Filthy TV— and not from Janet

Billy shoots his chat show pilot but still finds time to dish about Tina, Beyonce and more

filth

by billy masters

Filth; disgustingly offensive dirt, garbage, anything viewed as grossly indecent or obscene

The laughs never stopped at the taping of my talk show pilot, which took place at Ultra Suede in West Hollywood on my birthday. I kept the line-up a surprise until the last minute, and the show could have been called Billy Masters and Friends. Providing music for us was the original DJ from Ellen's talk show, the incomparable Scotty K.

After introducing the audience to my dog Jufka, I brought out legendary beauty Julie Newmar, who has an almost timeless quality about her. Still stunning, with legs for days, Julie enthralled the audience with stories about her experiences on stage, her gay brother (who is a pillar of the San Francisco gay community) and, of course, her turn as the original Catwoman.

Reichen Lemkuhl from The Amazing Race revealed details of his first sexual experience with a man (an underclassman in the military who had to call Reichen his "hell master"), and I surprised Christopher Sieber from It's All Relative with a clip of him and his boyfriend, Kevin Burrows, doing a nearly nude routine from a recent edition of Broadway Bares. We also dished the dirt with celebrity reporter Janet Charlton, author J. Randy Taraborrelli, and comedienne Suzanne Westenhoefer. It was a very special and fun-filled night. Thanks to all of my pals who attended, both on stage and off.

This week, Hollywood said farewell to a luminary from the golden age. Rest in peace, Jan Miner. If her name doesn't sound familiar, perhaps you know her as "Madge the Manicurist" from those Palmolive commercials. Madge asked to be buried at sea — that way, when people ask where her final resting place is, we can point to the ocean and say, "She's soaking in it!" And the jokes keep coming.

Back when she appeared in Mad Max: Beyond Thunderdome, Tina Turner revealed that her next goal was to become a successful film actress and win an Oscar. She's put that pursuit on the back burner — until now. Tina will team up with the Merchant Ivory gang to take on the lead in The Goddess. This film takes place in India, and Tina will play a Hindu goddess who creates and destroys at whim. Turner, who is a long practicing Buddhist, will also get to sing in Latin and Sanskrit.

There are rumors that the bootylicious Beyonce will play Killer Queen in a big-screen adaptation of the West End hit We Will Rock You, a musical using compositions by the pop group Queen. Although there is no official confirmation (about the casting or even a film being in the works), I do know that a U.S. stage tour will debut in Seattle later this season. After I saw the show in London, I gave it a mixed review, but I have to say that in the intervening months, the original cast recording has grown on me considerably. I can't wait to see it again.

Don't think that our gals are the only ones getting good roles. Sherman Hemsley has landed the choice role as the voice of the title character in the Fox remake of Mr. Ed. Yes, Sherm will be playing a talking horse — narrowly beating out Isabel Sanford, whose dulcet tones were perhaps a bit deeper than Hemsley's.

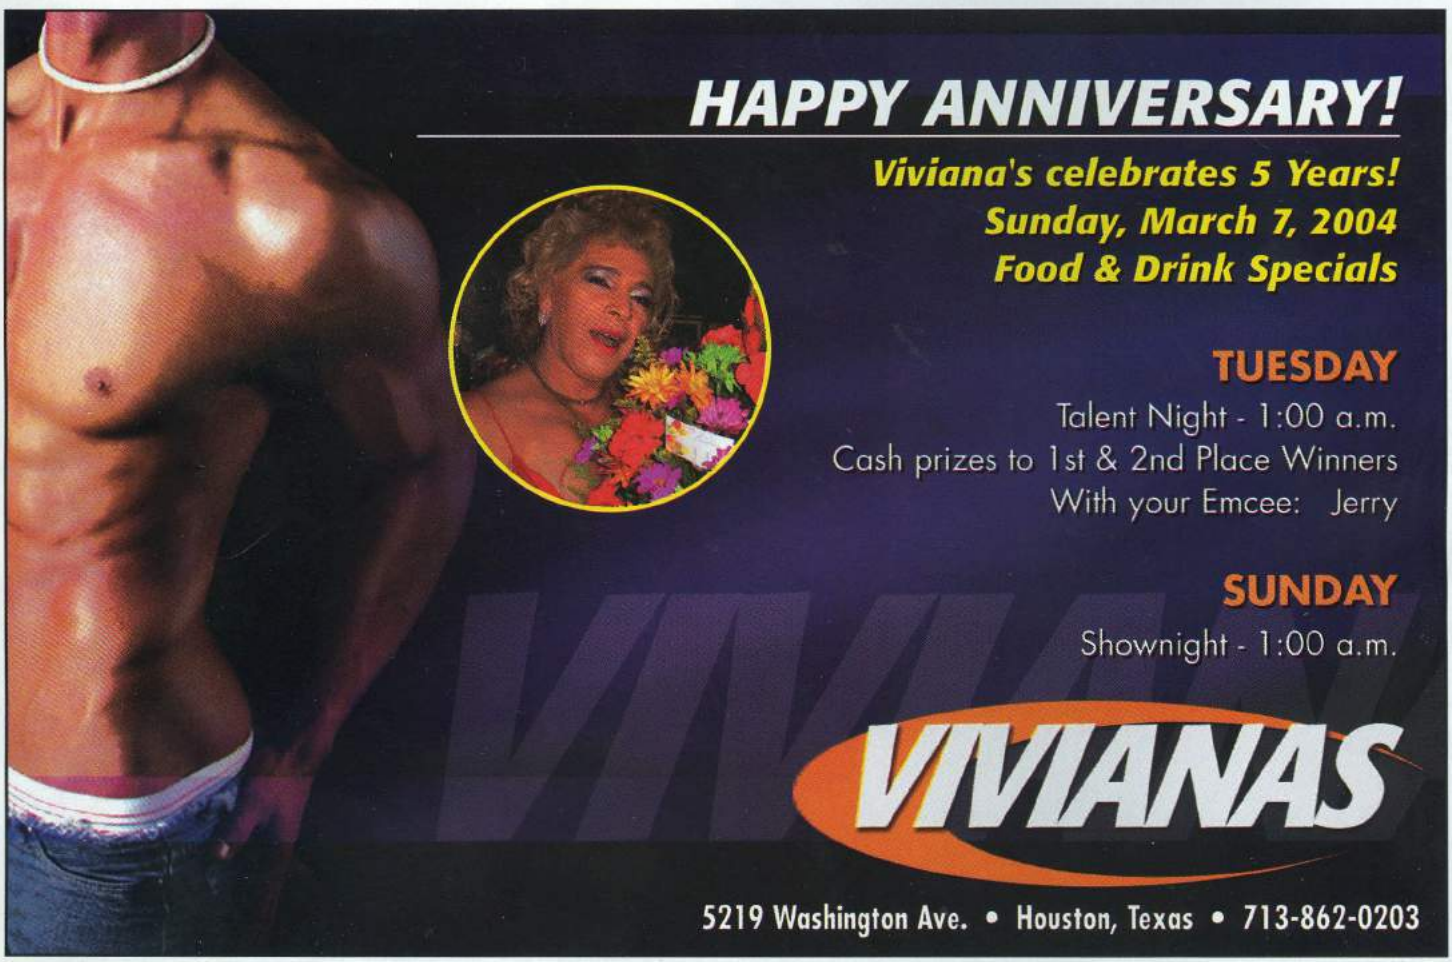

Michael Douglas has announced that he'd like his next project to be alongside the missus, Catherine Zeta-Jones-Douglas. Originally, there were talks that he'd revive the Romancing the Stone franchise with Cat replacing Kathleen Turner. This idea did not go over well with anyone, so now he's looking to an even riskier project: A remake of Guys and Dolls. Michael confesses that it may not be the best match for his talents because "I'm very short on the hoofing and the singing part." That didn't stop Zeta's last co-star. Cat might very well be interested, particularly since she's allegedly still pissed off that she lost the lead role in Moulin Rouge to Nicole Kidman.

There are very few people I'd consider musical theater royalty, but Shirley Jones definitely falls into that category. So it's very exciting that Mrs. Partridge will return to the Great White Way in 42nd Street, and she'll bring another familiar face with her. She'll be joined by her son, the hunky Patrick Cassidy. The four-month run will start in April, with Shirley playing Dorothy Brock (a role originally played by the divine Tammy Grimes and, more recently, Christine Ebersole, who won a Tony) and Patrick playing director Julian Marsh (once the domain of Jerry Orbach). I don't know about you, but I can't wait.

With the Oscars around the corner, some people have already started celebrating. The enormously talented Sir Ian McKellen was seen at WeHo hotspot The Abbey with director Bryan Singer and a cute 30-something boytoy. I'm told the boy came with Sir Ian and did not leave with Lady Singer (which is something that I'm sure sticks in Miss Spacey's craw).

How appropriate that these talented types were at The Abbey since that's where the gay Oscar party will be held. On Oscar Sunday — February 29 — circuit siren Jeffrey Sanker will join forces with Abbey owner David Cooley to put on "The Envelope Please," an Oscar viewing party that will also raise funds for AIDS Project Los Angeles. I'd be remiss if I didn't mention that the other sponsors are Outfest, Finlandia Vodka and my own SoCal publication, In Los Angeles. If history repeats itself, this will be a sold out soirée that will raise upwards of $100,000 for AIDS Project Los Angeles.

Could it be that Chris O'Donnell is really a woman? He's not one, but he'll play one on TV. Since Chris is a family man, these days he's looking to work closer to home.

That would explain Westerbergs, a sitcom that will appear on CBS next season. To get ready for episodic television, Chrissy will make a guest appearance on the March 1 episode of Two and a Half Men. He'll play a woman who broke Charlie Sheen's heart. Billy, did you say a woman? Yup, a woman — except she's had a little operation and become a man. I'm guessing that ain't an outpatient procedure.

Could it be that a certain engaging gal has once again fallen into her same old pattern? You know the one: Girl meets boy, girl falls in love with boy, girl catches boy with another boy, girl makes boy's life a living hell, girl gets boy to buy an expensive ring and propose to her. If she's true to form, the next steps are girl moves in with boy, girl and boy are inseparable, girl and boy finally break up, and eventually boy starts doing drag shows in Chelsea.

When Chris O'Donnell can play a woman more convincingly than Rosie O'Donnell, it's definitely time to end yet another column. Oh, calm down — it's just a little joke. I'm always quick with the quips, but I'm even quicker in answering your fan letters. So if you've got a question burning in your loins (and assuming your loins can type), send an e-mail to me at Billy@filth2go.com and I promise to get back to you before Tina wins that Oscar.

Until next time, remember, one man's filth is another man's bible.

Let Us Entertain You!

Houston Council of Clubs presents the 31st annual version of post-Mardi Gras partying

by dennis vercher

Let Us Entertain You Weekend (LUEY) enters its fourth decade this year as the largest and longest-running levi-leather run in Texas.

Let Us Entertain You was created by the Texas Riders, and always occurs on the weekend immediately following Fat Tuesday. When it created LUEY, the Texas Riders had two purposes in mind — a desire to keep the party going, and a wish to entertain people headed westward as they returned home from the Crescent City's just-concluded Mardi Gras celebration.

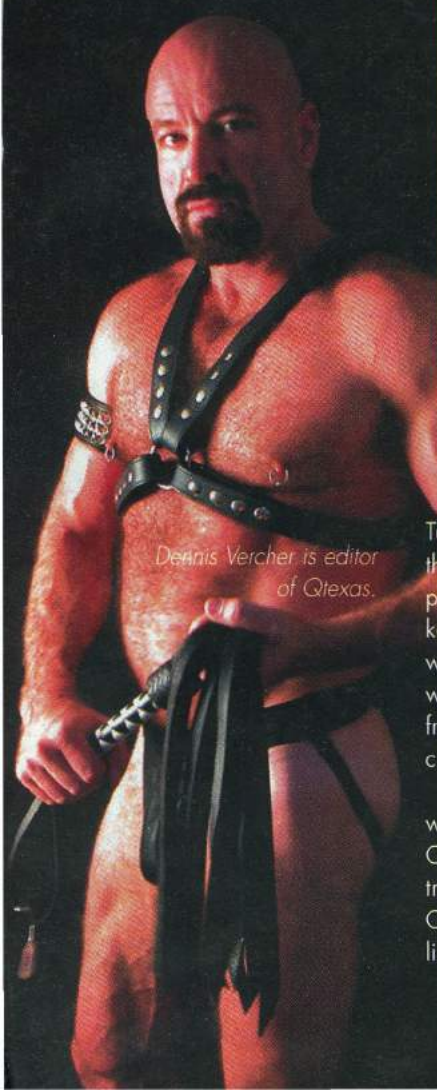

In its earliest stages, LUEY was simply a small bar run. Over the years, it has grown tremendously. The Houston Council of Clubs was established specifically to sponsor and run the annual celebration. Today, the Houston Council of Clubs involves 11 member nightclubs and 6 auxiliaries. As many as 833 registered guests, from 29 states and five foreign countries, have attended LUEY.

LUEY continued as a small bar run for several years, posting marginal growth. Many years into the annual event, the Houston Council of Clubs added the Show of Shows. This event, held on Sunday afternoon, officially closes the weekend. The Show of Shows is presented by member clubs and auxiliaries of the Council of Clubs, and features a wide range of entertainment— much of it as outrageous as it is funny. The Show of Shows has delighted thousands of attendees over the years.

LUEY Weekend kicked off last night with registration at E/J's. It runs through Sunday, when the closing Show of Shows gets underway at 1 p.m. at Rich's. An unofficial after party follows at Mary's Naturally.

To show its spirit of hospitality, out-of-town guests pay no registration fee to attend LUEY Weekend. A $15 fee is charged for local participants, defined as those living within the borders of Harris County.

Brotherly love triangle

There are some film genres, such as horror or comedy, that thrive off audience reaction, working best in a packed auditorium. Then there are others that, if you're lucky, you see in an empty theater. The Dreamers falls into the latter category. Filled with shocking, taboo imagery, it's a little embarrassing to watch with a stranger sitting two seats down. Especially if he's like the one who sat next to me, who provided running commentary on the sex scenes.

Helmed by sometimes-controversial director Bernardo Bertolucci (Last Tango in Paris), the NC-17 film is definitely not a movie to see with your parents or the church sewing circle. And that's exactly why I like it.

Fans of Hedwig and the Angry Inch will be pleased to see cherubic Michael Pitt back on the big screen as Matthew, an American student in Paris during the spring of 1968 to further his education — and, presumably, avoid the Vietnam War. Spending most of his time at the legendary Parisian movie theater Cinematheque Francaise, he meets fellow cinephiles Theo (Louis Garrel) and Isabelle (Eva Green), an unusual pair of twins who invite him home for dinner. Their friendship blossoms almost immediately and Matthew ends up moving into their house while the kids' parents are on holiday.

Stumbling upon Theo and Isabelle sleeping together naked, Matthew begins to realize that their relationship is far from ordinary. He is soon drawn into their world of sexual truth or dare, becoming involved with Isabelle and even Theo. Spending the days reading, discussing politics and acting out scenes from their favorite movies, the trio develops a deep, if perverse friendship.

All three actors deserve kudos for their soul- and skin-baring performances, each bringing an amazing amount of depth and pathos to their characters. The performances allow the film to rise above the controversial imagery. Green and Pitt in particular manage to give believable, nuanced performances despite the unconventional demands made on them. That's probably what differentiates NC-17 from outright pornography — we might just get treated to a plot.

There's no denying that Bertolucci's aim is to shock, yet there's something honest in his portrayal of young sexual experimentation. A few scenes almost go too far, like the one where Isabelle loses her virginity to Matthew and they celebrate with a very — let's just say "unappetizing"— kiss. The promise of sex and full-frontal male (and female) nudity is what will lure most curiosity seekers to The Dreamers, but movie buffs will likely thrill to the cinematic references and re-creations throughout. Clips of Chaplin films, Hollywood musicals and avant-garde French films all get interspersed with the action onscreen, providing an unconventional homage to the medium itself.

Most of all, if you can focus beyond the masturbation scenes and group baths, you might just find a present-day parallel in the politics of the film. Youthful ideals, an unpopular war and rebellion against censorship are once again timely concepts. But don't be discouraged by such somber-sounding plotlines. The film actually has a wickedly delightful sense of humor. With an open mind and a sense of forgiveness for a few heavy-handed scenes, you'll actually think as you watch this unusual, and in spots amazing, film.

Helpful hunk

Italian stallion Nick Scotti offers recipes and laughs for anyone who appreciates dysfunctional families

by daniel a. kusner

Yo, I got my own TV show!" Nick Scotti hollers in the middle of Times Square during the intro of his new domestic reality series. Even with so many makeover and renovation programs on the air, Scotti's New York Nick on the Style Network is a welcome addition. The Queens native never behaves like a pretentious know-it-all. He introduces sensible, easy-to-conquer projects — his family lasagna recipe, or icy vodka decanters made from old milk cartons — that could turn Ralph Kramden and Vinnie Barbarino into debonair hosts.

But mostly, Scotti's show is hilarious. That's because of his sweet Aunt Diz and fabulous bridge-and-tunnel sister, Viv, who appear on each episode. Through lots of blaming, bitching and shouting, the Scotti family shows how they love and help each other. Old Aunt Diz gets teary-eyed whenever she thinks of Italy, and the relationship between Nick and Viv (who smokes Capri cigarettes and wears pin curlers when she sleeps) is a textbook example of sibling rival.

But handsome stud Nick is the star of the show. Scotti first made a blip on the gaydar screen when he starred as the straight boy with a gay roommate in the 1996 comedy Kiss Me, Guido. Before that, Scotti enjoyed a brief career as an R&B pop star, cutting a duet with Madonna in the mid-1990s.

"At the time, people called me her boytoy, but that was a bunch of crap," he remembers. "Madonna's a very focused individual, which inspired me. Only 21 at the time, Scotti remembers the Material Girls kindness — even when he didn't deserve it.

I'm hard to deal with — I even fought with her while we worked together."

Scotti eventually branched out from music, modeling for Versace, Valentino and Armani. He had a recurring role on The Young and the Restless and made a memorable cameo as Samantha's package-delivery man on Sex and the City. Scotti also has a Manhattan real estate license and is an artist. During a recent phone interview, he was finishing up a series of paintings that he'd been working on recently.

Scotti prides himself as a blue-collar renaissance man who grew up in the rough Ozone Park section of Queens, where men are macho but know how to take care of themselves.

"It's a very fine line between straight guys and gay guys. We're thinking of doing an episode comparing the guys from Chelsea and guys from Ozone Park," he says. "It wouldn't be strange to see my uncle Guido get a pedicure and or have his nails polished or pluck his eyebrows. When it comes to Italian men and their grooming, that's what we do. My father was very conscious of what he wore and how he looked. I remember him trimming his eyebrows and nose hairs."

Scotti's currently single and says he's not looking for a relationship. "I'm just too difficult to handle, and I'm unpredictable. Whoever has to put up with me always goes insane," he laughs.

He hits the gym every day and says the most important part of man's home should be his bed.

"You should at least have a down cover or a good mattress pad. I have both," he says. "And I just bought sheets and duvet covers, which are expensive. I paid over $1,000 for my last set of sheets, which I had for four years."

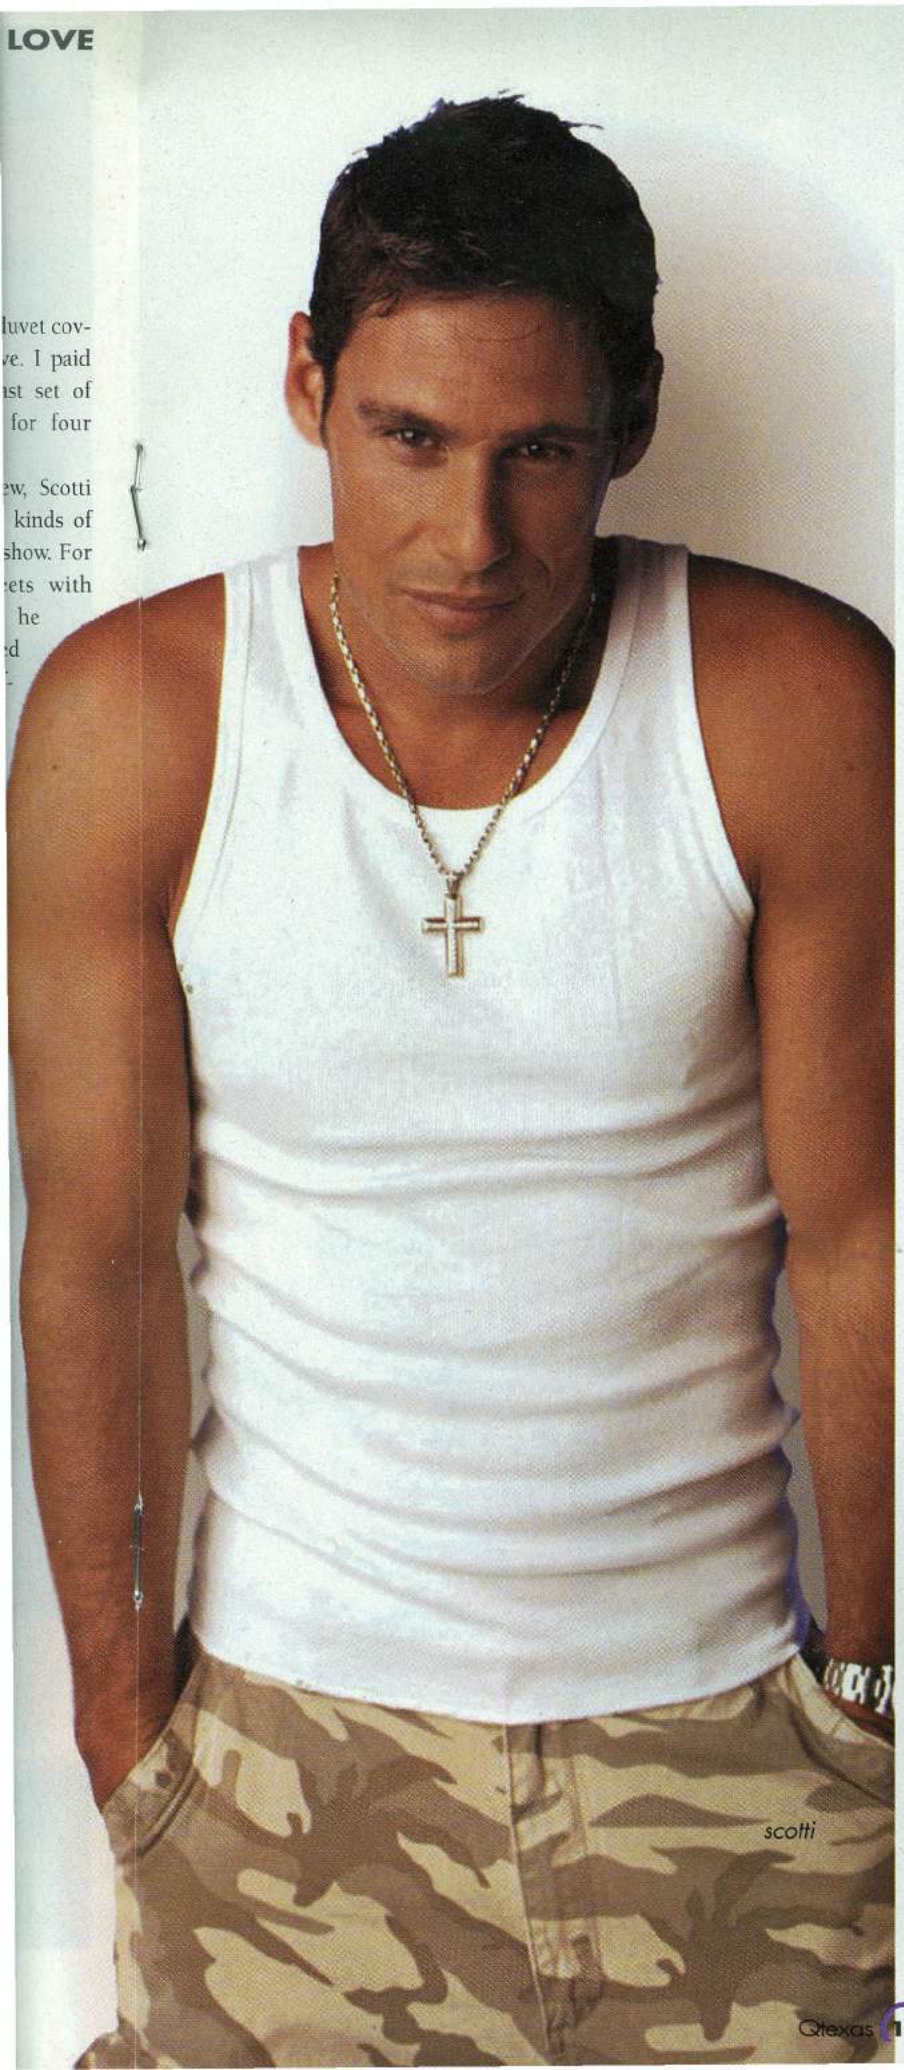

Even in an interview, Scotti can't help but offer the kinds of style tips that mark his show. For example, he says sheets with lower thread counts, he says, resist stains. "I bled on them and spilled coffee on them, but all the stains came right out. But never buy anything that says more than 400-thread count — that's as good as it gets. And anything over 250 is good."

New York Nick airs Fridays at 9:30 p.m. on the Style Network.

Potluck Dinner — The OZ Parties has its fourth annual potluck dinner at 34th Street Café on March 7 from 4 to 8 p.m. All attendees are encouraged to bring a dish. As always, this occasion will provide the opportunity for HIV-positive people to meet for fellowship and the opportunity to make new friends. For further information or to volunteer, call 512-406-6408.

Monday, Monday — The best way to steel yourself for the rest of the week is to show up at Charlie's for a wet underwear contest — either as participant or voyeur . Then at midnight, Paris Chanel takes over hosting duties. And drafts are available for $1, open to close.

Just Wild About Harry — Stop by Oilcan Harry's on any Friday at any time of the day, and you're sure to get any well drink for only $2.50. On Mondays, enjoy giant martinis as DJ Bang spins great tunes.

Tuesday Strip-off — MC Talor Baron hosts a male strip competition at Rainbow Cattle Company every Tuesday at 10:30 p.m. It's worth your while — there's $300 in cash to be won.

LUEY, Louie — A celebrated tradition in Houston, the 31st annual LUEY Weekend runs through February 26-29, and is presented by the Houston Council of Clubs. See the story on page 10 of this issue of Qtexas.

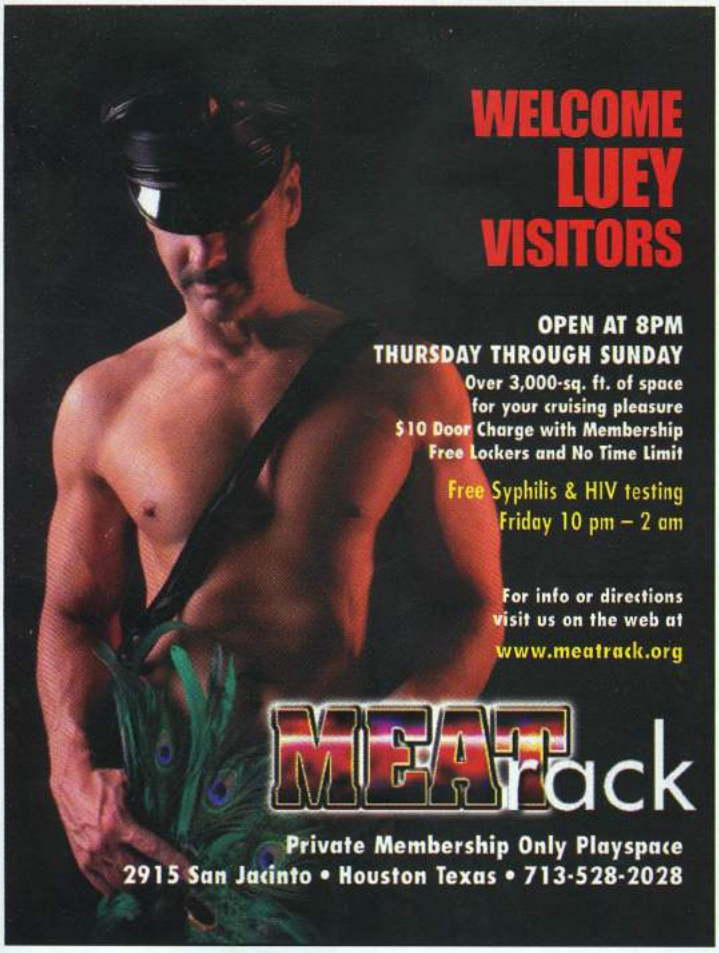

Back In Black — Rich's Black Party, with master DJ Roland Belmares, arrives under cover of night on Saturday, February 28.

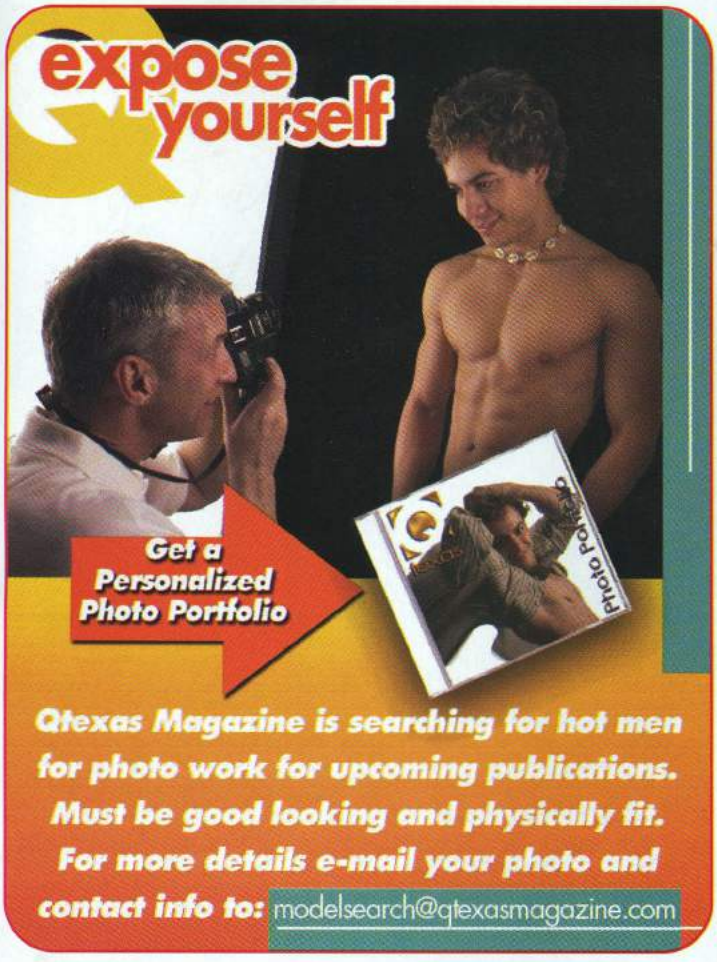

Love The Oscars? — ...Then don't miss a chance to watch the ceremony with a lot of other fans. The Sixth Annual Academy Award viewing party, a benefit for the Houston Gay and Lesbian Film Festival, takes place at the River Oaks Theatre on February 29. Tickets are $15.

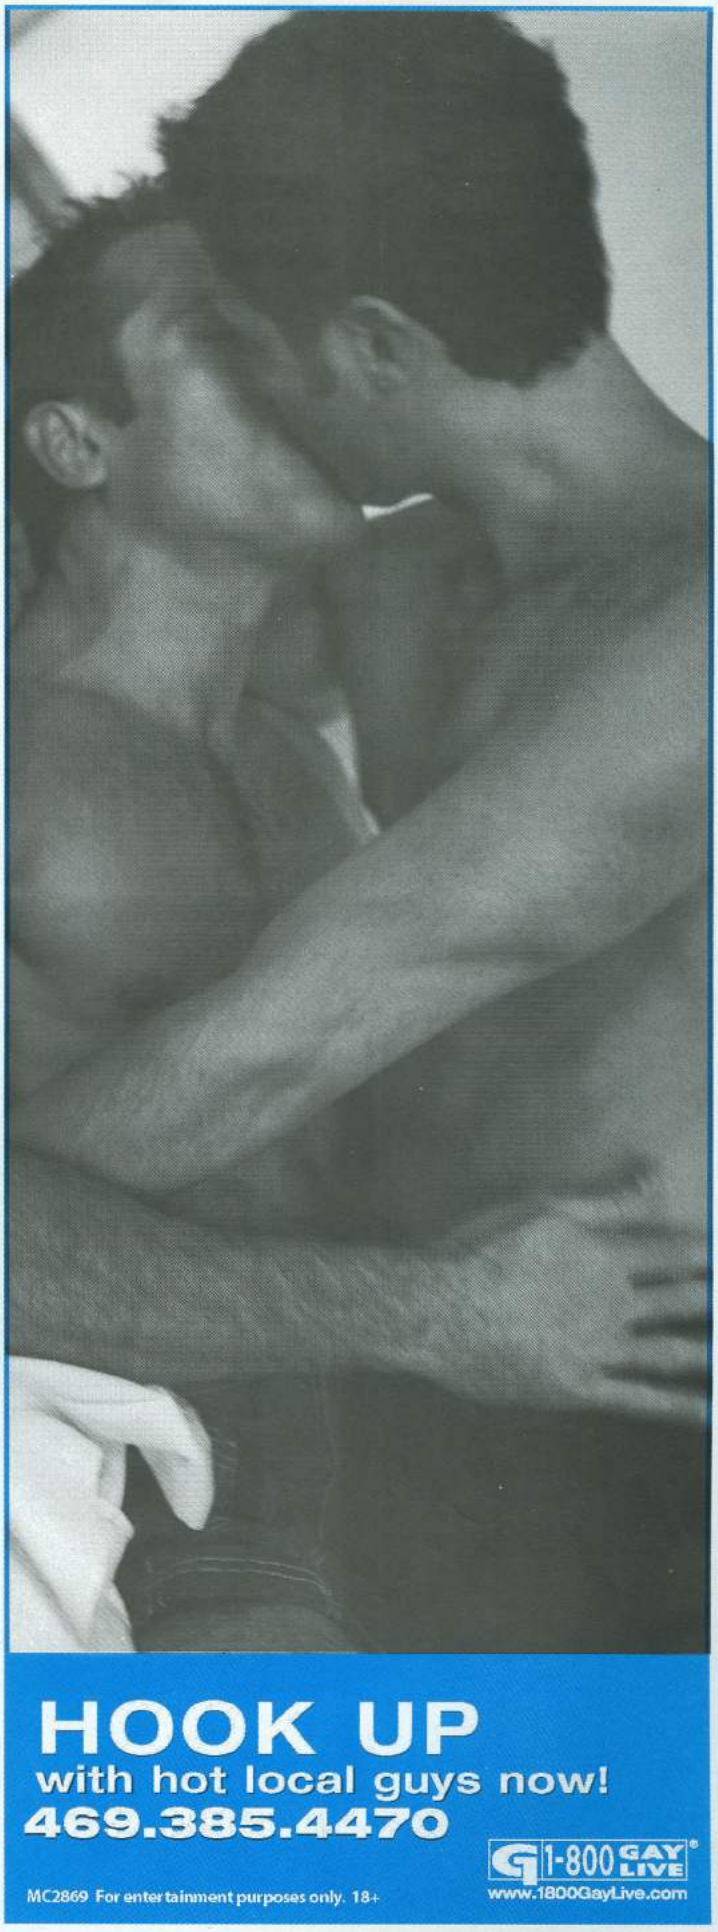

Strangers Welcome — In keeping with a LUEY tradition, O offers no cover for those with an out of town ID on Saturday nights. DJ Tucker will be spinning all night.

Pulse Pounding Weekends — Resident DJ Jimmy Skinner keeps the energy flowing on Saturday nights at South Beach. There's no cover from 10:30 to 11 p.m., and before that enjoy great drink specials.

Walk For A Reason — AIDS Walk Houston takes place on Sunday, March 14 at Sam Houston Park in the downtown area. Registration begins at 8 a.m. and the walk starts at 10. So get out those comfortable shoes.

We Got The Heat — Everybody, get up and go to Heat where happy hour begins at 4 p.m. and all the hot bartenders are pleased to serve you.

The Bargains Continue — The Annex continues its "kick ass" daily drink prices. Get $1.75 well drinks Tuesdays, Thurdays and Fridays, and on Saturdays, longnecks and wells are $1 from 2-9 p.m., and $1.75 thereafter.

Weaving The Webb Party — Tickets are on sale for the San Antonio AIDS Foundation's 13th annual Webb Party. The event will be held April 16 at the San Antonio Museum of Art located at 200 W. Jones Avenue. The annual fete serves as a major fundraising effort to support HIV services, education and testing efforts maintained by the SAAF, and brings together many communities for an eclectic taste of San Antonio, with a diverse sampling of foods from area restaurants and a silent auction. For more information, call 210-225-4715.

He's The Man — Wednesdays at The Saint, join host D.J. Jr. for the International Man of the Year with $100 in prize giveaways. Well drinks are 75 cents and Coronas just two bucks all night long, and there' no adult cover before 11 p.m.

Pisces (February 19-March 19) The sun, Venus and Uranus — all bunched in Pisces this week — are going to make your love life unpredictable. Give your sweetie plenty of space. Some good financial news arrives on the 2nd. Trust your intuition regarding that eccentric new co-worker. That new hairdo looks awesome.

Aries (March 20-April 19) That long-sought financial backing finally arrives by the 1st. Bask in the glow of success while it lasts. Make requests for favors on the 3rd and you'll be amazed at the results. Don't forget to thank those people who have been there for you. Keep a low profile on the 4th and use the day to re-energize.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You'll likely come out on top by the week's end, but you'll need to fight for those results every inch of the way. Keep that temper in check, especially on the 29th. A family member brings welcome good news on the 2nd. A mini-celebration on the 4th lightens your mood considerably.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) All in all, it looks like a good week for you, Gemmy. Don't completely rely on luck, though. It's a good time to research financial/real estate transactions. Your nerves could become a bit frayed on the 28th, so skip the usual night out and hole up at home. Your sleep patterns will finally begin to stabilize.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) Although your workload is heavier than usual, you'll reap many rewards from your efforts after the 6th. The bosses have their eye on you, so make sure to look sharp and focused. Your sweet tooth is liable to get a workout on the 3rd — try not to let it go completely overboard.

Leo (July 23-August 22) Frustrations abound this week. It seems that no one is working at the frantic pace you've set. You need to drop that mindset — not everyone is as motivated or high-voltage as you. Showing grace under fire on the 1st wins you many brownie points. Practice laughing out loud in the mirror.

Virgo (August 23-September 22) Take care of your own issues this week and stay out of other people's problems, even if your advice is sought out — it's too emotionally taxing for you right now. A weekend getaway proves a great delight, as long as you don't tell anyone where you're going.

Libra (September 23-October 22) Determination, hard work and a little luck have combined to bring you to this current career plateau. It's now a matter of following instructions and doing the best job possible. The 29th proves to be a fun day.

Scorpio (October 23-November 21) Moneymaking ideas run through your mind constantly. How about actually writing a few of them down? A loved one at a distance causes you concern as March begins. You're finally settling in after that move. How about hosting a potluck brunch on Sunday?

Sagittarius (November 22-December 21) Your creative cycle looks quite high right through the middle of May. Set aside more alone time. Playing the field can be fun, but it takes a lot of energy. Be on the lookout for a sweet, dark-eyed Capricorn — this could be the one, Sag! You finally get to pay off a few old debts.

Capricorn (December 22-January 19) No matter how you slice it, making a move is hard work, but the end results will be rewarding and satisfying. Increased revenues on the job raise your status even higher. Keep up with that exercise regimen, Cappy, and you can expect to hear more than a few wolf whistles.

Aquarius (January 20-February 18) The week starts off like a roller coaster ride, but ends up on the calm side. It's vital that you keep those nerves steady and that sense of humor at full throttle. Ideas you bounce off of a supervisor may not go as expected. Don't feel bad — you can pitch them again next month.
