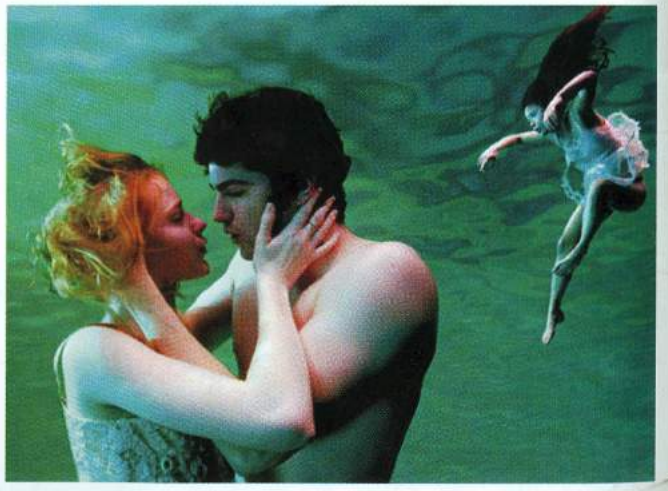
Don't Miss this one!

What self-respecting queen doesn't love a good musical? Visionary writer director Julie Taymor (Frida, Titus, Broadway's The Lion King) and co-writers Dick Clement and Ian LaFrenais (The Commitments) bring the 1960's to life with Across the Universe. Now Interscope Records releases the Original Motion Picture Soundtrack.

Set against the anti-war protests, rock and roll revolution, and mind-expanding psychedelia of the 1960s, Julie Taymor's hallucinogenic musical follows the arduous journey of star crossed lovers Jude (Jim Sturgess) and Lucy (Evan Rachel Wood) as they and a small group of musicians are swept up in the raging waters of the volatile counterculture movement.



Guided through their journey by a pair known only as Dr. Robert (Bono) and Mr. Kite (Eddie Izzard), Jude and Lucy are eventually forced to find their way back to one another after being split apart by powerful forces beyond their control. The music in the film consists exclusively of songs made popular by The Beatles during the time period depicted in the movie. Unlike most musicals where the story comes first then the songs are inserted, the songs themselves defined the characters and shaped the plot.

Growing up in the Vietnam era with The Beatles as a huge musical backdrop (thanks to my then-hippie Uncle Joe), naturally the thought of anyone but the Beatles performing these songs is a bit scary at first. But I have to tell you Joe Cocker singing "come Together" and Bono is completely at home singing "I am The Walrus" and the end track "Lucy In the Sky with Diamonds." And Jim Sturgess really comes out of nowhere on every song and blows you away. A British actor, and primarily active in television, he has also appeared in film and radio, but I think I'm wanting a solo album form him after this.

While every cast performance is amazing, I'll have to say that Timothy T. Mitchum's performance (along with Carol Woods) on "Let It Be" is a magical point in the whole project.

Academy Award-winning composer Elliot Goldenthal (Frida, Drugstore Cowboy, Interview with a Vampire) wrote the film score and produced and rearranged the sojngs along with Grammy winner T-Bone Burnett (O brother Where Are Thou, Walk The Line) and Teesa Gohl, who has worked with Goldenthal on over 20 films.

To give the music authenticity, the team recorded many of the songs using period-appropriate equipment such as analog tape and vintage microphones etc. And I really think it has paid of in a big way, overcoming many of the usual digital pitfalls.

While you can get the album first then go see the movie, I would recommend seeing the movie first if it's playing in your area. While the music on the album stands alone just fine, there just something special about listening to it after you have already bonded visually with the characters and plot.

I have no word yet on a DVD release, but I can assure you that it's one I'll be buying the day that it's available.

And that's Music... This Week in Texas.

Tip: You must go to SCARbux and order yourself a Pumpkin Lice Latte.....YUM!

'Twas the Nightmare before Homo'ween!

'Twas the nightmare before Homo'ween and all through the house,
The creatures were killing and eating a mouse!
The stockings were hung by the chimney with flare,
In hopes that DRAG'cula soon would be there;
The gay boys were wrestling like slugs in their beds,
The wolfman broke in to give them all head;
And Daddy in his chaps and, and I in his lap,
Had just lay in bed to do more than just nap,
When out on the lawn bodies fell with a splatter,
While a large group of drag queens all quickly scattered.
Out the window I flew like a bat,
To burry the bodies in the earth with our cat.
When, what to my fabulous eyes should appear,
But a pack of gay zombies taking it in the rear,
With a flick of my hair and a tug at my dick,
I knew in a moment I would get very sick.
More rabid than ravens the zombies they came,
And they screamed with horror as they cried each others name;
"Now, Slasher! now Cancer! now Transer! now Trixin! On, Vomit! on, Stupid! on, Gonner and Clitzen!
With blood on the porch! With blood on the wall!
Now slash away, gay slay, Slash away all!

"Happy Homo'ween to all, and to all a queer night."

BLACK TIE DINNER OF DALLAS

AUSTIN

Arts On Real Theater is a non-profit (501(c)3) theater management group designed to foster and enhance performance / visual arts in Austin Texas. Arts On Real hosts more than 15 different theater productions annually - including such crowd-pleasers as Cellbloq - in addition to special events that include cabaret vocalists, comedy, dance, performance art and screenings of independent movies. During the last 100 days of 2007, Arts On Real is asking its patrons to make a charitable contribution to the theater of $100. Receiving $100 from 100 audience members makes the theater $10,000 - a drop in the bucket when compared to other theaters - but look at all the things they do with that money! Check out www.ArtsOnReal.com for more details.

If you're in to health and well-being, but are faced with health challenges, then you probably already know about Wright House - a haven for people living with or at risk of contracting chronic illnesses, where the mind, body and spirit are nurtured through prevention, education, care and compassion in a culturally-inclusive setting. What you may not know is that next Thursday, November 1, there'll be a benefit for the Wright House Wellness Center at La Zona Rosa, 612 West Fourth Street, from 6-9 pm. Featuring the renowned talents of Ray Benson & Asleep at the Wheel, the evening includes a silent auction at 6 pm, followed by Ray and the band at 7 pm. Tickets are just $48.50 for general seating, $75 for VIP admission, and can be purchased online at the Austin Gay & Lesbian Chamber of Commerce at aglcc.org; at the Wright House website at wrighthouse.sitestreet.org; or, by calling 512-423-1748.

DALLAS

The largest gay and lesbian fundraising dinner in the nation - Dallas' Black Tie Dinner, which in 2006 distributed $1.35 million to area organizations and bringing their 25-year cumulative distribution total to nearly $10.5 million - has announced that the keynote speaker for this year's glamorous event will be none other than Golden Globe and Screen Actors Guild Award-winning actor, social activist and humanitarian, Martin Sheen. An advocate for peace and for more than twenty years a protestor of political repression in Central America, Sheen has promoted improved political asylum policies in the United States and has publicized the atrocities of the Salvadoran death squads. In addition, he is known for his robust support of liberal political causes, and was the first actor to participate in the LGBT Victory Fund's BREAKthrough podcast series with a gripping and revealing chat with New York City Council Speaker Christine Quinn in which he discussed his role as a gay man in "That Certain Summer." Though more than 90% of the available tables to this year's gala dinner have already been sold, there is still a limited number available - and individual tickets priced at $300 each are on sale now. Black Tie Dinner, Inc is a non-profit organization that raises funds for gay and lesbian supportive organizations serving North Texas through this yearly premiere event of empowerment, education and entertainment in partnership with the community. For more information about the Dinner and to buy tickets, please visit the Black Tie Dinner website at blacktiedinner.org.

The United Court of the Lone Star Empire is pleased to present Coronation XXXIII, "Let the Good Times Roll - A Night of Mardi Gras Madness" on Saturday, November 3, at The Radisson Love Field Hotel, 1241 West Mockingbird Lane, beginning at 5:30 pm. Featuring three distinct sets - Party on Bourbon St, A Masquerade Ball and A Night of Sapphires and Diamonds - the much-anticipated event is sure to be a visual delight and a treat to the senses. Coronation weekend also includes the Court's Out of Town Show & Bar Tour on Friday, November 2, beginning at 6 pm at the host hotel, as well as a Victory Brunch on Sunday, November 4 at 11 am, also at the host hotel. The bar tour on Saturday night will commence at 9:30 pm, immediately following the show. Admission for the Ball on Saturday is $30; for the show and bar tour $15; and for the brunch $25. For more information and to purchase tickets, please visit the Court website at dallascourt.org.

Dear Diva

Dear Diva:

I was reading an old Rolling Stone Magazine and came across an article about Mick Jagger getting off on stinging his cock with wasps. Now I am not game to try it, but I thought you might be in the know about such freakish happenings.

Just Wondering in Corpus Christi

Dear Just:

I actually watched Mick do it, if the truth be told. He learned it from his then-wife, Bianca, who used to use bees and wasps and hornets to sting her lips so they'd swell-up and appear fuller and more luscious in the days before collagen injections. Mick figured that if it could work for Bianca's lips, it'd do wonders for his already overblown member and would add a bit of punch to his peculiar peccadillos. He then shared this cosmetic curiosity with wife number two, Jerry Hall, who was predisposed to using the biting creatures on her cheeks so she would have the appearance of Hepburn-like cheekbones. But, Mick was - and still is - a bit of a freak, so his bizarre bedroom activities should come as no surprise to anyone that's read of them. What should be more disconcerting than an individual act by a spoiled celebrity, I venture to say, is the great number of celebrities that find carnal and connubial bliss with some entity other than a fellow human, whatever the gender. You're probably too young to remember it, but not long after Richard Gere became a household name and object of lascivious desires thanks to American Gigolo, reports surfaced in Hollywood that he had been hospitalized because a gerbil had died in Richard's intestines after it was inserted into his anus. The gerbil, you see, would scamper on up the love canal, stimulating the prostrate and causing an allegedly lovely orgasm. Richard never officially denied the incident, and my Hollywood sources swear to me that it's a true story - one source even provided photos, if you can imagine - so the legend lives on in people's minds, and a poor gerbil lost its life for what many would say was a damned fine cause. But, fine cause or not, both of these stories prove my point that the rich and famous just have way too much idle time on their hands, and are far too jaded and insulated from reality to even find simple pleasure in the timeless act of making love. No, they'd rather find fauna and sometimes flora and copulate with that than find any intimacy with someone of their own species because, after all, they are above their own species as the paparazzi, tabloid readers and their mega-million dollar salaries tell them they are. No, Just, Mick can have his wasps and Richard can have his gerbils. There are those poor mortals out there - the Diva included - that would be happy if they could just get Jake Gyllenhaal inserted in their asses.

Dear Diva,

I was hanging out at EJ's the other night and overheard these youngsters talking about this new little competition they have amongst themselves. Basically, after 2:00 am they go out until 4:00 am and see how many homeless cocks they can suck off. They even go so far as to give up money or bribe the homeless with booze. Have you heard of this new game that these kids are playing?

Eavesdropping at EJ's

Dear Eve:

No, I haven't....but it sounds like fun, doesn't it? Oh, I know what you're thinking...you're thinking, "Ew...the Diva's a dinge queen...she'll even blow a homeless wino." To which I reply, "You haven't seen some of our homeless people lately, have you?" Yes, dear Eve, thanks to the unbelievable George W, there are even more homeless and impoverished people living under bridges and in cardboard condos along the side of the road - and some of those people are highly-educated men who find themselves in the gutter because of the economic policies and social beliefs of the current administration. Why, the last time that I was in New York City, I was strolling down the Avenue and noticed a perfectly delicious gentleman in an Armani suit and Kenneth Cole lace-ups standing at the bus stop and reading the latest edition of the Advocate. Well, naturally, I sashayed right over and struck-up a conversation with the sexy junior executive and, before long, we were heading to the nearest cocktail bar to get even better acquainted. Three martinis later and I discovered that this gorgeous man didn't have a pied a terre in which we could consummate our growing feelings for each other - hell, he barely had the terre, living as he was in Central Park just behind the Metropolitan Museum of Art (see, I told you he was classy!) He told me that he had worked for an engineering firm in Midtown Manhattan but that, once they learned that he was gay, was let go because he didn't fit the company's image. He had worked there for five years and had, as so many do, racked up huge credit card debt and was so cash poor that, without a paycheck, he rapidly found himself trading 2(x)ist for Hanes and Vuitton for D'agostino's. So, the next time you go all elitist on me and suggest that there's not some fine trade to be found out there in a cardboard box, remember my engineering friend....who, for the record, was simply scrumptious.

CLASSIC TWT

by Rachael Gardner

11 Years Ago, This Week in Texas

With all of the ghosties and hob-goblins running around the streets of our state's biggest cities for the gayest of all holidays, it was nice to know that

- in the pages of This Week in Texas, at least - you could still find just your basic gorgeous hunk costumed in asset revealing attire on All Hallows Eve, and that the shivering of timber that you felt was due to ecstacy and not terror. For ecstacy is just what our cover model, Morgan Adams, induced from our readers...particularly when he unsheathed his rather lenghthy sword and bellowed "Yo, ho, ho, hoe" from his lofty perch. Well, it just wouldn't be Halloween without a hoe...

When we weren't admiring Morgan's Jolly Roger, we were probably making merry at one of the many and myriad special events that clubs and businesses throughout the state were hosting to make even the gloomiest of ghouls happy haunters - events such as X-Files Halloween Havoc at Charlie's in Austin; The Pharaoh's Afterlife at Heaven, The Revenge of the Sphinx at the Montrose Mining Company and The Curse of Ancient Egypt at JR's Party Bar, all in Houston; the Dim All the Lights Flashlight Party at Midtowne Spa in Dallas, Austin and Houston; Mortuary on Maple at the Ice Factory, also in Dallas; The Pirates of Magnolia at Magnolia Station and the 27th Annual Costume Contest at the 651, both in Ft. Worth; Horror on Brazos Street at the BRB, back in Houston; The Haunted Gay Bar on Fairview at the Ripcord, still in Houston; Karaoke Fiends of the Night at 5th Street Station, once again in Austin; and the Masquerade Ball at the Starck Club, back again in Dallas.

SAY, WASN'T THAT...the outrageous Randall Jobe camping it up with the outstanding mix-master Doug Barnes at JR's in Houston; Brian Smith, Michael Draemer and Joey Reid, pouring the potent potables at the Montrose Mining Company, also in Houston; Craig Henderson getting cozy with rowdy rascal Victor at Rascals, also and again in Houston; the returning Oscar Reyna, the alluring penile projectionist Adrian and Atlanta's magnificent Lou Haskell comparing notes and other vital organs at The Saint in San Antonio; Joe Ganey, blowing out the candles on his birthday taquito at the Silver Dollar Saloon, still in San Antonio; stunning and studly Jimmy Lee, re-opening the doors of the all-new and better-than-ever Wild Club, still and again in San Antonio; Jame Perry, donning her new Miss Austin World bejeweled headdress at 5th Street Station in Austin; Ida Popter setting the gay dating world on fire at Moby Dick in Dallas; Three Hunketeers Rich Rangnow, Chuck Edwards and Derrick Nix being hunky at Village Station, once more in Dallas; and Chili Pepper being cheerful, fun and camera shy at the Round-up, once more and again and still in Dallas.

Did you know that, in 1996, Disco Diva France Joli was returning to the charts with a new record and a new attitude? Well, now you do.

And that's the way it was, This Spooky, Scary and Otherwise Eerie All Hallows Eve Week in Texas 1998...

HOMOSCOPES

Gavin
Rossdale

Aries March 21 April 19
Demonstrative love won't go begging under the current cosmic trends. Find a quiet spot to relax to get things straightened out in your mind. Sagittarius may have some important answers. Stop, look and listen or you may end up in trouble by dinner time. You will feel that you can do anything, so go ahead and do it. The Number 21 will pay off for you.

Taurus April 20 May 20
Don't expect any surprises in your love department. Keep your mind busy, for later you will find no rest. Spread your wings, enlarge your horizons, resolve to reach more people. There is enlightenment in your studies. You could land a high paying assignment for your hard work before the day is over. Another Taurus is involved with your plans. Today's lucky Number is 6.

Gemini May 21 June 20
A heated argument with family members could come to a boil. A major career change for the better is featured. Decisions you make could pay off big. Go ahead and spread your wings. Taurus and Aquarius come front and center to help. You and your loved one shall find a new similarity. Count on the Number 1.

Cancer June 21 July 22
Entertainments and parties will go well this evening. The discovery of someone you know will create a pleasant situation. You will feel closer to your beloved. You'll perceive the potential in yourself and in others. A co worker may cover a mistake you make. A task at work will come easy for you. The Number 2 is a winner for you.

Leo July 23 August 22
It's an exciting time for travel and a love relationship. Making plans for your future is signified by The Sun. Take in all the facts of the matter at hand before making any money decisions. You demand the best for your loved one. You feel that you are at the peak of perfection. Gemini and Virgo figure prominently in the day's activities. Your hot Number is 8.

Virgo August 23 September 22
Great leaps forward are forseen in life, career and in your love department. Work will come easy for you. You can advance your beliefs under prevailing aspects. Your personal magnetism soars and sex appeal will be much in evidence. Gemini wants to know what is on your mind. The Number 7 is a winner for you.

Libra
September 23 October 22
A supervisor is saying good things about you to others. Conscience and spiritual matters are on your mind. Leo has some say in this scenario. Push your financial and business opportunities hard. Resist the temptation of putting your stronger opinion on the line with a loved one. Aim for the prizes that life is ready to distribute. The Number 9 will pay off for you.

Scorpio
October 23 November 21
Aim for the prizes that life is ready to distribute. Invite appreciative Gemini types into your home. Pay heed to you inner feelings. Resist the temptation of putting your stronger opinion on the line with a loved one. You will locate an article that had been lost, missing or stolen. Your learning process is stimulated with hobbies, work or studies. The Number 1 will pay off for you today.

Sagittarius
November 22 December 21
Contentment reigns supreme within your household tonight. Express your convictions for all to understand. Listen to a loved one, since you've been too busy to listen lately. Take care of your bills before they take care of you this evening. Taurus and another Sagittarius have key roles. Keep your wits about you around the workplace. Your hot Number for you is 6.

Capricorn
December 23 January 19
Don't let another's insecurities upset your frame of mind. Keep your wits about you when in a dispute with a loved one. Persistence pays handsome dividends later in the day. Put your enthusiasm to work and go after something you have always wanted. there is enlightenment in your work habits. Aquarius comes front and center to help. Your hot Number is 3.

Aquarius
January 20 February 18
Keep your ears open, or you may miss something important. Look at your loved one with a new perspective. Self analysis of your current physical state will prove results. Your career plans may have to be altered slightly. Your feelings may get todden upon. Check with Scorpio before proceeding. The Number 14 is a winner.

Pisces February 19 March 20
Decisions you make could pay off big. Gemini and Virgo figure prominently in the day's activities. Social fun is evident this evening as signified by Pluto in Scorpio. You will find that spending more time with a loved one will be very satisfying. You'll be the feature of a major assignment. Pluto in Scorpio signifies you will have a great day. Your lucky Number today is 13.

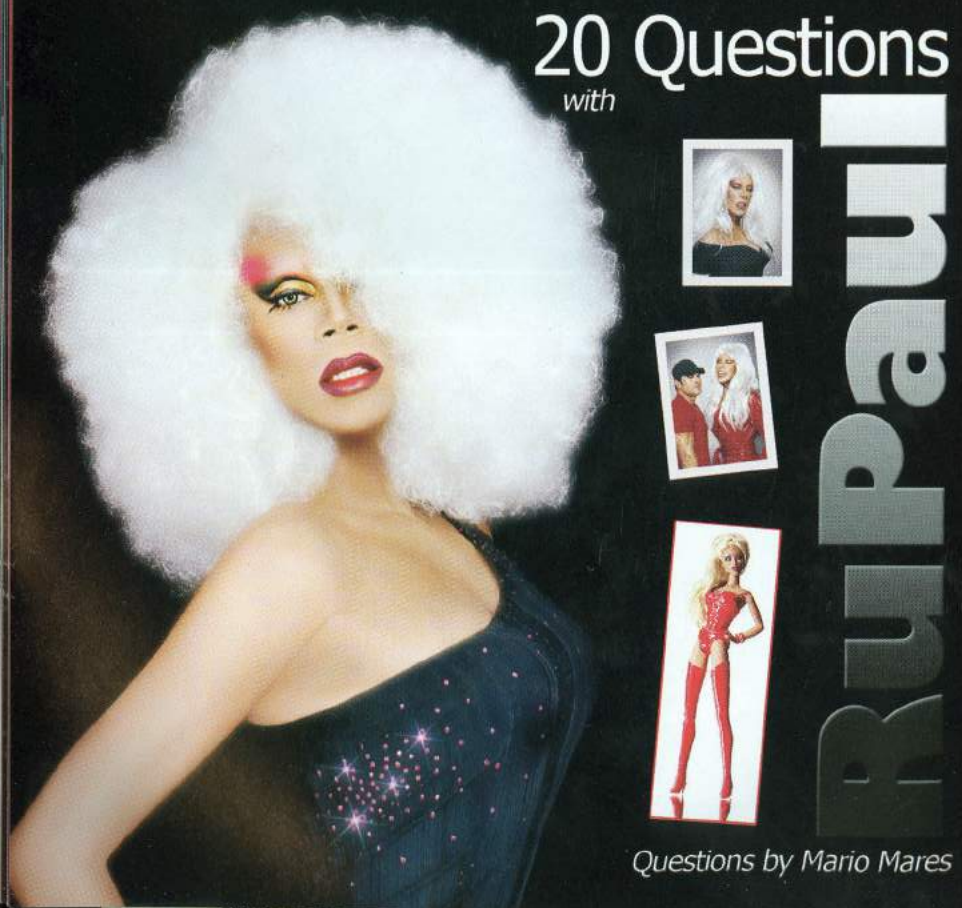
20 Questions with RuPaul



Questions by Mario Mares

Texas is looking orward to your return..... How long has it been since you've been to Texas? Which cities are you going to be performing at this go round? Not counting airplane layovers, I last performed in Lubbock on January 21, 2006. This time I will be performing in Houston and McAllen.

I was able to go out and get your new CD, Reworked, it's a great CD to listen to on your way to the clubs to get you all pumped up. I have to drive out of town once a week and let me tell you, singing along to this type of music makes the drive much more comfortable. How did you select the songs for it? "ReWorked" is a collection of new remixes from my previously released material. I chose those songs because I love them and I wanted to give everyone else a chance to love them the way I do.

You've worked with many different collaborators in your young career. Anyone you have yet to work with and want to? I'd love to do a duet with Judge Judy.

I read in your biography, your first Acting Teacher, William A. Pannell was very instrumental in your life. Have you had the chance to tell him so. Have you been in contact with him since your career came to fruition? Yes, I've stayed in touch with Bill. In fact I had lunch with him and his girlfriend about six months ago, here in New York.

What do you think of the young entertainers o today? They seem to need guidance. What are your thoughts on this subject? Well, I wish there were more openly gay performers. I'd love to see several trannies hit the big time. Can you imagine how amazing that would be a tranny Destiny' Child or an all gay Maroon Five?

Who are some of your heroes, whether it is family, friends or other people in the entertainmen business or otherwise? My hero is Judge Judy - period. She's a straight talkin' no bull-shit, powerhouse of a woman.

You're a huge Diana Ross fan, when can we see you work together again? I love Diana, she's an incredible phenomenon. I would never turn down the opportunity to work with her.

How about yourself, Diana and Tina? I'd love to see that. I can just see all the queens out there searching for other entertainers out there to do a great talent o this. You know these drag queens/female impersonators always needing new ideas. So let's give them some. That sounds like a winner.

Can you give me your thoughts about MAC Cosmetics? You were the first face of MAC. How excited you must have been. Viva Glam will go down in history. M.A.C is an incredible company. They pioneered a way of giving to AIDS charities that had never been done before and they are committed to continuing the tradition. I wish more companies would make that kind of commitment.

I used to love sitting down and watching your show on VH1. Any thoughts on doing a reunion show? Come on, I can come and be a special guest, lol. Wait you'd be better off with Paul Lekakis or better yet Depeche Mode since you cover People are People on Reworked. It's been many years since I've done television. I think I just might be ready to throw some ideas around, we'll see.

How was your experience in front of the camera doing Starbooty? How long were you in production? Would you do it again? Starbooty 2? Starrbooty is truly a labor of love. She's a character I created more than 20 years ago and I've been itching to bring her back to the big screen ever since. The movie is funny as hell. I've seen it a million times and I laugh hysterically every time. It took us six weeks to shoot it and 17 months to do the post production. It has all of the elements of my favorite movies: bitches kicking ass, gratuitous male nudity, countless costume changes and sassy, delicious dialogue. It's John Waters meet Russ Meyer mets The Naked Gun. I would do Starrbooty 2 in a heartbeat because this type of entertainment is sorely missing from our culture. Doing drag is akin to an act of treason in a patriarchal society. Long live the drag revolution.

I also see you have a RuPaul doll? How did this come about? Does it kick Barbie's ass? We all know the answer to that question. I'm sure your doll already stole Ken away from Barbie. I am so honored to have a doll made in my likeness. It's stil hard for me to believe she actually exists. And yes, she totally kicks Barbie's ass, has stolen Ken anc has way better clothes.

What's on your ipod right now? I'm a little late with this album but I'm crazy about Katharine McPhee debut CD. She made all the right sonc choices.

I've been asked by a very special fan if you would fill me in on Lady Bunny and Lisa King, the early years? Spill the T RuPaul. Lisa Kinc was already a living legend when I started out in Atlanta but I didn't get to see her perform until man years later when she returned to Atlanta. I met her once and she was very kind. On the other hand, Lady Bunny is one of my oldest, dearest friend who I was lucky enough to witness from the da she emerged from the bubbling, primordial ooze. She is a true genius.

What's your daily routine like these days? Wake up at 9:30am, oatmeal, coffee, computer, emails, project details, salad (no bread), telephone details, Judge Judy, nap, bicycle, iPod, vegetables/protein, socialize, gym, time alone, create, in bed b 4:30am.

When you took some time off what was tha like? What did you do? I rejuvenated my emotional life with friends, family solitude. It was wonderfu and it reminded me why I do the work that I do.

You have many fans on your myspace. Thanks for adding me by the way. You gotta have friends.

Where do you see RuPaul in 10 years? 20 years? I try to live in the moment. I know it's a gooc idea to have goals but my focus is on today.

On a final note, what's next for RuPaul Andre Charles and not RuPaul? I really need to write the follow-up to my biography Lettin' it all Hang Out. The task is somewhat daunting but know it has to be done.

TEXAS TEA

Alamo CiTEA

One of the things that people just adore about San Antonio is the wondrous architecture that our founding mothers were kind enough to select when building dwellings and other assorted structures. One such wondrous structure sits just across from Crockett Park in the heart of the growing Gay District - a building so perfectly divine and satisfyingly sublime that it evokes memories of the grandness and quiet sophistication that Our Town is famous for. Once a mansion to a local wig of the big variety, it's now the graceful Victorian Lady Inn and it's lorded over by two dee-lish dudes that make living in San Antonio a helluva lot better and better-looking for all of us. In just two weeks, it's also going to be the hub of activity for the honchos of the head variety that will preside over the Miss Gay US of A at Large pageant that will be held at the Saint

November 7 through the 9. There'll be a host of former beefy belle title-holders, as well as a slew of special guests that, combined, have more bejewelled headdresses between them then the royal families of all the European nations combined. And almost all of them will be lying around the pool at the Lady during the contest....which will certainly add a huge bit of glamour to the neighborhood, doncha know.

While we're on the subject of glamour and the Saint, you can always be sure that the people you run into at the club are or have connections to fagulousness, and they'll always happily share with you exactly how fagulous they really are. One such person is the inimitable George, he of the Miss Central Texas US of A pageant set, who loves to hang around similarly glam guys and gals. During a recent twirl through the Showbar of the Southwest, we spotted George hanging with Amber and Trey and discussing all those things that make beautiful people such as themselves so very interesting. We've always thought it was the enormity of Trey's appendages that made him interesting, butcha learn something new every day....

Speaking of enormity, with 52 inches of entertainment the X-ing's Cody has got to be the most sought-after man in town, but as much as we love the wild man we have developed a particular fondness in our hearts and other vital organs for the tempting tonic dispenser and also rumored-to-be entertainingly-endowed Robert, whose beauty is legendary and whose personality is filled with warmth and all sorts of other attractive elements. We managed to snap a Cruise Camera of the two beauteous beaus taking a little break from all of the action, then immediately grabbed the dapper duo for a huge, really big bit of entertainment on the country side of things. Which is one of the reasons that we just love the club...'cause there's just so many people to do...uh, so much to do. Yeah, that's it...so much to do.

So, we're downtown at the Bonham Exchange the other night, and we noticed a tantalizing temptress behind the bar that we'd never spotted before. We were impressed that she was already in the Halloween spirit of things, but were notified by Niecy that that's the way Samantha always looks - even on Christmas Day. Well, we immediately insinuated ourselves into Sam's life so we could learn more about her, and we soon discovered that the sexy siren is just too kewl for color TV, and that she's actually one of the most brilliant people that we've ever encountered - and the sweetest, too. It took us about an hour to read everything she's got inked on her - 'cause she's covered, babies - but we came away feeling as though we'd made a new very best friend. The copious amounts of refreshing adult beverages that she provided us had something to do with that, of course....

Meanwhile back on the Strip, we were jonesing for a bit of KC and Vikki the other day and so made an immediate bee-line for Heat, the Foccer hangout that's a must for anyone wanting to have a great time. Upon entering the famed dance hall, we encountered a meeter and greeter that was quite new to us and so naturally, spent a few minutes with him so we could have a really good talk. His name is Chris, and he's just about the nicest thing you'd ever want to be met and gret by - unless, of course, you arrive without either an ID or the proper cover charge, at which point the man virtually grows fangs, begins to beat his chest in a Tarzan-like way and tells you that if you don't do what you're told, he'll take away your Yogi Bear records and not bake you any more chocolate chip cookies. Oh, wait....that was Lily Munster. We got confused....At any rate, get to know Chris when next you're at Heat - he's the bomb, honeys.

Have you ever noticed how Bob Fogg at Essence always - and we do mean ALWAYS, babies - has gorgeous men hanging around him. Go on...go to the club and watch him for a while - within moments of spotting him you'll see a gore guy right next to him...happens all the time. Why, the last time we were at the club, we espied a man of such stark and stunning beauty that we began salivating and had to remain sitting to keep the effects of our attraction hidden. The man's name is Eric, and he's just about the most perfect example of male pulchritude that we've seen since we were in Jake Gyllenhaal's trailer sipping champagne after the opening of The Good Girl five years ago. Not only is he gorgeous, but he's got talent, too - as evidenced by his near-win after donning a wig and leather jacket and pantomiming to Cher's greatest hits during Mr. Jenny McCall's Essence of Talent last Monday night. On hand to witness the auspicious event was another stunning stud by the name of Enrique, who refrained from joining in the contest because he's waiting for Jenny to pick one of Ricky Martin's hits as the karaoke-like song of choice....

Over at the Annex, we had gone the other night to see Draven's latest choice of footwear and were disappointed to discover that the beauteous babe wasn't working. BUT, we were delighted to discover that the always caliente Ruben was in the house, complete with a new tat that rivals anything that's hanging in the Louvre for artistic merit. Sweeties, we've never seen such intricate detail inked on anyone's epidermis, and can only wonder if the needle-pusher that created that design was lucky enough to create something of beauty on other parts of the potent potable pourer's tasty bod. We'll keep you posted as the investigation into that question continues....

Up on San Pedro, we're pleased as punch to report that 2015 ID-checker and Dick-lover Raul has found a breathtaking new object of his affection by the name of John who, in our humble opinion, is just a perfect match for the robust Ruben. The two met just recently when a gaggle of gays descended on the drink emporium to admire Dick, and they discovered that they both share a rather ardent affinity for same. We won't discuss what else the two share an ardent affinity for, but as long as they love Dick as we do we know we'll always find them together at 2015.

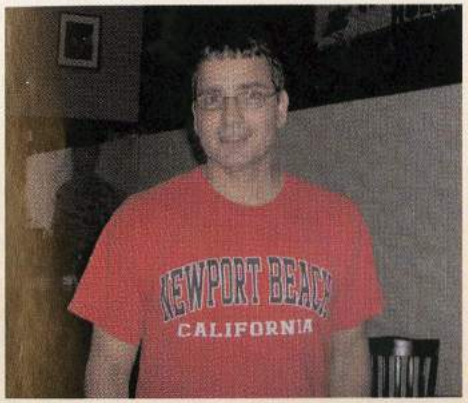
Finally, if you love coffee and prefer it as an alternative to other stimulants, then you've gotta know about Timo's Coffee Shop, located conveniently next door to the 2015 on San Pedro. With brilliant brews and sensational sandwiches to entice you, it's the perfect location to have a knosh and a slurp in a relaxed and comfortable atmosphere. Now we, of course, go specifically to see Tim because he's just adorable, takes such good care of us and is so bloody tall (and you know what that means...gives new meaning to the term grande, doncha know) But, just soze ya know, the eats and drinks are pretty damn spectacular, too!

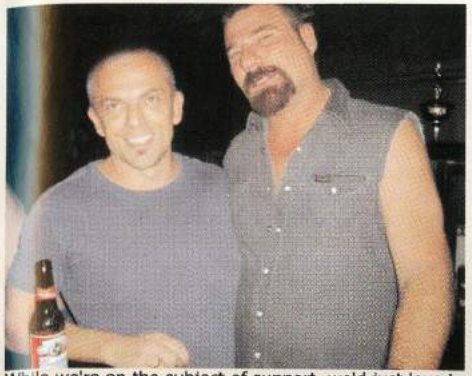


Big D TEA

So, we went to Mickey's the other night to try and win some Jennifer Lopez concert tickets - 'cause when it comes right down to it, we're frugal freaks - and though we didn't come away with any freebies (dammit,) we did come away with the phone numbers of two completely dee-lish dudes that will make us forget that we're always waiting for tonight and won't be seeing J-Lo and Marc Anthony up close and personal any time soon. They're both just so adorable, aren't they? The dapper duo is none other than Will and Chris, and we feel extra confident that if we had their love, we'd never wont for anything ever again...except a portion of Ivana Tramp's wardrobe, but that's a whole 'nother story, babies...

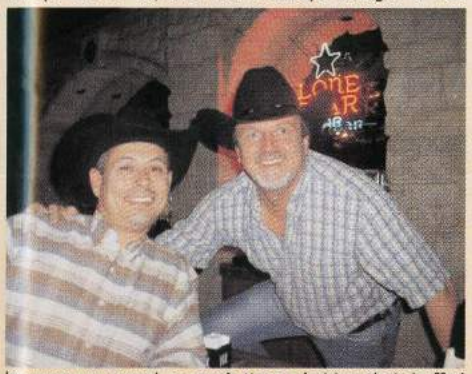
Speaking of fagulous wardrobes, just look at the festive frock that the Rose Room's very own Edna Jean Robinson is sporting! Honeys, if that doesn't putcha in the mood for a little LSD and a Mamas and the Papas concert we don't know what will. It's a far cry from the character initially created by the former Texas Entertainer of the Year, and shows just how incredibly versatile the felicitous femme mimic really is - and how lucky the famed party palace is to have her as its show director. Trumormongers are mongering that the new Andrew Kyle-photographed 2008 calendar featuring la Robinson is so visually stimulating that it's already destined to be a classic...so when ya see one for sale, buy multiple copies sweeties, 'cause it ain't gonna be around long.

We ran into someone just next door at JR's that has been around for a while, our very dear friend Vega Marie St. Jaymes, happily celebrating her best bud Michael's twenty-fifth natalversary at the club that makes every night a celebration. We're not sure who or what we love more, Vega or JR's, 'cause they both make us feel glad to be alive and too-too-proud to be gay, doncha know. And we just love how everyone at the club - staff and patrons alike - mobs us whenever we arrive with our weekly shipment of the magazine. We love it so much, in fact, that we often leave the beautiful beverage barn with a tear in our eyes and with Sally Fields' "You like me, you really like me" speech in our ears. Thanks guys for all your love and support!



While we're on the subject of support, we'd just love to be supported by the incredibly studly Tim and his equally macho man Royce, who we spotted at the Eagle during Bear Night on one of our more sober jaunts through the club. Honeys, Tim just about knocks the wind outta us and makes our legs go all wobbly - and that's when he's completely dressed. Imagine how prostrate we'd be if he was showing a little skin. We humbly suggested that there were numerous ways that we could explore just how fond we were of each other in a less public setting but, as usual, our frankness only got us a drink in our faces - and not from Tim and Royce, but from some equally inspired fan standing nearby that apparently had the same idea that we did. Jeeze, we were just trying to be friendly....

Friendly is just what David and Gary at the Round-up always are to us, and we've always thought it was because we spend so much time admiring their buffed boots. But, come to find out the handsome hunks are just naturally good-natured and just love to love people...which, of course, leads to all sorts of scintillating scenarios that include Ropers, crops, chaps, several coils of barbed wire and a saddle built for two. Not that we're specific or anything....we could forego all the accouterments, if they'd prefer. As long as it looks like the out-takes from Bareback Mountain, we'll be completely satisfied....and sated, don't forget sated.



Over at the Hidden Door, we were lured into the famed clandestine club by the scent of a well-dusted pool cue, and were just as pleased as popcorn to realize that said cue was being held by our very dear friend and sometime object of desire, Joey, who had racked his balls for an interesting and randomly ribald game with his perky pal, Phil. Not wanting to interrupt, we sat on the sidelines in the V formation, just soze Joey could use us as a target for all of the really tricky shots, and waited for the chance to get a little alone time with his rather significant device. Regrettably, somebody mentioned the possibility of an eight ball and the desire to play or do much of anything else just evaporated faster than ice on the tarmac at Love Field. That's alright, babies...

Finally, we had always assumed that it was the great drink prices and awesome ambience that had people rushing to Rush, but we've come to find out that it's really Kenneth and his amazing talents with a liquor gun that have got them flocking to the Lemmon Avenue libation lounge in such record numbers. We think Kenneth is really all that, for the record, and can often be found telling him that in between bouts of slobbering and making complete fools of ourselves over him. He just takes it all in stride, which is just his way, but we have a feeling that - deep down inside, underneath that cool, devil-may-care facade - he really likes our attentions. And our over-tipping....let's not forget our over-tipping.

Cowtown TEA

In case you couldn't figure it out - 'cause you're still hung-over from Pride; beading the last of your Halloween costume; or, just never scored well on your SAT's - the theme for this year's Imperial Court reign is Christmas, and we were on-hand at Best Friends to find the divine Empress Angela Aaron-Winchester and the dapper and dudely Emperor Jeff McGuire modeling the suggested apparel and accessories for court members and their friends and admirers. We think the shades are particularly tres fabu, and have ordered ours in all of the available colors. We absolutely cannot believe that Her Most Serene and Humble Highness, Empress Aaron, is currently in the fifth decade of the art of satire, pantomime and the dance (as Naomi Sims used to say,) 'cause we remember like it was just yesterday her imploring us to hear it for her as she spun with a gazillion yards of chiffon and a tasteful turban. And the bitch got call-backs like you wouldn't believe, babies. Jeff, meanwhile, also gets call-backs....but not for wearing chiffon and turbans. But, on that subject, our lips are sealed....So, let's hear it for Angela...and Jeff...and the entire Imperial Court de Ft. Worth/Arlington. And Merry Christmas and a great big YAHOOOOOOO!

Over at Stampede, we've reserved our stool for tomorrow night's Gay Pride Week candidate presentation, and are waiting to see what favors the entrants will attempt to curry from us in order to win our support. It usually doesn't take that much - just a handful of something tasty and filling - but we still think extra effort should be made to impress us with any talents (hidden or otherwise) that might be possessed so that we can make a well-informed decision, doncha know. We'll be back in the corner with Rhonda Mae, just waiting for those handfuls....

Capital CiTEA

We woke up around 8 pm the other day, and decided that just about the only thing that was gonna get us out of our cot at OCH was a dose of both Ross' legs AND some Jose Cuervo, so off to the patio did we trot to satisfy both of the urges that were compelling us to move forward. While waiting for Ross to notice us - we were wearing our dark Versace sunglasses after all - we happened to espy a rather SIN-tillating piece of manhood sitting across from us with our very dear friend Carlos, and just naturally couldn't keep from sidling up next to him to judge for ourselves just how sinful he really was. We discovered that his name was Jarod and that, 'neath the chic chemise that he was sporting, were two of the most massive mounds of muscle that we've seen on a chest in years. As our inspection continued, we noticed that those massive mounds paled in comparison to some other body parts that we pawed over, and that absolutely all of the beefy beau's nerve endings are working perfectly, based on the appendage that knocked us off our stool when our hands strayed a bit too close to his belt buckle. Dayum, that hurt. We quickly forgot all about Ross and his legs and Jose and his whatever and found ourselves back on the cot, though not alone, and promising ourselves that the next time we give someone such a thorough examination we're going to wear a chin guard and knee pads....well, girls have got to protect themselves, now don't they?

Speaking of protection, it's always best to carry protection with you at all times - especially when you're going to down a heaping helping of Snatch. For the one or two of you that honestly believe that we're talking about a colloquialism for the love canal of a luscious lady, we thought you knew us better. No, dudes, we're talking about the prize drink of a prize drink dispenser by the name of Sam over at Rainbow Cattle Company. Snatch is just about the tastiest thing we've ever had (never thought we'd see those words appearing on OUR monitor, let us assure you) and Sam has made the refreshing adult beverage a signature of sorts. Not that the bodacious beefcake needs any signature other than Grade A Prime, ya understand.... Sam serves up snatch several nights a week, so you never have to do without it.....and isn't that a comfort.

Meanwhile over at Charlie's, we had gone to the Lavaca libation lounge in search of our very favorite Manwatch Dancer and schwinger Christian, and instead ran into the thrilling triumvirate of Nacha Type, Maya Love and David Green all huddled together by the bar and in the throes of what we're certain was a conversation about us. Our paranoia was confirmed when Big D - upon spotting us - said, "Oh, we were just talking about you." See....and we don't hear voices, either. At any rate, we were apparently being snickered over because we made such fools of ourselves the last time we ran into Christian repeatedly back in the dressing room, and the plotters were wondering whether or not they should release the photos that they snapped of us during our multiple collisions. All talk of that ceased when we vowed that we would release the photos of Nacha, Maya and David that we snapped during an employee "meeting" at Midtowne Spa recently - a meeting that most definitely dispelled some rumors and highlighted a few shortcomings, if you get our drift. All that notwithstanding, we've always wondered why such a gore guy as Maya would call himself Maya Love, since we know that pantyhose and lashes aren't part of his repertoire - at least not in public. The Love part we understand, 'cause we sure love everything about him...but Maya Love? Hmmmmmm.....well, THAT certainly wasn't apparent at Midtowne....

While we've got love on the brain, we just love everything about love. We love to be in it; love to do it; and love to see other people in the throes of it. So, we were just tickled puce the other night to run into two people at Rain so obviously in love that Hallmark is starting a new line of cards just for them. We're talking about Brad and Remo, naturally, and the way they hold and stay so close to each other is just delightful to see. We, of course, would just love to see the myriad other ways that they hold and stay close to each other when a lens isn't focused on them, but we're just way too shy and demure to even begin to suggest such voyeuristic tendencies publicly. But, we can dream can't we....and TRUST, we'll definitely be dreaming about those two - a lot! Oh, and please don't forget that Austin's very own former Miss Gay Texas US of A Jacqui De Shawn will be coming out of the semi-retirement home to put in an extra special guest appearance at the club's and JEMS Productions' upcoming Miss Gay Austin US of A on Sunday, November 4. There'll be all sorts of extra special guest stars - including both the reigning Miss Gay US of A, Asia O'Hara, and the reigning Miss Gay Texas US of A, Kelexis Davenport, and even the fagulous and fun-loving Nadine Hughes will be making an appearance. It's sure to be an incredible night - maybe not as incredible as the ones that Brad and Remo spend together, but still pretty damn skippy.

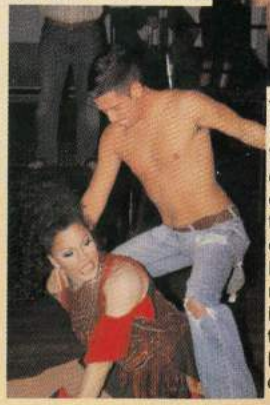
Skippy is exactly what you've got to call the incredible new line of clothing that our very dear friend Enrique Aguilar has started stocking at his trendy erotique on Guadalupe, with jewelry, swim wear and tops directly from designers in Brazil replacing its T-shirt line and a healthy dose of select pieces from LA's most popular designer, Andrew Christian, ensuring that all of you sculpted gods can look your very best whenever you happen to lower your jeans - which, of course, we hope is often. Yes, babies, Lobo is now more than just an adult entertainment complex, which means that you can go in and pick out an exciting ensemble, get turned on by watching the frat boys modeling their swim trunks and then grab up a bunch of nifty stuff that'll help you relieve the pressure once you get home. It's one-stop shopping at its best and it's only at Lobo....

Finally, trumormongers are mongering that big changes are in store for a certain San Jacinto beverage barn, but even we haven't been able to pry the secrets of the changes from the lips of our sources - which is surprising because, usually, we're able to pry just about anything from a pair of tight lips. We tried getting it out of Ty in the middle of one of his shredding moments - no luck. We tried getting it out of Kendell in between course loads - still, no luck. We tried getting it out of onelove and Mike C by promising them all sorts of favors of the unmentionable variety - nada. We even tried getting it out of the fab four in our Cruise Camera photo, but all they had were some green stamps and a couple of receipts from the Adult Video Megaplexxx on I-35. So, we don't have the dirt - yet! But as Gaea is our witness we'll find out what's really goin' on - and you, our dear readers, will be the very first to know. Well, maybe not the first....maybe the 214....or so....

Space CiTEA

Sunday nights at SoBe are our absolute favorite night of the week - and not just because the hirsute hunkiness of Chris is always waiting for us right at the front door, babies. No, in addition to all of that, the club also happens to feature the finest in the art of satire, pantomime and the dance (as Naomi Sims used to say,) featuring the unparalleled talents of former Miss



Texas US of A Christina Ross and her bull-rider; the unquestioned talents of former Miss US of A at Large, Kofi; and the unrequited talents of Tara's baby sister, Kara Dion. The three mega-watt femme mimics have lip-synched their way into the hearts of H-town's coolest people, and have made South Beach THE place to be on Sunday nights. Ya know we'll always be there, 'cause we've really got a thing for Chris, doncha know...

Speaking of having a thing, we had no idea how much of one Jose at the Montrose Mining Company had for us until we stopped by the club the other night and he proceeded to leap over the bar when he saw us and then raise his trendy top and lower his drawers to reveal its enormity. Now, as you all know none of our heads are usually turned by such obvious displays, but there was just something about the way this caliente cutie looked at us that night that warmed our hearts and other vital organs and made us realize that we'd been missing out on one very hot tamale for quite some time. We'll never let that happen again, we assure you...

And while we're assuring you, let us do so again when we tell you that there are more reasons than just the fact that it's the Number One Gay Bar in Houston that you can always find us at JR's, and all of them have something to do with the pulchritudinous Peter (ahem,) who (and what) we are absolutely overwhelmed to report has grown even more massive than the last time we drooled over and ogled at him just last week. Just one look at the way the studly staffer fills out his chic chemise will tell you that he's been doing more than lifting the liquor gun, babies. And, since we just adore big muscles and red corpuscles...and love a beautiful hunk of man....you can be sure that one look is not all that we'll be giving him....

We've said it before and we will continue to say it again and again: Meteor is the alpha and the omega of urban video lounges and attracts glitterati of such luminance that even Michael Musto has taken note. Why just the other night we ran into head honcho of the Black Tie Dinner variety, Frank Campisi, accompanied by the devastatingly dishy Scott, whose fame is so renowned that a mention of his exploits is redundant. Frank, for the one or two of you that are unaware, is - along with the Bayou City's boffo bizman, Charles Armstrong - one of the founding board members of the gala Black Tie Dinner fundraising event, being held in two weeks at the beautiful Hyatt Regency downtown. So, when ya see a busload of buffed beaus in tuxedos that Saturday night at Meteor, you'll know they've been supping and socializing with Frank and Charles and the rest of the city's shaking movers at the most important and glamorous social event of the season...

You might even see Male Uwear's ultra-hot new store manager, Ruben, that night, though we would imagine that he'll be clad in just a Tad Martin-ish more clothing than he is when working the floor at the Westheimer beautique. Fortunately, our Cruise Camera photo shows you what he looks like out of his tux, which affords you the opportunity to shop before you buy, as it were. Seeing Ruben strolling around the shop is just one of the reasons that we spend so much time there....well, that, and we also like to linger near the dressing rooms to wait for the hot hunks trying on unmentionables to come out and ask for a second opinion - which we are always more than grateful to supply, once we've assessed ALL the goods...

As loyal readers of this column will attest to, we are rather famous for our ability to assess goods, particularly when they're readily on display. Which is why our testing task was so very easy the other night when we ran into our newest very good friend Tim at the BRB. It was a hot, sultry night and Tim was dressed accordingly - which meant that we were able to size-up the situation without our trusty Hunk-o-Meter or Brannock Device and with just one quick glance. We are pleased to report that all parts are of sufficient size and quality and are in complete working order...if popped buttons and bulging zippers are any indication of such things....which they've always been for us.

Out in the Gay Southwest, the fog finally cleared enough for us to snap a photo of the Corona casa that proves just what a popular and exciting place Crystal really is. As you will notice in our iconic image, the dance hall is filled to the brim with enough luscious lugs and ladies to keep one occupied for at least a day and a half, and there's so little room on the dance floor that every trip to the bar or the loo becomes an intimate moment. And, since we love intimate moments, we make lots of trips to the bar and the loo...which is sort of the cycle of life, when ya think about it. You drink, you dance, you release....drink, dance, release....we could really get into that, ya know?

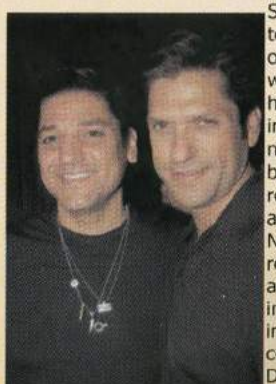
Back in the 'hood, Tony's Corner Pocket just celebrated its happy one year anniversary and we were, of course, on-hand to witness the auspicious event. We're embarrassed, ashamed and otherwise shockingly chagrined to report that we neglected to bring the gift that we had for Tony and his staff, but when we saw him hanging onto the jocular Justin we realized that any bauble that we would have offered would simply have paled in comparison. Leave it to Tony to always get the best packages....ahem. For still more photos of the fab festivities, be sure to view the special In Focus feature of the event right here in this very magazine you are now so patiently perusing....

Viviana's was the site of another birthday bash recently, as the club hosted a swell soiree for the always enchanting Alexis - she of the luscious lipstick and lashes set. We caught up with the now-a-year-older demi-goddess just as she was being feted by Viv's very own mic maven, Monica Adams, who added a hint of fuschia to the beginner blue in honor of the special day. We were particularly pleased to notice the new dreamy dress that Alexis was sporting, although we did have to share with her how much dreamier it would be if she would add a slip to her trousseau. All those beads AND the biggest box in captivity. She's got soooooo much to be proud of!



Someone else with lots to be proud of is Woody over at Guava Lamp, whose Waugh watering hole just keeps attracting more and more significant others with its blend of soothing environment and doting and attentive staff. Naturally, we couldn't resist playing Jay Leno and doing a little impromptu interviewing, so we asked the combined talents of Donald and Ernesto what made them stop into the club on the very evening that we spotted them there. Was it, we queried, the doting and attentive staff. Or, the soothing environment. Or, something neither we nor Woody had even thought of. Their reply?

"Well, none of that really...we just love the Wood-man." Okay...one, two, three.... Awwwwwwwwwwwww!

Meanwhile, we got a phone call from one of our alleged very dear friends the other night, sharing with us that Shane was at In & Out and that he was asking about us and that we'd better get our badoo-bies down there immediately. Recognizing the importance of the moment, we hurried through our ablutions and other necessary going-out tasks and arrived at the club in record time - just two-and-a-half hours after we got the phone call.

And they say we take too long getting ready. Jeeze. At any rate, we immediately asked Jay and Brian where Shane was and they pointed to a couple on the other side of the bar. We squinted and focused and finally put our +325 glasses on, but we still didn't see Shane - at which point we asked Jay again where our former betrothed was. "He's right there, in the white shirt, you myopic, imbecilic morons," came his gentle and totally unexpected because we thought he only spoke in monosyllables reply. So, we squinted and focused and put on our +400 glasses...still didn't see him. Finally, Brian led us over to the guy in the white shirt and said, "Myopic, imbecilic morons - Shane; Shane, stupid idiots." It was Shane, playing and partying with his best bud, Bryan 2, but it wasn't our Shane....and to think we misogied for nothing...

Finally, we were devastated - devastated, do you hear - when our current athletic heartthrob, Kris Brown, injured his golden left foot about three weeks ago, and naturally just had to go commiserate over a few refreshing adult beverages with other like-minded Brownies. Of course, when you're a homo sports fan, the best place to find those like-minded individuals is at George, the Fairview funhouse that gives a whole new meaning to the words touchdown and pass. Fortunately, there was not one but five Brownies in attendance - Ken, Chase, Stephen, Joe and Glenn - to help us drown our sorrows, and we drowned them so well that when Ken told us that HE was Kris Brown, we not only believed him but started to massage his foot in hopes that he could play against San Diego this weekend. Hey, can we help it if we're team players?
