Far be it for me to want to get up on my soapbox and preach but it has been a while so here we go. Coming out in the 80's was way different than coming out now. We did not have the societal acceptance that today's generation enjoys. (Not to sound like an old grand mama, but you guys have no idea.)

We did not have gays all over the TV on shows like Queer as Folk, Six Feet Under, Will and Grace and so on. Two guys sitting at Starbucks having coffee together would generally get some stares, believe it or not. Oh, but wait, I don't think we had that yet either, much less a great gay place like a Bult in Dallas. We could get away with it in a place like House of Pies in Houston but only because there were so many gays in the area to begin with. So for the most part we only had the bars in which to gather. In short, GAY had yet to go mainstream.

And you know what? That was fine by me. I hate mainstream. Blah, blah, blah, can we all just see it one more time? Yak...spit! I hate mainstream music (tired). I hate mainstream media (mostly lies), and let's face it mainstream events can be pretty boring. When gays had moved from disco to house music, the breeders were all still coming to the gay bars to be cool and asking the DJ to play YMCA. How pathetic is that? But what's even more pathetic is when we allowed it.

Let's talk about music retail. Having worked in New York for 10 years at a record label managing distribution and marketing, this is a subject I can go on about for hours. But today I only have a page or two, so I will just leave it to download sites.

Back in the day when 12-inch vinyl records were the format, everyone knew that you had to go to an independent record store to buy the real good stuff that you would hear in the gay clubs (that is before we became so mainstream).

Sometimes you might find some of it in Tower because they were always so indie friendly, but for the most part you had to go to a place like Hogwild in San Antonio, Record Rack in Houston, or Oak Lawn Records in Dallas to get the goods.

And today when it comes to the digital download sites for club music you have the same phenomenon. Look at iTunes. Yes, I know I have an iPod at the logo for my column every week. But the truth of the matter is I really hate iTunes. For starters .99 cents is too low for a single download. At that rate no one is really making any money, the artist in particular. And we need artists to be able to get paid in order for them to survive and continue to make more records for us to dance to and enjoy.

But Apple doesn't care about that. In fact they don't even care about the music. All they care about is using the music to sell iPods. As someone who deal with iTunes on the back end as a record label employee, I have approached them about a label search in the iTunes store, especially for dance music and they basically told me to shove it. (I will be glad to show anyone the email).

They don't care because their success is not linked to the success of record labels. If Jive Records goes out of business tomorrow it will not hurt iTunes. And that being the case, you can bet your ass that they don't care about fabulous indie dance labels like Music Plant, Hed Kandi, Strictly, or Nervous.

But there is an alternative. When it comes to downloading lovely club records, my two votes go to Beatport (www.beatport.com) and Traxsource (www.traxsource.com). There are a million others but these are the biggies for me. Why? Because they are independent. They specialize in the type of music we like. You can search for the labels you love easily. It's just like going into one of those indie record shops in the 80's but you are just doing it online. While they are not gay sites, they ARE indie (and in the music biz we call that a gay distant cousin) Also, be on the lookout for www.perfectbeat.com. The famed West Hollywood store has closed it's brick and mortar location and is doing online for mail order and digital download only. (and they ARE indeed gay!)

And best of all? There is no DRM (Digital Rights Management). If you buy a track on these sites, you can copy and play it on as many devices as you like. (please don't sell it though). Does it come with a price. Yes, but not really. Singles are about 1.49-1.99 and you can often choose the quality you want up to a full on .wav file.

Look, if you want the new Do Doubt album, by all means go to iTunes. But when it comes to club music...STAY INDIE. These sites live and die by the success of the labels they carry.

An analogy...You can always find that new Six Feet Under box set online at Amazon for a little cheaper than a place like Tapeanders. But isn't it worth a buck or two more to buy it from a sister? Besides, you can walk out the door with it in your hand!

You hearin' me? And that's Music and stuff... THIS WEEK IN TEXAS.

Ft. Worth

With El Calentito's declaration that "the fight is on the stage," as exclaimed by one of the members of the all-female punk band Las Sioux, director Chus Gutierrez portrays the attitude of the young people who lived through a tumultuous period in recent Spanish history. On the eve of a military coup in 1981, Las Sioux are preparing for a musical showcase for a music company they hope will produce their first album. The band rehearses and performs at the club El Calentito owned by a sassy and fearless transsexual who acts as a surrogate mother to the girls. As unfolding political events jeopardize their gig, Las Sioux become steadfast in their passion to be one of the greatest punk bands the world has ever seen. With a comical and free-spirited exuberance, El Calentito embodies an era full of libertarian energy in which sexual and gender liberation, equality for women and homosexuality began to exert itself on Spanish culture. Filled with witty performances and with great punk numbers, El Calentito is out, loud and in your face! The film is in Spanish with English subtitles. El Calentito is 89 minutes long and screens at 8 p.m. Wednesday, March 28 at the Four Day Weekend Theater, 312 Houston St. in downtown Fort Worth, next door to the Reata restaurant. Tickets are $8, $6 for students and are available at the venue beginning an hour before showtime. Q Pass holders will receive priority seating. For more info, visit us at www.qcinema.org.

Houston

The Houston Transgender Unity Committee - the nonprofit consortium of area trans organizations - has opened ticket sales for the 15th annual Houston Transgender Unity Banquet, which will be held on Saturday, April 14, at the Westchase Hilton, 9999 Westheimer at Briarpark, from 6:30 p.m. until 1 a.m. The 2007 Unity Banquet, which is the largest single-night transgender event in the nation, is dedicated to the memory of the transgender advocate and HIV/AIDS activist and educator Brenda Thomas (1943-2006). Ray Hill, the renowned activist for gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender rights, is the Unity Banquet keynote speaker. During the banquet, representatives from other local transgender groups will make presentations about their work. Some proceeds from Unity Banquet ticket sales support the Peggy Rudd Transgender Scholarship Fund. For the second year, the Unity Committee will present a scholarship at the banquet to a transgender-identified student pursuing higher education. Tickets are $50 in advance ($60 at the door) and can be purchased through Ticketweb at the Unity Committee website, www.htuc.org. Tickets are also available at Jewel's Boutique (2404 Taft near Fairview) and by mail (P.O. Box 542287, Houston 77254).

San Antonio

In celebration of Fiesta 2007, 2005 Performance Artist of the Year and San Antonio-native Jade Esteban Estrada will present Icons, The Lesbian and Gay History of the World, Volume 1 at the San Antonio Metropolitan Community Church, 611 E. Myrtle, on Wednesday, April 4 beginning at 7:30 pm. Hailed as one of the most exciting Latin pop singer/comedians in Hollywood, Estrada has also been christened by OUT Magazine as "the first gay Latin star." Bridging the Latino community which is largely homophobic with the LGBT community has been an accidental triumph for the entertainer, and Icons touches on many aspects of the same issues throughout history, including the first allegation of homosexuality in 1116 and the execution of gay men in 1707 in Prussia. Tickets for the hour-long presentation are $12 ($10 for Students and Seniors) and can be obtained by calling 210-472-3597. Proceeds from this very special event benefit the MCC of San Antonio.

The award-winning voices of Texas State University Chorale and the Austin Women's Chorus Tapestry will join the Alamo City Men's Chorale for a riveting performance of Maurice Durufle's Requiem on Sunday, March 25 at the Travis Park United Methodist Church, 200 E. Travis Street. Tickets are $15 and are available at On Main/Off Main Cards & Gifts, 120 W. Mistletoe, online at acmc-texas.org or at the door.

DEAR DIVA

of this, I no longer date, I no longer go out and - other than nightly visits with Rosie Palms - I'm no longer sexually active. I just don't want to be hurt anymore. Am I doomed to become an old maid?

Off Intimacy

Dear Off:

Only if you want to be, baby. But, it's going to take a bit of work to restore your faith in humanity and allow yourself to enter the dating arena again after all that you've been through. The first thing that you need to think about is why you only attract men that are going to cheat on and lie to you. Keeping in mind that we usually attract that which we know, and are therefore comfortable with, I would guess that you've never felt as though you can trust anyone - probably starting with your parents, siblings, friends, classmates and others that you dealt with during your formative years. Obviously, these trust issues don't necessarily mean that you couldn't trust those people to be faithful sexually (unless you and Daddy were getting it on,) but that you couldn't trust them to be true to you. So, believing that you can't trust anyone and that people are going to hurt you, you only attract those that satisfy your beliefs. So, what to do about it? Many times, we place our trust in people because we need them for something, whether it is for sex or just to confide in them. Once the need is removed, then trust doesn't really matter anymore - whether they lie to you or cheat on you can't hurt you, because you don't need for them to be faithful to you. And the only way to accomplish that is to recognize that you are complete and whole just as you are, and that whatever someone else does you will not be adversely affected. It's all about self-esteem, honey. Recognize that you are a beautiful, wonderful, gifted and caring person, and that you need nothing from anyone to make you that way. Once you've accomplished that, your dependence on other's fidelity and faithfulness will go away - and, at that point, you will be so desirable to other people that you'll have them lining up at your front door.

Dear Diva:

The only way that I can cum is by jacking-off. No intercourse, no oral sex - nothing else gets me to pop. Is something wrong with me?

Popless

Dear Pop:

Other than the fact that you're depriving someone else of the receiving end of your business, no. Just pray that you never run out of voyeurs....

Dear Diva:

Lately, my boyfriend has been waking me up in the middle of the night to have sex, which is great - believe me, it's great. The problem is that, when he does this, he tells me it is because he has been dreaming of having sex with someone else. So, what? I'm the easy pop to his dreamland fantasies? I think I'm offended....

Sister Somnambula

Dear Sis:

Honey, you're not offended - you're offensive! You sit there - or stand there, depending on how you're penning this whine-fest - telling me that you're boyfriend wakes you up for sex, which you also state is great, and then you complain because you feel as though he's cheating on you while he's asleep. Like you've never thought of Vin Diesel or Brad Pitt or someone else while he's plowing the fields between your legs. Puhleeze, Mary Louise! We all do it. We all think about other people when in the throws of connubial bliss, no matter how much of a matinee idol we have in bed with us, primarily because it's fun and it satisfies the carnal cravings that we have for people that are really hot or hunky or hung. It doesn't mean that we don't love our partners, nor that we're not attracted to our partners, it merely means that we like the fantasy of bedding down some gorgeous dude that we all know that we'll never slip between the sheets with. Be grateful that your currently-significant other is slipping the schlong to you when he wakes up, and not holding off until he can find someone else to make it with. And, just in case you want to be a really loving, supportive, compassionate and fun boyfriend to your partner, why not ask him to tell you all about the guys that he's dreaming about while he works it out in the here-and-now with you? Who knows...you might be dreaming about the same guys.

Dear Diva:

I'm having a really hard time trusting people lately, mostly because my past three boyfriends have all cheated on and lied to me. I even caught one of them screwing somebody else in MY bed. I'm 24 years old but, because Double check yourself this week ahead for you may have given the wrong answer to a very important question.

Scorpio October 22 November 21

Mysteries you have been working on may be finally solved. The focus is on music, flowers and harmony this week. This will be a friendly day when there is general agreement about work and play. Your personal magnetism soars and sex appeal will be much in evidence. Leo and Aries both play prominently in the weeks activities ahead.

Sagittarius November 22 December 21

A heart to heart with a loved one will produce good results. Gemini and Pisces play key roles in your life. New and exciting ideas could start filling your head. Make sure to write them all down. You will find that it will be hard to hold onto your money this weekend. Residential matters turn out best for you and your mate.

Capricorn December 22 January 19

Listening to someone could be the key to riches for you. Be tactful with touchy loved ones. Push career interests for all they are worth. Put your trust in Taurus. Take the day off and relax, you've earned it. Your deliberate actions may be covered up in one way or another. Keep your wits about you as well.

Aquarius January 20 February 18

A clue on how to proceed may come from watching a commercial on television. A loved one should be your main focus of attention tonight. Don't let them down. Discovering a friend of someone new will be rewarding. Keep your cool when dealing with a difficult matter. Cancer and Libra come front and center to help. You feel that you are at the peak of perfection.

Pisces February 19 March 20

A family member will contact you in a most unorthodox way. Gemini and another Pisces have key roles for you. Pay close attention to co workers so that a big job is handled well. Visit here and there in your own neighborhood and you will find yourself with many treasures. You may have neglected your mate so try to smooth out the rough spots.

The History of Jungle Bayou City Boys Club

the organization that puts on Jungle, emerged from humble beginnings. In 1993, a group of Houstonians, each celebrating their 30th birthday that year, hosted a combined birthday party on the Saturday night before Easter. Anticipating about 200 guests, the group secured a tropical plant warehouse as a venue and hired a local D.J. to spin. Given the venue, it seemed only natural to dub the party "Jungle Lust."

Houston, along with communities everywhere, had been devastated by more than a decade of AIDS. Each of the birthday celebrants had been touched in some way by this relentless plague and so decided to use the party as a means of giving something back to the Houston community. Gifts were not allowed and instead, guests were asked to make a donation to the Houston Clinical Research Network, a non-profit organization conducting clinical trials for new HIV/AIDS medications. As a fundraising mechanism, the party was a huge success, so the group agreed to make it an annual event. Soon after, the group incorporated and acquired 501(c)(3) non-profit status in the Bayou City of Houston and was named Bayou City Boys Club, Inc. (BCBC). The founders of BCBC made very clear in its incorporation that the sole mission of the new organization was to raise funds for Houston-area HIV/AIDS service providers, education efforts and research.

The 1993 event set the theme and tone for the eleven parties that would follow. From a plant warehouse, a dance floor and two bars were carved out of the forest of tropical plants. The birthday boys worked with close friends who all volunteered to move and arrange the hundreds of plants warehoused in the facility, only to replace them again on Easter Sunday morning after the event. What they created was an ambiance that no amount of professional decoration could have duplicated. Imagine a dance party in a tropical rain forest with narrow trails wandering into the darkness of the jungle and away from everyday civilization.

That first Jungle Lust was, more than anything, a labor of love and a celebration to help heal a community that was wearied and shocked by the loss to AIDS of so many of its members and friends. Jungle was and is a "happy" party with upbeat dance music, friendly Texas men, and a sense of community that prevails to this day.

Over the next five years, Jungle Lust grew steadily in both size and popularity, and the donations to its beneficiaries increased dramatically. After Jungle Lust 6 in 1998, it became clear to BCBC's leadership that the party had outgrown the plant warehouse, so the search began for a more accommodating venue. In 1999, the group settled on the Houston Polo Club, ironically one the more conservative bastions of Houston "old money" set. Jungle Lust 7 and 8 were held in the open-air pavilion adjacent to the polo fields. Legend has it that some of the more adventurous guests found time for self-guided tours of the "off-limits" stables complex.

Jungle Lust 8 in 2000 marked a turning point for the event, when BCBC made determined efforts to take the party to a higher level, establishing it as a first rate event that compared favorably with other regional and national parties. A young DJ from New Orleans, Joe Gauthreaux, who was beginning to make his mark on the circuit, was selected to spin for the event. After much consideration for the needs of the beneficiaries and considerable discussion by the members, the budget for the party was increased based on BCBC's certainty that if it built a first class circuit event in Houston, people from other parts of Texas and the United States would attend, thereby increasing the fundraising potential. To offset increased expenses, an additional event was added to the weekend to compliment the Saturday night main event. Ben Parsley of Austin's Splash Productions graciously produced a Sunday night closing party at Rich's Houston, sharing proceeds with BCBC's beneficiaries.

2000 was also the year that one of Houston's most prominent fundamentalist churches unwittingly contributed to BCBC's fundraising efforts. Limited parking at the Polo Club caused BCBC to seek offsite parking for guests. The closest significant parking facility belonged to the First Baptist Church of Houston. While the church would not donate the use of its parking lot to BCBC, it did agree to allow use of the lot for a fee. After the event, BCBC mailed a check to the church to cover the agreed upon fee for use of the church's parking lot. However, the check was returned to BCBC after the church realized that BCBC was an organization of gay men raising money to help in the battle against HIV/AIDS. Seeing no other acceptable response, BCBC donated the fees to its beneficiaries from the event and dutifully provided a letter to the church thanking them for their donation on behalf of the HIV/AIDS organizations that received the funds.

BCBC ushered in even more changes for the 2001 event. The Houston Polo Club issued an edict that future events could not exceed 800 guests. Since attendance at Jungle Lust 8 had surpassed 1100, the organization again sought a new venue. They finally settled on a warehouse in the near east side of downtown Houston that had once been a blimp hangar. The owners promised improvements such as working restrooms and sufficient air conditioning, which did not materialize. Portable toilets were brought in along with a back-up generator for sound and lighting should the building's dated power system fail. So as not to exclude some of the more sensitive corporate sponsors, the name of the event was changed to "Jungle 9." Despite logistical challenges, the new venue proved to be very popular while giving the party an edgier, more underground feel.

Jungle 10, in 2002, was one of the most successful Jungles ever, but also presented the organization with its most significant challenges. BCBC originally planned to return to the warehouse where it had hosted Jungle 9. However, when it came time to sign the contract, the venue had lost its occupancy permit. With less than two months before the event, the co-chairs decided against using the previous venue and had to locate another suitable venue almost immediately. After pursuing numerous leads, a cavernous space on the south side of the city was finally located. Because it was four times the size needed for the party, the members of BCBC set about the considerable task of down-sizing the venue to a more intimate and appropriate space. This was achieved by assembling a massive framework to support huge sheets of black plastic. Hundreds of tropical plants and life-sized topiary animals were also carried in to create the customary Jungle atmosphere. Among veteran members, Jungle 10 is still affectionately known as the "black plastic Jungle."

Despite the challenges, Jungle 10 set new records for attendance and fund raising. Over 1500 people attended. A record number of men from outside Houston arrived on the scene. Jungle 10 also marked the first event to consist of an entire weekend of affiliated parties. BCBC worked with several veteran promoters and club owners to produce a Friday night opening party, an after-hours party on Sunday morning following the main event and a Sunday night closing party. BCBC's production partners also secured well known DJ talent and live entertainment for each of these events and shared a significant portion of proceeds with Jungle's beneficiaries.

When the dust settled from Jungle 10, a core group of active and committed BCBC members were faced with two significant challenges - what direction to steer Jungle in the future and how to attract new, capable members to the all-volunteer organization. It did not take long for the group to come up with the answers. An emeritus membership tier was established, allowing veteran members who no longer desired active, day-to-day involvement to remain as members of the organization to consult and to assist with fundraising. To recruit new talent, the organization also established an associate membership tier to augment membership and educate new volunteers.

As for Jungle, the organization unanimously committed to take the popular event to an even higher level. In 2003, Jungle 11 moved to Verizon Wireless Theater in the heart of downtown Houston's arts and entertainment district. One of the finest performance and event spaces in the southwest, the new venue provided Jungle revelers with an unmatched party experience including upgraded sound and lighting, live entertainment and enhanced overall production values. Miami's Monty Q was hired to spin and live entertainment included Circuit Mom in her Texas debut, backed up by a troupe of Houston's beefiest male dancers. DJs Roland Belmares, Dawna Montel and Barry Harris performed masterfully at the opening, after-hours and closing parties. The entire line-up of weekend events was talked about by the amazed attendees for months to come and Jungle's name and Houston's place was firmly secured on the national circuit.

Not willing to rest on the laurels of its most acclaimed effort to date, BCBC sought to once again upgrade the 2004 edition of Jungle in subtle but meaningful ways. Superstar DJ and producer Manny Lehman was hired to spin for Jungle 12, where he gave one of the signature high-energy performances that have vaulted him to superstardom. The members gave special attention to theme and decoration in order to evoke memories of the earliest Jungle parties held in the plant warehouse. BCBC arranged for the donation of bottled water which was distributed free of charge to guests. Over 130 generous individuals provided a record amount of underwriting support for Jungle 12. In return, these VIP guests received exclusive use of the entire upper level of Verizon Wireless Theater, where they enjoyed an open bar, private restrooms, concert-style seating and a view overlooking the main event and dance floor on the lower level. Both the closing party with DJ Roland Belmares and the after-hours party with DJ Dawna Montel set new attendance and fund raising records, as well. Jungle 12 attracted a record number of out-of-town guests, with approximately 1/3 of attendees residing outside Houston. Best of all, the party received overwhelmingly positive feedback from guests from all over the country.

While Jungle has evolved over the years, the core values of BCBC and the principals guiding the event have remained unchanged. BCBC continues to be an all volunteer organization with no paid staff, no offices and virtually no overhead. BCBC is steadfast in its dedication to raising funds for HIV/AIDS education, services and research in the Houston area. Individual underwriting and corporate sponsorship still largely cover the cost of Jungle, allowing BCBC to donate general admission ticket proceeds to the designated beneficiaries. In its history, BCBC has donated over $780,000 to Houston-area HIV/AIDS charities, the majority of which was generated by the twelve Jungle events.

Jungle 15, our 15th anniversary party, promises to be the biggest one to date. The name of this year's party is "Return to Lust" which is an homage to the early Jungle Lust parties. BCBC has chosen Warehouse Live as the venue for the main party. This new venue has a dynamic sound and lighting system that must be experienced in person to be appreciated. For this special milestone party, a Texas native was chosen to headline, DJ Roland Belmares. Jungle weekend will also include: DJ Abel, DJ Alyson Calagna and DJ Jamie J. Sanchez. For the first time, BCBC is partnering with Bunnies on the Bayou to co-produce an event for the weekend. In addition, the Bunnies event has been added for the 15th anniversary to the weekend pass.

Big "D" TEA

It's easy to think that the Gay Bingo festivities that happen every month over at the Lakewood Theater all come together because of the brilliance of hostess Patti Le Plae Safe and her Bingo Verifying Divas (BVD's,) but we all know that it takes a lot to put on a really fabulous fete every thirty days - that there's gotta be somebody behind the Diva making sure that all the I's are dotted and the T's crossed. Well, two of those BTD's are none other than Ramsey and Steven, who we spotted on a recent night at the Gay Crossroads distributing handy, helpful informational flyers to the masses. We promised the dynamic duo that we'd share with you, our loyal readers, what a hoot GB is, and urge you to circle the April 21 date on your calendars. That's the night that Patti dons her Carmen Miranda outfit for Fiesta de GayBingo - and there'll be a bunch of hot Latin men in tight, tight caballero pants that defy the laws of gravity.... now that's what we're talkin' 'bout, babies....

While we were on the Strip, we popped into Mickey's to visit with our very dear friend Courtland, who shared with us that the club's new Show Your Tunes Tuesdays are already generating quite a buzz throughout the Metroplex. What? You don't know about them? Well, honeys, it's all about committing your own rendition of your favorite Broadway show tune to video in the hopes that it'll be played in rotation at the club - kinda like American Idol, only you get to edit out the portions that you don't want anyone to see. Imagine yourself on the big screen, serenading the crowds with a ditty from the Great White Way! You might even get a contract out of it. We hear that Courtland's rendition of I Am What I Am is already the subject of intense media interest....

We were simply devastated when we found out that our bestest bud and community legend, Domingo Garcia of Trestle fame, had left this earthly plain and moved onto his next level of experience. And, of course, our thoughts naturally turned to spunky Spanke, who was a fixture at the club and has been our compadre for more years than either of us care to declare. We caught up with Spanke visiting with perky potent potable pourer Mark over at Zippers, and he confirms that no one knows as of this writing what will happen to the Dallas institution now that Domingo is no longer at the helm. Change is hard, honeys, and this one is really a shocker. Stay tuned to Big D TEA for any news about the Trestle...until then, our condolences to all of Domingo's family and friends.

Over at the Round-up, the Best Galdanged Gay Bar in the U.S. of A, we are anxiously awaiting the outcome of next Wednesday's 2007 Hottest Cowboy Contest, primarily because we just love cowboys and like the idea that we can go straight to the hottest one once the winners are announced and avoid any strain. Saves us all that cruising and chatting time, doncha know. We're trying to convince JB, pictured in our cruizy CC photo with Mike, to enter 'cause we think he's just about as sexy as a brokeback mountain and he really knows how to fill-out a pair of Wranglers - which, as far as we're concerned, is about the only thing a hot cowboy simply must do. Well that, and sport a pair of spit-polished roach-stompers...which JB does quite well....

As is our habit, we were at Alexandre's the other night to listen to gal pal impressionist, Mark Alan Smith, when we spotted the club's owner, Lee, cozying up to a rather tasty tidbit by the name of Eric. Where in all that is gay, we wondered, did he get that glorious tan? At any rate, we sat down and chatted with lively Lee and heard all the latest gossip about what's going on up and down Cedar Springs, 'cause if anyone knows the dirt it's Lee.

And you just wouldn't believe what he told us! Why, it seems that.... Oh, dear, we almost got ourselves in trouble....loose lips sour dips, ya know. You better go ask Lee...or Mark....or Eric....we ain't touchin' that one, sweeties.

Leave it to Dallas to have it's own gay radio station, and leave it to the clubs of Caven Enterprises to host the official launch and coming out parties for the most widely-anticipated and colorful media debut since NBC introduced its peacock. Finally, a radio station just for our community...something to drown out all the right-wing crap on those other stations. We saw all of our friends joining in the welcoming celebrations at JR's and S4, but if you weren't there you can still learn all about this breakthrough in music programming by visiting Pride Radio's website at prideradiodfw.com. Just soze ya know, we listen to nothing else.

Cowtown TEA

You just know how much we love to eat...ahem....so you've gotta know that we were all up in the Stampede recently for the Fort Worth Gay Pride Week chili cook-off. It was a chance for us to mingle with our minions, have a gab-fest with Terry and James AND chow-down on some spectacular and spicy food in the process. We also had a chance to visit with the currently-reigning GPW titleholders - including Mr. GPW, Jeff McGuire; Miss GPW, Amber Diva Daniels; Ms. GPW, Missy Beach; and Mr./Ms. GPW, Chris Zola - all of whom are to be congratulated, applauded and otherwise worshipped and adored for all of the tremendous work that they do in the community. After a few bowls of chili, we found ourselves developing quite a crush on Ms. Daniels who, out of lipstick and lashes, is quite the hunky dude. And, after a few refreshing adult beverages, we found ourselves licking the chili right off of him....

It's not too late to get involved in the Fifteenth Annual AIDS Walk Tarrant County, which takes place on Sunday, April 1, from 1-5 pm at the Ft. Worth Cultural District and Botanic Gardens. For more information about the event and about how you can participate, please visit firstgiving.com/aocwalk.

Alamo CITEA

In our continued efforts to not focus so much attention on the penile projectionists that populate the boy box at the Bonham Exchange, we have been spending more and more time circulating around the club in search of other activities, rather than devoting all of our attention to the big swingers that warm the cockles of our hearts. On a recent Saturday night, we were treated to the stunning sight of a beauteous babe by the name of Vanessa, being woman-handled by one of her many admirers. Now that's REALLY old school, babies.

And while we're on the subject of old school, it's safe to say that the Heat's divine and Shady Lady remembers what education and music were like back in the day, 'cause we used to travel the same roads pantomiming the same tunes, honeys. She even paints the old way.... But, seriously, we just adore our sister, and make it a point to go to all of her shows at the Main Avenue Strip dance hall. Of course, it's often after such a trip down memory lane that we find ourselves farklempft and running to Randy and Pete to cry on their massive shoulders....like we wouldn't be running for those massive shoulders anyway.

Speaking of crying, there was a lot of that going on over at the Saint recently, as new title-holders were announced in two separate pageants - leaving some up sisters Transexual America Pageant, which saw the gorgeous and multi-talented and -tiarraed Erica Andrews relinquish her crown to the 2007 winner, Alexis Gabrielle Sherrington, whose pictured just moments after her crowning in our Cruise Camera photo. It was Sasha shanda, boobala, you wouldn't believe. Then, Aaron burst into a huge spray of tears in the presence of Mr. and Miss Gay Texas, Jared Matthews and Sasha Andrews as the tantalizingly-tall RJ swept the categories to capture the 2007 Mr. Gay San Antonio medalion - all while the new Mr. Gay San Antonio-at-Large looked on. We were on hand with our box of Kleenex, and are pleased to report that we mopped up all the spillage....

We are similarly pleased to report that spillage of the monetary variety was swept up at Essence during the extra-special appearances of Kourtney Devereaux and Noxzema, who both walked away with sufficient duck-ets to dash right over to Julian Gold for a fitting. The club's Friday Follies shows are proving to be an enormous hit with the masses, thanks in no small part to the delightful Autumnal Foliage Summers, who does the art of satire, pantomime and the dance (as Naomi Sims used to say) a very good turn, indeed.

We spotted a U-Haul brochure at Bermuda Triangle, though Deb and Jen were loathe to give us any sort of a time frame for when Jill and the gang will be hitting the trail. Though saddened by the thought of no BT on El Mio, we are heartened by the fact that the electrically-charged Simon Legree that is forcing the issue has had a spate of bad ju-ju of late. We just love instant karma, don't you? And Jill...wherever you go, we'll follow!

Capital CITEA

We just love crowd shots because, years after the event, we can go back and reconstruct a passel of memories just by looking at the people in the place, doncha know. So, of course we were delighted to snap a Cruise Camera photo of the happy, peppy people congregating at 'Bout Time of a recent evening so that, when we're even older and grayer, we can sit in our rocking chair and remember. Just look at all the folks, each with a different story to relate - and this was before the mini-vans of revelers arrived to partake in the club's festive frolicking. We think it's 'bout time y'all moyosed on over and found out for yourselves....

While we're on the subject - however indirectly - of memories, one of our fondest recent recollections involved one of the contestants at Rain's Calendar Boy Contest, a scintillatingly-sexy and terrifically-toned young man in a blue square cut that absolutely took our breath away. Regrettably, we lost the name of the bronzed Adonis at some

All of that reminiscing about that Adonis got us really hungry, so we naturally thought of the Cockpit Club to satisfy our carnal hunger. Hey, Adonis...Meat Me Wednesday...it's not that big a stretch. So, off we went to the San Jacinto party palace to slap down five bucks for a heaping helping of the pleasing platter that Chef Mike is famous throughout the region for. Babies, his prime rib is the perfect compliment to Ty's beef, so you know it's satisfying all the way around....

Speaking of satisfying, that's what we'd have to dub the experience that we always have whenever we pop into Oilcan Harry's to partake in the club's sensorial delights – delights such as the gore guys and gals that our lascivious lens captured during a recent twirl through the club. Now, we're not ones to go 'round spreading rumors, but one of the campus cuties captured by the afore-mentioned lens also happened to leave a rather dee-lish message in our male box that left absolutely no doubts as to what he would like to do to us....needless to say, we're composing our response now – but rest assured, YES will definitely be a part of that composition.

Finally, our very dear friend David Green reminded us when we were at Charlie's the other night that the annual Bean Awards are fast upon us, and that there's still time to vote for your favorite bar employee. Naturally, we grabbed as many ballots as our LV would allow us to tote, and have been busily filling them out to make sure that our voices are heard. For the one or two of you that don't know, the Bean Awards are the Austin Tavern Guild's very own brand of Oscar-caliber competition in which you, the customers of Austin, are afforded the opportunity to select your favorite bar employee. The awards are announced at a gala fete next Monday night, March 26, and you can be sure that we'll be on hand in our new Balenciaga to see who you've voted for.

Space CITEA

We always wonder to ourselves whether there will ever be an end to the number of gore guys and buffed beasts that make SoBe not only the coolest place to be, but also the hottest place in H-town. But, with a name like South Beach, we just know that the luscious lugs are gonna keep on appearing, and keep on revealing all of their very best attributes to us and to our Cruise Camera. Why, just take a look at the dee-lish dudes that we captured during a recent twirl through the party palace – complete with pendulous pecs and just a hint of a treasure trail to point the way to the trouser trouts below. Please view all of the pix to see exactly what we mean... We've cast our line to John, Jesus and Chayne, just soze ya know...

Speaking of casting a line, we'd need a really powerful rod to catch the hunky hombre we spotted over at the Montrose Mining Company the other night – and a helluva lot of really good bait, if you catch our drift. We're currently consulting our trusty Gay in the Outdoors manual to determine exactly what kind of bait will best suit our purposes....we'll keep you posted.

Across the street at JR's, we ran into super sexy Sam the other night with his best bud Al, who was looking quite fetching in a plowing farmer sort of way. Now, for the one or two of you that don't know, Sam was one of the fab four that we proffered a pair of roach stompers to recently at another club, and we're still completely overwhelmed from the try-on experience with him, doncha know. In all our years on the planet – hey, knock it off....it wasn't the Paleozoic Era, honey – we've never run into anyone that does to us quite what Sam does. Between those eyes and his other less-visible attributes, we can barely even stand after we've been around him....

As long as we're talking about that other club, you wouldn't believe the number of people that have been coming up to us at the BRB recently in search of a try-on experience with us. The scintillating studs in our cruizy CC photograph ALL wanted an experience of their very own...which pleases us to no end, but is wreaking havoc on our budget. Do you have any idea how much new roach stompers go for? But you just know after looking at the handsome hunks that we'll go into debt it we have to....Anything for a try-on....

We got so many cards, letters, e-mails, phone calls and shouts across parking lots about Matt over at In & Out that we had to run a solo picture of him so that we could fill all of the special requests from his fans. Regrettably, Matt has shared with us that he's a bit shy, so the best we can do is to provide evidence of his massive man-chest, his nonpareil nips and his killer orthodontia. Honeys, can you imagine how much of your tongue you'd have to use to work on those nips? Never mind those bodacious tat-tas....and other vital organs.

All that viewing of ta-tas and nips and such left us feeling just a bit parched, so we were thrilled – thrilled, do you hear? – to run into the official Montrose waterboy at EJ's during our recent search for our now-missing intended, Shane. The oh-so-gorgeous purveyor of liquid refreshment goes by the name of Billy, and needless to say we found ourselves slurping up every available drop under the watchful eyes of the beautiful enchantress, Ebony. Trust, honeys, we now know just where to go whenever we get thirsty...

Out in the Gay Southwest, you can satisfy your cravings for Latin lugs like Edgar and Adrian by popping into Crystal just about any night of the week, and they're just a sampling of the tasty tostados that make the libation lounge their homes away from home. We asked Edgar why he enjoyed the club so much, and he responded that he'd just wandered in from the taco truck parked outside to look for a refreshing adult beverage to wash down his evening meal. He said he was really straight....yeah, straight to bed baby....

Crystal isn't the only place where you can play and party with some caliente cuties, 'cause La Academia packs in its own mob of manly machismo – mobs that include Oscar and Robert, who our lascivious lens interrupted right in the middle of some rather intimate activities. Sweeties, we'd kill for the video....

There's burrito-sporting beefcake to be found inside the loop, too, and it's right over at Viviana's, the Montrose Corona casa that's named for one of the city's most enchanting divas, Viviana. Three of those beefcakes with the scintillating side dishes are Samuel, Arturo and Will, whose combined chorizo content is enough to make even Viv blush....

Just in case you're wondering why Tony's Corner Pocket keeps getting more and more popular, we invite you to view the image of Justin, one of the club's penile projectionists, in the middle of one of his more elaborate dance moves. If that's the type of activity that one can expect to view when visiting the passion pit, it should come as no surprise that the lines waiting to get inside go right around the corner...pocket.... Justin looks like he enjoys his job, doesn't he? Not as much as we enjoyed watching, of course....but that's a whole 'nother story.

Finally, people throughout the northern hemisphere have heard about George, and some of them even know that it's also a club on Fairview and not just the first name of our founding father. One of those that have heard is Armando Aguilar, who came all the way to the Bayou City from San Luis, Mexico to sample the sights and sounds of Mr. K's place. How's that for international relations!

TEA by the Sea

So, we had just finished a day of lounging on the beach and found ourselves so thirsty that we thought to ourselves, "Selves, wouldn't it be lovely to have a tasty refreshing adult beverage before we head on home?" Of course, our selves agreed immediately, so we dashed right across the seawall to 3rd Coast Beach Bar where we were treated to a sampling of both sexy studs and satisfying suds to quell both of our thirsts. Of course, we had hoped that the luscious libation of which we were partaking would cool us down just a bit, but with all of the half-naked hunks on the deck we just found ourselves getting hotter and hotter. Lordy, the lives we lead....

CelebriTEA

Many years ago, in a bar far far away, a little boy put on a face and a wig and transformed himself into the spitting image of the one and only Marilyn Monroe. As if that wasn't enough, this little boy - we'll call him Jimmy - seemed magically predisposed to channel the voices and personnas of a host of Hollywood's grande dames, from Bette Davis to Judy Garland to, of course, Marilyn. Well, Jimmy went on to find fame and fortune in New York City, and has recently released a new record that is taking the dance floors by storm across the country. And now, Jimmy - as in Jimmy James - returns to his native Texas for his Bring Your Cameras tour this April, with stops in El Paso, Austin, Houston and San Antonio. If you remember his incredible talent - or, if you have no idea who he is - you've got to make plans to see him when he whooshes through the state. He's amazing, honeys!

TWT POLICY
Because prostitution is illegal in Texas, State Law prohibits the placement of any such ads. Therefore, TWT policy stipulates that we will not and cannot knowingly accept any advertisements suggesting solicitation. It's the law. Also State Law prohibits nonlicensed massage therapists from using terms such as "massage," "Swedish," "accupressure," "shiatsu," "reflexology," "body rub," "back rub," "body massage," or any term which indicates bodily contact.
