RANDY JACKSON DRAFTS ALL-STAR TEAM OF ARTISTS FOR HIS NEW ALBUM - RANDY JACKSON'S MUSIC CLUB, VOL. 1

Grammy-winning producer, virtuoso musician, hit songwriter, legendary A&R executive and, of course, lovable American Idol judge - Randy Jackson has called upon every aspect of his staggering career to produce Randy Jackson's Music Club, Vol. 1, his first solo album, which is due March 11, 2008, on his new label, Dream Merchant 21, and released through the Concord Music Group.

The album includes a stellar ensemble of artists and features the return of fellow Idol judge Paula Abdul who's track "Dance Like There's No Tomorrow" is her first release of new music in over a decade. Other guests on the album include Idol standouts Katharine McPhee and Elliot Yamin, U.K. phenom Joss Stone, country trailblazer Travis Tritt, pop-rock hitmaker Jason Mraz, ace country songwriter-producer John Rich (of Big & Rich), R&B luminary Sam Moore and Bon Jovi guitarist-harmonizer Richie Sambora. Randy also works once more with the incredible Mariah Carey who guests on the gospel track "Understand" along with Bebe Winans and Hezekiah Walker, Kim Burrell & Rance Allen. The collection also features major up and coming talent such as the wonderful Barbie Esco on the track "My R&B" and Kelli Selah on "Who's Gonna Love You Now" among many others.

With the release of Randy Jackson's Music Club, Vol. 1, Jackson has created a record he likens to "listening to a great radio station," albeit one that kicks down the walls of conventional formatting. Touching on R&B, pop, country, blues, hip-hop, rock, jazz, fusion, gospel and more, Jackson - who produced all the tracks, demonstrates his facility with virtually every modern musical style. "I didn't want to make it all one genre, because that's not who I am," Jackson insists. "There's something here for every listener."

"I'm really pleased that a bunch of wonderful, talented people showed up," Jackson said of his experience producing Randy Jackson's Music Club, Vol. 1. "I'm really blessed by the way it all came together."

The native of Baton Rouge, La., was recently named Senior A&R Consultant and Producer for Concord/Stax - which is apt, given that the Stax label's gritty, indelible R&B hits were among his earliest influences. "Growing up in the South, I loved James Brown, Motown and Stax," he remembers. "So working with Sam Moore of Sam & Dave has been incredible."

Moore, for whom Jackson produced the Grammy-nominated album Overnight Sensational, sings the blues classic "Wang Dang Doodle" on Randy Jackson's Music Club, Vol. 1, assisted by young lions Keb Mo and Angie Stone. "I always say the greats just get better," Jackson reflects. "Sam sounds better than ever, and he's in his seventies now."

He expresses gratitude to Idol for bringing him together with Elliot Yamin and Katharine McPhee. "When people hear them sing on this track," Jackson declares of 'Real Love', "they're going to be completely blown away."

Jackson adds that his Louisiana upbringing instilled in him not only a love for all kinds of music, but also a disregard for genre barriers; as he grew up, he came to adore the Beatles, Jimi Hendrix, Led Zeppelin, Hank Williams - in his words, "every kind of music known to man."

"I love people who break boundaries and always create something new and fresh," he points out. "I'm still true to my Southern roots." The disc's Tritt-Sambora collaboration, "Willing to Try" and the producer-musician's work with John Rich underscore this restlessly inventive Southern sensibility.

He describes Randy Jackson's Music Club, Vol. 1 as "a great way to announce my new label, hear from some great established and new artists, and share a little musical history," adding "in a way, it's autobiographical - it covers a lot of my life experience."

That experience, of course, includes session and touring work with a who's who of popular music, 15 years as a major-label A&R executive and a sterling track record as a producer. Over the years, Jackson has worked, in one capacity or another, with Aretha Franklin, Mariah Carey, Whitney Houston, Celine Dion, *NSYNC, Madonna, Elton John, Bruce Springsteen, Bob Dylan, Journey, Billy Joel, Herbie Hancock, Destiny's Child and countless others.

"After everything I've done, I wasn't dying to make a solo album," the tireless music maker admits. "But this was an opportunity to bring together an amazing roster of artists and make a kind of potpourri of all the things I love. At the end of the day, I'm a song guy - and working on these songs has been a way to express my passion for music, which has never been stronger."

And that's music....This week in Texas.

HOUSTON

On Sunday, March 2, Bethel UCC and Equality Texas host a 4 p.m. screening of the documentary film, "For the Bible Tells Me So" at Bethel (1107 Shepherd). The film deals with the Christian response to homosexuality, as reflected through the lives of several American families "and in the process reveals that church-sanctioned anti-gay bias is based almost solely upon a significant (and often malicious) misinterpretation of the Bible." Following the screening, a panel that includes Bethel UCC pastor Ralph Lasher, activist and writer Ray Hill, and Community Center board member Tim Brookover will lead a discussion. For more information, please call: 713-861-6670.

Transgender students often face exceptional barriers in pursuing higher education, and many don't have the kind of financial support from family that other students can rely on. Transgender individuals also face unemployment at higher rates than the general population and often confront discrimination, which can adversely impact college opportunities. For the third year, the Houston Transgender Unity Committee (HTUC) will seek to help these students by offering scholarships through the Peggy Rudd Transgender Scholarship Fund. Trans-identified high school seniors and adult students pursuing higher education are eligible to apply for scholarships. Information and the application are available on the Unity Committee website. The deadline is March 15. Scholarships will be presented at the 2008 Houston Transgender Unity Banquet on April 26 at the Sheraton Houston Brookhollow. The Unity Committee, a consortium of area trans organizations, organizes and hosts the banquet and each year it is attended by hundreds of participants, making it one of the largest single-night transgender events in the nation. To apply for a scholarship, and for more information about the Unity Banquet, please visit the HTUC website at htuc.org.

advice to the love-worn

DEAR DIVA...

Dear Diva:

I saw Cupid this Valentine's Day...the fucker dashed out my window when I walked in. My lover said he was there ensuring our love would last forever with his magic lube that he had left on the night stand. Alternative's best! But Diva, 1/3 was missing from the bottle! My pet assured me all the track suit-wearing Cupid was doing was sprinkling some magic dust over our bed, but then I found a plastic baggie opened, licked and tossed near the trash can...wonder if that held his dust.. Come to think of it - we have seen a lot of glitter in the sheets lately...

Should I be concerned if the glitter gets in my eye..?

Naive in North Dallas..

Dear Helen Keller:

Surely, you're kidding me. I mean, are you really so blind that you don't see that Cupid was really your next-door neighbor, Phil; that the presence of a used baggie near the trash can was a party favor; that the absence of a third of the lube from Alternative's best meant the favors were for a party between Phil and your lover; that your lover's explanation for the track suit-wearing hunks rapid departure was a really glib effort to explain away his indiscretion; and, that you, dear Helen, are surely the most trusting and inexperienced soul on the planet. Glitter is the least of your problems, 'cause Cupid's arrow may have struck, honey, but it didn't hit both of you, I assure you. Quite frankly, you're naivete would be charming if it wasn't so pathetic. You don't say whether or not your relationship allows for extracurricular activities with poorly-attired hunks from across the courtyard, but if it doesn't than you should've at least gotten flowers, honey. Gaea knows your lover got the candy.

Dear Diva,

I just returned from an extended stay in Tokyo at the electronics show, learning how with clay they are shrinking items you wouldn't believe possible down to mini chips. Wonderful technology that adds music to our ipods and fancy tones to our ringers. Anyway, while in Tokyo, I was staying at a "bachelor's hotel - very small rooms, mats on the floors and screen walls...that sort of thing. Well for 3 nights straight at about 1 am, the strains of an electronic version of Strangers in the Night was playing - first loud, then soft, then loud again! I was dead asleep most of the first two nights but, by the time night three rolled around, I was prepared. I had my night vision goggles and flashlight and audio recording device, and I slowly crept past the cubicles one by one, when there it was! This time it was playing Mamas Turn by Bette Midler from Gypsy. I swung open the door and, in the darkness, there you stood.. in all your glory with a friggin singing dildo... As the blood drained from my face I remember a rather burly lesbian whisking me away to detox. I was showered, clothed and given a great cookie she called Klonopin.. But it didn't make me forget.. so fess up!

Sensitive Ears in Tokyo

Dear Snoop Dog:

God, I hate frequent flier miles! Used to be a girl was safe, jetting off to Tokyo or some other far-off land, not seeing anyone she knows or being espied in flagrante delicto while enjoying some down time, as it were. But nooooooo....now, even bachelor hotels in the middle of the Shinjuku district aren't safe from the prying eyes of the paparazzi. You caught me. That was me. There's no denying it. The only thing that I can say in my defense is that, because you fainted dead away upon seeing my utensil in action, you overlooked Jake Gyllenhaal stroking his massive manmeat in the corner while he ogled yours truly doing the hokey-pokey with a set of Double A batteries. So, when you talk about this - and you will - please be sure to include that not-so-little tidbit in your description of the event.

Dear Diva:

Someone recently called me a diesel weasel. Waddup wit dat?

Wondering in Waxahachie

Dear Muff-diver:

Waddup wit dat is dat you're a twink that only hangs out with lesbians. And dat's dat....

Wondering where to stay the next time you're in Tokyo? The Diva would love to tell you. questions to twtmagazine@aol.com, Subject Line: Dear Diva.

Aries
March 21 April 19
A supervisor is on the scene, willing to share knowledge. Today should prove to be a great day for you. You could land a high paying assignment for your hard work before the day is over. You will find that spending more time with a loved one will be very satisfying. Your goals are idealistic and inspiring to others. Taurus is helpful with decisions. Your best bet is the Number 4.

Taurus
April 20 May 20
Details are piling up and can overwhelm you eventually if not attended to at once. There should be some extra money coming your way that should sweeten everyone's temper. You may be stepping on egg shells with a loved one. You may receive an invitation that a friend has been expecting. Your goals are idealistic and inspiring to others. Consult with Pisces in the evening. Watch the Number 10 to win.

Gemini
May 21 June 20
A clue on how to proceed may come from watching a commercial on television. Around lunch, you will run into a difficulty with friends. Don't let the current work or anxieties undermine your general health and well being. Today is a good day to set your mind straight and finish a recreational project you have been working on. Aquarius and Capricorn come front and center to help. Play the Number 7 to win.

Cancer
June 21 July 22
Give yourself some time to figure out what you really want to do. Just walk away if you don't like what someone is doing. Order the items you need in quantity. Today is a day to clean up your act. Willingness without action in your love department is pure fantasy, don't just sit there, do something. Check with Scorpio before proceeding. Cash in on the Number 1.

Leo
July 23 August 22
Be prepared for a deal you've been working hard on to collapse. Catching up on work will pay off. Let your mind go wild, you've got the right touch. There's a lovely mystique surrounding the momentary attraction you feel for a newcomer. You'll find that lady luck is on your side. Put your trust in Cancer. Count on the Number 7 to win.

Virgo
August 23 September 22
A short trip could involve a relative who seeks your counsel. Make sure that your bills are taken care of, they are beginning to build. The beautiful people are beckoning to you. The one you may have eye's for does not know you exist. Your hard work should win over a partners doubts. Gemini wants to know what is on your mind. Today's lucky Number for you is 12.

Libra
September 23 October 22
A dream could give you the hot tip you've been waiting for. A love affair heats up, but could bring more responsibility. Mysteries are solved with the help of a friend. There should be some extra money coming your way that should sweeten everyone's temper. Venus appearing in Cancer points to improvements in your home life and relationships. Gemini is helpful with decisions. Your hot Number is 7.

Scorpio
October 23 November 21
A difficult subject will create new problems for you. Don't expect any surprises in your love department. Something that has been lost for quite sometime will turn up in the most obvious of places. The peculiar differences in pricing from one store to another angers you. It's a very good time for legal decisions, justice, investments and dealings with the public. Cancer and Libra prove to be helpful on a project. The Number 9 is a winner.

Sagittarius
November 22 December 21
Concepts are easily grasped today. Evening brings great peace of mind and of soul. Pesky doubts about your current relationship with a member of the opposite sex may trouble you. Take the lead in partnerships. Your deliberate actions may be covered up in one way or another. Gemini and Cancer are on your side. Take a chance on the Number 4.

Capricorn

Today you should ask yourself, am I ready for a commitment? You may feel that you need some advice, go get some from a close friend who knows you well. Taurus and Scorpio figure prominently in the day's activities. Play the Number 19 to win.

Aquarius

A romantic setting gives you the dialogue which warms a loved one's heart. Keep your enthusiasm in check for a new moneymaking project on the way that involves your income. There should be a good meeting of the minds where you will learn much. Think things out completely before taking any action. You will experience a rare kind of serenity and stability. Check your plans out with Libra and Virgo. Cash in on the Number 15.

Pisces

POPROTICA

PRESENTED BY: RED SQUARE GALLERY PROJECT

Blending
POP ART and Erotica
for new exhibit

By Chris Perez

Some people say opposites attract. In the case of the crew that makes up the Red Square Gallery Project, this phrase could not be anymore true.

Ryan Leighton Whittington, Kimberly Garza Campbell, and Marc Arevalo are the trio who make up Red Square Gallery.

Whittington, gallery director, is a performing artist who moonlights as a hair stylist. Campbell, gallery curator, is a full-time mother of one and a graduate student. Arevalo, visual media director, is a photographer who also runs operations for his father's ranch in Mexico.

It's the love of art that brings these three together.

Red Square Gallery emerged in 2004 from an AIDS benefit exhibit at the Arbor Art House. The exhibit, which outgrew its venue, required more space, resulting in what was referred to as a "satellite show" (The concept in which an exhibit is sponsored by one gallery, but held in an entirely different venue.)

The success of a couple of satellite shows prompted Whittington to join forces with Campbell and Arevalo and create a new type of venue for art lovers, one that is not fixed in one place. Red Square Gallery does not currently have a fixed setting.

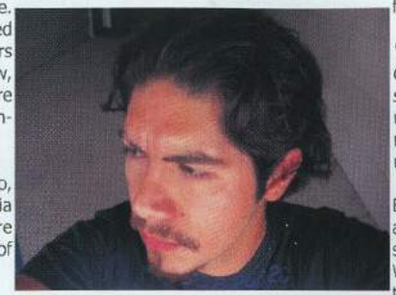
"One of the main parts of Red Square is that it's nomadic," Whittington said. "Even if there is a permanent space there will be some (shows) that are actually going to take place at what we call satellite spaces. We like that because we think that it fits the lifestyle of an artist so well being that they are nomadic."

Whittington said that as a gallery, they only work with contemporary artists who can display a high art aesthetic in all mediums including photography, sculpture and painting, to name a few.

"We demand a very high art aesthetic," he said. "Something that looks like it's not only from a trained, but very sheik adult mind. Anything below that is just not going to be suitable."

Their expectations however, proved well worth their efforts. Their first official show, which ran from Oct 20 through Nov 10, was a success, attracting more guests and media coverage than they expected. The exhibit titled "Chevalerie is Ceci," was inspired by art and architecture of the Gothic period in mid 12th century France.

The next exhibit, POProtica, will meld pop art of the 1960s and 70s along with images that play on the porn industry of that time. The idea that sex sells, fused with optically enticing colors will make up the show, which they're hoping will lure in large numbers of art connoisseurs.



Photographer Marc Arevalo, who serves as visual media director for Red Square Gallery, will display some of his art in this exhibit.

Arevalo, who has had pieces displayed at Arbor Art House and the University of Texas at San Antonio art gallery, gained some media attention in 2007 when his art work was allegedly considered too gay by the owner of Joe Blue's, where Arevalo was scheduled to exhibit his photos.

This hasn't discouraged Arevalo in any way from propping his art up in front of people who appreciate art. POProtica will feature a series of Arevalo's work that he described as a bit controversial, but more fun, if anything.

"I'm personifying some of my some of my close friends and making them look like porn stars," Arevalo said. "It's almost kind of making fun of the whole porn industry."

Kimberly Garza Campbell, who serves as Red Square's curator, admits that POProtica was somewhat Whittington's brainchild. The young artist, inspired by works from Salvado Dali and Eva Hesse, said she hesitated with the idea of POProtica at first.

"I was a little hesitant," Campbell said. "I have to say I was a little hesitant with the idea just because I wasn't sure where (Ryan) was coming from."

But with a little research and an open mind, Campbell said she was able to understand Whittington's vision, and thus POProtica came to be.

"It's going to be quite a surprise," Whittington said about the exhibit. "I think people are going to be very excited when they come in here and see the work on the walls. I don't think it's anything they're expecting."

Whittington said that art is something that speaks to everyone of every language.

"I want (guests) to feel something," he said. "They may hate it, they may love it. But as long as they feel something, that's really what matters to us."

POProtica opens Feb 23 at 7:30 p.m. and will run though March 15 at the Freidrich Building, located on 1617 E. Commerce, just east of downtown San Antonio (behind the Carver Community Cultural Center).

Aside from Arevalo, the exhibit will also feature artists such as Cody West, Gianluca Rosso, Stefano Barberis, and more. Admission is free and open to the public.

TEXAS TEA

Alamo CiTEA

The huge, really big news this week involves one of Our Town's oldest clubs, namely the 2015, which commemorated its Silver Anniversary in typical style and fashion - with lots of gore guys and tons of Dick. The place was packed, of course, and the stories that were being bandied around about what it was like in the "old days" both warmed the cockles of our hearts AND made us realize that the days of relying on Social Security checks for our income cannot be too far off in the future for us. Fortunately, alter cockers like us are the exception rather than the rule at the San Pedro suds emporium, as evidenced by the fact that two of its most popular studly staffers - Serge and Chris - weren't even born when we were sipping our potent potables at the bar mumble something years ago. For even more fab photos of the auspicious event, be sure to check out the special In Focus feature that appears in this very magazine.

Another auspicious event took place at the Annex recently, as honcho of the head variety David celebrated the tenth or twentieth anniversary of his 21st birthday by attempting to recreate every drinking experience he's ever had since becoming legal. Of course, not ALL of that experience was 80 proof, so there was lots of water and fruit juices as well flowing through his veins by the time it was all said and done. Joining Big D in celebrating was his perky partner, Rick, who wasn't exactly a nebbish in the recreation department either. Belated birthday bests to a really hot man!

While we're on the subject of hot men, just look at the one that we spotted over at Heat the other night schwinging all of his talent and manly attributes right in our face and making us remember why it was we wanted to be gay in this lifetime anyway. Needless to say, with all the schwinging and spritzing and drooling going on we were completely incapable of ascertaining the big boy's nom de schwing. But, we'll never forget that face...and other more apparent appendages.

When seeing such full platters hovering before us, we always get hungry - and when we do, which is frequently, we always dash across the street to Luther's for a little knosh that usually isn't so little and always includes a burger, a few tacos, a couple of chalupas and possibly a nacho plate if we're feeling really horny...hungry, we said hungry. The divine diner is open until 3 am or later every Tuesday through Saturday, doncha know, which means that we can satisfy our culinary urges as often as we want to. And we do get hungry...a lot...ahem.

Down at the venerable old Bonham Exchange, we've noticed a decided increase in the number of fagulous femme mimics performing for our viewing pleasure over the past several weeks, and are pleased to report that one of those mimics just happens to be our very dear friend Lyn-z Lang, who many have called the singularly sin-sational impersonator of the female variety to grace a stage since Naomi Sims (as Naomi Sims used to say.) The Lady Lang always brings a smile to one's face and a vacancy in one's wallet, 'cause when she hits the stage ya just gotta get out those bills and insert them into various parts of her costume. Unless Lee happens to be around, and then you just gotta insert them into the waistbands of his boxer briefs....

Finally, the Showbar of the Southwest, aka the Saint, just keeps enhancing its stellar cast of illusionists, what with Whitney Paige and the newly-crowned Miss Gay Tri-States US of A Sasha Andrews being regular cast-members and all and all. On Valentine's Day night, that cast got even brighter as the one and only Maya Douglas - she of the Miss Continental, National Entertainer of the Year and Miss Gay US of A set - made an exclusive San Antonio appearance at the club and wowed, stunned and amazed the audience with her beauty, style and grace. Our Cruise Camera caught Maya being stylish with an equally beautiful club asset, the one and only Mike Rodriguez - he of the Manager of the General variety set. Don't they make a dee-lish duo?

Oh, and lest we forget...the one and only Fran Mendez celebrates her natalversary next Wednesday, February 27, so be sure and go up and give her at least one of her birthday smooches to help her feel special. Fran makes the entire community feel special, thanks to her tireless efforts with We Are Alive and other organizations, and she is one of the brightest stars in the Alamo City's constellation. We love ya, gal!

Big D TEA

With final preparations being made for the big Cowtown Rodeo just down the 30 on the west side of the Metroplex, it's only natural that our thoughts would turn to men of the Wrangler and Roper set, so we've pretty much become a fixture over at the Roundup - THE place in Big D to see the manliest of men clad in cowboy attire. Why, just the other night we came across two dudes of the dapper variety by the names of Paul and Ryan that absolutely made us wanna grab the reigns and go for a really, really long ride. These two studly stallions would be just the perfect contestants in the Hottest Cowboy contest coming up next week at the club, what with their big hats and other vital accessories...and don't think we didn't tell them that, either!

While we're on the subject of vital accessories, you can be sure that the gals in the Rose Room are always completely and well-accessorized, what with the glam image that they must maintain for their legion of fans. So we asked Valerie and Maya and Kelexis and Cassie and Crystal for help in completing the little outfits that we had on for the evening, and were promptly shown to a vault the size of Texas Stadium that contained enough lipstick and lashes to make every human being on the planet a cross-dresser! Feathers and frocks and fabrics, oh our! It's no wonder that, between the five of them, there are more bejewelled headdresses than there are Republicans in Texas. Gotta love our girls!

Are you one of the millions of Americans that suffer from ED? Go on...it's okay to admit it. Especially now that we've found the perfect cure for you. That's right, babies - THE perfect cure for your little (or big) problem. It's called Zippers, and it plays host to a bevy of buffed beaus that are sure to pack your pouches and put some power in your punch with just one glance. During a recent sojourn to the suds center, we bumped into the combined talents of John, John 2, JT and Adam so frequently that we haven't been able to sit comfortably for over a week...and OUR pouches have been packed to perfection.

Speaking of perfection, that's exactly what we'd call the not-so-wee gifty that our very good friend Nick received during his natalversary bash upstairs at Rush. Already unwrapped, as it were, uber-hottie Chris was presented to the birthday boy in celebration of all that is good and true and super sexy in the world. We, of course, were on-hand for Nick's birthday slaps, so expertly administered by Chris in a quiet corner just behind the balloons and away from the watchful eyes of the assembled masses. And we do mean masses, babies...

Over at Pekers, the club hosted a very special Valentine's Day show that featured the legendary talents of the incomparable and irrepressible Toni Page, and we are pleased to report that the event was an enormous success. Not only did la Page and her cohorts raise over a thousand bucks - yes, honeys, a thousand bucks - for AIDS Interfaith Network of Dallas, but we were treated to the smooth song-stylings of the equally legendary crooner, Frank...Holland. No, not Sinatra - and we can definitely guarantee that, sweeties!

Something else that we can guarantee is that our hearts are sure to go pitta-patta whenever a certain comely cutie by the name of Joel happens to be within a mile of us so, when we ran into him at Kaliente the other night, Alberto had to break the CPR kit outta the back room and give us the gift of life, doncha know. Of course, that found us facing yet another round of verklempftity, 'cause we just adore Alberto, and that meant that Carlos had to jump in to save us. Fortunately, HE was successful....We've really gotta get a check-up....Joel?? Care to check us out???

So, we dropped into the Eagle the other night just in time to help our good buddy Ben celebrate the anniversary of his birth, and are pleased to report that he commemorated the event in true and complete style. He not only toasted the big day mumble-something times with 100% pure H20, but he also hooked-up with 100% luscious Joey and 100% hunky Tomas to make sure that he'd remember the celebration for years to come. We, on the other hand, barely remember parking the car...

Meanwhile, you know that we always make sure that we're at Bill's Hideaway every Monday night so that we can enjoy the melodious voice and the magnificent body of Dallas' very own Gary Floyd. Well, we got our calendar all ferblunjit, and ended up at the club one Friday night for what we thought would be our future husband's appearance, when who should come to the stage but a fella by the name of Greg Anderson and suddenly we were all fermisht and ferdrayt and fertummelt and completely unsure of whether or not we should wait for Gary to realize that he loves only us. Fortunately for us, our very dear friends Bob, Dakota, Don and John were on-hand to slap us silly and remind us that Gary's our guy...Phew, that was close. Especially, since we're registered at Nuvo and who wants to give back those fabulous gifts, we ask you.

We popped into Mickey's last Sunday 'cause we're just dyin' to score those free Margaret Cho tickets that they're giving away, and we suddenly realized between choruses of Macho Man and Lovin' is Really My Game that we weren't the only ones vying for those coveted coupons and that we might actually have to pay to get into the Nokia. The point was really driven home when we chatted-up JP and Whitney and discovered that they were there for the tickets too, and that they had about thirty other friends at the club that were there for the very same reason. Dayum...we thought the club was packed 'cause of the Village People....we are definitely gonna have to rethink our strategy....

Finally, if visions of three-ways have ever danced in your head, then we wouldn't be a bit surprised if the actors in that little playlet are the divine dudes we spotted at Woody's when we popped in for the Dallas Diablos Fifth Annual Bachelor Auction. Their names are Joe, Noby and Eduardo, and though it was Tough Love that was being promoted, we walked away with a fever of the amour variety that we just know we caught from Eduardo. Well, we also walked away with three bachelors, some shorts and six pairs of tube socks, but that's a whole 'nother story, babies...

Cowtown TEA

We have been so busy getting ready for Rodeo and spit-polishing our Luccheses to within an inch of their lives that we have spent practically no time cavorting and frolicking at the 651 like we're supposed to do. Which means, of course, that we haven't scooted our boots to the country tunes of Darrell Jett, nor have we learned the latest scoot from CW Dance guru Wendell, nor have we spun and twirled ourselves into a stupor over the tunes of our very own DJ extraordinaire Jimmy Smith. We are currently beating ourselves up over it....ahem.

They always say that objects in the mirror are larger than they appear, and the mug in Bubbles LaRue's paws is definitely huge, really big in any mirror you might be preening in front of. Now, we've known Bubbles for years and years...and years....and know that there's always method to her madness, so we can only assume that she selected the staggering stein in order to make her hands appear smaller. Which, of course, means that a return to the stage cannot be far behind. Maybe we'll look for that city....ya know, the one where we'll meet our loved ones, too.

Space CiTEA

So, we wandered into South Beach the other night - 'cause we always like to be seen at the coolest place on Earth, doncha know - and our eyes were naturally directed immediately to the tantalizing talents of one of the club's box boys, Hugo, whose piercing eyes, beautiful face and sculpted form quite naturally took our breath away. Imagine how much little breath we had when our eyes wandered down and discovered that, 'neath that magnificent mug, lay a talent of such epic proportions that it takes several very willing volunteers just to be able to handle it. Imagine further how amazed we were that all of that beauty and talent looks incredible even under the emerald isle gel of the spotlight. Imagine yet further how awestruck we were upon venturing further into the club and finding the equally impressive Brent Everett - he of the comely Canuk set - bumping and gyrating on the club's stellar stage. Photos of all of THAT can be found in the oh-so-special In Focus feature of the event located right here in this very magazine that you're now holding in your quivering little hands.

While we're on the subject of quivering, that's exactly what we were doing when we entered JR's and found two delectable dudes by the name of David and Joe comparing bicep measurements right there amongst the gliteratti that call Houston's Number One Gay Bar home. And though we were suitably impressed by the girth of said biceps, it wasn't until the dee-lish duo took to the stage to model the packed pouches of their brilliant briefs that we actually stood up and took notice, if you get our drift. Naturally, we invited them both home to our swankienda for a little private fashion show, and you just wouldn't believe how cooperative they were when we sought out some additional measurements. Ahem.

Speaking of measurements, there was simply not enough tape to adequately measure the awesome attributes of Rich when we encountered him at the Montrose Mining Company the other day - and, trust, we used every measuring device available to us. Of course, there's only one measurement that really means anything to thee and we, but we choose not to divulge that information to you...we're simply too shy.

We are not too shy, however to report that there are four very good, very profound and very big reasons that we just adore Meteor - and those four very good, very profound and very big reasons are none other than Justin, Ben, Archer and Nick, all of whom provide the visual (and other) stimulation that we require while sipping on our refreshing adult beverages. These beauteous beaus and studly staffers are smooth, honeys, and definitely go down good...each and every time. Just like our refreshing adult beverages....

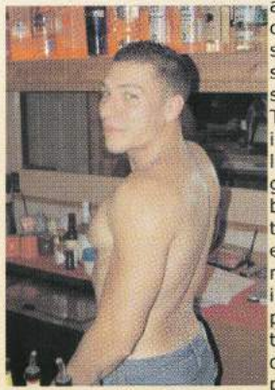
We would be singularly remiss in not reporting on all the fun and frolicking that went on at Mary's during LUEY weekend, and even more derelict in our duties if we didn't provide you, our loyal and devoted readers, with photographic evidence of just how entertaining it all was. So, report away (as Lou Grant used to always say....Captured by our cruizy CC were Roy - demonstrating the proper technique for...well...uh...ya know - a hirsute hunk by the name of Gary - who was about to break-out his very own long-neck - and the inimitable Brett, who looked terribly pleased just to have been invited to witness the event. Ah, if those bushes could talk...Did we say that? Was that our outside voice? See what a great time we had!

Out in the Gay Southwest, we recently attended the Miss Sweetheart Latina pageant at Crystal and were overwhelmed by all the talent onstage battling for the coveted bejeweled headdress. The only thing that overwhelmed us even more was the caliente cuteness of the one and only Joseph York, he of the Mr. Inergy set, who called to us from the stage and begged - begged, do you hear - that we give him our cell numbers so that he could call and arrange a randy rendezvous for after the contest. While we answer that call from Mr. York, please do take a peak at the special Lipschtyck feature of the pageant right in this very issue of our magazine....we'll be back.

Sorry...wrong number...

Okay, over at In & Out, the response to our recent round of photos of marvy Matt has been so unbelievable that we dashed on over to the club to snap some more passion pics of him to share with you. Though this week's image illustrates the lines of his glorious glutes, one can't help but be impressed by the curves of his chiseled chest as well. We must admit that viewing this photo is a powerful experience that requires pitchers of potently poured potables just to get through, so you can imagine the volume of liquid we required while clicking our digital. What isn't apparent is the magnificence of his manmound, but with everything else he's got going on you can be sure that that particular appendage is equally as impressive....



We were over on Fairview the other day, and we happened to notice a rather attractive fellow with a trendy goat entering George for what we can only assume was a little liquid libation to quench his obviously formidable thirst. Fortunately for us, he was joining three of our very dear friends - Jackie, Jason and Ross - so introductions were no problem whatsoever. We discovered that the gore guy that caught our eye is named Steve, and we immediately set about trying to quench whatever thirst he might have had that a cold one couldn't slake. And Ross just laughed and laughed...

The audience at Tony's for a recent Tony's Corner Diva revue couldn't help but laugh at the onstage antics of the lovely Selena St. John and the oh-so-butch Lillian Devereaux, who scraped off the Clinique and ripped off the pads to join the fab femme mimic for a divine duet. There was a bit of a duet within a duet action going on, as you can see, and it pleased the crowd so pleasantly that the pair have promised to reunite in the future to tempt, tease and titillate (tee hee) us even more.

Finally, we were at Viviana's the other night, going over dress patterns with our best gal pal Monica Adams, and we looked up from the McCall's book just long enough to espy a superb specimen of Latino loveliness by the name of Jorge eyeing us from across the room. We noticed his grin...we noticed his eyes...we noticed all the open buttons on his shirt, and suddenly sew-at-home gowns just weren't important to us anymore. And, after a few shots of Patron, the fact that even fewer of Jorge's fasteners were buttoned wasn't important to us anymore...we were too focused on his zipper. Hey, we were just checking out styles to use on Monica's new ballgown.....

Contest TEA

The Saint in San Antonio was the host bar for the first-ever Mr. Texas MI pageant last week, and our Cruise Camera was naturally on-hand to document the event. For the one or two of you that don't know... or, can't remember.... the MI stands for Male Impersonator, so the stunning studs like Gage Gatlyn that appeared on stage weren't really. Oh, they were stunning...but studs may be going a little bit too far. The contest was won by San Antonio favorite and all-around snappy dresser, Matthew Devereaux, aka Big Daddy, and proved to be a highly entertaining event for all that participated, both onstage and off. Pictured just after the announcement of the winners are former Miss Gay Texas US of A Tersa Matthews, second alternate Michael, Miss Texas US of A at Large Donet McKim, Mr. Texas MI Matthew Devereaux, first alternate Amadeus and the lovely, talented, vivacious and always intoxicating former Miss Texas USofA Classic, Monique Johnson. Now, we gotta tell ya...we just about fell off our stool when Gage appeared, honeys. We were in lust! That is one HOT...er....person.....yeah, that's it....person! Congratulations to all the winners from This Week in Texas!

Capitol CiTea

Schwinging through Austin is always such a treat, especially when you areom your way to see old buddies and new one - such as Ben Andrews from Lucas' stable of studs.. and current Playgirl Magazine Cover. We started the evening early at Lobo where we snapped Ben, Enrique and the staff of the super adult boutique. Just finishing his photo shoot with Latest and Gayest.com's Patrick (also crack TWT cover photographer), Ben and Enrique were joined by Alfred.. he of the managerial set at the Capitol Cities MidTowne Spa for a quickie.. pic!

Lobo was hopping but we wanted to be early for the latest endeavor by Larry (with the big brown eyes) at Oilcan Harry's - Club Popular. Chris and a hunky stud from Manhunt.net were in the casa, and soon we were settled in with the cutest bottle of Coca-Cola next to us. Before the arrival of Big Ben, we snapped a Cruiset image of Dane aka Dana, Larry, Randy and the ever-partying Patty. Such sexy movers and shakers.. well there was something shaking later on that was comparable, but it was on Big Ben! Off in the sidebar, we were satisifed by former TWT Cover hunk Ashton who cuddled with future TWT cover hunk Chad. Purrr... just asked Jimmy James (international songstress) who did some cuddling of her own with Dane. Club Popular rocks.. and we will be there quite often to check out the festivities! You can check out the action on our photo page earlier in this issue!

Just down the way and a quick duck into the left, we ran into Qor, fresh form the Napa Valley experience. Welcome home handsome! Every Wednesday is RAIN on 4th's Karaoke night, where yu can take the stage and show off your pipes! Bobby Cook continues his weekly stripoff every Thursday - with all those College guys in town.. hottie are everywhere taking their pants down for your viewing pleasure! Typo terror.. Umm Dave Santana - not Pantana.. bad keyboard! Bad!

David, yet another former covermodel we passionately desire, of The Guise along with the rest of the band made an appearance at CP recently. We love him onstage especially in his underoos! Mr Gay Austin USA will be held soon at Kindell's comfy party place.. where the music is some of the best around. Underoos... NOLA love.. sigh....

Late Breaking Tea.. Mark your calendars and add this date to your day-planners - on April 6th, the onle and only Ultra Hot Chocolate makes her first Austin appearance in many years. She is special guest at OCH's Mr Gay Southwest USofA on April 6th, direct from Las Vegas and Hollywood!
