unknown — will enjoy a limited run in November, and sources say a number of celebrities will make cameo appearances.

Superstar singer George Michael has taken his $12.4 million London house off the market — because he doesn't want fans pretending they're interested in buying it.

The former Wham! star was hoping to cash in on the pad — which in terms of cost per square feet is the most expensive house in Britain — but pals say he hates the idea of hordes of sightseers invading his privacy.

According to British tabloid the Daily Mail, one prospective buyer was booked to view the house in late September only to have his appointment cancelled at the last minute.

The house hunter says, "George doesn't want people trailing through his house and has withdrawn it."

But it seems the singer — who counts David Bowie among his neighbors — still plans to sell the swanky house, described by estate agents as an "outstanding reconstructed Italianate villa."

The Daily Mail claims Michael will be welcoming viewers back in a few weeks time — but only after they have undergone a strict vetting process to ensure they are genuine prospective buyers.

Cult '80s pop star Boy George's love of bisexual superstar David Bowie's music used to be so intense it slipped into the realms of stalkeresque fantasy.

The Culture Club singer-turned-DJ has just let slip that when he was younger he used to fantasize he was Bowie's son and has also bought at least 50 copies of the rock icon's album Hunky Dory.

The camp entertainer explains, "I developed this idea that Bowie was my father, and Bowie's wife Angie, my mum. I wanted to meet Bowie. I wanted to have Bowie. I wanted to be Bowie."

He may be one of the world's most famous rockers, but when it comes to his own taste in music, Sir Elton John seems to be stuck in the past.

According to the National Enquirer, the "Your Song" singer dropped into a Vancouver branch of the Virgin Megastore and picked up an armful of old albums.

Among his selections were Duran Duran, Wham!, Soft Sell and George Michael. When questioned about his choices, the British rock star shrugged, "I slept through most of the '80s," before admitting that his vast amount of George Michael purchases were, "To help out my old buddy George."

We all know that Dallas' State Fair of Texas is not typically a place known for viewing the greatest specimens of the human form. Yet tucked away in the sanctum of Music Hall is the remarkably enjoyable musical version of Disney's The Lion King.

Sure, it's definitely a family show, evidenced by the closure of most cash bars and the opening of additional souvenir stands peddling stuffed versions of the entire cast — along with assorted candy incarnations. So if the sight and sound of kids puts your stress level on overload, just ask the friendly bartenders for a double. Believe me, it helps.

But screaming evil spawns aside, The Lion King is truly delightful with its blend of Cirque du Soleil-style acrobatics, puppetry and modern dance. The songs are catchy, with the exception of a few added just for the stage production. The costumes are brilliantly conceived and most of all, the dancers are extraordinarily built. The grown-up Simba (Josh Tower) is so hot, it's totally unfair. I never thought a hyena could be arousing, but take my word: The men behind these savage beasts are beautiful — as those of you who have caught cast members on frequent visits to Cedar Springs can attest. Of course, there's the underlying subtext of evil Scar's possible homosexuality, whether intended or not, when performed by the bitchy Patrick Page. It's what would happen if Paul Lynde ruled the jungle.

Now that would be scary.

The Lion King continues through October 20 at the Music Hall at Fair Park, Dallas. To purchase tickets or for other information log on to ticketmaster.com, or call 214-373-8000; or metro 214-647-5700. Prices range from $27.50 to $77.50.

Libra (September 23-October 22) Planetary vibrations are quite high as the week starts out, but by Monday you'll be in a very mellow space. Clean up any financial loose ends before they blossom into very real hassles. An unexpected visitor on Sunday provides a source of joy. Avoid making promises you can't keep.

Scorpio (October 23-November 21) Fasten your seatbelt and prepare for one heck of a roller coaster ride, Scorp. The good news is that a great deal of career momentum will be derived from the chaos. The downside has to do with the effect all this activity is likely to have on your nerves. Don't hold in too much steam, okay?

Sagittarius (November 22-December 21) The top priorities over this next week are keeping track of finances and your temper — and helping that new roommate settle in comfortably. You're about ready to blow a gasket, but it might be aimed at the wrong target. Turn off the phone on Sunday and do anything your little heart desires.

Capricorn (December 22-January 19) Capricorns are well known for being forthright, honest and no nonsense. Try tempering these fine qualities with a sense of humor and a dash of charm. Then, there's nothing you won't be able to accomplish. Stay out of a dispute between two close friends. You're liable to end up making it worse.

Aquarius (January 20-February 18) You're being asked to take on a great deal more responsibility on the job. That being the case, it's okay to delicately demand a raise. Shoot from the hip when dealing with the boss. Don't give opinions unless you're asked. Saturday night holds the promise of a special romantic encounter.

Pisces (February 19-March 19) Spending carefully and pinching pennies over the last few months has finally paid off. Now you've got enough to put a nice down payment on a new set of wheels, along with the trade–in on the old set. Take Virgo along with you to help get the best deal. Take better care of your feet, Pisces.

Aries (March 20-April 19) Now that most of the planets are in your favor, it's safe to delve into more speculative financial ventures for the next two months. Offering too much help to a sibling prevents them from growing up. Back off and let them fend for themselves. Critical barbs shot your way shouldn't bother you in the least.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) The stagnant feeling of the last few weeks is finally washing away. Forward momentum looks stronger right through late November. Good news from a distance has you smiling on Saturday. Ignore that difficult in-law to help keep the peace. Try a more subdued approach to nail that potential client.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) A professional marriage/relationship counselor is needed ASAP, Gemmy. Your significant other is nowhere in tune with your desires and goals. This is going to take a lot of hard work to get back on track. The big question looming should be: Is this what you really want? Take some time for soul searching.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) Spending too much time at home all alone isn't good and your friends are starting to worry (we understand they're chipping in for a SWAT team to smoke you out). Face those fears and doubts head on. You'll find that it's not as bad as your had thought. Make it a point to go out on the town this weekend.

Leo (July 23-August 22) Being in a position of leadership offers a decidedly mixed blessing. The power and perks are wonderful, but always having people look to you for answers can be tremendously draining. Nobody knows everything, although you come close at times. Treat yourself to a massage, sauna and steam.

Virgo (August 23-September 22) We suggest staying away from coffee and any type of cola for a couple of weeks. It will help those kidneys flush out and increase your energy levels. Your communication skills will be highlighted and very much appreciated by a co-worker. Tuesday night, you'll need to turn in early and recharge.
