Sexy Texan is Survivor's hottest hopeful

Colby Donaldson is 'dripping with heat,' according to gay Survivor winner Richard Hatch dallasite Colby Donaldson, the studly sensation on the current season of the mega-hit reality TV show Survivor, has attracted the lusty attention of last year's Survivor champ. The openly gay Richard Hatch recently told TV Guide Online, "Colby is dripping with heat. What a stunning, stunning man. I don't think there's a person on the planet, male or female, that can't see that that's a gorgeous, gorgeous man."

Do I hear an amen?

Unfortunately, the sexy 27-year-old auto designer, who divides his time between Dallas and San Angelo, where his family live, is apparently straight. A native of Christoval, Texas and a graduate of Texas Tech University in Lubbock, Donaldson enjoys water skiing, mountain biking sand volleyball, gathering with friends for barbecues, building furniture and watching football. At least that's what his CBS bio says.

Although the series was taped in the Australian outback some time ago, Survivor contestants are contractually forbidden from giving interviews until the final show airs.

It's a good thing Lily Tomlin finally came all the way out of the closet recently. Otherwise, it might seem a little odd to some that she is acting as co-executive producer of Citizen Reno, the Bravo channel's new series starring outspoken lesbian comedienne Reno. The show, which premiered last Friday, combines performance and documentary footage of Reno's day-to-day life.

"I've always thought of her as this ranting, raving little everywoman," Tomlin said of Reno in The Advocate.

Tomlin is teaming up with Jane Wagner, her long-time collaborator (and — now we can say it — "life partner"), in co-producing the show. Tomlin nevertheless gives all credit for the project's creativity to Reno herself.

Tomlin

Reno

"It's kind of just going through Reno's perspective and point of view," said Tomlin. "She's talking about things that are current or on her mind. She's very much attuned and widely in the culture. She certainly has her own politics."

Reno provided the voice for the psychiatrist character on Tomlin and Wagner's animated series, Edith Ann.

"Lily had been my idol, my hero," Reno declared. "I used to have dreams about us playing tennis together. I don't even play tennis, you know what I mean?"

Asked if her sexuality will figure prominently in the show, Reno told The Advocate, "Of course I'm gay [in the show]. I'm everything I am. I'm fat in it!"

Austinites may remember Reno from her much-ballyhooed engagement at Esther's Follies on Sixth Street several years back. Reno's exhaustive stream-of-consciousness performance style led to a Cable Ace nomination for the HBO adaptation of her off-Broadway hit, Reno in Rage and Rehab. Her first feature film, Reno Finds Her Mom, chronicled her emotional real-life search for the mother who gave her up at birth.

The success of Will & Grace apparently hasn't made much of a dent in the widespread fear of actors to accept gay TV roles, reports Entertainment Weekly. It took producers months to find an actor to portray a single gay foster father in Say Uncle, a CBS sitcom in development for the fall. The series will portray a gay man who takes in his niece and nephew after the death of his sister.

Openly gay actor Rupert Everett reportedly turned down the project, while other actors declined because of Uncle's potentially controversial premise. "There were actors sending [messages] like, 'I won't play a gay person with children,'" says exec producer Jeffrey Richman (Frasier).

Actors Gregory Harrison and David Hasselhoff were among those who auditioned, but Thirtysomething's Ken Olin eventually landed the role.

By the way, GLAAD's entertainment spokesman, Scott Seomin, is enthusiastic about the new program. "This is the best gay-themed sitcom I've read since the pilot of Will & Grace," Seomin says.

Mary Stuart Masterson, who stars in the new CBS show Kate Brasher (being heavily promoted as "from the producers of Erin Brockovich") was recently asked by US Weekly about becoming a lesbian icon with her portrayal of Idgie Threadgoode in the movie Fried Green Tomatoes.

Masterson

"I think it's awesome — there aren't enough gay icons, so I'm happy to be one," said the Houston-born Masterson, who is married to director Damon Santostefano. "For a while, though, I thought, 'Does everybody think I'm gay?' One time [Fried Green Tomatoes costar] Mary-Louise Parker and I went to a club, and we were dancing together, and we were like, 'Well, let them think that — that'd be funny.'"

The actress also played a tomboy in Some Kind of Wonderful. Is she one in real life?

"Well, I do have a foul mouth, but listen, I like short skirts, I like high heels, I like nice underwear. So what can I say? I'm definitely a girl."

Hanks

Tom Hanks, who won his first Oscar playing gay in Philadelphia, has reportedly agreed to take on another gay role. In the as-yet-untitled movie, Hanks will play a cop who is called to a homicide scene, only to discover that the victim is his lover. Set in 1960s Pittsburgh, the script will be written by openly-gay scribe Alan Ball, who won the Oscar last year for his American Beauty screenplay.

Warner Brothers is planning a remake of the 1964 Elvis Presley/Ann-Margret classic, Viva Las Vegas, with none other than Ricky Martin in mind for the lead! Screenwriter Jason Schafer (Trick) is reportedly starting from scratch, creating the role of a Puerto Rican singer who comes to Las Vegas to make it big. Jennifer Lopez is said to top the wish list for the female lead. Martin has also been rumored as the pick to star in Dirty Dancing 2, which is currently under development. Shake that bon bon!

Olympic gold medal-winning diver and gay icon Greg Louganis doesn't take his love for dogs lightly. Louganis, who authored a guidebook for dog owners two years ago, spent most of the night at a recent Los Angeles house party with a small brown pooch in his lap, reports US Weekly. Friends at the party said Louganis told them he had rescued the stray hours earlier from a ditch near his L.A. home.

Madonna fans will be interested to learn that famed British biographer Andrew Morton is working on a book about the Material Girl-turned-Material Mom. The unauthorized bio, which promises to reveal "the unknown Madonna," will be published by St. Martin's Press and is due out in November. Morton is most famous for writing Princess Diana's biography (with her secret cooperation) as well as helping Monica Lewinsky pen her story.

Last week's National Enquirer ran what it called "the most shocking photos ever!" — pictures of 57-year-old actor Max Wright (co-star of the ABC sitcom Norm and former star of the children's series Alf) smoking crack cocaine and having gay sex with two men. Since the images were captured, says the tabloid, Wright has entered a 12-step program, is living in a recovery house and is trying to get back together with his wife of 35 years. Lotsa luck, Max.

Gym rats gone bad

Following a few simple rules of etiquette makes working out a better experience for everyone

fitness

by michael kasten

Recently, I have been getting lots of guys asking me — no, begging me — to please address the topic of gym etiquette, something I have written about before. I guess there are many of you gym rats being very bad, messy little boys.

Not cleaning up after yourself and not keeping yourselves clean is not a good thing at the gym! So listen up, all you "Pig Pens" out there. Stinky and filthy is okay in your own home, I suppose, but not in the gym!

Just yesterday, a member of our gym approached me with a concerned look. He wanted to know how he could lose some fat around his midsection. We got into a discussion about the nonsense of spot reduction and similar topics. During our chat a guy interrupted us over in the leg area of the gym.

He was doing leg presses — the wrong way, of course. We could tell because he was grunting and moaning so loudly that I thought the mirror he was gazing into would wobble and crack! While he was leg pressing into the next dimension, the goon was dripping sweat profusely all over the machine. Yuk!

The poor guy waiting to use the leg press behind him was totally grossed out by the sweat and the smell. Just then, while I looked at my friend in wonder, the goon stood up and stepped off the machine. With his flip-flops flopping, he left the 6 pairs of plates hanging on the posts, shuffled over to grab his keys off the pegboard and skipped out!

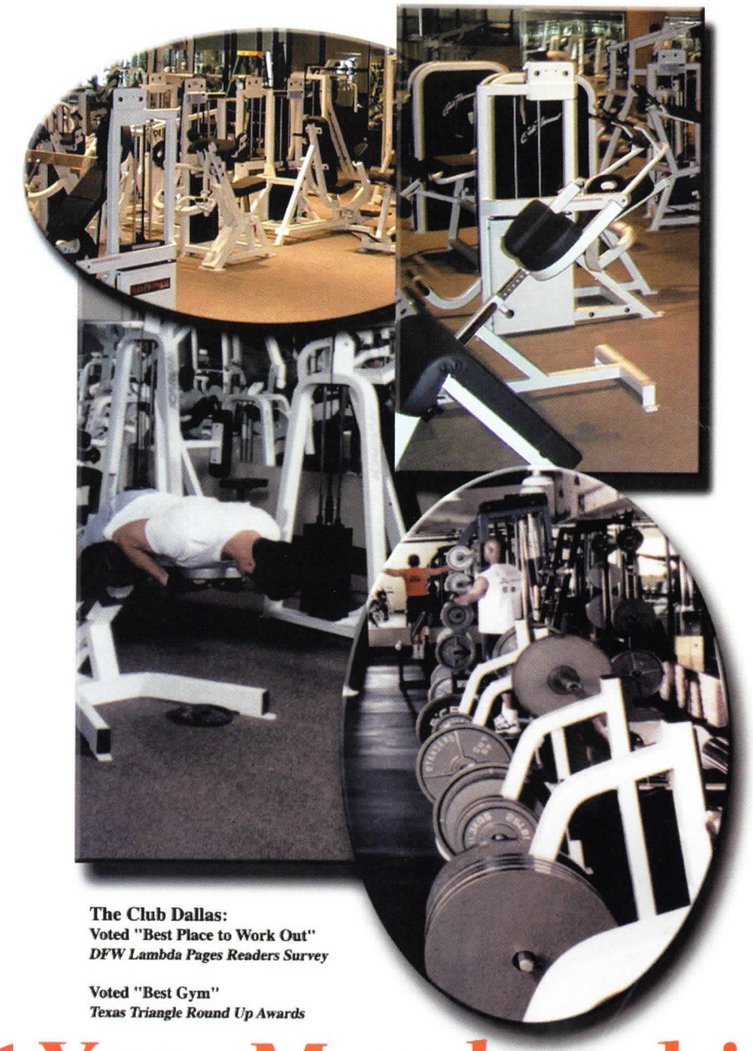

What's wrong with this picture?

Okay, so my story above is just that, a story, but we all know that things like this do happen. In fact, I'll bet we've all been guilty at one time or another of breaking at least one of the golden etiquette rules of the gym — or at the very least noticing others committing gym blasphemy!

For those of you guys who know them, but don't practice them, and for those of you who have no idea what they are, I'm going to tell you how you should behave in the gym. Get a pen — no, a permanent marker — and write them on your hands, front and back, so when you are at the gym, you'll have no excuse not to remember them.

So back to the example above. The guy's doing the leg presses and he's grunting and groaning. Wrong! It's bad etiquette to be so noisy — and it's also totally unnecessary. First of all it's selfish (I'm going to use this word a lot). Trust me, no one wants to be distracted from his workout and have "Mr. Smelly and Sweaty" break his concentration. Second, if the guy would just breathe by exhaling when he exerts the most pressure and inhaling on the negative phase of the rep, he would be exercising the correct way.

Watch these folks the next time you work out. They don't breathe correctly, and that's why the grunt and groan. This practice of making moose calls is really unhealthy! So no mating moose mating calls in the gym, please.

Next let's talk about the sweating. It's a given that we all sweat, but some people sweat more than others. Bring a towel, and use it! It's that simple. If your gym doesn't ask you to, do it anyway. It's really gross when you go to lie down on a bench and there are little puddles of sweat — someone else's sweat. Yuk! Wipe it up!

Now, what I think is the worst, most selfish part is the smell. This could be an uncomfortable issue with some so I'm just going to come right out and say what needs to be said.

During exertion, we all smell. Some, however, stink much more than others. You may like the way you smell. Your boyfriend might find it arousing, and your mother might think it's cute. But trust me, the rest of us don't! Foul is foul. So I'm going to be real bold here and ask everyone to put on a little deodorant before coming to the gym, maybe even shower (and use soap, please). Why not do this whether you think you need it or not? You'll look refreshed and clean, and maybe you'll even get a date! Let's keep the air at the gym clean.

Oh, and lets not forget those that like to take a bath in CK ONE. Please, guys, put colognes on after you leave the gym, not before. Anything that burns my nose hair (whether natural or man-made) while working out in the gym is inappropriate. To prevent the need for everyone to bring clothespins with them, please slide on some deodorant before coming to the gym and lay off the cologne until after you leave.

If you don't think you smell at the gym, ask someone whom you know if they think you are stinky. If they say anything contrary to an absolute and total "no," then you can safely assume that you do. At our gym, a guy who takes yoga stinks to high heaven — yet no one says anything to him. I won't go to the class because it is absolutely, positively unbearable.

If you find this a problem in your gym, tell the instructor. It's in the teacher's best interest to keep the air in those rooms clean for the other students.

And lets talk about those flip-flops. They're not a good idea. If something were to fall on his feet, (say a 45-pound weight plate) the money he spent on the pedicure would be a waste. Wear tennis shoes, sneaks or my friend's personal favorite, metal reinforced army boots!

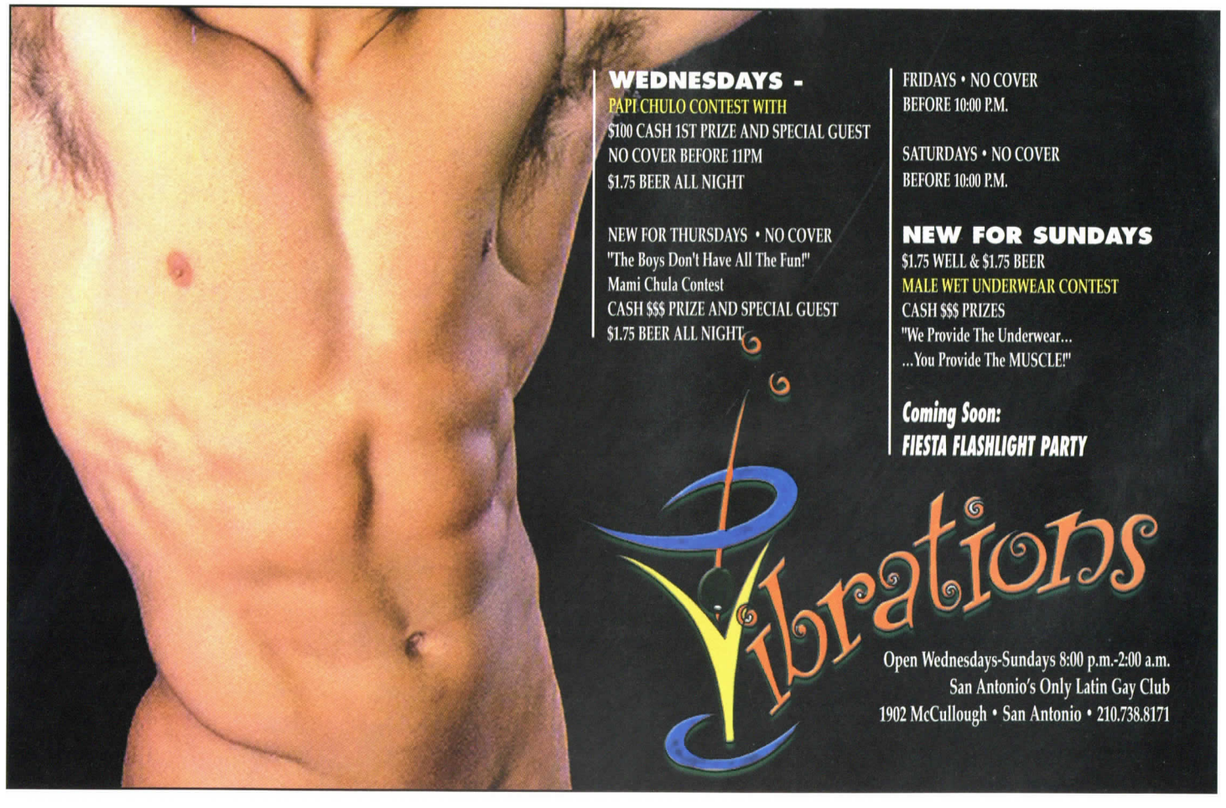

And leaving the weights on the pegs — what a weenie! Come on, guys, put things back where you found them. It's just plain selfish (there's that word again). Please re-rack and re-hang your weights. Also, if you move a bench to the other side of the gym, for whatever reason, put it back where you found it. Ever look around the gym in search of something you thought should be someplace and you finally find it somewhere else? What a waste of time. Don't be a slob! Re-rack, re-stack!

Okay, enough bitching. Thanks guys, in advance. We all need to wipe up and pick up after ourselves. If you leave stuff lying around your home, that's fine, but the gym is everyone's home away from home. We all have to share the environment. It's just common sense to keep the gym clean, safe and healthy for everyone!

Oh — and no skipping, please!

A comeback for male vocalists?

Check out Albee's "I Wanna Be Free (It's My Life)" on Next Level

beat

by jimmy smith

If there is one thing I miss most about the good ol' days of dance music, I would have to say that it's male vocal records. Think about it. How often to we really get a full-on vocal track by a guy? Remember songs like "Ooh Ooh Aah Aah Everybody's Dancing" by Ken Lazlo and tracks by guys like Jason Donovan and Paul Parker? It seems like somewhere along the line we just quit getting these great male vocal records.

Well, thanks to a record I happened across this week, perhaps a new trend back to male vocals is on the way. The record I'm talking about is Next Level featuring Albee and it's called "I Wanna Be Free (It's My Life)." One listen and I was totally hooked. The record was produced by Guiseppe D. and used a sample from Talk Talk "It's My Life" It's my favorite song of all time — well, second only to "Souvenirs" by Voyage.

Pepe builds a clever track using the Talk Talk synth lines and bass structure, then rewrites a lovely new song actually using the words "It's My Life" as the vocal hook. This is probably going to be one of the biggest circuit hits of the summer. The bad news is that the record isn't signed yet, so it's not out. But if you're headed down to San Antonio next weekend, I'll be playing it in my set — look me up at the Webb After Party.

Another circuit stomper that I'm totally feeling is the Sasha Alexander "Let Me Be The One" (Hex's Mix). Although the record was not a dance record in its original form, the track fares quite well on the remix tip, even though the vocals had to be sped up a bit to fit the faster tempo — and don't forget about the great album!

I was really excited to see the breakbeat mix of the David Gray on RCA by Paul Hartnoll mix. I saw the mix on the Promo Only Alternative Club reel this month. Too bad the record is only 3:59, and I really feel like a full dance mix is in order here. But I have to tell you that a creative DJ can still make this work in a late set. Yummy.

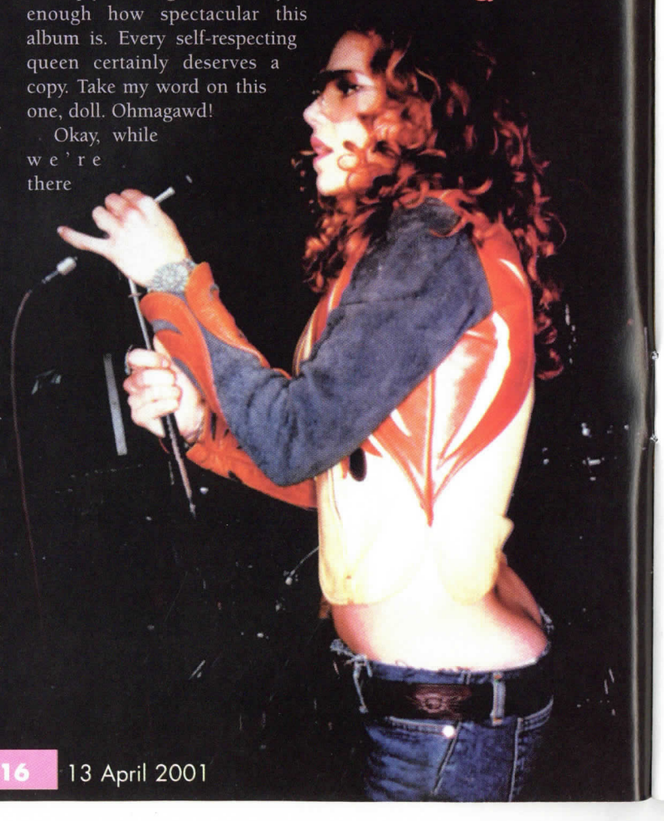

Moving off of the Dance stuff, I really feel like I need to tell about the Nikka Costa album on Virgin. I hate to make comparisons, but I have to in order to make the point here. Take Macy Gray, Angie Stone, Phoebe Snow, and Janis Joplin and roll them all up together and you will be close to Nikka Costa. Her album, Everybody Got Their Something, is simply a killing. I can't tell you enough how spectacular this album is. Every self-respecting queen certainly deserves a copy. Take my word on this one, doll. Ohmagawd!

Okay, while we're there I may as well get totally queenie on you. And this one is also for a great cause. You really need to check out My Favorite Broadway — The Love Songs. This is available on CD and DVD, and it's a concert recorded live at NYC's City Center back in October.

The program features performances by Julie Andrews and Michael Crawford (My Fair Lady, The Phantom of the Opera), a Linda Eder medley, Robert Goulet (Camelot), Chita Rivera (Funny Lady), Barry Manilow (Harmony), Adam Pascal (Rent) and many, many more! Yeah, I know this is supposed to be about club stuff. But a portion of the proceeds is going to Broadway Cares, which supports AIDS causes. So if you're into it, run out and grab it. And if you're not, think about getting a copy for your granny.

And that's the beats this week.

Party people are seeing PURPLE

Long-winded lilac ramblings about Dallas' party weekend packed with celeb DJs

circuit breaker

by j chris leeds

There it sat, a slick, four-color, 4-inch square brochure with shiny chains and the big, bold word in the middle — "PURPLE."

It was the official notice that Dallas was about to have another big party, so I consulted the calendar, which happens to be clear that opening weekend in May.

The next obvious matter: Fashion. What to wear?

As I surveyed the racked rows of cropped tanks, disco shoes, light-up bodices and party pants, my eyes glazed, and my brain began to ponder purple.

Seems simple enough — purple, a mix between red and blue. You know, colors that represent female and male influences. Got plenty of getups in those colors, but nothing in between. "Why no purple?" I was plum perplexed.

J Chris leeds is the guy who snatched that to-die-for purple outfit off the rack just before you could get to it.

What do I know about purple? Color of nobility, power, royalty and luxury. Oh, and church — the Roman Catholic Church, to be more specific.

Now, any given fag in Texas knows that J Chris has surely done his share of sacrilegious deeds, but somehow connecting purple to partying hasn't clicked. My mind recalls a childhood image, one of Jesus' violet shreds hanging from a crucifix along with a wiry crown of thorns. Eeks! Not exactly the image I hope to conjure while flailing around half-naked on a dance floor packed with hard, wet bodies.

Let's see — what else?

Recalling grade school, the word "purple" comes from the Greek porphura, a species of shellfish. Somehow they used the little critters in a very expensive process to produce purple garments fit for kings.

Thumbing through the hangers, I kinda felt sorry for the poor little sea creatures, sacrificed all in the name of high royalty. Perhaps I'll just go classic black.

No, this is PURPLE, and I'm going appropriately. Screw the shellfish. I've been called a queen many a time. And furthermore, any fool knows you can't dye stretch lycra, no matter how many coins your clutch holds.

History also tells us that purple is clearly gay. In the 1930s, the term "lavender" became popular in American lesbian circles as a colloquial term for other lesbians.

And of course, hankies in purple's various tones indicate fetishes such as piercing, dressing in drag and armpit play. Yeh, that's pretty queer.

Content that I'd be okay in purple, I returned to the brochure of familiar names and read further. Over the next several days, bombards of emails and phone calls revealed more.

The list of DJs from across the South, all being hosted by a hodgepodge of Dallas nightspots, assuaged my suspicions. This group really has it together.

Since when have Dallasites known nightspot owners like Michael Morris, Jack Polachek and Howard Okon to be more receptive to the use of their venues by one organization over the same weekend? Coordinators are saying kudos to the club kings who own Club One, Throckmorton Mining Company and The Brick, respectively.

Purple peers note that the color also symbolizes courage. It's a good thing the group's members share this trait, as Purple, Inc., which formed last month, admits it has set some rather lofty goals.

Their vision of bringing the "first successful" weekend of events to Dallas is steadily progressing. Now, with venues and DJs nailed down, the efforts of a well-connected, well-financed, well-oiled group of guys are paying off. A round of house parties hopes to secure deep-pocketed hosts to ensure that a big purse can find its way to the Resource Center of Dallas, this year's beneficiary.

Corporate contributions by Kenneth Cole, Bacardi, Whittall & Shon, Wet and Spectrum Beverages will alleviate the pricey production costs. And with the recent addition of fundraising powerhouse Keith Willard, more commercial contributions will likely follow.

Willard, former director of IMMUNOcise, a Resource Center HIV wellness program, says he's most excited about the finalized lineup that just hit the Net at www.dallaspurpleparty.com. A preview at JR.'s Bar & Grill will be followed by Perversion, a leather party, at TMC with DJs Blaine Soileau and Eddie X of South Beach. Suenos follows at the Quadrangle's Silver Room with Atlanta's DJ Kaon.

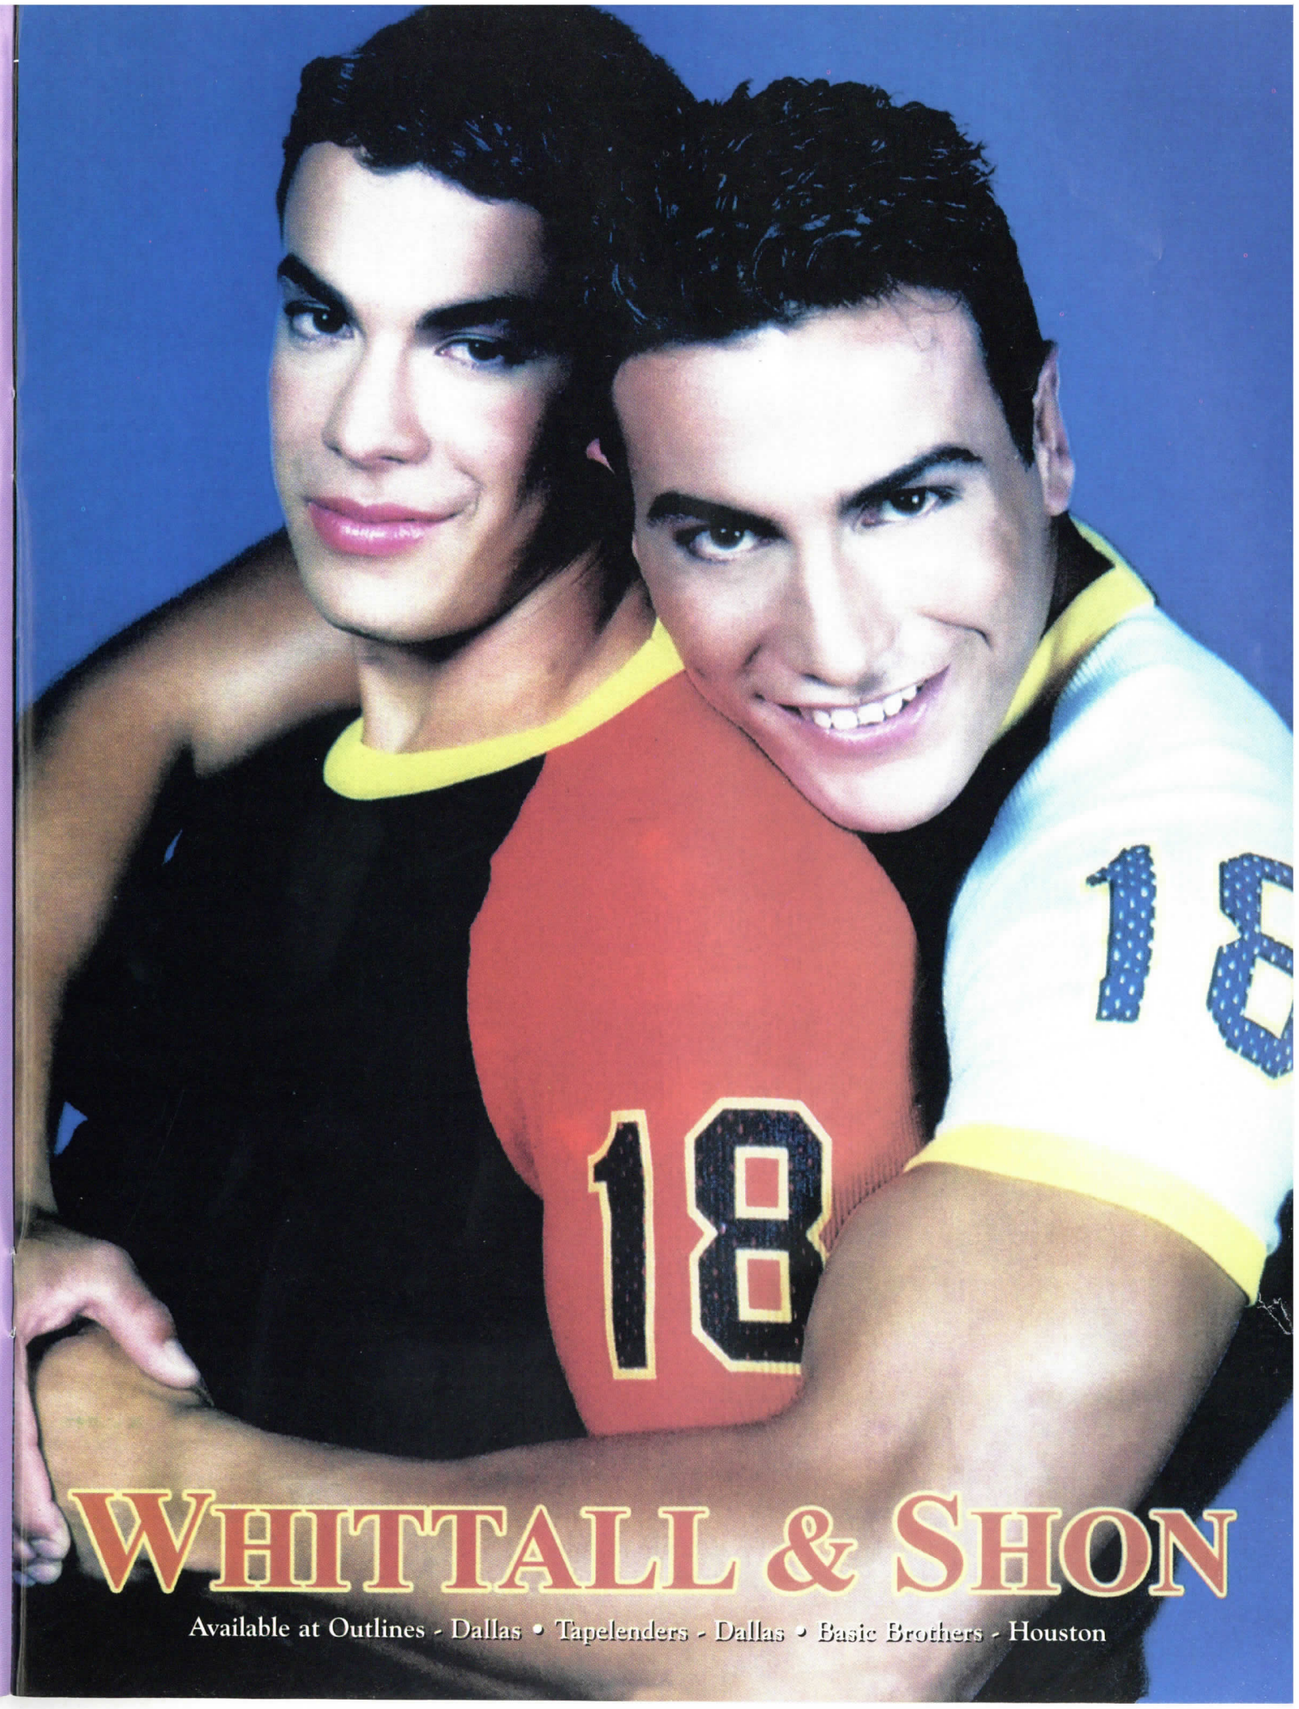

And the excitement doesn't wane with a pass-holder's Purple Waves pool party ending only four hours prior to Purple Rain, slated for The Brick. DJ Ralphi Rosario of Chicago spins until 4 a.m. when he'll pass the purple baton to Houston fave Michael Tank up the street at Moby Dick.

The finale, by no other name, opens Club One's doors, which are normally dark on Sunday. DJ Kio Kio helms the tables with a not-to-be-missed performance by Power. Both are SoBe imports.

While there's no precise word on what will bloom from all this purple passion sweeping Dallas, predictions are "it'll be lots of fun."

My guess: if indeed each shade symbolizes something different, I suppose we'll just have to wait 'til the purple paint dries. In the meanwhile start searching for your best lilac attire.

J Chris wishes Purple the best of luck with their debut.

Aries (March 20-April 19) The Sun will be transiting through your sign until Thursday night. If there are any important unfinished projects to be taken care of, the next few days is the time to do it. You'd be wise to stick close to home on Monday night. An invitation to Easter brunch could end up having a delightful and unexpected benefit.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) The "zodiac crown" gets passed to you on the 19th at 7:36 PM CDT. This will begin a 30-day cycle of clearing the decks and magnetizing what you want out of life. Watch that temper (and mouth) on Tuesday, or else there could be trouble. A new relationship appears to be very close at hand. Keep your eyes open.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) This week should be far less stressful than last. Things appear to be going much better on the job. Try to catch up on your sleep Monday night. Those new threads are quite daring and will surely catch the eye of a certain someone. Patch things up with your roommate and just let bygones be bygones.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) You'll probably begin this week with a full head of steam built up, but it'll likely fade quite a bit during the last couple of days. Remove some of the carbs from your diet and substitute more veggies. Make sure to use plenty of sun block when working on that tan. Start planning that Fall vacation right now.

Leo (July 23-August 22) You appear to be in almost complete control of life at this time (isn't that a great feeling?). Lend support to a sibling who needs a shoulder to cry on. Be sure to stretch a lot before and after working out. That bash on Saturday night is going to be something else. Dress casually and show up fashionably late.

Virgo (August 23-September 22) That "special friendship" seems to be getting quite hot and heavy lately. It could actually become long-term if you just don't try to rush things along. Those favorite jeans of yours are getting a bit tight. Isn't it time to lose some weight? No tears now! It's just getting started that's the really hard part, Virgo.

Libra (September 23-October 22) Your physical energy batteries might be a little low as the week begins, but they'll be up to full power after a day or two. Looking at new cars right now is al right, but don't go buying anything. Late next month is the best time for that. Eating a pear each evening would help those sinus problems a lot.

Scorpio (October 23-November 21) This should definitely feel like the calm after the storm for you, Scorp. The only problem area seems to be with finances, and even that's not really bad. Just avoid doing any impulse shopping for a few weeks. Try drinking more water and juice and fewer carbonated beverages. You'll sleep much better.

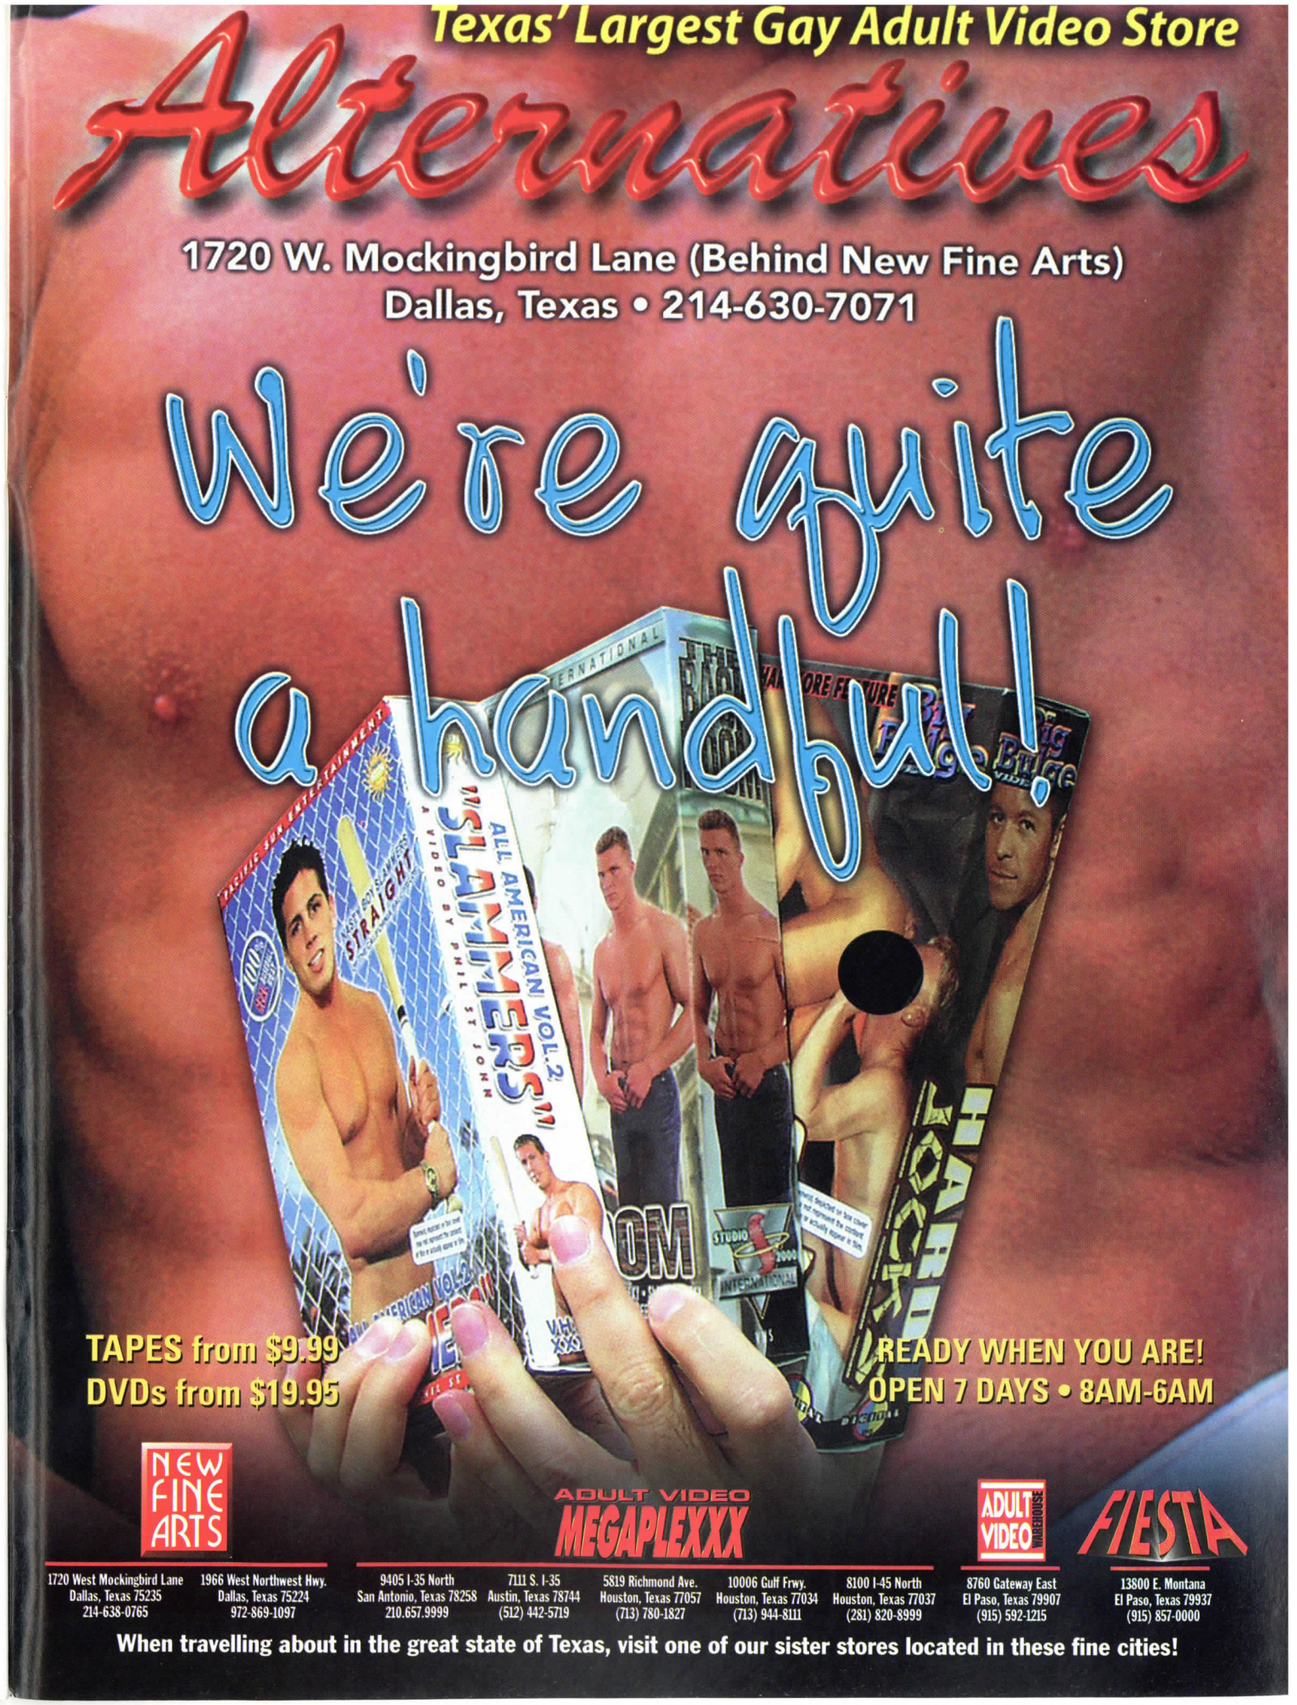

Sagittarius (November 22-December 21) Unlike Scorpio, you've got cash to spare with even more on the horizon (exactly what gold mine did you step in, Sag?). Keep on buying travelers checks so there'll be plenty of spending money for next month's trip. Since you've lost so much weight, isn't it time to splurge on some hot new clothes?

Capricorn (December 22-January 19) Those vivid dreams could actually be trying to tell you a story, Cappy, so pay close attention to them. Don't let that new romantic interest pressure you into making a commitment. Move at your own pace. Wait until after Summer to look for a new place to live. There'll be much less resistance then.

Aquarius (January 19-February 18) This week is likely to have more starts and stops than a crosstown bus. Don't expect too much in the way of smooth sailing, although you'll manage to accomplish a lot. You'd be less wired by not consuming so much caffeine. That raise in salary isn't coming quickly as you might have thought.

Pisces (February 19-March 20) Give yourself some more time to get over that latest relationship split. Try not to spend so much time alone (that's what good friends are for). Wednesday looks best for pitching an idea to the boss. Don't let a bad first impression keep you from making friends with a new co-worker. He was just nervous.

Q encounter

friendships

DAL We are new to the Dallas area, and are looking for a fun couple to explore the Dallas area. We have 2 boys and enjoy just hanging out. Box 34020

DAL Looking for friends for activities. I go to Sue Ellen's on Wednesdays for classic rock night. There's a band playing and the DJ plays a lot of my favorite music. Actually looking for male or female friends, but that option was not on the list. I live in Ft. Worth, so anyone interested there or mid cities would be really good. Box 35777

DAL Serious couple seeking serious fun. Trying to stay away from the bar scene. Would love travel partners and backyard barbecues. Box 35776

DAL We are looking for other couples to hang out with on the weekends. We like to take weekend road trips to casinos and anywhere I can take pictures. Box 35761

women playmates

DAL I'm new to the Dallas area and looking for someone to play with my fiancé and I. Mainly me (he doesn't need to be involved, but I'd prefer it). I'm looking for a friendly open-minded outgoing person a personality is a plus. Hoping to hear from the right person soon. Box 35754

women relationships

DAL I'm looking for feminine lesbians for friendship and of course maybe more. If you are interested in going down to Cedar Springs to meet for drinks, dancing, lunch or dinner. See a play or to hear a band. I'd love to hear from you. Box 35759

men relationships

DAL Hey guys, I'm 42YO, 5'10", 175#, HIV-, br/hzl, mustache, goatee. I have a desire to meet a good man, who's passionate, sensitive, emotionally stable 28-43YO, with traditional values, and is truly serious about finding that special guy to spend their life with. True love takes time and it is precious. If you are committed to exploring that possibility please contact me. My heart is full and my arms are waiting. Box 34021

men relationships

FT Worth GWM 50YO, open-minded, settled and fun loving. Looking for someone that wants more than bars and one night stands. I'm 6', 180#, love gardening, animals, and quiet caring times. Let's be friends, and maybe more. Box 34016

DAL Good-looking GAM, 33YO, 5'7", 125#, slim, smooth, professional, HIV- I love to travel, go to the movies, spending romantic evenings at home. Seeking GW/HM, under 45YO, professional, ht/wt prop. drug free, HIV-, for dating or LTR. Box 34015

DAL GWM, attractive, nice guy, 5'10", bl/gr, 170#, 40's, nonsmoker, HIV-, very stable. Seeks discreet relationship with W/HM, HIV-, nonsmoker, and 29-55YO. Enjoy quiet evenings at home and romantic dinners. Box 34014

DAL I am looking for a versatile HIV+ Black guy who doesn't follow the stereotypes. I don't care what your size is or how well you can use it, if your heart isn't in it. I enjoy going to sporting events, long walks, watching movies at home etc. Box 35783

DAL Seeking honest monogamous, loving mate. Me: 5'8", black male, 40YO, college educated, E/F secure, HIV+, 160#, blk/br, nonsmoker, drug free, nondrinker. Love to entertain, basic homebody. You: Ht/wt prop. 30-50YO, race unimportant, loving and honest. Box 35779

ARLINGTON Latin boy looking for friendship, LTR. Me: 24YO, 5'7", 135#, clean shaven, smooth, 29w, nonsmoker, drug free. I enjoy movies, shopping, traveling, dining out, walks in the park. You: 18-40YO, masculine, honest, caring, drug free. Please be serious and open-minded. Box 35767

DAL Looking for a real GWM. A person who would like a true relationship, with no games or attitude. You: 30-40YO, ht/wt prop., HIV-, honest, occasional Saturday night out clubbing, dinner with friends, or just at home alone. Me: 39YO, 5'11", 190#, green eyes, salt/pepper hair, medium build. Live like you've never lived, love like you've never hurt, dance like no one is ever watching. Box 35770

DAL Submissive WM, 44YO, 215#, 6'2", br/gr, goatee, HIV-, seeks ht/wt prop. dominant HIV-, WM for LTR., casual relationship. Box 35750

men relationships

NM SWM seeks companion in mountains this summer. Dislikes, scenes, crowds, media, smokers. Likes: Literary (fussy), natural foods, roughing it, architectural antiques, travel. I'm young 40's, 5'8", versatile, very self-reliant, building own house. Just one fault: my pride. ISO slender, 30's guy, any origin, intellectual or artist OK, practical essential, carpentry a plus. No conceits, be cool. Leave a message. Box 35772

DAL Am I anyone's prince charming? Am I? Do I have a prince charming? Really do I? Sometimes I wonder? If so, your prince is a white male, 32YO, 6', 250#, br/bl, clean-, usually semi-hairy. All I request is my prince is a W/HM, under 40YO, under 200#. Let us make the fairy tale come true for you and me. Box 35764

DAL I am HIV+, UB2. I enjoy going out for drinks and dancing with friends, movies, music, Antique Malls, Flea Markets and the beach. I'm sociable, out-going and enjoy laughing and having a good time. I'm looking for someone who enjoys some or all of these things, which is down-to-earth and can carry on an intelligent conversation and can handle sarcastic humor. Box 35762

DAL GWM, 35YO, 5'10", 160#, fit, easy-going, professional, with many interests. Workout 4-5 times a week, rollerblade read, play cards, and watch movies. I'm HIV+, active, and healthy. Looking for an educated professional near my age who's fit, likes a balanced life, wants to date and maybe try something more. Serious only please. I'll return all calls. 35765

DAL Teddy bear bottom boy looking for someone to bring my desires to life, or just looking for a cool guy to hang out with. Either way you could be the one I'm looking for. Box 35758

DAL I'm looking for someone who'll be fun to hang with, who knows who he is, and what he wants. Someone who likes to get intimate and nasty, and preferably someone who likes his guys on plump side. Box 34001
