask God to bless this thing or person so that God will be served and glorified.

This will enrich your life and the life of those you come in contact with each and every day and, in truth, bring more and better blessings from God.

God loves to give and is generous with His gifts. I believe th He also likes to be thanked for those gifts. So thank God and glori Him and He will bless you unceasingly. -Pat McCormick
